STOLE TO FIT UP HOME

Police Find Mary Paulock, Recently Committed, Guilty of Numerous Thefts.

NEW VICTIM FOUND YESTERDAY

Netherwood Man Makes Complaint and $200 Worth of Property Is Returned to Him.

Edwin Allen, a resident of the Netherwood section of East Seventh street, visited police headquarters yesterday and informed Chief Kiely that someone had stolen nearly all of his wife's summer clothing, packed away in boxes last fall, and a handsome silk umbrella, the aggregate value being $150. He was unable to tell just when the articles were taken as they were not missed until Mrs. Allen went to get the apparel for overhauling.

In the course of questioning, Mr. Allen said a servant girl had left them suddenly on February 9 and he gave the police head a description of her. It struck the chief as fitting Mary Paulock, the young woman who was sent to the State Home for Girls last week on charges of theft preferred by B. P. Florey, of Putnam avenue, for whom she worked. He produced a picture of her, taken at the time she was arrested, and the instant Mr. Allen saw it he exclaimed:

"That's the girl."

In company with Detective-Sergeant John Flynn, the complainant was sent to Newark and taken to 50 New York avenue where the Paulock woman had stored a lot of stolen stuff recently recovered. The address is that of a relative and when he was instructed to produce all the articles left by her, Mrs. Allen's property was located. There was even more than Mr. Allen had first spoken about as he found various household articles that had not previously been missed. He returned to Plainfield with fully $200 worth of clothing, the umbrella and parlor bric-a-brac.

In speaking of the Paulock girl this morning, Chief Kiely said that she had intended to be married within a short time and that she was stealing stuff from places where she had worked in order to furnish her future home. She is attractive in appearance and it seemed to be no hard matter for her to procure a situation. She remained in each one only long enough to appropriate something that wouldn't be missed right away and by the time it was she would probably be forgotten. The police recovered a large amount of property from the Newark address and it was thought nothing more remained, yesterday's trip being taken as a "flyer" more than anything else.

LOCAL COAL DEALERS FIX SUMMER PRICES.

The coal dealers of Plainfield announce today a graduated reduction in the price of egg, stove and chestnut coal for the summer months. A list price of $6.50 per ton will be charged for the whole year, but during the months of April, May, June, July and August, a discount will be made on coal paid for within thirty days from time of delivery, as follows: April, fifty cents a ton; May, forty cents; June, thirty cents; July, twenty cents; August, ten cents.

On September 1 the full price of $6.50 will be charged and no discount allowed. This schedule is according to the agreement of the dealers who are members of the local association organized for their protection and is said to be based on the prices fixed by the wholesale dealers. As heretofore the price of pea coal will be $5 a ton.

BIBLE CLASS HOLD SOCIABLE AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

A program of vocal and instrumental music, with resitations, preceded light refreshments at a highly successful sociable given by the adult Bible class at the First Presbyterian church last night. There were about fifty present, and it is planned to hold similar affairs periodically in futere. The program of entertainment included a piano solo by Miss Florence Dixon, a recitation, "The Flag," by Mrs. Andrew Mulford, a solo by W. W. Giddes, accompanied at the piano by Miss Eva Kelly, and a dialogue by Miss Try Mattox and Mr. Mulford. Late in the evening, refreshments consisting of a salad, ice cream, coffee and cake, were served.

The committee in charge of the affair included Mrs. Kelly, chairman; Joseph Allen and Mrs. E. W. Poinier. The officers of the class are F. O. Dunning, president; Mrs. Kelly, vice-president; Mrs. Kendall, treasurer, and F. L. Goodwin, secretary.

FREEHOLDER AND COPS ARE SUED FOR DAMAGES

Papers for suits aggregating $3,000 have been filed in the Somerset county court at Somerville against Freeholder Andrew J. Lutkins, Chief George Weiss and Marshal Lemuel Pope, of the North Plainfield police. The suits are brought by James Fleming, proprietor of the Union meat market on Somerset street, who alleges an illegal attachment and sale of a horse and wagon for payment of a bill of $47.15, owing to Gross & Snyder, a wholesale produce firm of Newark. At the time the attachment was made, Fleming's nephew, Robert, was in charge of the business, and the action was brought against him, although James Fleming asserts that he was owner of the business at the time and knew nothing of the bill against the firm.

There are three suits brought by Fleming, who alleges that he was legal owner of the business at the time the attachments were made, last November. Freeholder Lutkins bought the wagon and Chief Weiss, of the borough police force, the horse, at a public sale, so that the claims could be satisfied. Each of these men are being sued for $500, and Borough Marshal Lemuel Pope, who served the papers of attachment after due course of law, is sued for $2,000. Fleming has retained Lawyer Johnson, of Somerville, as his attorney in the case, and the action will be tried at the fall session of court.

It is said that the sale was legally advertised and duly performed according to law. Gross & Snyder, the firm bringing action for recovery of a bill of goods, have furnished bond for Marshal Pope. The transfer of the business was made before the levy by the Newark firm.

SUBJECTS FOR P.H.S. PRIZE COMPOSITIONS

Subjects for the annual prize compositions to be submitted by the pupils of the Plainfield High School were announced this morning by Principal Ira W. Travell. There are twenty-six topics for these themes, which are to be from 800 to 1,200 words in length, and are to be handed in not later than Monday, May 18.

Among the subjects is "Plainfield As a Suburban Town," and the pupil who writes the best composition on this topic will receive a ten dollar gold piece from The Daily Press, in accordance with this paper's annual custom. In addition to this award, books to the value of $15 will be awarded the writer of the best composition, and $10 worth of books will be the second prize. These are known as the George H. Babcock prizes and are awarded from the Commencement stage. The complete list of topics follows:

"Plainfield As a Suburban Town," "A Harvard Boy During the Revolution," "The Life Story of a Salmon," "The Alchemist," "The First Surrender," "The Faith of the Forest," "Napoleon's Drummer Boy," "The Day I Had Wings," "The Unlighted Harbor," "The Sissy," "A Piece of Paper," "The Mother's Mistake," "A Leaf From the Story of My Life," "My Hobby," "A Character Sketch," "A Story (subject adapted)," "The Other Point of View," "A Close Contest," "The Future of China," "The Perils of Socialism," "Out Waterway and Their Possibilities," "An Original Poem," "My Favorite Season," "The Influence of the Theatre," "Books of the Hour and Books of All Time," "The Power of Music."

McCAULEY GETS A CHANCE.

Banished for Six Months When He Tells the Court He Will Begin Life Anew in Another Place.

James McCauley, he of the jocose disposition who hurled electric light globes at a group of men "just for fun," pleaded guilty to drunkenness and disorderly conduct when arraigned in the city court this morning. He followed up his admission of wrongdoing by telling Judge Runyon that it was impossible for him to keep straight in Plainfield and that if he was given one more chance he would go out of town to begin life anew.

"All right," the magistrate said quickly, "I'll take you at your word. I'll banish you for the next six months and if you return before the end of that time and come before me for any reason you may expect a heavy sentence."

McCauley is a first class workman as long as he leaves drink alone but liquor has had the best of him for several years and he has been in the city and borough courts repeatedly. After his dismissal this morning he left police headquarters without saying where he would locate.

Mrs. Albert Cox, of East Rutherford, is visiting friends in this city.

WANTS SHARE OF ESTATE

Missing Fair Heir Turns Up and Reopens the Famous Case.

SUES TO RECOVER $1,000,000.

Names Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Herman Oelrichs Defendants In Action Commenced In New York Court.

Frank P. Smith of Topeka, Kan., who claims he is a brother of the late Mrs. Charles L. Fair, formerly of New Market, has brought suit to recover from Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs a share of Mrs. Fair's estate. Application was made before Justice Fitzgerald in the Supreme Court, New York, a few days ago for the appointment of a commission to take the testimony of witnesses in France. No date has been set as yet for the trial of the suit here.

Smith claims a seventh of the estate, or about $1,000,000, and has retained as counsel Chandler & Beekman, of No. 1 William street. Smith declares that evidence exists which will establish his suit, and which also may result in other suits being brought by heirs who accepted a settlement in waiver of their claims. Daniel F. Cohalan, of No. 2 Rector street, New York, has filed an answer on behalf of Mrs. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Oelrichs. He declined yesterday to discuss the case.

It is understood that the answer contains a challenge of the authenticity of Smith's relationship to Mrs. Fair, as well as a general denial of the allegations made in the complaint.

Following the death of Mrs. Fair and her husband in an automobile accident in France in August, 1902, the former's relatives sued to recover their share in the estate. There were six of these heirs, the late Mrs. Hannah Nelson, mother of Mrs. Fair; William Smith, of Caldwell; Mrs. Joshua Leonard, of Caldwell; Mrs. Bonnell and A. G. Nelson, of New Market; Charles J. Smith, of Boulder, Col., and the children of Mrs. Charles Lefler, of Union. Mrs. Fair provided in her will a bequest of $10,000 to Frank P. Smith, "whose residence is unknown."

Smith ran away from home when he was eighteen years old. He now says that he was traveling in Mexico and Texas when Mrs. Fair was killed. He had not kept in touch with home affairs, he says, and when he read of the tragedy in the newspapers it did not occur to him that Mrs. Fair was his sister. He had returned to his home in Topeka when his wife read to him one night that a Mrs. Nelson, of New Market, the mother of Mrs. Charles L. Fair, had died.

Says He Has Proof.

"This was in your home town. Could this be your mother you have told me about?" Smith's wife asked him. He made inquiries, which he says revealed that Mrs. Fair was his half-sister and that he was entitled to a share in her estate. He says he remembers his sister "Carrie" as a very pretty child. Smith visited the Fair relatives in New Jersey recently, and it is said they are satisfied that he is the brother whom they had thought dead. Proper search was made for Smith, but when he could not be found the California courts declared that his legacy of $10,000 had lapsed because of his failure to appear and claim it.

Smith says he is the second son of Mrs. Hannah E. Smith, who later married a man named Nelson. His relatives discontinued their suit on receipt of about $25,000 each. An offer of a settlement on these terms was made to Smith, but he refused it. The heirs brought an action two years ago to have the settlement set aside, but it was never pressed.

Smith claims as heir of Mrs. Fair on the contention that she outlived her husband a very brief period following the accident.

Patrolmen Dropped from the Force.

Thomas Burns and Earl Smith, probation patrolmen attached to the local force, were dismissed from the department today on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer. Both men attended inspection yesterday afternoon and appeared for duty last night in an intoxicated condition. Burns was formerly a letter carrier and was dropped from the service for a similar charge.

FIRE ALARM BOXES FOR CITY SCHOOLS

Local school and fire department authorities, in conference at the Common Council chambers, last night, with a representative of the Gamewell Company, discussed the proposed installation of fire alarm boxes in the city schools, and today a committee comprising General Manager Gilletly, of that concern, Fire Chief T. O. Doane and Allen B. Laing made a tour of the schools with a view to preparing an estimate of the cost of installing the improvements. Those at the meeting last night were President Ralph I. Tolles, of the Common Council, the entire fire committee, with the exception of Chairman Hibbard, President L. N. Lovell and E. M. Cave, of the Plainfield Board of Education, Fire Chiefs T. O. Doane and Howard Woolston, of city and borough, respectively, Supervising Principal Henry C. Krebs, of the borough schools, Councilman Smith, chairman of the North Plainfield Council fire committee, and Frank Clark, clerk of the city Board of Education. These officials met with Mr. Gilletly, of the Gamewell company, who explained the system of school fire alarm boxes planned for the city schools. The consensus of opinion at the meeting was that such boxes should be installed immediately, and the committee was chosen to prepare an estimate of the cost.

When installed, the boxes in the various buildings will be in charge of the city fire department, and an alarm from them will summon the firemen directly to the school. At many of the local schools, the fire alarm boxes in the vicinity are so far from the buildings as to entail considerable loss of time if the department runs to the box from which the alarm comes. The boxes will be installed either in the principal's office or the hallways of each building, and will be operated the same as the street boxes throughout the city.

At several of the schools, the expense of wiring for the new boxes will be considerable, owing to the location of the buildings. The boxes will cost $35 apiece, exclusive of the cost of wiring, which will vary in the different buildings. The committee appointed to make an estimate of the gross expense involved by the installation of the school box system visited the schools today, and will report their estimate at the April meeting of the Common Council, to be held next Monday night.

The North Plainfield officials were present at the invitation of Fire Chief T. O. Doane, who thought they would be interested in an explanation of the Gamewell system. The matter of school fire boxes is yet to be reported on by the borough Board of Education, who appointed a committee at their last meeting to look into the matter and get estimates for the two schools.

To Give College Pictures.

The Plainfield High School Alumni Club of Rutgers College will present pictures of the college buildings and campus scenes to the local school. The club is composed of Charles Elliott, Walter Rugen, Harry Shrager, Robert Rugen, Russell Foote, De Lancey Ferguson, Stanley Fisher and Fred Smith.

Case Against Freeholders Postponed.

Owing to the fact that the Union County Board of Freeholders will meet tomorrow in regular session, the case of Joseph Kingston against the freeholders which was set for that time before Judge Newcorn in the district court, has been postponed for one week.

Mrs. J. C. Wentworth, of Union Hill, has been visiting relatives in town.

NEWARK M. E. CONFERENCE BEGINS ITS SESSIONS

Bishop Spellmeyer Presides; Rev. J. F. Dodd Secretary; Organization Effected.

REV. JACOB COLE, TREASURER.

Memorial Service This Morning Followed by Women's Meeting This Afternoon—Dr. Crawford's Fine Lecture.

Bishop Henry Spellmeyer, of Cincinnati, is presiding at the fifty-first annual session of the Newark Conference which convened at 10 o'clock this morning in the First M. E. church, where practically all of the meetings will be held. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper marked the beginning of the opening session.

Sacrament Administered.

The Bishop was assisted in the opening service by the four presiding elders, Rev. Dr. Daniel Halleron, Rev. C. M. Anderson, Rev. L. C. Muller and Rev. J. M. Meeker and Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the home church. The impressive ritual was read by the Bishop, while the presiding elders were kneeling about the altar, after which sacrament was conduced by the elders, according to the usual custom. Several times during this part of the service the congregation joined in the singing of an appropriate hymn.

Rev. Mr. Dodd Secretary.

Immediately following the actual business was taken up with the roll call. A majority of the delegates are present. At the organization of the conference, Rev. J. F. Dodd, of New York, was again chosen secretary, and as his assistants, Rev. Frank MacDaniel, Rev. Frederick Bloom, Rev. Hedding B. Leech, Rev. A. E. Armstrong and W. B. Fleming were named.

Dr. Guttridge Statistical Secretary.

Rev. Dr. John A. Guttridge of Newark, was chosen statistical secretary. His assistants are Rev. S. K. Doolittle, Rev. Arthur Lucas, Rev. W. C. Timbrell, Rev. F. C. Mooney and Rev. H. P. King. Jacob Cole, of Newark, was elected treasurer, and his assistants are Rev. J. W. Ryder, Rev. J. O. Sparnon and Rev. W. R. Neff.

By a unanimous vote the standing committees of last year were confirmed, the program adopted and 12:30 was the time fixed for the adjournment of the morning sessions.

Bishop's Committee.

Bishop Spellmeyer announced the following as committee on memoirs: Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, Rev. Dr. D. L. Hoagland, Rev. C. S. Woodruff and Rev. E. V. King, and after the reading of transfers from other conferences, a memorial service was held.

Memorial Service.

During the past year three members of the conference died, Rev. W. B. Judd, of Alliance, Ohio; Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Parsons, of North Plainfield, and Rev. William H. McCormick, of Dover. Dr. Hoagland read the memorial on the death of Mr. Judd, while Dr. Snodgrass read the paper on the life of Dr. Parsons, which was prepared by Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll and with the approval of Mrs. Parsons. Mr. Woodruff presented the memorial on the life of Mr. McCormick, while T. H. Landon, president of the Bordentown Military School, supplemented the sketch by Mr. Woodruff with personal observations. Between the reading of the papers, the congregation sang an appropriate hymn.

Arrange New Business.

Before adjournment shortly after noon the time of meeting for the various committees was determined and it was announced that at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning several propositions will be presented under the rule of the order of the day.

At the suggestion of Rev. L. C. Muller, the secretary was instructed to send to Rev. Frank MacDaniel, who has been ill at Asbury Park an expression of sympathy over his long illness and congratulations over his prospects of returning health.

Conference Claimants.

Rev. Dr. Snodgrass brought up the question of a report on the Bishop's cabinet, but action was postponed until tomorrow morning. The suggestion of Rev. Dr. C. R. Barnes that a memorial be sent to the General Conference in behalf of the support of conference claimants, will also be taken up tomorrow. This committee was appointed to canvass the Newark Conference in the interest of the matter: Rev. Dr. John A. Guttridge, Rev. J. B. J. Rhoades, Rev. O. J. Shoop, Rev. W. E. Palmer, Rev. Charles Waldron and Rev. C. J. Hoyt.

Bishop Henry Spellmeyer.

Bishop's Announcements.

Bishop Spellmeyer announced before the morning session closed that he would make it a point while here to see the man that wants to see him, that he would be at the parsonage, 610 Central avenue, each afternoon from 2 to 3 o'clock for conference purposes. He said that he had decided not to allow the conference to adjourn in haste. There would be many important matters to be discussed and he suggested that all committees and those having matters to bring before the conference arrange to do promptly and thereby aid the presiding officer and disposing of the business.

A Cabinet Meeting.

There was a meeting of the Bishop's cabinet at the parsonage on Central avenue, this afternoon, when several matters of importance pertaining to subsequent sessions will be discussed. It is at these sessions of the cabinet that appointments are considered which are afterward announced by the Bishop.

Women In Session Now.

This afternoon's session is devoted to the Women's Foreign Missionary Society. Mrs. J. H. Knowles, conference secretary, presiding. Reports are being presented and an address is to be made by Rev. Dr. Joseph Beach, president of Chentu College.

Insurance Meeting.

At the same hour a meeting of the Conference Life Insurance Association was held in Vincent chapel.

Tonight's Program.

Tonight at 7:45 o'clock the anniversary of the Centenary Fund and Preachers' Aid Society, will be observed. Rev. Dr. Halleron will preside. This will be followed with the report of the corresponding secretary, Rev. Dr. John A. Guttridge, and the treasurer, Milton E. Blanchard. At this service Mayor Charles J. Fisk will extend a welcome to the delegates and introduce Governor J. Franklin Fort, the speaker of the evening. The public is invited to these services.

Dr. Crawford's Lecture.

"Savonarola, The Florentine Reformer," was the subject of a lecture given at the First M. E. church, last night, by Rev. Dr. William H. Crawford, president of Allegheny College. While the meeting was in no way connected with the session with the Newark Conference, which began this morning, it served to attract many of the delegates who arrived early, and members of other churches. The lecture was followed by an informal reception to Bishop Henry Spellmeyer, who presided.

In the treatment of his subject, Dr. Crawford showed thorough knowledge, as in quick succession he followed the short but busy life of the Florentine reformer from his boyhood days when his father and grandfather destined him to honor the name of the family in the medical profession until he came forth as the leading figure in the reform movement which aroused Florence to the centre of her very existence.

His Description.

The speaker said that there is hardly a street in Florence that does not remind one of Savonarola and his heroic achievements, of his triumph and humiliation. Born 400 years ago, in 1452, Dr. Crawford step by step enumerated the great events in the reformer's life during the Fifteenth century, which he called the age of transition. The masses were steeped in ignorance and superstition, while the political situation was as bad as possible.

Pays Tribute to Catholicism.

At this point Dr. Crawford paid a tribute to the Roman Catholic church and said that he had not one word of criticism against the fundamental principles of that belief, but he denounced the abuses of the Fifteenth century in no measured words, and recalled the terrible deeds of Alexander VI, who stopped at nothing to carry out his own purpose. He said that under this rule Rome became a slaughter house and Christianity was brought into derision.

It was about this time, the speaker said, that Savonarola was called upon to play so important a part in the affairs of Florence. While not good looking or brilliant, he was serious. Pomp and display had no attraction for him. He saw the fruits of vice, justice being dethroned and decided to renounce his profession. He entered the monastery at Bolobna and was soon made an instructor of novices. At the expiration of seven years he returned to Florence and entered the monastery of San Marco. All this time there burned within the reformer that great desire to purify and cleanse his country of vice, but when he began preaching a series of Lenten sermons there were scarcely forty persons left to hear him.

Rev. Dr. W. H. Crawford.
Courtesy Christian Advocate.

Florence was not ready at this time for the great preacher, but it was not long before the people flocked to hear the great moral reformer of the age. All Italy began to listen to him as he preached in the great cathedral.

Savonarola as a Reformer.

In his characterization of Savonarola, Dr. Crawford said that he was a great preacher, a statesman, a reformer and a pulpit orator who had broken every homilitical rule of his time. He attacked the gambler of the club and palace as quickly as the lowest gambler of the street. He scouted the idea that there must be different standards for living and even dared to bring Christianity into the market places, where the common people could hear it. He would not recognize Lorenzo beyond simple courtesy, and spurned the Cardinal's hat offered to him if he would modify his words. In the words of Dr. Crawford, no one ever spared this democratic monk. His reform measures were extended and tax reform laws adopted, while the social status of the people advanced to a high plane. Women dressed plainly and purity, sobriety and justice were restored and prevailed.

In conclusion Dr. Crawford recited the work of the reformer as he disclosed the Roman abuses, and how his influence spread to such an extent that he was finally arrested, tried and convicted and burned at the stake in 1498. Even though he was put to death the cause he represented lived and continues to live today and as a result England has given Savonarola a first place and Germany has given him true recognition, while in Florence he will ever be held dear to the hearts of the

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

There is a possibility that Bob Fitzsimmons will fight again. "The grand old man of the prize ring" is reported to have sent a challenge to Anthony J. Drexel-Biddle, the Philadelphian, who at one time wrote Fitz's biography, and urged him to arrange for a meeting between the two at any time and place. The challenge was issued when the Dunellenite heard that Drexel-Biddle was trying to get a bout with O'Brien, and the letter, dated New York city, follows in full:

"I have just arrived in town and hear that you are going to fight O'Brien. As one who is interested in you, my advice would be not to meet him. His acknowledged faking propensities might tempt him to try them on you, and in such a case your sincere efforts to demonstrate your ability with the gloves would make a farce of the affair.

"Why not take me on? I would gladly meet you to show your friends what you can do. You can arrange a bout with me at any time or place by a mere expression of your wish to do so.

"ROBERT FITZSIMMONS."

Drexel-Biddle was a former sparring partner of the ex-champ, and Fitz taught him the famous solar-plexus blow. In speaking of the man, Fitz said: "He's got the punch, even if he is an amateur. If I thought he would hit O'Brien as he has hit me, I'd go over and see the fun myself."

George W. Day was auctioneer for the sale held Tuesday afternoon at the home of J. B. Conover, on Front street, when household articles and furniture were disposed of at fairly good prices.

Mrs. Charles Craft and daughter, of Babylon, L. I., have returned after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. William Biggs.

WESTFIELD.

Extraordinary Sale of "Hydegrade"

"Heatherbloom" Petticoats

There has never been such a sale as this in Newark of the famous Heatherbloom petticoats, for never before has such a variety of the popular colors been offered so cheaply.

Heatherbloom closely resembles silk taffeta without possessing any of the disadvantages of that popular form of silk. It does not cut and crack in the folds and is in every way an ideal material for petticoats. In appearance one cannot tell the difference between Heatherbloom and silk, so it is good for use with even the most expensive gowns, and they are so much lower in price than silk petticoats that one can easily have petticoats to match every color dress they may have.

There will be a saving of from 50c. to $1.50 on every petticoat bought in this sale. Every garment is perfect and the styles are very pretty indeed.

The first lot of "Heatherbloom" Petticoats consists of two pretty styles—one with deep Spanish tucked flounce with embroidered ruffle; the other with 18-inch deep umbrella circular flounce, trimmed with several rows of ruffles; finished with tuckings and shirrings. The colors embrace navy, light and golden brown, Copenhagen, light blue, pink, helio, green, gray, white and black; value $3.50; priced for this sale only $2

The second lot genuine "Heatherbloom" Taffeta Petticoats embraces two most desirable styles with deep flounce with ruffles, tailor-strapped or shirred; in black only; regularly $2.50; priced for this sale $1.49

The third lot consists of "Hyde-grade" Petticoats made in many pretty styles with Spanish flounce; trimmed with ruffle and finished with rows of self-strappings; regularly worth $1.75, in this great sale at only $1

The Social Hour at Home and the Beautiful EUTERPE PLAYER-PIANO.

What a rare delight it is that anyone can play on this marvelous instrument anything that thought or wish may suggest—some classic, a bit of opera, some favorite waltz, perhaps a lively ragtime or soul stirring march.

The Euterpe may be used either as a Piano or Player-Piano, in fact it is two instruments in one. Terms of payment may be arranged. Should you have an instrument to exchange a fair allowance will be given.

We are always pleased to show this beautiful Player-Piano to visitors and prospective buyers.

The Millinery Department

Did you come to our Millinery Opening last week to see the styles Miss Strohuber designed? Every woman of Plainfield who is interested in smart Millinery should have been here. It was an exhibition of styles not to be seen hereabouts, and judging by the crowds that attended, and the Hats purchased during these opening days, Miss Strohuber was well repaid for her untired energy in planning, and creating, and dreaming of nothing but Hats these past 30 days. If you have not been here, come this week. Our salesladies will be pleased to show you through, and you are not urged to buy, for you will scarcely resist these charming Easter Bonnets, priced not much more than half of New York prices.

CHILDREN'S WASH DRESSES FROM 2 TO 6, AND ON UP TO 15 YEARS.

Pretty little Wash Dresses for little girls, and bigger ones; made of linens, percales, madras, and sheer white lawns, trimmed daintily in white and colors; some are made especially for every-day school wear, yet have a "touch" that make them different from those you always see and are tired of; others more elaborate, and of handsomer materials for dressy occasions, 98c to $4.98

SPECIAL—MEN'S SHIRTS 50c.

Not the usual 50c Shirt, or They Wouldn't Be Mentioned Here.

It's a purchase we made of splendid woven madras shirts, made to retail at 75c and $1.00; the styles are good, too, but scarcely any two sizes of a pattern; that is the reason they are 50c. Samples of these in our "special" window at the Front street entrance.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

The local fans are assured of seeing some fine baseball this season, the several Y. M. C. A. league teams being scheduled to appear at Crescent Oval. Everyone of the seven towns represented will have a strong aggregation and the rivalry will be keen. In addition Clinton Avenue will probably be in the four-club league representing teams from Flemington, High Bridge and Somerville and that will mean fast ball.

The new team of Juniors is starting the season well. Last Saturday they defeated the Brookside in a ten inning contest by a score of 2 to 1. The teams will meet again Saturday afternoon on Hope Common.

Jimmie Montross is showing his old-time form in the box, and the way he served up the curves and twists last Saturday reminded one of the old days.

The fans do not want to overlook the baseball games to be played by the teams from the city and borough high schools. They will both be very strong and the schedules show that many of the best aggregations will be seen here.

Edward Abbaticchio, second baseman of the Pittsburg team, is at his home in Latrobe, Pa., where his application for a liquor license has been held up. The court tells the ball player plainly that he cannot pretend to run a saloon in Westmoreland county and be away half of the year with the Pittsburg team. Abbaticchio is trying to have the license for his hotel transferred to his father.

Some space saving genius has shortened the word Nationals to Nats, making them New York Nats, Boston Nats, Chicago Nats and St. Louis Nats. It now remains to be seen which team of Nats and Ams will playoff for the world's cham this season.

President Pulliam has received a sample of the new ball to be used this year. The difference between it and last year's ball can be seen readily when the two are alongside, the new one being without the gloss of the other. It has more of a dead finish. At Mr. Pulliam's suggestion the new balls are to have "1908" stamped on the leather so that there will be no chance of ringing in a last year's ball.

College baseball captains for this season are as follows: Harvard, Leonard, third base; Yale, Jones, catcher; Princeton, Harlan, left field; Pennsylvania, Fennell, pitcher; Cornell, Hellman, short-stop; Columbia, Young, catcher; Dartmouth, Glaze, pitcher; Brown, Raymond, catcher; Pennsylvania State, Cree, shortstop; Lafayette, Peters, first base; Wesleyan, Smith, first base; Williams, Harmon, first base; Tufts, Atwood, catcher; Amherst, Palmer, first base; Holy Cross, Barry, shortstop; Georgetown, Simons, centre field; Massachusetts Aggies, Cobb, pitcher; Villanova, Savage, third base.

In an article advising ball players against playing football Umpire Evans uses the following classic language: "A pair of bum pins caused Dave Fultz, the wonder Brown University player, to retire just when it seemed as if he was at the height of his career." Evans' advice is not bad, but no injury received in football harmed Fultz's baseball playing. Fultz incurred a "bum pin" on a hard southern diamond on a spring training trip. That's what he says, and he doubtless knows.

GOLF.

Alec Ross, the national open champion, will shortly leave Pinehurst and return to his regular green at Brae Burn, where the intercollegiate tournament is to be held in the fall. Nicholls goes back to the Woodland Golf Club, while Donald Ross will continue at the Oakley Country Club. Jack Pearson is still identified with the Richmond County Country Club, and George Thomson remains at Wee Burn. H. H. Barker, the former English amateur, is at the Garden City Golf Club, where the national amateur championship tournament is to be held in September.

Harry Simpson remains at Hackensack, as does Joe Doebel at Fairfield. John Inglis is also at Larchmont, Tom Chisholm at Canoe Brook, A. G. Griffiths at Westbrook, Alec Cunningham at Glen Ridge, Seymour Dunn at Wykagyl, Alec Pirie at Siwanoy, Jack Venters at Shinnecock, George Bouse at Marine and Field and William Collins at Oakland.

Report has it that no important changes are to be made among the Western professionals. Willie Anderson, the former open champion, has signed a contract to return to Onwentsia, and he will come up from Bellaire, Fla., about the middle of April. Stewart Gardner, the "tall sycamore," formerly at Garden City, will continue at Exmoor, while Fred McLeod, the Western champion, is again at Midlothian. Dave Foulis is to continue at the Chicago Golf Club, while Robert White, formerly a school teacher in Scotland, has been engaged to once again instruct the Ravisloe Country Club members in the art of driving and putting. Dave McIntosh, who has been with the Westward Ho Golf Club since its organization, will continue there another season.

Harry Vardon displayed all of his oldtime skill in the first important professional golf tournament this year abroad, when he won first money in a thirty-six hole medal play competition near Nice, France. The four times champion of Great Britain returned scores of 72 and 71 for a total of 143, or four strokes better than Arnaud Massy, present open title holder, who was his nearest opponent. Massy's rounds were 73—74—147, while James Braid, with 73—75—148, and Jean Cassiat, with 77—71—148, tied for third and fourth moneys. Vardon's prize amounted to 1,000 francs.

A new golf ball has recently been placed on the market abroad. The manner of covering makes it a decided departure from custom. Hitherto it has been the core and the rubber wound round it which have varied with different makes, but no variety save in the matter of thickness, or quality, was made in the gutta-percha cover. The innovation makes a bold departure by the introduction of a rubber "cord" cover, which is composed of pure Para rubber, twisted spirally and then wound round and round in concentric circles. The claim has been made that by this method a thin and perfectly homogeneous casing has been secured, which, while being highly resilient, will not crack or gash.

Want to Sell or Rent?

The Plainfield Board of Trade is carrying display advertisements of "The City Beautiful" in all the leading Metropolitan papers, notably the New York Herald. This campaign of publicity will continue for some time to come and it is now up to the local real estate agents to take advantage of the progressive spirit displayed by the Board. Real estate advertisements, of all sorts, will be received at The Daily Press office for the New York Herald and all other Metropolitan dailies at the regular office rates. Advertisements intended for Sunday should be in this office before Friday noon to insure good position.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

Tonight and Tomorrow Morning.

Sun sets 6:21, rises 5:38; moon sets 7:02 p. m.; 1 a. m., Neptune at quadrature with the sun, 90 degrees east of that body; planets during April—Mercury, invisible, approaching the sun from the west; Venus, in southwest in early evening, setting between 10 and 11; Mars, in southwest in early evening, setting about 10; Jupiter, conspicuous in evening sky, pushing westward, setting from 3 to 1 a. m.; Saturn invisible just west of the sun; Uranus and Neptune always invisible; sun in constellation Pisces till 18th, then in Aries; sun's declination, 4.7 degrees north of celestial equator, today; zodiacal light seen in moonless nights in April just after twilight in west.

"Welcome to our city."

If current reports are correct Miss Anna Gould is more in need of a guardian than another French adventurer in the shape of a husband.

Fire alarm boxes at $35 per for the city schools, eh? Well, with telephones in the buildings is there any necessity for such extravagance? We think not.

As we predicted before his election, Union county could make no mistake in sending Carlton B. Pierce to the Legislature. There is none in the House more faithful in his work than the polished and gifted Cranford man.

James E. Martine, that conscientious, patriotic and benevolent exponent of Democracy, is being boomed for delegate-at-large to the Denver convention. "Jim" will never get there; it's a settled custom not to name the "farmer-orator" for anything where he has a show of winning.

Republican voters should bear in mind next fall when the campaign is on that certain of their servants in the Assembly wanted to quit work without performing their duty and in defiance of party platform pledges. Probably there are others who would be willing to go to Trenton with the understanding that they would not shirk their work.

State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman's new civil service bill was passed by the State Senate this morning after a bitter fight. After the heated argument in which Mr. Ackerman and Senator Frelinghuysen took a conspicuous part in favor of the measure, the bill was put to a vote. There were ten ballots in its favor to six against. The measure now goes to the House again and provided there is no hasty adjournment of that body, it is safe to say that it will receive favorable action and will be sent to the Governor for his signature. The only important difference between this and the first bill is the proviso that the civil service board be a bi-partisan commission consisting of four members. The Union county solon is to be congratulated for his perseverance in getting favorable action on a theory of political government that will redound to the credit of New Jersey. Yet this is but one of the many good works he has done since he consented to sacrifice his own valuable time in the interests of the State which he so ably serves.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. David B. Tompkins, of Paterson, will be the speaker at Salvation Army Hall tonight at 8 o'clock. His topic will be "Why I Believe In God." The public is invited.

As Phil. A. Parsons, pastor of the Christian church, is called to his home in Hamilton, Ill., on account of the severe illness of his mother, special arrangements will be made for the church services in his absence.

"Why I Believe In God" is the subject of an address to be given by Rev. J. B. J. Rhodes at Faith chapel tonight, when the Plainfield Rescue Mission will unite with the chapel congregation for the service. Mrs. John Manley will sing; the service will be at 8 o'clock.

NEWARK M. E. CONFERENCE

people.

Ordinations on Sunday.

At the conclusion of the examinations held in Vincent chapel, yesterday, under the direction of the Board of Examiners of the Newark Conference, Registrar W. S. McCowan, of Newark, announced that these will be ordained as elders on Sunday:

William Burd, Stewartsville; Edgar N. Compton, Stapleton, N. Y.; Archibald N. Smith, Oxford; Charles E. Collard, Hope; Norman P. Champlin, Kearney; Frank B. Curry, Suffern, N. Y.; Charles H. Powers, Linoleumville, N. Y.; Sarneius Rechnitzer, Linden.

These are all four-year men, having completed the prescribed course or being admitted under what is known as the seminary rule. It is the custom to ordain members of this class at a Sunday service and the exercises are in charge of the Bishop.

The Elizabeth District.

The Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, presiding elder of the Jersey City district, reports nine hundred converts during the year. The district has purchased a new deaconesses' home in Jersey City at a cost of $16,000. A new church has been dedicated at

First M. E. Church,
Where Newark Conference Sessions Are Being Held.
—Courtesy Monarch Printing Co.

Hasbrouck Heights, costing $24,000, and a new church has been organized at Westwood, N. J. In the district there has been a net increase in pastors' salaries of about $3,000, and no church has reduced its pastor's salary. Throughout the conference there is a general desire for the restoration of the pastoral time limit.

Presiding Elders Reports.

Each of the four presiding elders reports progress. The Rev. Dr. Daniel Helleron has completed six years of successful administration in the Elizabeth district, including the building of several churches and parsonages; the improvement of church property, the payment of church debts, the encouragement of revivals and a large increase in membership. He closes his term of service with the affectionate appreciation of the conference.

The Paterson District.

The Rev. Dr. L. C. Muller, presiding elder of the Paterson district, closes his first year of office. During the year there have been one thousand conversions; a new church, Wesley, at Paterson, has been dedicated, costing $44,000, as has the First church at Dover, costing $32,000, and parsonages have been built at Simpson, Paterson, costing $4,200, and at Embury, Paterson, costing $5,000, and church membership has largely increased.

The Newark District.

The second year of Dr. Jonathan M. Meeker, presiding elder of the Newark district, furnishes encouraging news. The total number received for the year is 652 on probation, and from probation into full membership 751. The amount paid for building and improvements during the year is $34,200; paid on old indebtedness, $23,854; for foreign missions, $9,250; for home missions, $8,110; for church music, $23,250. The increase in pastors' salaries over last year was $2,650. The Newark District Church Society has paid for building and support of an Italian church $7,654, besides sustaining other missions.

Appointments.

There will be some unusual and unexpected changes in the appointment of ministers, but the Bishop's knowledge of the ministers and the conference will be of great advantage. It is likely that some churches will not receive the pastors invited, but the rights of all concerned will be favorably considered. Several names have been mentioned for presiding elder as a fitting successor to Dr. Halleron in the Elizabeth district, among them Dr. W. S. Snodgrass, Rev. A. C. McCrea, Dr. C. G. Wilding and W. L. Hoagland.

Miss A. E. Lincoln's Return.

Miss A. E. Lincoln, after a year's rest, today reopened her florist store at 307 Park avenue, with a full line of flowers, plants, palms, etc., for funerals, weddings, receptions and all decorative work.

Among the prominent women who will pour tea at the loan exhibition of miniatures and medallions held today and tomorrow at the Hotel Gotham, Fifth avenue, New York, is Mrs. Rutherford M. Shepard, a daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard, of "The Gables," Fanwood.

MILLINERY OPENING

Wednesday & Thursday, April 1 and 2

We Extend You a Cordial Invitation to Visit Our Millinery Parlors on the Above Days

Our Millinery workrooms under the direction of Miss Elizabeth H. Bartlau, have outdone all former efforts in the production of BEAUTIFUL HATS in correc new styles.

The variety of models is so comprehensive that while there are Hats suitable for the most elegant costumes, there are many others designed to exactly suit the quietly dressed women as well. All possess that distinction of character which follows the close study of models from foremost French designers and are perfect in every detail of shape and coloring.

We direct special attention to our magnificent showing of untrimmed, semi-trimmed and ready-to-wear Hats, together with Flowers, Foliage, Ostrich Plumes, Tips, Pompons, Wings, Persian Bands, Straw Braids, Crowns, Buckles, etc.

OUR AWNING AND SHADE DEPARTMENT

is prepared to figure on any kind of work you may need in those lines; we guarantee all work entrusted to us to give perfect satisfaction; we are now booking many orders; may we not have yours?

The Woodhull & Martin Store.

EYE-STRAIN

is directly responsible for the majority of cases of blindness today. If instead of trying to overwork the eyes, one would at once get glasses at the first warning of eye-strain there would be fewer cases of blindness at the present time.

Come to us and have your eyes examined free of charge and we will advise you what to do to save them.

Headache and neuralgia quickly relieved.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Rev. H. S. Atkinson, of New York, who will occupy the Baptist pulpit for the next two Sundays, is not only a gifted speaker but a successful evangelist as well. Mr. Atkinson is interested in Miss Curry's fresh air work, and has had charge of a number of the Sunday afternoon meetings at the camp.

Just as soon as the weather becomes settled the ball team intends to have the ball grounds put in shape for the opening of the season. The outfield will be plowed up and the hollow in centre field territory filled in.

William Woods, of Taunton, Mass., has been spending several days with his wife and children who are visiting Mrs. Woods' mother, Mrs. James H. Buckley, of Park avenue.

Miss Marion Todd, a student at a select boarding school at Hosinger, N. Y., has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. L. Todd, of the borough.

Charles Newcomer, who has been living on the Duychinck farm in Washington Valley for several years, has removed to Pennington, N. J.

L. B. Sharp and family, of New York, has leased the Leroy J. Ellis house on Forest avenue, in the borough, taking possession Monday.

The Township Committee meets Friday night in the town rooms.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

James Major Hyers, of Freehold, and Henrietta Sebring Titus, of New Durham, were quietly married at the Baptist parsonage last night.

An infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tappen fell down stairs the other day, sustaining a compound fracture of the hipbone.

Miss Jennie Delany, after a week's stay with her aunt, Mrs. Linaberry, has returned to her home in New Brunswick.

Sadie Schenck, of Oak Tree, is rapidly regaining her health and is able to walk out for a short time each day.

W. E. Smith and family, after passing the winter in Plainfield, have returned to their home, "Brookside House."

The prayer-meeting at the Baptist church was fairly well attended last evening. Charles Jackson was in charge.

Mrs. Robert Horn is slowly recovering from an attack of pleurisy.

Miss Nellie Manning is passing the week here with her parents.

Verdict of Manslaughter.

After a half hour's deliberation, the jury in the case of James A. Hunt, the Cranford negro charged with the murder of Joseph Hewlett, brought in a verdict of manslaughter with a recommendation of mercy, yesterday afternoon. Hunt was immediately arraigned before Justice James J. Bergen and was sentenced to eighteen months in the State prison. The Plainfielders on the jury were J. W. Sanford and Edward Nelson.

"Over the Burning Sands."

Elmer E. Runyon, of this city, was a member of a class of forty-five candidates initiated into the mysteries of Salaam Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., at Newark, last night. It accounts for the somewhat careful way in which he uses his feet today.

—The Sesame Club will meet tomorrow morning at the residence of Miss Cook, of Crescent avenue.

Colored Republicans to Feast.

A mass meeting and banquet, under the auspices of the Plainfield Colored Republican Club, will be held at Reform Hall Thursday night, April 16. The object of the meeting will be to instruct the colored voters regarding the primary law, in preparation for the local primaries, which will be held April 18. Out of town speakers will include Traverse A. Spraggins and R. Henri Herbert, of Jersey City. The committee in charge of the affair includes Dr. Jefferson C. Anderson, chairman; William Kline, E. B. Maynard and A. J. Carey.

Enjoying Life at Nassau.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Compton and daughter, Miss Mary Compton, of West Front street, who have been spending the winter at Nassau, Bahama Islands, will leave for home on April 9 and expect to reach here April 13. A letter from Mr. Compton brings the information that he has been having a delightful winter. He says that roses have been in full bloom and he can hardly realize the fact that he has been living in such a delightful climate, while those in the north have had snow, sleet and cold weather.

It will be a hearing on supplimental proceedings for the purpose of ascertaining how much property Mr. Francis has, it being Mr. French's purpose to obtain a settlement of his claim.

Don't Miss This One.

The banner amateur night of those held at the New Plainfield theatre will be offered tomorrow night in connection with Salisbury's pictures and illustrated songs. Thirteen entries have been received and Manager Counihan declares after a perusal of the acts that the list puts in the shade anything of the kind yet seen at the house. There will be feature numbers galore and small-town comedy enough to last a life time.

Timbo Club Elects.

At a meeting of the Timbo Social Club, last night, W. J. Counihan was elected vice-president to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rudolph Kampf. A committee composed of E. C. Westcott, S. SURE OF $32,000 AT LEAST.

Ely Offer to Duplicate Amount Raised for Morris Children's Home to Be Realized.

Morristown, April 1.—The offer made by Smith Ely, of New York city, that he will give $50,000 to the Children's Home in Parsippany if the managers of the institution will raise a like amount, or that he will duplicate each dollar raised by them for the improvement of the property, will be closed April 1.

The managers have succeeded in securing about $16,000, so that a fund of $32,000 is assured, but an effort is still being made by them to increase the amount they have obtained and thus swell the total beyond the $32,000.

Mr. Ely comes from a Morris county family, and has developed a great interest in the care of the children of the home, which is a semi-public institution. Its inmates are children who, if not placed in this home, would be confined in the county almshouse, and it was established by a number of charitable people of Morris county for the purpose of removing the children from the influences of their elders in the almshouse, which if not serious was certainly not elevating.

By an arrangement made with the Board of Freeholders, the county pays $1.50 a week towards the support of each little waif, all of them being county wards, and the balance necessary for the maintenance of the home has been made up each month by the charitable people of the county, and this has now been done for over twenty-seven years, the annual meeting of the board of managers taking place in November.

There is an average of seventy-five children cared for, there being more boys than girls. The institution is in a degree an industrial school, the boys being taught carpentering, gardening, etc., and the girls sewing and housekeeping. As the children grow to suitable ages about one-half of them are returned to relatives or friends. Homes are found for others in families that desire them, while a small percentage are sent to institutions such as that for feeble-minded. Although many children are brought to the home in a low state of vitality from being poorly nourished or from other cause, the death rate has been less than one a year.

Albert H. Vernam, president of the Fist National Bank of Morristown, is president; Philander B. Pierson, president of the Morris County Savings Bank, treasurer, and John E. Taylor, also of Morristown, secretary. Miss Marion Beach is treasurer of the women's organization, and Mrs. Anna A. Pennington matron of the home.

WELCOME RETURN OF PASTOR.

Congregation of First Baptist Church, Roselle, Greets Rev. James Stifler.

Roselle, April 1.—A large congregation in the First Baptist church Sunday night welcomed the return of the pastor, Rev. James M. Stifler, from Florida, where he has been recuperating after a severe attack of typhoid fever. Mr. Stifler was taken ill in November and from that time has been separated from his church. His welcome Sunday night was very impressive.

He was expected to arrive Sunday, in time for the morning service and the large congregation which turned out at that time to greet him was greatly disappointed when it was learned that his steamer had been delayed. It was after 3 o'clock when the vessel docked at its pier in New York, and it was shortly before the evening service when Mr. Stifler arrived in Roselle. The pastor opened the evening service and the sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. T. E. Vassar, of Elizabeth, who has been in charge during Mr. Stifler's absence.

Mr. Stifler was accompanied from Florida by Deacon George Vaughan and son, Wilbur Vaughan, who spent several weeks in that State with him.

New Buildings at Fort Yellowstone.

Washington, April 1.—Approval has been given by the Secretary of War to the recommendations of Lieutenant-General Young, superintendent of the Yellowstone National Park, that provision be made for an increase of the capacity to the garrison at Fort Yellowstone, so as to accommodate a full squadron of cavalry. The buildings to be erected are to be of a permanent character, composed of local stone and concrete.

Woman's Alleged Assailants Caught.

Jersey City, April 1.—The local police arrested yesterday at their homes Louis Brauer, twenty years old, of 459 Palisade avenue, and John Ridgway, sixteen years old, of 299 Webster avenue, for having been implicated in the assault on Mrs. Mary Lippenter near Lodi last Tuesday. A revolver was found on Brauer. The police say the prisoners admitted their guilt.

Call Girl's Fatal Dose Error.

Millville, April 1.—Miss Annie Doughty died yesterday from the effects of an overdose of laudanum. Miss Doughty was found unconscious at her home and an empty bottle, labeled laudanum, was lying on the table. Coroner Ralph Charlesworth was summoned and deemed an inquest unnecessary. Friends and relatives give out that the poison was taken by mistake.

MAY REMOVE JERSEY EXPOSITION BUILDING.

Trenton, April 1.—It is likely that the handsome building erected by New Jersey at the Jamestown Exposition will be removed to this city for use of the State Home for Girls as an administration building. Governor Fort and other State officials are giving the matter consideration, and all agree that the proposition is a good one.

The building has been offered for sale, and yesterday, when the time for filing bids expired, but one had been received. It was ridiculously low, and will be rejected.

It is estimated that the building could be taken apart, shipped to this city and rebuilt for about $12,000. It is a magnificent structure, costing $20,000, and is admirably adapted for institution purposes.

If the removal plan is carried out it will be necessary for the Legislature to appropriate the funds for the work, but there would be no opposition to that as the New Jersey Jamestown Exposition Commission has on hand a balance exceeding the sum that would be required.

The commission will cease to exist upon the passage of a bill introduced for that purpose by Senator Bradley this week.

After the St. Louis Exposition the New Jersey building there was shipped to Sea Girt and rebuilt on the State camp grounds. Little difficulty was experienced in the work, and it would be much easier to remove the Jamestown building to this city.

The State Home for Girls is sorely in need of more room, and if the Jamestown building should be added to it the congestion would be relieved at a cost much less than that of a new building.

SOMERSET FARMERS ASTIR.

Want Better Freight Rates from Cattle Breeding Bill and Roast Automobilists.

Somerville, April 1.—The Somerset County Board of Agriculture is taking a lively interest in legislative matters this year. On Saturday the board was addressed by E. R. Collins, of Westfield, who urged the farmers to take action for better freight rates on the railroads. He said the farmers were discriminated against more than any other class of people in New Jersey. After a discussion the board instructed its legislative committee to look after this matter.

Professor Minkler, of the State Experiment Station, urged the board to back up his horse and cattle in his effort to pass his horse and cattle breeding bill. He said that in going about the State in his duties of inspecting live stock he found that the farmers had a very inferior breed of horses. A resolution was adopted commending the bill, and also one commending the Somerset Senator's action on the automobile question, especially in reducing the speed limit.

There was a strong expression of feeling against the speeders.

"If we had half the spunk of our forefathers," exclaimed J. Martin Wyckoff, of Bedminster, "we would not allow the automobiles on the roads at all. We could put them off easy enough if we would combine and show some spirit."

Several other members said that the automobilist should only be allowed on private right of ways. The farmers paid for the roads and yet they no longer had the privilege, without great danger, of letting their wives and children drive as before.

President A. A. Cortelyou said that in a ride from Somerville to his farm near Roycefield on the day of one of the Princeton football games, he encountered 156 machines in an hour. They tore up the stones on the roads that day which could not be replaced at a cost of $100 a mile.

Freeholder Joseph Fitzga called attention to the large amount it was costing the county every year for road repairs.

NINETY MILES IN 115 MINUTES.

New Motor Car Travels from Jersey City to Philadelphia Over Pennsy in Fast Time.

Jersey City, April 1.—"To Philadelphia in an hour and a half" may be a possibility in a few months, if experiments which the Pennsylvania Railroad began yesterday with the new Strang motor car prove as successful as they have in the West.

With seventy-eight guests, including prominent railway officials, the parlor car Irene, run by the gasoline-electric engine of the car, made the trip from the Pennsylvania station here to Philadelphia in one hour and fifty-five minutes. Deducting five minutes lost in stops at Trenton and North Philadelphia, the ninety miles were made in an hour and fifty minutes.

The motor was also delayed by a heavy fog and an express running ahead of it.

Priest Chosen Head of Elks' Lodge.

New York, April 1.—Rev. W. I. Reamey, of the Catholic church in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, and chaplain with Admiral Dewey in Manila, was elected exalted ruler of the New York Lodge of Elks after a warmly contested election last night. Father Reamey was formerly from Detroit.

Ten Killed; Five Injured.

Trenton, April 1.—According to the reports received by the State Railroad Commission, there were ten persons killed and five injured on New Jersey railroads during the week ending March 23.

AMUSEMENTS.

Henry Miller has scored another triumph as a producing manager in New York. His latest offering, "The Servant in the House," now at the Savoy theatre, New York, has been pronounced the greatest play of the generation and one of the most daring ever produced. In dealing with the hypocrisies of the clergy and others in high places it goes deeper than Bernard Shaw or Henry Arthur Jones ever had the courage to penetrate. It does not attack the church as such, but is a scathing denunciation of the worldliness which has crept in and corroded the places where only sanctity should reside, and a concrete, pictorial, moving plea for that forbearance and brotherhood which is the essence of right living and happiness and therefore the heart and kernel of religion. The Sun avers that it is the "most important play produced in America in a generation." Without a doubt as presented by the Henry Miller Associate Players it is the best acted of all the dramas of recent years. Walter Hampden, Tyrone Power, Charles Dalton, Arthur Lewis, Galway Herbert, Mabel Moore and Edith Wynne Matthison combine their abundant talent to give one of the finest performances the modern stage ever has seen. Further, the production more firmly establishes the fact that Henry Miller stands at the forefront of American producers in judgment, in ideals and in the practical knowledge of his art and business. Last Monday's performance was complimentary to the clergy, and the house was filled with ministers of every creed and denomination, all of whom endorsed the play as dramatically setting forth the principles of universal religion. Without a doubt "The Servant in the House" is the only play which ever accomplished this end and was at the same time a treat for the ordinary theatre-goer.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

George Sidney, the funny little comedian who has always been a welcome favorite here, will come to the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night. He will be seen in a new success, "Busy Izzy's Boodle." It is a rollicking musical satire on the same lines as all of the Sidney shows, but with distinct novelty as the reigning features. The scenery is all new, and the costumes were made from the latest designs and most expensive fabrics. The cast embraces some of the most prominent and pleasing comedians and a large proportion of the half hundred in the organization are vivacious, dancing and singing girls; in fact, it can well be termed a veritable "whirl of girls," set to music and the poetry of grace and motion. All are bent upon unrestrained recreation and everybody is kept busy. The dances all go with a vim and dash, costumes are changed every minute, jokes fast and furious, and the entire production is a kaleidoscopic mass of color and music, sparking with nonsense. In fact, "Busy Izzy's Boodle" combines such a variety of fun elements that the most fastidious or sober theatre-goer will find it impossible to keep a smile from playing tag with their mouth and eyes. Many big musical numbers and catchy songs are introduced by different members of the company, Mr. Sidney having several new parodies which he will sing.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

V. W. Nash, Sr., of Watchung avenue, sells the best anthracite. Remember this when you want a supply of coal. Prices the lowest.

George F. Brown, of Somerset street, is always glad to talk real estate and he has some fine properties for sale or lease. He also sells fire, accident and life insurance.

E. B. Maynard's barber shop on North avenue is the ideal place to get a hair-cut, shave or shampoo. Electric massage is a feature of the equipment of this up-to-date shop.

DATE IS FIXED FOR WHITMORE MURDER TRIAL.

Jersey City, April 1.—Theodore S. Whitmore, accused of the murder of his wife in Harrison, December 26 last, it has been decided, shall be placed on trial April 25. The information was communicated to him yesterday by his counsel, Alexander Simpson. Whitmore was elated at the news and declared:

"It's about time. If they will only give me a square deal I'll be able to prove an alibi all right. I never killed my wife."

Mrs. Georgie Dickenson, who is also held as a witness, expressed her pleasure on being informed the trial would begin next month. She said she is disgusted with prison fare and wants to see sunlight again.

And She Believed It.

"Henry," said his wife, "what do you need to take so many bottles along for when you're only going fishing?"

"So we can have something to cork up messages in and throw overboard, dear," he replied, "if anything should happen to the boat."

"Oh, I see. Well, do be careful, Henry. I shall be awfully uneasy."—Chicago Tribune.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will have initiation tomorrow night.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Witnesses in the Coppice.

Carrington was up early the next morning. Parkman had procured a carriage, and, as the meeting had been arranged for seven o'clock, the two drove out to Blythedale hall, whither Strathgate had preceded them the night before. The way lay along the strand, and Carrington was not too preoccupied to notice that the Niobe was gone and the Britannia had returned. His wife was probably on that ship. He looked long and earnestly toward it. If he had consulted his inclinations he would have repaired aboard of it at once and asked forgiveness for all his folly and injustice toward her; but the conventions of life—spelled in this instance by honor—constrained him.

He gave a thought, too, to the frigate which had departed without him. For the first time in his life he had failed in his duty. Kephard was a kind old man, and well-affected toward Carrington, who had been a midshipman under him, but with the admiral duty was always first and he knew that there would be no condoning his offense. He expected an order of arrest before the day was out. Thereafter he would come before a court-martial.

To what a sorry pass he had brought his fortunes by his own unmistakable folly! In the bright light of the fresh, brisk morning, he saw Ellen in her right relation to affairs, a woman, brave, strong, noble, true. What if she did not shine amid the hothouse conventionalities of the fast and vapid life of the crew whom he had gathered at Carrington. Instead of being ashamed of her, he should have rejoiced from the bottom of his soul that she was so frank and fresh and free. What a splendid woman she was! Whatever she did, how well it was done! No veteran of a thousand exciting nights over the gaming table could have played with more coolness and daring than she did in that famous duel at cards with Strathgate. And, although the minuet was outside of her accomplishments, how swiftly had twinkled her flying feet when she danced the sailor's hornpipe. It carried him back to slanting decks and fresh breezes and bright skies. Would they ever return? Would he himself return unscathed from this adventure? It was by no means certain, for Strathgate was a man of proven courage; he had demonstrated that, and his reputation as a sword player was deservedly high.

His thoughts plunged him into a gloomy melancholy which Parkman, at length perceiving, did his best to dispel by gentle raillery and pleasant conversation. Carrington pulled himself together, realizing that if he gave way to his depression he would be in no condition to meet Strathgate.

These gentle thoughts of his wife did not in any way abate his enmity toward the man whom he felt had so wronged and insulted him. He was as determined as ever that the approaching duel should be no slight affair, but that if he could he would kill Strathgate, and eliminate his possibilities of evil forever from this world.

And Strathgate had exactly the same thought for Carrington. By a curious mode of reasoning Strathgate chose to visit upon Carrington his own ill success with Lady Ellen. He came to the conclusion that if Carrington had not interfered, all would have gone well with his love affair. Of course, in a measure Carrington was responsible for Strathgate's lack of success with Lady Ellen, for Ellen devotedly and passionately loved her husband; loved him still; loved him perhaps never more than when with jealous anguish she saw him in Lady Cecily's arms. But if Carrington had never crossed Ellen's course, Strathgate was not the kind of a man that would have appealed to her. Ellen was too true, too simple, too direct in her thoughts of life to tolerate long the affectations, the sentimentalities and impurities of a man like Strathgate. So soon as her eyes were opened, she would have abominated him; and her eyes, unfortunately for Strathgate, had been opened the minute he turned to the west when she would have eastward gone. But, of course, Strathgate did not know this; that saving conceit which keeps some men from despair was his, and he blamed all his misfortunes upon Carrington.

He, too, was early abroad, and when the carriage drove through the park gates and was directed by one of Lord Blythedale's men to a shaded coppice by a little brook half a mile from the gate, Strathgate and Lord Blythedale, with a surgeon, one from the fleet named Nevinson, who was known slightly to both men, were already waiting on the ground.

Lord Blythedale was a man who had gone the pace since he succeeded to the title and fortune. The fortune was not commensurate with the title, and his seat and the park surrounding it, and the wall, likewise, were in a state of wretched disrepair. The place that he and Strathgate had selected for the encounter was a level bit of sward which Blythedale had caused to be mowed and rolled the afternoon before. It was shaded from the morning sun by high trees. Neither combatant could be maneuvered into any position to get the sunlight into his eyes. On one side of the smooth bit of turf ran a little brook, on the other the spaces between the trees were filled by a thick, almost impenetrable growth of underbrush. Although it was already autumn, the leaves had not yet fallen, and the undergrowth, which was a regular thicket, afforded secure concealment for any observer.

Blythedale had arranged, as he thought, that there should be no interruptions whatsoever, and early that morning he had posted his gamekeepers in a circle some distance away from the dueling ground with instructions to let no one pass. Although they were burning with curiosity to see, themselves, the habit of obedience was strong upon them, for Blythedale was rather a heavy-handed master, and they stayed where they were placed, their eyes resolutely turned away from the encounter, keeping earnest watch. We have heard of locking the door after the horse had been stolen. This was a reversal of that ancient practice, for the keepers were posted after the spectators had arrived.

The reader has divined, although I should like to keep him in suspense, that the spectators were Ellen and Debbie. They were brought to that spot by the God of Chance, who has a habit of working most opportunely in accordance with a poor author's plans.

By some instinct, for which she never ceased to be thankful, Ellen had put their boat on the right course when she hoisted the sail and grappled the tiller in that moment when they had escaped from the Flying Star. The moon rose late and by the time it was shining brightly Ellen was so far in shore toward the east side of Portsmouth harbor that the Britannia, lumbering over toward the Isle of Wight, had no chance of picking up the small boat.

It was almost morning when Ellen made a landing. The wind was adverse for Portsmouth—which did not trouble her, for she was quite anxious not to appear in the streets of that town in which she was sure her husband, Strathgate and Sir Charles would soon be assembled. She had formed no plan as to the future as yet. She only wished to get ashore, to get something to eat and a place to lie concealed while she thought it over. The wind failed and it was not until daybreak, or about four o'clock, that Ellen ran ashore.

It was a lonely spot, some miles to the eastward of Portsmouth. She aroused Deborah, who had slept most of the night in the bottom of the boat, and the two tired women, after tying the boat to the shore, plodded inland. At a little farmhouse—the farmer's wife being just arisen, apparently—they got some bread and milk which blunted the edge of their appetite—it must be remembered that they had not eaten anything since the noon before—and from the woman they learned the lay of the land.

They scrambled through by-paths for a long time and a little after six o'clock reached the main road. Before them rose the broken walls of a gentleman's country seat. The road was deserted at that hour. Ellen hardly knew what to do. She did not know how far it was to the next inn, nor was she certain, if she did know, that it would be a safe place for her to hide. Debbie, out of whom the spirit had been almost crushed by the succession of dazzling adventures through which she had passed, could offer no suggestion of value. She clung to Ellen's arm as if the latter had been a man, and so far as help or assistance was concerned was a mere dead weight.

"One thing I tell you, Ellen," she began at last, "I can go no farther; that is, I can walk no farther. We must find some place to rest."

"Well, dear," said Ellen, tired enough herself, but a man beside poor Debbie, "let's enter that park, perhaps we can find some one there among the servants who will help us without asking too many questions.

"Those clothes you have on, Ellen," said Debbie, desperately, "are bound to attract attention, or you in them. I don't know what we are going to do! I wish I were back in Carrington, or I wish I was in Boston, or on the Flying Star, or anywhere but here."

"Cheer up, Debbie," said Ellen, taking her by the hand and leading her forward, "we'll get into this park and it shall go hard with us if I don't find some means of succoring you."

The two stumbled along the road for a quarter of a mile, looking for a place of entrance. The gate was behind them, but Ellen did not deem it wise to try that. Finally they came to a low place in the wall over which Ellen helped Debbie and followed herself. The park in which they found themselves had been badly neglected. A mile away, as openings through the trees gave them glimpses of it from time to time, they saw the chimneys and towers of a great house. Toward it the two painfully made their way through the undergrowth, meeting no one in their progress. After half an hour's struggling, they came to an open piece of sward, newly mowed it was evident from the piles of grass that had been raked away on the edges. On the opposite of it a little brook purled merrily over sand and pebbles.

Thither the two women staggered, and kneeling down took long draughts of the sweetness and bathed their faces and hands in the cold water. They were thus engaged when they heard voices coming from the direction of the hall.

Instantly Ellen seized Deborah and ran back to the thicket whence they had just emerged and lay down, entirely concealed by the undergrowth, although able to see everything themselves that took place on the grass.

"Who is it, think you?" whispered Debbie, after she had been forced down into a prone position.

"How should I know?" answered Ellen.

"Well, if it looks like a gentleman," continued Debbie, desperately, "I'm going to get up and ask his assistance."

"You'll do no such thing," said Ellen in a sharp whisper. "Be guided by me. I know men and the world as you don't."

Indeed, it would have been hard to choose between the innocence of the matron and the maid, but Ellen flattered herself that her years and her marriage had made her wise.

"Let me decide what is to be done," she added.

"You've decided everything," said Debbie, resentfully, "and look what a position we're in."

"Hush!" said Ellen. "Here they are."

At the same instant a man stepped into the clearing. Deborah opened her mouth as if to scream. Ellen caught her violently by the arm repeating her caution.

"It's Lord Strathgate!" murmured Deborah, amazed.

"I see," returned Ellen. "Now, will you be quiet?"

"I wonder what he's here for?" whispered poor Deborah under her breath.

CHAPTER XIX.

A L'outrance.

Strathgate was followed by a small man, rather extravagantly dressed, who carried a couple of naked swords under his arm. The small man yawned prodigiously and appeared to be greatly bored by the situation in which he found himself, or by the early hour at which he had been compelled to arise. Back of the two came another man of plainer aspect, with a keen, shrewd, business-like face. He was dressed in a naval uniform of blue and white and carried a strange looking, leather covered box, of which neither Ellen nor Deborah knew what to make at first.

The man in uniform selected a convenient spot about the center of the sward, well in the shade of the trees, deposited his box, opened it, knelt down and busied himself over its contents, which so far as the women could make out consisted of bottles, bandages and shining instruments of some sort. Lady Cecily would have known instantly what was about to occur, but it was some time before either Deborah or Ellen divined that they were to be the spectators to a duel.

"I wonder where they are?" the little man carrying the swords yawned out, looking vaguely about the clearing.

Strathgate pulled out his watch.

"'Tis not yet the appointed hour," he answered.

"What the devil made you get up so early, then?" asked the small man, grumpily.

"I always like to be beforehand in affairs of this kind, Blythedale," returned Strathgate.

"Well, I wish the others would come so we can have it over and get back to breakfast, or more like to bed," growled Blythedale, crossly.

Strathgate laughed at him.

"They'll be here on time. You needn't worry. Carrington is a fool where women are concerned, but he's not afraid of any man, I take it, and you'll see him in due course."

"Well, I wish he'd hurry up," grumbled the bad-tempered baron as Strathgate turned and walked over toward the doctor.

"Have you got everything ready, Dr. Nevinson?" asked the earl.

"Everything, my lord," replied the doctor, gravely. "I hope, however, that you gentlemen will give me little to do."

Strathgate laughed again.

"If it depends on me, doctor, you'll have nothing to do but certify to a death."

"I didn't mean it that way, my lord," said the doctor, gravely.

"But I do," asserted Strathgate, turning away.

Every word of the conversation had been heard by Ellen and Deborah. The whole situation was now clear to them both. This was to be a duel. Carrington and Strathgate were to meet. Strathgate's deadly purpose was evident from his grim remark to the surgeon. Ellen could not doubt but that Carrington shared the same ruthless feeling to the full. He was coming to battle about her. Her heart leaped at first at the thought and then contracted like a lump of ice at the possibility of disaster and death which lay before the man she loved.

Her first impulse was to rise, dash into the clearing and denounce Strathgate, but a second thought assured her of the folly of that purpose. Those men were bent on fighting. They would only fight the harder and more fiercely if she interfered. She would simply be removed from the scene of action and the duel would go on.

The situation was an intolerable one whichever way she turned, whatever she did. That she should lie quiet in a thicket and watch her husband fight for his life was unbearable. That she should burst out and interrupt them and then simply be removed and the battle be waged the more fiercely was also unendurable. Yet, she would have chosen the latter course had it not come across her mind like a flash of intuition, that her appearance at that juncture would probably greatly agitate her husband, and that his chance for life would be worse in that he would be less cool than Strathgate. She had sense enough to see that Strathgate would welcome her arrival, and how easily he could turn it to his own advantage by claiming, in spite of any protest she might make, that she was there by her own contrivance and at Strathgate's request.

She dug her feet into the ground and locked her teeth in anguish. The sweat stood out on her brow. But there was nothing to do but lie still and keep watch.

It was Debbie who broke the silence by approaching her ear and whispering:

AS SUCCESSFUL EAST AS IN THE WEST

Cooper's Theories Are Being Rapidly Accepted by Eastern People.

D. T. Cooper, whose theory that the human stomach is the cause of most ill health and who created a furore in Chicago, St. Louis and other western cities, is meeting with the same remarkable success with his medicine throughout the east. Cooper has convinced an immense number of people that his theory is sound and his medicine will do what he claims.

Perhaps the most interesting features of the discussion this young man is causing, are the statements made by responsible people who have taken his medicines and have become enthusiastic converts to his beliefs.

Among statements of this character, the following, by Mr. August Wittmer, 1049 Rockwell Court, Chicago, is characteristic of the widespread faith in Cooper, which has grown up in a comparatively short time. Mr. Wittmer says: "I wouldn't take $1,000 and be in the condition I was three weeks ago. I was practically an invalid for fourteen years and think I had about all of the diseases known. My stomach was weak, and at times I would have an enormous appetite, and then again none at all. Pie and cake made me sick, and I almost always had a sickening feeling in my stomach. I was nervous, and for weeks at a time could not sleep, and then again could sleep eighteen hours at a stretch. Sleep, however, seemed to do me no good, and I would awake tired and more exhausted than when I went to bed.

"I was constipated, had pains in my back, and flutterings and pains in my heart. I was unable to work with any regularity, and took no interest in anything. I tried all kinds of medicines and doctors, but none benefited me. I had no energy and no ambition, and had about concluded to give up when the Cooper medicine was recommended. Thanks to it, my health seems completely restored and I feel like a new man."

Cooper medicines have created the greatest sensation of anything of the kind ever before introduced.

We sell them, and will be glad to explain the nature of them to our callers.

Bowling and General Sports

SOMERSETS TAKE LEAD IN NEW BOWLING TOURNEY

The first games in the new five-man bowling tourney at Johnny Campbell's alleys were rolled last night, the Watchung, Somerset and Central teams competing. The somersets carried off the honors by defeating both the other fives, while the Centrals took one game and the Watchungs start off with two defeats against them. In the game between the Centrals and the Watchungs the former team won out by a single pin.

The best work for the night was done by Captain Gilmore, of the Watchungs, who rapped the timber for 226 and 190, giving him a nice start on average. George Quinn chalked up the highest score, a 233, in his first game but in the next try dropped to 158. There were no other double centuries tallied, the nearest being a 195 made by Captain Blatz. The scores were low as a rule owing to new pins being put out, making the cleanest kind of pocket hits necessary for a strike. The games were witnessed by a big crowd of rooters.

ROW OVER ADJOURNMENT

Pierce of Union, Among Faithful Members Who Block Move to Quit Work.

If Governor Fort's measures are to be passed and the Republican platform pledges kept it will be with the votes of the Democratic Senators and Assembly. The majority split on early adjournment yesterday afternoon and fourteen Republicans declined to vote on the question.

The fourteen are Leader Martin, Braun, Clark, Colgate, Hines, Lowrey, Morgan, Smith of Essex, Crosby of Ocean, Carlton B. Pierce of Union, Fake, Devine of Bergen, McCord and Whitehead of Passaic. There can be no date for final adjournment set without the consent of the Democrats, who now hold the balance of power.

The votes on a proposition to take a recess April 9 for five days and then return for sine die adjournment resulted yesterday in 38 ayes and 15 nays. Several hours were spent in trying to win over enough of the 15 to insure early adjournment, but they stood firm.

Yesterday afternoon the Assemblymen returned to their chamber and immediately went into caucus in the Speaker's room. After calling the caucus to order, Leader Martin relinquished the chair to Mr. Gibbs. After nearly an hour the caucus ended without bringing adjournment any nearer.

There are enough Republican votes to carry early adjournment in the Senate, but in the House only 25 votes can be marshaled by the regulars, and 31 are needed. Assemblyman Irick, of Burlington, and Young, of Essex, were not at the caucus. The former is a regular, and the latter is looked upon as being with the "new idea" men.

AGREE ON TAX BUDGET

Councilmanic Financiel Committee Arranges to Reduce the City Tax Rate.

IT WILL LIKELY BE $1.45.

Department Items of Budget That Will Be Presented to the Common Council Monday Night.

Following a meeting of the Councilmanc finance committee in Mayor Fisk's office, last night, it was reported that the probable tax rate for Plainfield for the coming year would be about $1.45. This is a decrease of three points and is ascribed to increased valuations and the large appropriation coming to the school fund from the railroad tax act. The members of the committee were greatly pleased at the outlook as the material lowering had hardly been expected. Last year's rate was $1.48.

The committee took up the matter of the yearly budget and prepared the following figures for presentation to the Council at the adjourned metting Monday night: Fire department, $35,000; police, $30,000; streets, $30,000; Board of Health, $6,000; Public Library, $7,500; poor account, including $1,500 for Muhlenberg Hospital, $8,000; tree commission, $2,200, making a total of $118,700.

The important items in last year's budget were as follows: Fire department, $29,000; police, $26,000; poor fund and hospital account, $6,700; library, $7,500; stree lights, $14,000. The increase of 1907 over 1906 was $10,000.

The budget fixed up last night does not include the county tax and a number of other items that will be added before the figures are presented for adoption.

SALVATION ARMY.

Rev. William J. Hampton To Talk Tonight.

Rev. William J. Hampton, of Bayonne, will speak tonight in the Salvation Army hall at 8 o'clock on "Why I Believe In Prayer." Tomorrow night Rev. Charles S. Kemble, of Elizabeth, will speak on "Why I Believe In Salvation."

Thursday night, April 9, Colonel A. Gifford, of New York, will give his soul-stirring moving picture service entitled "From Bethlehem to Calvary."

Borough School Report Out.

The annual year book of the North Plainfield public schools has been issued, containing the various reports of the school officials for the past year. Aside from the school calendar, board of education and teachers of the borough schools, the booklet includes the report of the Board of Education, submitted by President James R. Joy; the financial report of the district clerk, Albert Steiner; the report of Supervising Principal Henry C. Krebs, an outline of the courses of study and a list of the school alumni. The enrollment shows 891 pupils in the Somerset street school and 297 in the Watchung school. The report is profusely illustrated with half-tones of the school buildings and the classes of the various departments at work in their class rooms.

Baglin-Wagner Nuptials.

Invitations were issued today for the wedding of Mrs. Sarah Baglin and Fred U. Wagner Wednesday, April 15, at the home of the bride's father, Captain W. C. Smith, of Grandview avenue. Mr. Wagner is a son of the late Emil Wagner, and is living on Seminary avenue, Rahway, at the home of his mother, Mrs. Edward Fetter. One hundred invitations have been sent out.

New Store's Opening.

The Plainfield Credit Clothing Co., at 103 Front street, opened for business yesterday with wonderful success. Its manager says that many charge accounts were opened and every caller left the new establishment well pleased and promised to send friends. Souvenirs are liberally dispensed with during entire opening week.

Amateur Night Tonight.

Amateur Thespian aspirers will be given a try-out at the New Plainfield theatre tonight, when Manager Counihan will feature amateur acts in connection with some new moving pictures. The management has offered a cash prize to be awarded to the holder of a certain seat coupon.

M. E. Ministers See City.

Owners of automobiles to the number of twenty have tendered their machines to the M. E. Conference for a sight-seeing trip of Plainfield. The start was made from the Park Club at 2 o'clock this afternoon and a general tour of the city and borough was made.

THE NEWARK CONFERENCE OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH IN SESSION TODAY AT THE FIRST M. E. CHURCH EDIFICE

LAYMEN MEET TOMORROW

Drs. James R. Joy and Henry K. Carroll Among Candidates for Delegates.

REV. DR. MITCHELL TO SPEAK.

Former Plainfield Pastor to Address Laymen's Conference at Baptist Church—Dr. Joy to Preside.

Dr. Charles Bayard Mitchell, of Cleveland, Ohio, formerly pastor of the First Methodist church in Plainfield and now one of the most distinguished ministers in the denomination, will address the Laymen's Association of Newark's Conference at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The laymen's meetings are held in the First Baptist church, which has kindly been placed at the disposal of the Methodists. This is the tenth annual meeting of this association, of which James R. Joy, of the borough, is president. The public will be welcome at this meeting, which begins at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

In the morning in the First Baptist church at 10 o'clock the Lay Electoral Conference will be called to order by the secretary, W. M. McGee, of North Plainfield. This body is composed of one representative from each church in the conference. Its principal business is to choose delegates, five in number, to attend the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which meets in Baltimore next month, and which elects the bishops and makes the laws for the entire denomination.

Morning Session.

Candidates for Delegates.

There are numerous candidates for these five delegate positions. Among the persons who will be nominated are John R. Mott, of Montclair; James W. Pearsall, of Ridgewood; Morris S. Daniels, of Newark; James R. Joy and H. K. Carroll, of Plainfield; Frank Morse, of Boonton; William Dufford, of Paterson; R. R. Doherty, of Jersey City, and Mrs. C. S. Woodruff, of Flemington, who is a very prominent worker of the Women's Home Missionary Society.

DISMISS COOK CHARGES; DR. DAY HERE SATURDAY

The charges recently brought against the Rev. Dr. James R. Day, chancellor of Syracuse University, for his attack on President Roosevelt in his book, "The Raid on Prosperity," died a quick death yesterday when they came up before the one hundred and ninth annual session of the New York Methodist Conference in New York.

Bishop Moore in dismissing the charges said he regarded the complaint against Chancellor Day as a direct attack upon the free speech and free press. The decision was greeted with cheers.

The New York East Conference in Brooklyn also took notice of the charges against Dr. Day by administering a severe rebuke to the Rev. George A. Cook, of Brandon, Vt., who had preferred them.

Dr. Day is an official visitor to the Newark Conference which is in session here this week. It is expected that the Chancellor will be present at Saturday morning's session.

Redeem Your Minstrel Ticket.

Tickets for the minstrel show to be given by members of Salaam Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine at the New Plainfield theatre, Wednesday, April 8, are being exchanged for seats at the theatre boxoffice today and from now on daily until the night of the performance. About 500 tickets have already been sold for the show.

CONFERENCE CONSIDERS TIME LIMIT FOR PASTORS

Promptly at the appointed hour this morning, Bishop Henry Spellmeyer called the second day's business session of the Newark Conference to order.

Four Years' Time Limit.

The question of amending the rule providing for a time-limit of pastorates was introduced by Rev. Dr. H. A. Buttz. It is proposed that the limit shall be four years, but if in the judgment of the Bishop a continuation of the pastorate is thought best, it may be arranged. The present time limit is four years. The proposition was referred to a committee comprising Revs. J. F. Faulks, C. S. Woodruff, G. G. Vogel, W. H. Morgan, H. A. Buttz, W. S. Robinson and F. C. Baldwin, who will present it Monday morning at 11 o'clock for general discussion.

Remember Departed Brothers.

Rev. Dr. H. A. Buttz and Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut suggested the drafting of resolutions of condolence on the death of Bishops Andrews and Fowler, and they were appointed a committee to prepare the same.

As announced yesterday, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass presented proposed recommendations relative to the powers of the Bishop's cabinet, and they were adopted.

The Bishops' Cabinet.

The recommendations provide that the presiding elders in the cabinet shall nominate the conference stewards, Board of Church Location, Deaconess Board, trustees of Centenary Collegiate Institute, committee on qualifications, committee on memoirs, Board of Home Missions and Church Extension; also that the nominating committee shall nominate trustees of the Centenary Fund and Preachers' Aid Society, officers and managers conference, Board of Edification, tract society and standing committees authorized by the discipline or the conference, including committee on conference program and nominations for the following year.

Presiding Elder's Report.

Following the introduction of visitors to the conference, the annual report of the presiding elder, Rev. Daniel Halleron, Elizabeth district, was presented. Dr. Halleron said at the beginning that no requests for changes in his district had been received, but this should not be taken to mean that no changes will be made. His report included a statement concerning the condition of the First M. E. and Monroe Avenue and Grace M. E. church, of this city.

An encouraging fact reported was that the Monroe Avenue church had increased its seating capacity 100, and the salary of the pastor was increased $500. Grace church installed a new organ and paid off an indebtedness of $3,000.

Encouraging Signs.

The report showed a steady advancement all along the line, both in finances and spiritual welfare. Many of the churches in the district have made substantial improvements and at the same time great progress made in reducing indebtedness. Fifty churches and forty parsonages have been improved and the salaries of thirty pastors have been increased. During the past five years $70,498 was paid toward liquidating indebtedness, and in about the same length of time $91,425 was raised for benevolences. Four new churches were built during the year, and six new parsonages.

Honor Veterans.

Services were held in honor of Rev. Dr. H. A. Buttz, Rev. Alexander Craig, Rev. J. F. Dodd, Rev. J. B. Faulks and Rev. S. P. Lacy, who have completed fifty years as members of the conference. An interesting historical paper was read by Dr. Dodd, giving a sketch of the Class of 1858 at Drew Seminary, of which Dr. Buttz, Mr. Craig and Dr. Dodd were members. Mr. Faulks and Mr. Lacy came into the conference by transfer.

Some of the Veterans.

During the past fifty years, 155 members of the conference have died. Dr. Buttz had been a pastor for twelve years, and afterward went to Drew Seminary, where he is now president. Mr. Craig began his career in the land of John Knox. He served seventeen charges, covering twenty-nine years, and at one time was presiding elder of the Jersey City district. Dr. Dodd was the youngest member of the class. He held eighteen charges, covering a period of thirty-five years. He has served on many important committees, and for years has been the honored secretary of the Newark Conference.

During the service there was sung a hymn, "The Call and Beyond," the words of which were written by Dr. Dodd.

Some Reminiscent Remarks.

Remarks of a reminiscent nature were made by Mr. Faulks and Mr. Lacy, in which they recounted incidents in their long service in the ministry. Mr. Faulks was transferred from the New Hampshire to the New Jersey Conference. Mr. Lacy joined the conference in 1869. A few words were also added by Rev. Isaac Thomas, of Morristown, who has passed the fifty years of service.

Big Election Tomorrow.

Rev. Alexander Craig was the last speaker at this service, at the conclusion of which Bishop Spellmeyer announced that the election of delegates to the General Conference would occur tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, following the admission of the probation class to full membership in the conference. The election and admission of the class will take place during the executive session and for the purpose of preventing the attendance of anyone outside of the recognized delegates, the following were appointed doorkeepers: Revs. E. King, W. H. Evans, W. H. Ruth, Thomas E. Gordon, William A. Knox, Samuel T. Jackson and Samuel Jones.

Visitors Introduced.

Before the morning session closed Rev. Dr. Hoyt, of Northern New York Conference, and Rev. J. T. Diggs, of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, this city, were received and introduced to the conference.

Cabinet Meeting Today.

The Bishop announced that his cabinet, comprising the four presiding elders, would meet this afternoon at the parsonage, 610 Central avenue, and he particularly requested that no calls be made for the elders during the conference as it would interrupt the consideration of important matters.

Changes In Constitution.

Four propositions for constitutional changes as presented caused considerable discussion. The first proposition, on bishops with limited episcopal jurisdiction, adopted by the General Conference, sought to amend the restrictive rule to read: "The General Conference shall not change nor alter any part or rule of our government so as to do away episcopacy, nor destroy the plan of our itinerant general superintendency; but may elect a bishop or bishops for work among particular races and languages, or for any of our foreign missions, limiting their episcopal jurisdiction to the same respectively." This amendment was defeated by a vote of 138 to 20.

Conference Representation.

Animated discussion followed the proposition on ratio of ministeral representation at the General Conference, three amndments being submitted as adopted by the conferences of Iowa, West Wisconsin and Illinois.

Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, Rev. Daniel Halleron, Rev. Dr. J. A. Guttridge, Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut were among those who spoke against the first proposition which provided for a minimum representation of twenty-five and a maximum representation of ninety. It was lost by a vote of 164 to 11.

Also Defeated.

The second proposition making the minimum representation fourteen and the maximum sixty was also defeated by a vote of 160 to 4, while the third proposition, the minimum representation to be twenty-five and the maximum seventy-five, was lost by a vote of 130 to 12. It was the general opinion that the basis of representation as suggested would not be equitable.

Women's Missionary Session.

Encouraging reports of the past year's work were presented and an address delivered by Rev. Joseph Beach, at the anniversary meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, of the Newark Conference, in the First M. E. church, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. J. H. Knowles, the conference secretary, presided. There was Scripture reading by Rev. C. L. Mead and prayer was offered by Rev. Herbert F. Randolph.

Treasurer's Report.

The report of the treasurer, Miss Edith L. White, showed the year's receipts to be the best in the history of the society. They were divided as follows: Elizabeth District, $2,102; Jersey City District, $1,658; Newark District, $7,023; Paterson District, $1,315, which together with the $475 received from the conference-at-large, makes a total of $12,573, or an increase of $2,573 over the previous year.

Mrs. Knowles' Comments.

In commenting on the report, Mr. Knowles said that it was most gratifying to not the increase all along the line. She expressed her appreciation to the women for their thought of her in building and naming for her the training school for women in Kiu King, China. She referred to the funds of the society deposited in the Knickerbocker Trust Company, New York, and assured the society that now that the institution is again doing business a payment will soon be received on the amount deposited. She called attention to the branch annual meeting to be held in Centenary church, Newark, in October.

Mrs. Hayes' Talk.

Mrs. A. W. Hayes addressed the women on the subject of missionary literature, telling of the various kinds to be had at the society's headquarters in New York. She urged that all make use of this literature and thereby increase their knowledge of foreign missions.

Missionary's Address.

The address of the afternoon was delivered by Rev. Joseph Beach, who is a missionary at Chentu, China, being president of Chentu College. He is supported on the foreign field by the Methodist church at Montclair. He gave a detailed account of his work, and of the difficulties he met with in learning the Chinese language. He engaged a native to teach him the language and while this was in progress he was telling the story of Christ to his instructor. He afterward became converted and carried the Gospel to his fellows, meeting with great success.

Although he met with great difficulties he has already accomplished much in taking the story of Christ to the Chinese. His address was listened to with considerable interest and all seemed to feel that there was much cause for encouragement in this particular field.

While the offering was being received for the work, Rev. Stanley F. Davis sang, "Hosanna," by Grainer, after which the benediction was pronounced by Rev. William Eakins.

Insurance Society Meeting.

While the women's missionary meeting was being held in the church the thirty-eighth annual report of the Mutual Life Insurance Association, of the Conference, was in session in

MAYOR EXTENDS WELCOME

Banker Fisk in Greeting M. E. Conference Delegates Defends High License.

REV. DR. HALLERON PRESIDES.

Conference Veterans Hold Their Annual Meeting—Dr. Guttridge Makes His Report.

Keen disappointment was apparent on the part of those attending last night's session of the Newark Conference over the inability of Governor J. Franklin Fort to be present to address the congregation. Telegrams were received by Rev. John A. Guttridge and Mayor C. J. Fisk, who was to have entertained the Governor at dinner, informing them that matters of State importance would detain him.

Efforts for Speakers.

The announcement was made by Dr. Guttridge, and in referring to the matter he unintentionally said "Governor of the United States," which brought forth a hearty laugh. The doctor then humorously remarked: "That may be true yet?" He explained that he first tried to get United States Senator Dolliver to speak, then Vice-President Fairbanks and finally succeeded in getting the promise of Governor Fort to come here. But unforseen happenings at Trenton prevented his attendance

Dr. Hafleron Presides.

It was the anniversary of the Centenary Fund and Preachers' Aid Society and Rev. Dr. Daniel Halleron as president was in the chair He spoke briefly conderning the needs of the society and the purpose to raise the general fund to $100,000, which could be done by the additional contribution of $13,000. He held in his hand a check for $4,100.03, representing the interest paid conference claimants and it was with not little pride that he announced that fact and that the past year was the best in the history of the society.

Mayor Fisk's Welcome.

During the early part of the meeting there was a vocal solo by Charles L. Lewis, after which Dr. Halleron introduced Mayor Charles J. Fisk, who was announced to give an address of welcome to the delegates. Mr. Fisk began by saying that it seemed strange to him to be addressing a body of ministers. Usually he occupied a pew and listened to the preacher. He paid deserving tribute to Rev. A. C. McCrea for his efforts in bringing the conference to Plainfield and told the ministers that they would find God-loving and God-fearing people here, a place where a great majority of the people stood for righteousness and a high standard of morals. It was not a case of being obliged to depend on the laws to preserve, although there are laws and they must be obeyed.

The Roads to Heaven.

Although he said that he was brought up in the Presbyterian church, and at one time thought that that was the only way to heaven, Mr. Fisk said he had changed his mind since he became a man and had come to the conclusion that as all railroads lead to Chicago, so all denominations lead to heaven. He was pleased to learn that the association, whose anniversary was being celebrated, was conducted on business principles and not a "trust in luck" plan. Faith and works could accomplish much, but if a man depended alone on prayer he would get but little.

Good Men for Office.

Speaking politically, Mr. Fisk declared that only straight, upright men should be elected to office and in that way high-class men would be called upon to serve the people. He said that Governor Fort was that

SPECIAL COP ASSAULTED

Stone Hurled by Boy Renders Harry Berlowitz Unconscious for Five Hours.

HAS CONCUSSION OF THE BRAIN.

Police Arrest Albert Jaegar, 14 Years Old, as the Assailant, and Judge Runyon Remands Him Without Bail.

In attempting to stop a crowd of boys from annoying the residents at Third street and Spooner avenue, at 8 o'clock last night, Harry Berlowitz, formerly a patrolman in the local department and now acting as a special officer, was made the victim of an alleged murderous assault. He had seized Charles Jaegar, 16 years old and was taking him to a police call box when a large stone was hurled, striking him a terrific blow just back of the ear. He dropped to the ground unconscious and though medical attention was quickly procured he remained in that condition until 1 o'clock this morning. It was thought at first he had sustained a fracture of the skull but it was afterward learned that he is probably suffering from concussion of the brain.

As soon as word of the assault reached police headquarters, Sergeant Overbaugh and Roundsman Higgins hurried out in the patrol wagon and rounded up most of the boys who had been in the crowd. In court this morning they described themselves as Herman Theis, 13 years; Francis Jaegar, 11 years; Walter Foster, 12 years; Herman Rosenson, 13 years; Walter Foster, 12 years; Hazel Foster, 13 years; Harry Thomas, 11 years; Charles Jaegar, 16 years, and Albert Jaegar, 14 years. Charles and Albert Jaegar asserted that a dozen or more stones had been thrown at Berlowitz, but Herman Theis and Harry Thomas were positive that there was only one. They testified that Albert Jaegar was the culprit and the accused boy's answers were such as to corroborate the statements. Jaegar was accordingly remanded without bail to await the outcome of the officer's injuries. If he is declared out of danger by tomorrow the prisoner will be released under bonds.

All the boys implicated in the trouble live near the Third street and Spooner avenue corner and were acting in a disorderly manner when a storekeeper asked Berlowitz to chase them away. The officer complied but as he is somewhat unpopular with the West End youngsters because of what they call his "freshness," his commands were greeted with catcalls and derisive yells. He accordingly grabbed hold of Charles Jaegar, merely intending to frighten them all by dragging him to the call box. He had taken but a few steps when the stone struck him and he pitched forward insensible.

When Berlowitz dropped, every boy in the crowd disappeared and the injured man remained unnoticed for several minutes. He was finally picked up by Antone Breitner, a butcher in the employ of Michael Weber. Though Berlowitz weighs about 160 pounds, Breitner swung him over his shoulders and carried him a block and a half to Dr. Brennan's office on Grant avenue, a feat that made all the city policemen sit up and take notice. After treatment had been given the injured man, he was removed to his home at 1052 West Third street, the patrol wagon being called for the purpose.

The search to locate the boys in the crowd kept Sergeant Overbaugh and Roundsman Higgins busy for more than three hours. They conducted a house-to-house canvass and hauled most of the youngsters out of bed to take them to police headquarters. It was 11:45 when the patrol wagon started away with the batch and by that time the entire section about Third street and Spooner avenue was in an uproar.

Young Men's Club Elects.

The following officers were reelected at the annual meeting of the Young Men's Club, of Hope chapel, Tuesday night: President, Frank Rimmer; vice-president, Russell Randolph; secretary, Morris Hunter; treasurer, James Kenney; chairman social committee, Peter C. Sweeney; chairman membership committee, Randolph. It was decided to place a baseball team in the field this season and Russell Randolph was elected manager and Allen Snyder temporary captain.

PROPERTY—TITLES.

The Harcuvar Copper Company owns outright in fee simple with no debt, nine full Mining Claims comprising 185.5 acres, together with one unpatented claim held for its water rights as well as mineral. The names of the claims are as follows:

"Sunny Side," "Triumph," "Ada," "Mystic, "Treasure Trove," "Mountain Queen," "Harcuvar," "Midget," "Arroyo," and "Agua Frio."

The Company has erected a first class boarding house with all necessary equipment; has provided sleeping accommodations for the men; has erected a substantial portal house to the tunnel including blacksmith shop, store room, etc., ore cars, track (16 lb. rails) and tools to run the work with three shifts of miners.

The title of these claims has been declared perfect by Judge Hawkins and they are now in process of patenting, our patent survey has already been accepted by the United States Surveyor General.

DEVELOPMENT PLANS.

We have complete surveys by the well known Mining Engineering firm, Haggott, Girand Company, and our development plans have been laid with the utmost care and skill. Passing through the group east and west are two prominent diorite dykes. They are from 20 to 40 feet wide each and are from 30 to 60 feet apart, carrying ore on both the north and south contacts and with the country rock between them highly mineralized. On the north contact vein on the north dyke on the Sunny Side Claim we have exposed through prospecting shafts from 5 to 9 feet of ore that runs from 2 TO 24 PER CENT. IN COPPER AND FROM 0.22 TO 1.52 OZ. IN GOLD WITH SMALL SILVER VALUES.

To develop this excellent surface showing a cross-cut tunnel 5 foot by 7 foot 6 inches is being driven a distance of 418 feet where it will cross-cut the ore zone at 275 feet vertical depth. This tunnel is being driven by hand and is now in 200 feet, but the installation of an air compressor and air drills is contemplated at an early date so that our work can be conducted with more dispatch. For further development we offer today in lots of not less than 100 shares either for cash with a 5 per cent. discount or on the installment plan of five equal monthly payments of 5 cents for each share. "ONE GOOD INVESTMENT IN WORTH A LIFE-TIME OF LABOR." If you don't buy a block of Harcuvar Copper Company stock now, and reap the cream of the investment you will be the loser.

A Copper Mine is a Commercial Proposition, Not a Speculation.

No single industry in the world is now paying as large a profit on money invested as the Copper industry. Several Copper Mines in Arizona and Mexico are paying from 100 per cent. to 3,000 per cent. on an investment made only a few years ago. The richest copper section in the world is the Arizona Copper belt. The average cost of producing copper in Arizona is less than 7½ cents per pound. No other copper region in the world is able to duplicate the quantity at anything near that cost. This low cost of production justly entitles Arizona Copper Stocks to the highest place in the confidence of the investor for the lower the cost of production, the greater the net earnings and dividends. These are facts which leave no room for argument and therefore we do not hesitate to advise our friends to put their idle money into Arizona Copper Mines.

THE MAN WHO INVESTED $1,000.00 IN CALUMET AND ARIZONA SIX YEARS AGO NOW HAS A SNUG FORTUNE OF $36,630.00 AND LAST YEAR RECEIVED IN DIVIDENDS $16.50 PER SHARE, AMOUNTING TO $4,994.50. THIS STOCK WAS PUT ON THE MARKET IN 1901 AND WAS FIRST SOLD AT FROM 40 CENTS TO $3.00 PER SHARE, NOW $110.00. TEN YEARS AGO UNITED VERDE SOLD AT FROM 15 TO 50 CENTS AND IS NOW PAYING 75 CENTS PER SHARE REGULAR MONTHLY DIVIDENDS.

TODAY WE OFFER YOU AN INTEREST IN THE HARCUVAR COPPER COMPANY WHICH IS LOCATED IN THE RICHEST PART OF THE ARIZONA COPPER BELT, AND WE FIRMLY BELIEVE THAT EACH $1,000.00 INVESTED IN HARCUVAR NOW SHOULD BE INTRINSICALLY WORTH SEVERAL THOUSAND DOLLARS BY THE TIME WE GET OUR PROPERTY DEVELOPED. INVESTIGATE THIS PROPOSITION AT ONCE AND SEND US YOUR ORDER AS THE ALLOTMENT IS LIMITED.

WESTFIELD.

A large number of citizens attended the meeting of Westfield Council Tuesday night, when a public hearing was held on the application of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company for a franchise. The main contention was over the regulation of extending the service. The citizens argued for regulations compelling the company to extend its lines as the town grew. Several who had made applications for telephone service stated that they have been told by representatives of the company that the 'phones would not be put in unless the Council granted the franchise now pending. The hearing was adjourned to Monday night.

Mayor Alpers Tuesday night appointed an advisory committee of citizens to act with the special committee on a town water plant. The committee will meet at the town room Thursday night, to organize.

At the meeting of the Council Tuesday night Engineer A. W. Vars submitted maps for 7,000 feet of proposed sewers, necessary to accommodate the town north of Dudley avenue.

W. H. Weldon, of Rahway, has been awarded the contract for repairing Westfield roads during the coming summer.

The Board of Education has deferred meeting for organization until next Monday night.

HEIRESS MAY BE FREE TO WED MAN SHE ELOPED WITH.

Helen Maloney, eloping heiress, whose parents live at Philadelphia and have a beautiful mansion in Spring Lake, N. J., will know soon whether her marriage to Arthur Osborne, the New York broker, will be annulled, so she may be free to marry Samuel Clarkson, the young Englishman with whom she ran away.

Daniel F. Cohalan, referee, has completed hearing the evidence and soon will file a report in the Supreme Court. It is understood it is possible for three decisions to be reached—one nullifying the marriage, another against annulment and a third that there never was any marriage to annul.

At the hearing the witnesses were Miss Maloney, Osborne and William H. Boyd, who, as justice of the peace at Mamaroneck, performed what he supposed was a legally binding marriage ceremony. Miss Maloney said it was not taken seriously by her; that she thought the entire affair a lark. Her counsel hopes to knock out the marriage on the ground that Boyd did not ask certain questions of the couple, as required by law.

Quits Newspaper Work This Week.

Elizabeth, April 2.—Edward K. Drake, the veteran newspaper writer, yesterday formally notified the managemen of Elizabeth Daily Journal, with which paper he has been connected as a reporter twenty-six years, and of which his father, James Drake, was at one period one of the owners and publishers, that he will retire on Saturday from active newspaper work and take life easy for the balance of his days. He will be sixty-eight years old in November. He was for six years a reporter on the old Elizabeth Daily and Central New Jersey Herald, and for eight years was a newsgatherer on the Elizabeth Daily Monitor, before going to The Journal, thus making a total of forty years in newspaper work.

General Gillmore Is Home.

Trenton, April 2.—General Quincy O'M. Gillmore, former commander of the Second Brigade of the National Guard of New Jersey, and one of the best known military men of the State, has recently been discharged from the New York Hospital, where he was under a course of treatment for four months. General Gilmore resigned his National Guard command because of what was thought to be a fatal illness. After his retirement he went to New York to live. Shortly after going there he went to the hospital, where an extremely delicate operation was performed on his neck. This operation was successful and the results have been a splendid recovery. General Gillmore is now in his Princeton home, where he will take a prolonged rest. His absolute recovery is but a matter of a few months.

The Millinery Department

Did you come to our Millinery Opening last week to see the styles Miss Strohuber designed? Every woman of Plainfield who is interested in smart Millinery should have been here. It was an exhibition of styles not to be seen hereabouts, and judging by the crowds that attended, and the Hats purchased during these opening days, Miss Strohuber was well repaid for her untired energy in planning, and creating, and dreaming of nothing but Hats these past 30 days. If you have not been here, come this week. Our salesladies will be pleased to show you through, and you are not urged to buy, for you will scarcely resist these charming Easter Bonnets, priced not much more than half of New York prices.

CHILDREN'S WASH DRESSES FROM 2 TO 6 AND ON UP TO 15 YEARS.

Pretty little Wash Dresses for little girls, and bigger ones; made of linens, percales, madras, and sheer white lawns, trimmed daintily in white and colors; some are made especially for every-day school wear, yet have a "touch" that make them different from those you always see and are tired of; others more elaborate, and of hand-somer materials for dressy occasions, 98c to $4.98

SPECIAL—MEN'S SHIRTS 50c.

Not the usual 50c Shirt, or They Wouldn't Be Mentioned Here.

It's a purchase we made of splendid woven madras shirts, made to retail at 75c and $1.00; the styles are good, too, but scarcely any two sizes of a pattern; that is the reason they are 50c. Samples of these in our "special" window at the Front street entrance.

Talks About PRETTY HATS AT POPULAR PRICES.

HATS AT $4.75.

TALK ONE—In the $4.75 collection is found a wonderful variety of shapes and colors—hats adapted alike for dress and every-day wear; some in conservative models, others in ultra-fashionable effects. In these hats you get practically all the style that you get in the more expensive creations. Of course, you do not get the most costly materials, though everything entering into these hats is good.

HATS AT $7.75.

TALK TWO—Many a woman with tact and taste can present the same appearance that the most costly arrayed woman would present, yet wearing one of the hats that we sell at $7.75. You will be surprised at the beautiful hats that are shown in this line. Many unwittingly confuse them with hats selling at double the price. When looking at the hats in the Millinery Salon one is just as apt to class these $7.75 hats with the finer ones as not. Only the most critical examination reveals the fact that they are not costly, yet they rate with hats that sell in many stores for much more money, in quality as well as in style.

HATS AT $12.50.

TALK THREE—The $12.50 Hats are still a superior class and meet the requirements of the most refined and particular dressers. At this price we show really elegant hats trimmed with foreign materials—flowers, wings, feathers, silks, velvets and ornaments in the richest colorings. In many a store you would pay $5 to $7.50 more for any of these hats, and perhaps you would not pay too much; but here you get them at the lowest possible cost.

$2.45 READY-TO-WEAR HATS, $1.95.

Here is a large variety of shapes to choose from—and colors galore—browns, blues, reseda, green and black—trimmed with taffeta ribbons, velvets, pompons, feathers, wings and ornaments; priced to sell at $2.45; to go Friday and Saturday at only $1.95

EAGER FOR NEW THEATRE.

Morristown Citizens Interested in Scheme and Committee Is Appointed.

Morristown, April 2.—At the request of a number of citizens, committees of the Civic and Business Men's Associations met last night to hear projects for the construction of the new theatre building here. Thos. W. Cauldwell, president of the Civic Association, was chosen to preside and Frederick W. Faulkner, of the firm of Wiswell & Faulkner, theatrical managers of New York city, presented a sketch for plans for a building such as he thinks Morristown ought to have.

The frontage of seventy-five feet shows two stores on the first floor, with a broad corridor between them that runs to the rear, providing an entrance to the theatre, which is to be erected in the rear on comparatively low priced land. The store building shows three stories, the second in flats and the third a lodge room. The theatre is arranged to seat 1,200 and Mr. Faulkner estimates the cost of the two buildings at $60,000. He said that his firm would invest some money in it and take a five years' lease on the property.

Mr. Faulkner believes a building of this character will pay in Morristown. He said that modern theatrical buildings in Dover, Plainfield, New Brunswick and other places are paying well. Among the localities discussed as forming good sites for the buildings contemplated were the Farmers' Hotel property on Market street and a plot on Morris street.

A committee composed of C. Franklin Wilson, E. H. Tomlinson and D. Farrand Sturges was appointed to consider the matter further, including the possibilities of securing subscriptions to the scheme.

SAYS WOMAN KIDNAPPED HIM.

Weird Tale of Man Who Tried to Pass Worthless Check in Camden.

Camden, April 2.—Locked up in the city jail here yesterday afternoon, on a charge of attempting to pass a worthless check, Harry Leppler, of Baltimore, told the police that he had been kidnapped by two women and held prisoner in a house on Eleventh street, near Callowhill, Philadelphia, for nearly a week. To gain his release, he said, he promised to pay the women $200, telling them he would get the money in this city, where he said he expected to suddenly disappear.

Leppler was arrested through the suspicions of a hackman who had been driving him and a young woman about this city. The woman, the hackman said, seemed to be directing Leppler's movements. After several vain attempts had been made by Leppler to cash a check for $200 at several saloons, the hackman decided to drive the couple to the city hall. While Leppler was being taken into the hall the woman disappeared.

"That check is all right," declared the prisoner to the hall sergeant, but when the police telephoned to the Baltimore bank on which the check was drawn the bank replied that Leppler had no account there.

Leppler claimed that while he was a prisoner in the house in Philadelphia he was kept "doped." He is about forty-five years old, and claims to be the agent for a wholesale liquor house in Baltimore. He says he has a sister residing at Allentown, Pa., and a brother in Philadelphia, but refused to give their addresses.

HIT BY TRAIN, GETS $2.

That Was All the Damages South Jersey Negro Wanted for His Injuries.

Millville, April 2.—An electric train struck a negro just south of Camden the day before yesterday, and when the train was stopped the crew searched in vain, but could find no man. The victim, with his head covered with bandages, yesterday appeared at the office of the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad Company and explained to an official that he claimed damages.

"Well, how much do you want?" was asked.

"Well, I just dunno, but what will you give?" asked the African.

"That's up to you," the officer replied.

"Well, boss, do you think $2 is too much?"

He was informed that the amount was satisfactory, and, after signing a release from further claims, he was handed two $1 bills.

NEW DATE FIXED FOR DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

For Third Time Day Is Selected and Now Will Be Held April 28.

Charles H. Gallagher, of the Democratic State Committee, announced yesterday that he had changed the date of the State convention to be held in Trenton from Thursday, April 23, to Tuesday, April 28. The date first selected was April 22.

The latter date was selected for several reasons, and was particularly desired by the members from Hudson county, who found April 23 would interfere with other plans. The Masonic grand lodge will be in session during that week, and practically all hotel accommodations have been engaged for that time.

The convention will be held in the State Street theatre, as previously announced.

WOULD LET COUNTIES SPEND MORE ON ROADS.

Trenton, April 2.—Among the bills introduced in the Senate Tuesday were:

Mr. Wilson, amends Section 4 of the general road act of 1905, by permitting counties to expend annually for road repairs an amount equal to two mills of the total tax ratables in addition to State appropriations.

Mr. Avis, authorizes the employment of one or more clerymen to act as moral instructors in the State insane hospitals.

Mr. Leavitt, amends the policemen's salary act of 1899, as amended in 1905, by fixing that of sergeants and lieutenants at not less than $1,350; detectives, $1,300; roundsmen, $1,100; patrolmen, from $750 to $1,000 a year.

Mr. Ackerman (for the majority of the civil service conference committee), creates a bi-partizan civil service commission of four members to serve one, two, three and four years, instead of a partizan commission of three members.

Mr. Brown, supplement to the act of March 24, 1897, for the government of cities of less than 12,000 inhabitants, by authorizing the Common Council to appoint a board of assessors of three members.

Fifty Years a Cigarmaker.

New Brunswick, April 2.—Philip A. Meyers, who observed yesterday the fiftieth anniversary of starting in business as a cigarmaker, comes of a family which in two generations has been in the same business for over a century. His father, Philip A. Meyers, started a cigarmaking business and small cigar store in 1802 opposite Rutgers College. He conducted it until 1858, when it was continued by his son. Mr. Meyers' store, on Bayard street, is headquarters for local fishermen. Mr. Meyers is an authority on local history, and has a valuable collection of pictures of old buildings in New Brunswick, a collection which he has been over forty years gathering and arranging.

For State Home For Girls.

Trenton, April 2.—The State building at the Jamestown Exposition will be moved to Trenton and be erected on the grounds of the State Home for Girls for an administration building. The building will be turned over as it is to the State Charities and Corrections Bureau, to be removed by that body, and the furniture now in the building will be shipped to the Governor's cottage at Sea Girt. This is provided for in a bill introduced by Senator Bradley Tuesday. The Jamestown Commission will have an unexpended balance on hand of about $17,500.

FIGHTING FOR BIG ESTATE.

Relatives of Asbury Park Woman Want $75,000 Left to Her Friend.

Asbury Park, April 2.—Contest of the will of the late Mrs. Henry Kroehl was resumed before Judge John E. Foster here yesterday. Mrs. Kroehl, the mother of the late George F. Kroehl, formerly president of the defunct First National Bank, left her property, valued at $75,000, to Mrs. H. S. Taylor, who was not a relative, but who had nursed and cared for her. Mrs. Agnes P. P. Seighortner, a daughter, and grandchildren were cut off. They charge undue influence was exercised over the testatrix.

Mrs. Taylor was cross-examined concerning the scene following a bill in Chancery by Mrs. Seighortner to have the testratrix declared of unsound mind. She said she was reading the notice of the suit to Mrs. Kroehl when Mr. Kroehl and Mrs. Mary Huppertz, a granddaughter, entered and attempted to embrace the aged woman, who repulsed them and said to her son, "Go away. I don't want to have anything to do with you. I will never forgive you." The witness testified that Mrs. Kroehl resented the effort to have her declared of unsound mind.

Previous to her death Mrs. Kroehl gave Mrs. Taylor $46,000. Mrs. Huppertz told of differences following an unlimited power of attorney given by the testatrix to Mrs. Taylor's husband in 1905. This placed Mrs. Kroehl's property in control of the Taylors. The hearing will be continued April 10.

HELD ON FORGERY CHARGE.

Summit Coachman Accused of Getting $25 By Using Name of a Contractor.

Summit, April 2.—William Bolger, who said his home is in Mendham, and who has been employed here as coachman for M. C. Faitoute, in Edgewood road, was committed to the Union County Jail yesterday by Police Judge Hicks on the charge of forging the name of James Moore, a local contractor, to a check for $25. The check was made payable to James Farley and was indorsed with that name. The police say Bolger had the check cashed in the store of S. Scheuer & Sons Saturday night. Bolger, at a hearing yesterday, declared he could not remember how he came in possession of the check. The manager of the store Tuesday received a note signed "James Farley, 47 Prince street, Newark," in which the writer said if there was any trouble about the check he would make it good. Bolger is believed to have written the note. He had shaved off his mustache between the time of cashing the check and his arrest.

kind of a man and that he is now making the fight of his life to get what the people of the State want. "All the influence of the political machine is being brought to bear against his efforts," said Mr. Fisk, "but the right will prevail."

The Excise Question.

Taking up the excise question, Mr. Fisk unhesitatingly declared that the trouble with prohibition is that it does not prohibit. "In the South today," he said, "one can get anything he wants to drink, he can even get liquor in eggs.' You can't get evidence in these cases unless you commit crime. We must adopt a rule to control the sale of liquor. As for local option the people did not want that. Fifteen years ago Plainfield's present system of controlling the liquor question was introduced and it has worked satisfactorily." Mr. Fisk then gave a brief review of the situation when he was a member of the Common Council, how the license question was handled and how the ministers and the best people of the city were led to recognize that the present system came nearer solving the question than anything tried before.

Extends Welcome.

Speaking of the duty of the church, Mr. Fisk declared that such it was Mr. Fisk's opinion that such edifices should be open at all times, where people can go and pray and meditate.

"I am glad to welcome you to our city and I hope you will like it so well that you will want to come again. If I can be of any service personally or in an official capacity let me know."

Mr. Fisk's speech was well received.

Treasurer's Report.

The anniversary exercises were then continued with the reading of the report of the treasurer, Milton E. Blanchard. This showed the receipts at the present date to be $18,989.18, and the disbursements, including bond and mortgages, and balance in bank, to be the same. The assets consisting of bond and mortgages and balance in bank are $86,475.68, while the interest paid conference claimants amounted to $4,100.03. The William H. Murphy fund showed that $10,466.01 had been received from the churches and a special gift of $1,000.

Society's Officers.

The officers of the society are as follows:

President, Rev. Daniel Halleron; vice-president, W. H. Barnett; corresponding secretary, Rev. John A. Guttridge; secretary, Rev. S. K. Doolittle; treasurer, Milton E. Blanchard; trustees-ministers, Revs. S. K. Doolittle, J. I. Boswell, Daniel Halleron, C. R. Barnes, C. S. Ryman, J. B. Faulks, W. R. Ruth, C. M. Anderson and John A. Guttridge; laymen, William Fairlie, Milton E. Blanchard, F. H. Larter, B. F. Edsall, A. P. Conant, Joseph Walker, W. W. Blanchard, J. W. Pearsall and W. H. Barnett.

Dr. Guttridge's Report.

As corresponding secretary, Dr. Guttridge presented a brief report in which he set forth what had been accomplished by the society and of the efforts now being made to enlist the co-operation of all the conferences in the increase of the endowment fund. In this connection a memorial is to be presented to the General Conference at Baltimore in May, by the Newark Conference, the purpose being to still further advance the interests of the society which undertakes the work of assisting those entitled to help from the conference.

After the singing of a hymn the session closed with the benedictian by Rev. Dr. H. A. Buttz, president of Drew Theological Seminary. It was expected that Bishop Spellmeyer would be present at the service and speak, but he was detained.

UTILITIES' BILL PASSES

Ackerman and Frelinghuysen Among Senate Majority who Keep Platform Pledges.

ASSEMBLYMAN PIERCE'S TALK.

Members of House from Union County Makes a Great Address on Utilities Measury.

The Senate has passed its own public utilities bill, the committee substitute for the Colby-Gebhardt-Robbins measures. The vote was taken yesterday afternoon at the close of a spirited debate. The vote was 17 to 3, as follows:

Colby's Odd Stand.

Yeas—Ackerman, Avis, Bradley, Brown, Cornish, Fielder, Frelinghuysen, Gebhardt, Hand, Leavitt, Minch, Plummer, Price, Robbins, Kilzer, Wakelee, Wilson. Nays—Colby, Harrison, Hinchliffe.

Before the Senate met in the afternoon the Republican Senators met in conference, but Senator Colby voted as soon as he found out that the committee substitute was to be made a canvass measure.

When the debate was opened on the Senate floor Senator Robbins explained the substitute, which does not contain any rate making working power.

Keeping Party Pledges.

Senator Frelinghuysen declared that while he was personally opposed to the measure, he would vote for it because it was incorporated in his party's platform and he believed that party pledges would be fulfilled. Senator Silzer announced that he would vote for the bill because it was the best "we can get" although he declared that it was not entirely satisfactory to him. Senator Gebhardt explained his vote in much the same manner as did Mr. Silzer.

"Graft," Says Hinchliffe.

Senator Hinchliffe was the last to speak. He handled the bill without gloves, declaring that no four men could be found capable of discharging the duties required by the commission; that it represented a foolish and needless waste of the State's money; that it was merely another evidence of the disposition to emulate New York, "the State of graft," as he characterized it; that New York's public utility commission had spent $700,000 and done nothing; and that he did not think the State had any right to examine the properties of corporations at the expense of the State. He was warmly applauded by his fellow-Senators.

Up to the House.

The Senate now has put up to the House an appointive civil service proposition and public utilities with rate working power. Both of these the House, by its action and by voice of its members, has declared not acceptable. Therefore unless there is a coicumeive or other adjustment often existing differences of opinion neither bill will be finally passed.

In the House the other day Assemblyman Carlton B. Pierce, of Union county, made a great plea for the passage of a sound public utilities bill. Assemblyman Pierce's speech follows:

Mr. Pierce's Speech.

"In the consideration of the question before the House we are dealing with one of the most important, perhaps the most important, subject of the session.

"In the little I have to say I propose to discuss the matter from two points of view, one of duty, of redeeming party pladges, and the other, which coincides in result with the first, our proper policy in the abstract as representing the people of the State.

"Take first the question of duty, of our personal obligations to redeem the pledges made in party platforms upon which we received the votes that sent us here. I can conceive of a situation, some social revolution, some new unexpected condition arising, where it would not only be proper but a duty to exercise the latent discretion vested in us and change the earlier instructions to meet the new, later, unexpected demand. But, Mr. Speaker, that is not the case.

"The subject we are considering today has not changed. It was fully discussed a year ago and party lines drawn. It was one of the important subjects of the last campaign discussion. It remains today precisely what it was then. If there is a difference of any kind in the situation it is not one of principle, but of temporary environment following a less close association with the people at large since the close of the campaign and a closer contact with interests and arguments not necessarily unfair, but seeking from supposed personal interest in neutralize the obligations of party platforms.

Party Pledges.

"But I assume these influences will be thrown aside and that we are prepared to meet our pledges and the single question is what they are.

"The Democratic State platform deals well the subject in this language:

"'We favor the establishment of a commission with ample powers for the proper regulation of steam and trolley railroads, electric light, gas, water, telegraph and telephone companies, and all other public utilities corporations.'

"The Republican State platform is stronger and in this language:

"'The party has already undertaken the question of supervision of public utility corporations, with a view of increasing the efficiency, safety and economy of service in the interests of the public. We pledge ourselves to enact a law providing for a commission with ample jurisdiction and powers to enable it to regulate such corporations effectively and authoritatively.'

Platforms Clear on Subject.

"The meaning of both platforms, in my judgment, is the same, but taking the language of the Republican platform as the basis of discussion, the question arises, What is an effective commission? 'A commission with ample jurisdiction and powers to enable it to regulate such corporation effectively and authoritatively.'

"Clearly an effective commission is a commission with power to put into effect whatever the commission shall deem just and fair. There is no limitation whatever. You will seek in vain for a suggestion that in this or that, or any other branch, the power shall be simply advisory. The pledge of power is in the broadest form—it must be 'ample' to enable the commission to regulate 'effectively and authoritatively.' Mr. Speaker, in my judgment you cannot construe that platform as permitting the exclusion of the rate-making feature. And in my judgment we stand fairly pledged to include that power in any measure we may adopt.

"Passing now to the second point of view from which I desire to discuss the subject, the point of view of the proper policy in the abstract to be adopted by the people of the State.

"In the last analysis the question at issue is whether the final word of authority shall rest with the people or with the utility companies. On that issue we will, I think, agree that the final word shall be with the people. From the people came the authority to use the public ways, from the people comes the patronage, and in the people should rest the final word whether the privileges given are fairly used.

Plea For Justice.

"But here I would not be misunderstood. On no account would I advocate a measure which I thought would or could be used to work an injustice. I would surround these companies with every possible protection. They are entitled to it. The moneys invested are not invested from humanitarian motives, but to secure a proper return, and a proper return means, not a meagre, four, five or six per cent. upon the cash invested, but a return adequate to the risk assumed and sufficient to induce further development of public service lines and corporations.

"What protection, then, shall be given them?

"We start with the constitutional guaranty, already theirs, that vested property interests shall not be impaired, injured or sacrificed. To that principle we add the personal interest of every citizen of the State, the asset of public sentiment, in favor of fair treatment and of fair, proper inducements to further development. We add the good sense of the Commission, presumably to be composed of broad-minded citizens as keenly alive as any to the best interests of the State, and finally we add the complete absolute protection of the courts through the court review provision. To leave nothing to inference, an amendment has been offered to the judiciary committee substitute, giving in direct terms an appeal to the courts.

"With all this protection, the constitutional guaranty, the presumed fairness of public sentiment, which in the end with the facts known is always fair, and finally the absolute fairness of the courts, it is impossible, in my judgment, that an injustice would ever be done a public utility corporation.

For Strongest Measure.

"The final question that arises, assuming that party pledges are to be kept, assuming that the final word of authority in disputed questions is to be with the people, assuming that we are to have genuine effective legislation, the final question is, whether we shall pass the strongest measure or the weakest.

"The answer to this seems to me to rest in common experience. It is the experience of all times, of the world, of governments, of individuals, of us all, that it is the strong hand, the strong position, the strong policy in life that gives the best results. It is the strong government that has the least trouble. It is the strong navy not that makes war, but that prevents it.

"On the same principle in the subject before us, in my judgment, the passage of the strongest measure will give the best results. The possession of power by the commission will be the best quaranty that it will not often be called into use.

"In the strongest measure you will have the best balance.

"The courts can, and will, if occasion should arise, wholly protect the companies, and the possession of adequate power in the commission will protect the public.

"For these reasons, Mr. Speaker, I shall be glad to give my vote for the Judiciary Committee substitute, with the court review amendment added."

Mrs. G. W. Lowerre, of Grandview avenue, who was badly hurt by falling down the stairs in the gallery of the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, is slowly recovering from her injuries.

Mr. Gallup in Great Choir.

Arthur Chamberlain, formerly soloist of Grace church, sang last Sunday at the First M. E. church. Carlos C. Gallup, who for several years past has been the bass soloist at the First M. E. church, has accepted a position at The Church of the Divine Paternity, Seventy-sixth street and Central Park West, New York. The music of The Church of the Divine Paternity is recognized as the highest type of church music in that city. Its quartet and octet of mixed voices contain some of the highest paid church singers in New York and its $52,000 organ, originally the gift of Andrew Carnagie, who attends this church, is regarded as one of the largest organs in the country.

To Talk of Silver Bay.

Miss Edith Nichols, a State secretary of the Y. W. C. A., will talk on "A Trip to Silver Bay," at the association tonight. The summer camp at Silver Bay is annually the scene of summer association conferences, at which the colleges are fully represented, and a series of photographs of last summer's camp is on exhibition at the association.

Miss Ruth L. Capron, of Ogdensburg, N. Y., is the guest today of Miss Lillian A. Force, of Duer street.

MILLINERY OPENING

Wednesday & Thursday, April 1 and 2

We Extend You a Cordial Invitation to Visit Our Millinery Parlors on the Above Days

Our Millinery workrooms under the direction of Miss Elizabeth H. Bartlau, have outdone all former efforts in the production of BEAUTIFUL HATS in correc new styles.

The variety of models is so comprehensive that while there are Hats suitable for the most elegant costumes, there are many others designed to exactly suit the quietly dressed women as well. All possess that distinction of character which follows the close study of models from foremost French designers and are perfect in every detail of shape and coloring.

We direct special attention to our magnificent showing of untrimmed, semi-trimmed and ready-to-wear Hats, together with Flowers, Foliage, Ostrich Plumes, Tips, Pompons, Wings, Persian Bands, Straw Braids, Crowns, Buckles, etc.

OUR AWNING AND SHADE DEPARTMENT

is prepared to figure on any kind of work you may need in those lines; we guarantee all work entrusted to us to give perfect satisfaction; we are now booking many orders; may we not have yours?

ASK FOR THE FISHER HOLDBACK

The old style holdback for blinds affords a roosting place for birds and causes ugly stains to disfigure the sides of the house under the blinds. Notice this carefully and then you will want to prevent it. No bird can roost on this.

The FISHER HOLDBACK

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Board of Freeholders has appointed a committee for the purpose of considering the advisability of adding Terrill road to the chain of county roads and macadamizing it all the way through. It would be a good thing if the Board would take the road under its supervision, as there is no road in this section which has been neglected as it has. This is partly due to the fact that the greater part of the road marks the boundary line between here and Plainfield. The result has been that neither Fanwood or Plainfield pays much attention to repairs needed to keep it in condition for travel.

The employes of Seeley's Mill have received notice that the mill will run but five days a week until further notice, work stopping Friday night. The new change in time goes into effect this week.

Miss Barbara Miller, who has been ill at Muhlenberg Hospital for several weeks with a complication of diseases, continues to improve slowly.

Suckers are running well in Green brook. Nearly every night there are several parties out "gigging," all returning with good success.

John Ford, of the borough, has purchased one of the Frentz cottages on Montague avenue, taking possession yesterday.

Mrs. George E. Hall, of Plainfield, was the guest of friends in the borough yesterday.

The usual pranks of April 1 marked All Fool's Day here yesterday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The women of the village have issued invitations to a leap-year dance to be held in Washington Hall tomorrow night.

Jerry Ten Eyck, who was injured through an accident in Plainfield September 6, is now able to take a few steps about.

Mrs. Edgar Riddle, who removed last year to Pennsylvania, is visiting Mrs. Frank Miller and Mrs. William Norman.

William Voorhees, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a stay at his farm in this village.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mundy have removed to the Springer house on Lakeside avenue.

Mrs. William Shields has returned from a lengthy stay with friends in Metuchen.

Mrs. Theodore Laing is entertaining Mrs. Frank Breece, of Metuchen.

May Sofield is visiting relatives in Plainfield.

"LUCK OF MACGREGOR" SATURDAY'S ATTRACTION

The welcome announcement is made that Edward Vroom and his great play, "The Luck of MacGregor," has been secured for a return engagement at the New Plainfield theatre for Saturday night. Here is a rare treat for those who missed the play last week. So great has been the success of "The Luck of MacGregor" that managers all over the State are endeavoring to book Mr. Vroom for a return engagement. The play is booked for New York city at Easter and only a few previous dates can be played. As Mr. Vroom returns here with his New York company and production, "The Luck of MacGregor" is certain of a packed house, and it is advisable for those who would not miss this treat to secure their seats at once.

That Mr. Vroom has placed his love story first, shows his knowledge of the interest of the theatre. The customs, the manners, dress, the spirit of the time of any epoch in our history is of interest on the stage when truthfully depicted. But the story is the thing. The sympathetic quality—heart interest, is what counts in the theatre.

In "The Luck of MacGregor" Mr. Vroom has furnished a story that gives an evening of rare enjoyment. The fortunes of a young Scotch-Irish officer of the British army who falls in love with the daughter of a Continental spy. The manner in which this handsome little rebel engages him and finally lands him in a complication that puts his own neck in the noose to save her from the scaffold, is new in plot and incident and gives many a thrill and many a laugh. MacGregor's Scotch integrity keeps the danger element in the story so alive that his Irish wit is at times hard pressed to keep the laugh above the tear.

INVITE M. E. PASTORS TO CONSIDER REFORMS.

The committee from the Reformed Church Synod of New Jersey, which is constituted to discuss and consider matters of reform, will meet at the First Baptist church tomorrow and an invitation was today extended to the Newark Conference to appoint a committee to represent that body.

The Bishop appointed Rev. Dr. Wilding, Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut and Rev. Dr. C. L. Mead to represent the conference.

CONFERENCE'S BUSY SESSION

Vincent chapel. Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut presided. The report of the secretary-treasurer, Rev. J. A. Cole, showed the balance on April 3, 1907, to be $3,783.62, and with this amount the total receipts for the year were $7,401.23. There was paid out for death claims, commissions and incidental expenses, $4,964.12, making the present net assets, $4,981.12. During the past year but two of the members have died, Bishop James N. Fitzgerald and Rev. W. H. McCormick. The present surplus is an increase of about $1,500 for the year. The present membership is 155 and four new ones were added since the last meeting. Forty-five per cent. of the members are less than fifty years of age.

Some Changes Made.

Two amendments were proposed and adopted at the meeting. The first one provides that assessments shall be payable on May 1 and every four months thereafter in each year and if any member fails to pay his assessment within thirty days a penalty of $1 for each additional week or fraction thereof shall be added to his assessment until ten weeks shall have elapsed at the end of which time his policy shall be forfeited and may not be restored except upon the payment of the above penalty and presentation of a satisfactory certificate of health from a physician. There shall be no forfeiture of membership in the association for any other cause than non-payment of assessments.

Another Amendment.

The second amendment provides that the assessment upon each member shall be twenty-five cents for each year of his age at joining the association and it then divides the members onto classes A, B and C according to their ages. The reason for this amendment is that experience makes it evident that the amount paid in by members of class A as it stood was too small for the risk the association assumed. It is the belief that the change will not work any hardship as most young men within five years reach a degree of support in the conference which enables them to pay full assessments and only a small minority of new members are under the age of 31 years when they join.

Officers Elected.

These officers were elected for the coming year: President, Rev. Dr. Daniel Halleron; vice-president, Rev. Frederick Bloom; secretary-treasurer, Rev. J. A. Cole; directors, term expires 1908, Rev. J. B. Faulks, Rev. C. L. Mead, Rev. L. C. Muller, Rev. C. F. Sitterly; term expires 1909, Rev. J. R. Wright, Rev. Charles R. Barnes, Rev. J. O. Sparnon, Rev. R. B. Urmy; term expires 1910, Rev. H. B. Leech, Rev. W. R. Neff, Rev. R. K. Boyd, Rev. J. L. Hurlbut.

WM. J. BRYAN TO BE GOV. FORT'S GUEST

William Jennings Bryan will be the guest of Governor John Franklin Fort at luncheon at Trenton on Monday, April 13.

He will receive later in the day with Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., former Mayor of Trenton, and last year's Democratic candidate for Governor, at the rooms of the Democratic League.

The Legislature took no action on Bryan's visit, as it is not certain that the session will be continued after the 9th.

Governor Fort's invitation to the "Commoner" for luncheon was telegraphed to him late yesterday.

Edward A. Whittier, of the Progressive Democratic League, engineered the Bryan trip to New Jersey. He says it is the league's desire to get the Nebraskan here on April 22 as well.

Groszmann School Anniversary.

Yesterday, April 1, was the eighth anniversary of the founding of the Groszmann School at Watchung Crest and the teachers and pupils at the school celebrated the occasion by the planting of an evergreen tree in front of the building. Dr. M. P. E. Groszmann, principal of the school, put the first shovel-full of earth about the roots of the tree, near which has been placed a granite stone, bearing the date "1908." It is planned to plant a similar tree, with a similar markstone, on every anniversary day of the school. Among the speakers of the occasion were W. H. Groszmann and Daniel Norton, a lad from Idaho, one of the pupils. In the evening there was an informal reception by Dr. and Mrs. Groszmann at their home, largely for the faculty of the school. Jonas Lie, a former pupil at the school, made an address to which Dr. Groszmann responded.

Fair Heir in Newark.

Frank P. Smith, of Plane street, Newark, is another claimant to the Fair millions. He has begun suit against Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, for one-seventh of the estate.

—E. S. Brokaw removed today from East Fifth street to Grove street.

Miss Ida Neighbor, of Middle Valley, is visiting at the home of her cousin, Mrs. William Wyman, of East Front street.

OLD SURVEY MAPS HELP ROAD EXTENSION SCHEME

Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield, has located an old survey map of the district to be crossed by the proposed extension of Watchung avenue to Somerset street, outside the borough limits and has also found out that Mrs. Anna Miles, who thirteen years ago owned property just outside the borough limits, gave the right of way over her land for the extension of the roadway.

The Mayor communicated with County Clerk Anderson, of Somerville, today, for the purpose of finding out if this right of way is still legal and ascertaining whether other property owners between the borough limits and Somerset street did not make similar concessions of land for the proposed thoroughfare, which was agitated thirty-two years ago, and again about fifteen years ago.

A search among the old survey maps prepared by A. Onderdonk and at present filed at Street Commissioner Gavett's office, revealed the survey map of the territory to be crossed by the road, and will prove a saving of expense to the borough and to the Board of Freeholders, who have been urged by the North Plainfield government to take up the matter of building the road.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Thrown from a wagon in a runaway at Broadway and Morgan streets, Camden, yesterday, Charles Wright, twenty-five years old, was badly injured.

Falling against a stove in her home, at Palmyra, Bertha Reed, six years old, was so severely burned yesterday that she was removed to the Homeopathic Hospital, in Camden.

Agustus Smith, who was severely burned at her home, in Camden, about a month ago, has been removed to the county hospital at Blackwood, as the case developed symptoms of tetanus.

Doctors at the Burlington County Hospital yesterday amputated the right arm of Thomas Leyden, who was injured at the Riverside trolley car barn. He lost his left arm at the time of the accident.

John Ruhland, a painter, of Gloucester City, who fell from a roof at Newton avenue and Broadway, while he was engaged in painting it on March 14, died on Sunday at Cooper Hospital as the result of his injuries.

Wishing to no longer conceal their marriage from their parents and friends, Robert Brady, of Atlantic City, and Miss Nora Simmerman, of Pleasantville, have admitted that they have been married since last October. The ceremony was performed at Moorestown by the Methodist pastor when the young couple were there on a visit.

Bald for thirty years, Henry Gilbert, seventy-eight years old, of Columbus, Cumberland county, has a new head of hair. He lost his hair as the result of a fever, and for ten years tried all sorts of tonics, but without avail. The new hair is dark in color, with just a trace of gray, and Gilbert looks a quarter of a century younger.

Tony Bronus, night gateman at the Glassboro road railroad crossing in Woodbury, was held up Sunday night by three foreigners, who entered his shanty and demanded his money. The men flourished revolvers, and Tony gave up $10 in cash and a watch. Special Officer Cathcart chased the men, but they escaped.

Harry Truman, of 804 Pine street, Camden, had his thigh and arms torn by a dog yesterday while serving papers. The boy was taken to his home and his injuries were dressed. The police were notified, and as the dog was killed later in the day a complaint made against the owner was withdrawn.

Leonard Doyefere, thirty-four years old, of 24 George street, Camden, while working on the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's elevated tracks in Camden, came in contact with the third rail and was badly burned about the forearms and hands. He was taken to Cooper Hospital.

William T. Knapp, an old resident of Hackensaek, died yesterday at his home from an overdose of laudanum. He had been suffering from insomina for some time, and had used the drug for relief. Mr. Knapp was in the wholesale liquor business with his brothers, in Washington and West streets, in New York city.

The body found in the Delaware river at Camden on Sunday was identified yesterday as that of James Toner, of 111 Hoffman street, who had gone to sleep on a wharf and fallen overboard. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental drowning, and Harry Clayton, who was arrested as a witness, was released.

Circuit Court Judge Endicott and a jury heard testimony yesterday in Camden in the suit of Albert Bracey against the Camden Coke Works to recover $10,000 damages for the loss of a leg. The accident occurred in May, 1906, at the coke plant, where he was employed in the operation of one of the crushing machines. The corporation asserts that Bracey would not have lost his leg had he exercised due diligence.

While occupying a cell in the police station at Passaic yesterday Peter Setlak, a religious maniac, gave a remarkable exhibition of removing handcuffs. The man was violent when brought in, and his arms were secured behind his back. While the chief of police's back was turned Setlak muttered a short prayer, and the next instant his hands were freed and he was laughing hysterically. He repeated the performance several times.

Rolling from the hill on which the Jersey City High School stands, a rock weighing a half ton, supposed to have been dislodged by a passing West Shore freight train, crashed into a crowded Pavonia avenue trolley car last night. A shower of broken glass descended on the passengers. None was seriously hurt, but Miss Lucy Harney, of 286 Pavonia avenue, a public school teacher, suffered so from shock that she had to be assisted to her home. A hole was made in the side of the car.

Chancellor to Give a Dinner.

In honor of the promotion of Mahlon Pitney from justice of the Supreme Court to Chancellor, his brother, John O. Pitney, will give a dinner Saturday evening, April 11, at the Morris County Golf Club. Governor Fort and all of the State officials have been invited to the dinner, and this will be the first time that Chancellor Pitney has appeared at a public function since his appointment. It will be the official social debut of the Chancellor.

Put This Stove in Your Kitchen

It is wonderfully convenient to do kitchen work on a stove that's ready at the instant wanted, and out of the way the moment you're done. Such a stove is the New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove. By using it you avoid the continuous overpowering heat of a coal fire and cook with comfort, even in dog-days. The is so constructed that it cannot add perceptibly to the heat of a room; the flame being directed up a retaining chimney to the stove top where it is needed for cooking. You can see that a stove sending out heat in but one direction would be preferable on a hot day to a stove radiating heat in all directions. The "New Perfection" keeps a kitchen uniformly comfortable. Three sizes, fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning April 5, 1908.
By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Songs of the heart.—IV. The men whom God accepts.—Ps. xxiv.

The Twenty-fourth Psalm was sung in connection with the entering of the people into the gates of Jerusalem at the time of the annual feast of the passover. God is first described; then follows a description of the Old Testament ideal man, and the climax is the call to open the gates that the King of Glory may come in. Our topic deals with the ideal man or the man whom God accepts. In the Old Testament ideal he is the man who is morally upright. In the New Testament he is the man to whom righteousness has been imputed through the Lord Jesus Christ. The characteristics are practically the same in both cases; the difference is in the way they are obtained.

The man whom God accepts is described in the fourth verse.

1. He is the "man that hath clean hands." This refers to the outward life of the man. Clean hands stand for a clean outward life. God is a perfectly holy being, and we cannot imagine any one being acceptable to Him whose life is not what it ought to be. The man who leads a wicked and sinful life cannot expect to find favor in God's sight. Noah found favor in the sight of God because in the midst of a wicked and sinful generation he still lived a righteous life. In an age of gross atheism and idolatry Abraham found grace in the sight of God because his faith in God was constant and firm, and "his faith was imputed unto him for righteousness." James says, "The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." Righteousness is necessary to acceptance to God. The outward life must be straight before God will hear us or look upon us with favor.

2. The man who finds favor with God must have "a pure heart." He must be clean without and pure within. These two elements of life go together and make a man's life what it is. A pure heart assures a righteous life, and the two together cause a man to find grace and acceptance before God. "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God."

3. Humility is a grace that leads to acceptance with God. "Who hath not lifted up his heart to vanity nor sworn deceitfully." Pride that leads to falseness in words or in life is despised of God. He hates the proud, but receives the humble. The Pharisee who extolled himself was unacceptable, while the publican who humbly confessed his sins was justified.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. v, 21-23; vi, 8; xii, 1-5; I Sam iii, 1-10; Isa. i, 1-6; Ps. li, 16-19; Lev. xi, 41-45; John xvii, 15-19; Rom. xv, 1-6; Heb. xii, 14-17.

Then and Now.

"Payson and Clark" is the title of an article in the Congregationalist which will greatly interest every Christian Endeavorer. It is by Rev. Robert Whitaker of Oakland, Cal., and contrasts two preachers of Portland, Me., Dr. Edward Payson and Dr. Clark. The contrast is especially interesting now, since Dr. Payson was born 100 years ago.

"No two men," says Mr. Whitaker, "illustrate better than Payson and Clark the contrast between the old faith and the new, the piety of yesterday and the righteousness of today. Payson's introspective piety could not do for him nor for the world what the upward, Christward look of Christian Endeavor and of all the wiser faith of our time is capable of doing for men.

"Precisely because Payson's piety was excessively introspective Payson was generally far from being a happy man. Nothing is more characteristic of Christian Endeavor than its cheerfulness.

"We can afford to remember with the centenary of Payson's pastorate much that is vital and abiding in Payson's personality and preaching. It would do most of us good to read the story of his life and a few of his sermons. But we have a right to rejoice in our living leaders and in a living faith which, while holding fast to that which was good in the piety of our fathers, lays hold of a better understanding of our Lord, slain indeed, but also risen and glorified. There is still need of piety toward God, but thank God for the new emphasis upon the fellowship of faith, upon righteousness between man and man."

Strenuousness.

Our name Christian Endeavor suggests strenuousness. There is a touch of the military life about it, a sound as of the bugle blast. If any have entered the ranks, like the little boy, unwilling to do the fighting they have enlisted in the wrong army and will soon prove deserters, for the test will prove too severe, and only brave, gallant fighters will keep the ranks, scatter the enemy and win the glory crown. May the ranks of our Endeavor army be filled with those who move on to victory!

Since I must fight if I would reign,
Increase my courage, Lord.
I'll bear the cross, endure the shame,
Supported by Thy word.

—Miss Elsie Fisk in Irish Endeavorer.

Aim of Endeavorers.

It ought to be the aim of all true Endeavorers to "lift" those whom they touch day by day, but this can only be done as there is power flowing into us from God Himself. Unless we are in close touch with the Master and have His grace and divine influence flowing in us and through us we shall not succeed in raising either our church, our societies or our companions.—Rev. F. J. Horsefield in Irish Endeavorer.

THE ESCAPADE

A POST MARITAL ROMANCE

By Cyrus Townsend Brady

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY

"Lord Strathgate is going to fight a duel with Lord Carrington. Let us go out and stop it."

"We can't," answered Ellen. "'Tis impossible."

"Are you going to lie here and watch them kill each other?" asked Deborah, to whom the situation did not present itself as it did to Ellen.

"There's nothing else I can do," returned Ellen. "Don't you see if they were here, they would simply take us away and continue the fight, and if we came out now, it would appear as if we had been with Lord Strathgate. It would unsettle Bernard so—"

"Oh!" said Deborah, turning to look closely at her wretched comrade.

What she saw moved her to instant pity. She drew closer to Ellen and reached her arm around the other's neck.

"My poor girl!" she murmured, kissing her softly.

"There's only one thing we can do, Debbie," whispered Ellen.

"What's that?"

"We can pray that no harm will come to my lord."

Her under lip trembled piteously as she buried her face in her hands. It was a strange prayer—what strange prayers we make in hours of distress!—an appeal to God that one of the two men about to battle for life might be spared. There was no thought of the necessary inference from the prayer, and in Ellen's distracted mind she did not even think to pray that the duel itself might be stopped. She poured out her whole soul in anguished petition that Carrington, whom she loved, might come to no hurt, and in that petition with less fervency, but with true Puritan zeal, Debbie unhesitatingly joined. What would Elder Brewster say, she thought, if he could see her now praying for one duelist, when both, in accordance with her iron creed, would be equally guilty?*

The course of the prayers was broken by Blythedale's voice.

"Here they come!" he cried, a note of relief and pleasure in his speech. "Yonder."

He pointed to a carriage slowly making its way across the drive.

"How will they know how to get here?"

"I have stationed men who will fetch them."

"The carriage has stopped. Yes, here they are."

(*Note—Think Elder Brewster died a century before this time.)

Instantly, as Parkman, followed by Carrington, appeared on the scene, Blythedale lost his languor. Carrington stopped at the edge of the clearing. Strathgate immediately turned and walked to the opposite side. Parkman and Blythedale ceremoniously approached each other. All the punctilios of such an occasion were most scrupulously regarded. The gentlemen doffed their hats and bowed most profoundly. Then they chatted awhile in the gravest and most solemn manner.

"I suppose," said Blythedale, more because it was proper and customary than because he had the slightest idea that it could be brought about, "that no accommodation of this quarrel is possible?"

"None, my lord," returned Parkman.

"Your principal, of course, is not disposed to apologize for the insulting epithets he applied to mine," continued Blythedale.

"It is so far out of the question," answered Parkman, "that if he had a chance, he would repeat them with such added emphasis as reflection might enable him to give."

"Very well," returned Blythedale.

"And I am instructed by my principal," continued Parkman, ceremoniously, "to say that no apology of any sort,

Strathgate Attacked as Furiously as Ever.

if he should be pleased to make any, would be entertained by Lord Carrington from Lord Strathgate."

Blythedale laughed.

"That goes without saying," he answered, "but there's no need for us to get embroiled in the affair personally, Parkman."

The two were old acquaintances.

"Certainly not, Blythedale. So we had better proceed to business. You've brought swords, I see."

"A pair of my own. Andrew Ferrara steel. They have been used a great many times in little affairs of honor like this, and there isn't a hair's breadth of difference between them. Still, you may have your choice."

Parkman took the two swords and turned to Carrington. The latter examined them carefully, tested them, weighed them, and finally selected one. Parkman returned with the other, which he handed to Blythedale.

"I suppose," said Blythedale, "there's nothing now but to let them go at it."

"Nothing," answered Parkman.

"You will give the word, Parkman, and we will both see fair play."

"Very well," answered Parkman. "I take it we are to interpose the moment one or the other is wounded."

"By no means," said Carrington, who had drawn nearer and who had heard this last suggestion. "It is my desire that you will not interfere so far as I am concerned until one or the other of us is—incapable of continuing the fight. Unless, of course, Lord Strathgate desires different arrangements."

"Blythedale," said Strathgate, sharply, "you may say that Lord Strathgate is entirely satisfied with any proposition which may be made."

"Very well, gentlemen," said Blythedale, much amazed at this very unusual interference of the principals in an affair of this kind. "You may take your positions. You will first take off your coats, waistcoats and shoes. It is a mere matter of form, but I shall have to inspect you, Lord Carrington, and Lieutenant Parkman will have the same privilege with my principal."

At the word the two men divested themselves of their coats, swords and waistcoats, which Dr. Nevinson kindly picked up and piled on the edge of the clearing out of the way. They kicked off their shoes, too, and stood forth in their stocking feet, in shirts and trousers. Blythedale rapidly ran his hand across the body of Carrington to see that he had on no illegal garment which might turn or ward a blow.

"You have a locket there, my lord," he said, stopping in his search.

"I had forgotten it," said Carrington, turning crimson.

He reached his hand up, unbuttoned his collar, drew forth the locket, and handed it to Dr. Nevinson. It contained a picture of his wife. Ellen recognized it as one she had given him in the early days of their married life. Parkham's inspection of the other combatant had developed nothing.

"I presume," said Strathgate, with an evil laugh, "that the victor takes the locket and the lady."

"This," began Parkman, his face flushing at the insult, "is most unusual and improper, and I appeal to you, Lord Blythedale."

"You're right, Parkman. Damn ye, Strathgate!" cried Blythedale, hot and angry, "I never heard of such conduct. Another remark like that and I refuse to act in your behalf. You have your man where you want him, before your sword's point. You can let that talk for you in the future."

"Give yourself no concern as to what Lord Strathgate says, Parkman," said Carrington, coolly. "He hasn't much time to talk, and I'm disposed to let him enjoy his remaining opportunities to the full."

How grand and noble looked my lord in crouching Ellen's eyes then!

Strathgate did not seem quite so pleased with himself as he had been when he made the unlucky remark.

"Are you ready, gentlemen?" said Blythedale, looking from one to the other.

"Ready!" said Strathgate, stepping lightly forward with upraised sword.

Carrington said nothing, but grimly came to position.

"My principal desires no saluting," said Parkman, stepping between the two men.

"Very good, we are satisfied," returned Blythedale. "Lieutenant Parkman will give the word 'Engage,' and after that ye may go at it when ye will."

Blythedale drew his own sword and stepped near the two combatants, facing each other for all the world like two tigers waiting to spring at each other's throats. Parkman also whipped out his sword and took position opposite Blythedale. The doctor straightened up and peered curiously at the little group.

Ellen's heart stopped its beating. She and Deborah lay side by side as close as they could get staring through the leaves.

Parkman looked from one to the other. Strathgate had a little smile upon his lips. He bore himself gallantly. There was no denying that. His air was one of indifference, as if he were slightly bored by the proceeding, although his eyes were shining. Carrington, on the contrary, was very pale. His lips were compressed, his brow wrinkled. He looked the personification of determination and in his eyes, too, was a light.

The two men stood up, each with his sword turned downward, the point resting on his right foot, which was slightly advanced and at right angles to the left foot. Each man had his left hand behind his back.

Parkman drew a long breath and cried sharply:

"Engage!"

On the instant two flashes of light split the air. The next moment there was a sharp ring of steel, and the men stood facing each other with knees bent, right arms extended, left arms lifted high and the two blades pressing like stone walls.

"Pray now, Debbie," whispered Ellen, "as you never prayed before!"

This time neither woman hid her face. The prayers were all in the heart. Save for that ejaculation not a lip moved between them. They stared as the bird charmed by the snake stares at his tormentor.

Carrington was a stronger man than Strathgate. He had lived in the gay world at times, as the other had, but there had been long periods on the sea. He had gained a power of wrist that the other trembled to feel as the blade pressed heavily against his own. But battles with swords are not necessarily gained by strength of arm. The victory is not always to the strong, sometimes it goes to the swift.

With incredible quickness Strathgate engaged his point and lunged desperately forward. Carrington parried with all the swiftness of which he was capable, and just managed to ward the blow. The blade of his adversary's sword ripped trough the side of his shirt, but no blood followed the thrust. He had escaped unharmed.

Strathgate smiled.

"The next time!" he said softly to himself under his breath.

The next instant he warded easily a furious return attack by Carrington, and thereafter for perhaps a minute there followed a succession of thrusts and parries with marvelous agility.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Salisbury's pictures followed by amateur numbers will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. The amateur bill is one of the strongest Manager Counihan has yet arranged.

George Sidney, the funny little comedian, who gave to the stage an entirely new and genuinely funny Hebrew character, has a new comedy vehicle this season, entitled "Busy Izzy's Boodle" and it has already proven one of the brighest musical novelties. Over a hundred clever comedians, embracing some of the leading comedy artists of the profession, assist "Izzy" in his new creation. Extraordinary efforts and lavish expenditures have been made by the management in this season's production, and the best and most talented directors have been employed in weaving together this pot-pourri of music, song and jollity, richly embellished with new and special scenery, handsome gowns and a big chorus. "Busy Izzy's Boodle" will come to the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night as the ushers' annual benefit.

FEAR ANOTHER OUTRAGE.

Franklin Furnace Inhabitants In Dread Since Store Was Wrecked by Explosives.

Newton, April 2.—Dwellers in Franklin Furnace are living in dread of a repetition of the outrage of Saturday night, when Maurice Fougleson's store was partially demolished by explosives by some person as yet unidentified. Revenge is the only motive which can be assigned for the act. Watches have been kept in many homes for the past two or three nights.

Sheriff Judson K. Gunn spent the greater part of yesterday in Franklin, continuing his investigations. A piece of burned miner's fuse, about six inches long, was found in the wreckage of the store, and the authorities believe that giant powder was the explosive used. There was a great demand for window glass yesterday. Postmaster David W. McCarthy set men at work to replace the broken panes in his office, most of which were blown out, as well as neighboring stores and dwellings. Sheriff Gunn intimated last night that he had a clue as to the perpetrator of the outrage. No indications exist that burglary was intended, as there is no property reported missing.

Senate to Dine Governor Fort.

A committee composed of President Hillery, chairman, and Senators Colby and Hinchliffe, has been named to arrange for a dinner to be tendered Governor Fort by the Senate after the adjournment of Legislature. The committee is considering June 16 as the most convenient date. The Plaza Hotel in New York will probably be selected as the place.

SCHOOLBOYS WIN AGAIN

P. H. S. Aggregation Trims Mono A. C. in the Last Inning, 3-2.

THE FINAL PRACTISE GAME.

School Squad of Players in the Last Workout Before De Witt Clinton Game Saturday.

For the second time this season, the Plainfield High School triple trio of ball-tossers triumphed over the Mono A. C. nine in a practise game at Crescent Oval yesterday afternoon, winning out in the ninth by a score of 3-2. The High School team used thirteen players in the game, for Captain Murphey was anxious to give the most likely of the candidates on the squad a tryout before the opening of the regular season Saturday afternoon.

The run making began in the first inning, when Bird scored the first tally for the Monos. In their second session with the stick, Doane and Dodwell, of the P. H. S. nine, scored when the Mono left fielder dropped a deep fly. Conway scored on a bungling play in the fourth, and things were even up until the ninth. In this session Lidgate hit safe and stole around, winning the game for the schoolboys when he came in on Dey's sacrifice.

The High School boys used their entire squad of pitchers in the course of the game, Murphey, Van Zandt and Foster each having a few innings on the slab. Murphey proved the most effective. Dodge of the Monos, fanned twelve of the opposing batsmen, and the nine hit safely five times. The schoolboys proved weak with the stick, netting four singles, which Dodge kept well scattered. But a single error was scored against P. H. S., while the Monos had five tallied against them.

THE FORUM.

NEED OF FIRE PROTECTION.

Editor, The Daily Press:

In the past few months there has been an expenditure of $60,000 in the centre of the city, seeming to those familiar with the condition of affairs and cognizant of the needs of the outskirts of this same city almost a needless waste of money. Had a few of these thousands been used for improvements in the west end the two houses which were burned on Ann street, east of Rock avenue, early Monday morning, might, and, in all probability would, have been saved.

About a year ago a petition signed by people owning homes and living in this locality asking for lights, water plugs, and the macadamizing of, at least, West Third street to the city line, was laid before the City Council, read, passed over to the street committee and presumably consigned by them to oblivion as it has not since been heard from. Had the very reasonable requests in this petition been granted the fire engine being so hastily and generously driven to the scene of the above mentioned fire undoubtedly would not have arrived too late. As conditions are, when it was within 1500 feet of the fire it was brought to an abrupt stop on West Third street, forced to turn, retrace its way to Clinton avenue, out Front street to Rock avenue, out Rock avenue to the fire, making the distance fully a mile farther. In this same section between Clinton and Rock avenues there are no less than thirty houses which have absolutely no fire protection.

We are all aware how promptly the city responded to the demands—not requests—of the wealthy and aristocratic east end after fire in that section which partly destroyed the residence of a citizen fully able to meet the loss incurred. We are not working against the wealthy residents neither denying their rights, but in common justice we do claim the city should do the same for the poorer tax payers of the west end, who to our personal knowledge have in most instances placed all their hard earned savings in their homes, consequently the home gone they lose all. These same tax payers without any of the improvements, conveniences and protection extended to those of either the wealthy or more central districts are paying the same amount of taxes per thousand and strictly speaking more when the disadvantages and inconveniences they are compelled to endure are considered: High taxes, high insurance, bad streets, not one of which can be driven with any but light loads west of Monroe avenue, no lights, snow knee deep in winter, not even a snow plow to make walking easier, no schools, no water unless the people lay their own individual pipes—and some have done so—the water company claiming it will not pay it to lay pipes unless the city will take hydrants.

Despite all these detractions people are still building there, evidently under the conviction that changed conditions must come to them. The fact that they had ought to come and come soon would seem to be very patent to any one giving the subject even a moment's thought. We would respectfully suggest that at least two fire hydrants be at once placed on West Third street, between Clinton and Rock avenues, thus affording some slight protection.

The property owners of this section are nearly all hard working, law-abiding people, submitting to many privations in order that they may own their own homes. This winter, with its stringency in the money market, has been especially trying for them and a loss such as Mr. Burke met with on Monday morning is very disheartening.

Fair play to all, and we hope the Mayor and Council of our beautiful city will soon—and to some purpose—take under advisement the imperative needs of this section.

AMERICAN WORKINGMEN.

Editor, The Daily Press:

In the New York Times of March 30, announcement was made that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company had ordered that none but American workmen, those who were citizens or who had taken out their first papers should hereafter be employed by it, in any of its departments.

As an American, and a well wisher of all that tends to aid America and the American workman, I, for one, say let this good work go on. Why should our large employers of labor, both skilled and unskilled, pay their money to men who have not and do not intend becoming citizens of this country. Would it not be far better for our general welfare and the future of our American workmen and our children, the workmen of the next generation, that the great industrial institutions of this country employ none but American citizens.

By so doing would not the standard of the men found in our factories, stores and other workshops. On our steamships and railroads be of a much higher character, not only morally, but physically and intellectually.

Then the great flood of the undesirable and rot of the old world finding that they are not wanted by the employers of this country, would not come here to drive out the hard working, clean, moral, intelligent, home-loving and law abiding American workmen.

Strikes would be no more, and the questions arising between labor and capital would be determined by recourse to arbitration and not to the bomb and other violence.

With employers demanding that all employes shall be citizens, the adopting and enforcing of still more stringent naturalization laws and laws regulating immigration, a great stride will have been taken toward improving the condition of the American workman and in abating the so-called race suicide.

The Plainfield Board of Trade is carrying display advertisements of "The City Beautiful" in all the leading Metropolitan papers, notably the New York Herald. This campaign of publicity will continue for some time to come and it is now up to the local real estate agents to take advantage of the progressive spirit displayed by the Board. Real estate advertisements, of all sorts, will be received at The Daily Press office for the New York Herald and all other Metropolitan dailies at the regular office rates. Advertisements intended for Sunday should be in The Daily Press office before tomorrow noon to insure good position.

OPPOSED TO MORE AUTO LEGISLATION.

State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles J. B. R. Smith has sent a report to Governor Fort, in which he urges that the Legislature this year take action in further regulating the running of automobiles in this State, except the enactment into law of the points which the autoists and their opponents have agreed on; viz., increase of the license registration fees, a greater number of inspectors and a better method of identification of license holders.

Mr. Smith shows that there is no demand for separation of his department from the office of the secretary of State, except the demand from designing politicians that more places may be made for favorites as a reward for political services. He puts forward figures to show that the department can be more economically administered where it now is. The department collected and turned in for road repair $85,694.87 last year.

Flags to Be Returned.

The House has passed the Senate concurrent resolution to return the Confederate flags to the Southern veterans with opposition from South Jerseymen, who wanted the emblems given to Grand Army posts.

MISS E. C. SMITH A BRIDE

Sister of Frank H. Smith Becomes the Wife of Dr. Charles M. Burdick.

REV. DR. LEWIS OFFICIATES.

Ceremony at Home of the Bride's Parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus H. Smith, Attended by Many Friends.

The first of the local early spring weddings was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus S. Smith, of Madison avenue, last night, when their daughter, Miss Ernestine Curtis Smith, became the wife of Charles Milton Burdick, M. D., son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther C. Burdick, of Lowville, N. Y. There were about a hundred guests present and the affair ranks as one of the prettiest of home weddings.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, formerly pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and the Episcopal form of service was used. Rings were exchanged. The bridal party stood in the parlor, which decorators had transformed into a veritable floral bower by the use of white carnations and Easter lillies banked against masses of palms, which were effectively used in decoration throughout the entire lower floor. The bridesmaids and ushers came downstairs, passing to the dining room where they were joined by the bride, matron-of-honor and Mr. Smith, who gave his daughter in marriage. The party proceeded to the parlor, where the groom and best man stood at the altar.

The bride was gowned in white pule de Cygne, en train, made Princess style, and her veil was caught up with orange blossoms, the gift of a friend in California. She carried a handsome bouquet of white roses and lillies of the valley. Miss Lillian A. Force, of the borough, and Miss Ruth L. Capron, of Ogdensburg, N. Y., a cousin of the bride, acted as bridesmaids. They wore white silk batiste, over Nile green taffeta, trimmed with Valencennes lace. The gowns were made Empire style, and the two carried bouquets of pink Enchantress carnations. Mrs. Frank H. Smith, wife of County Registrar Frank H. Smith, who is a brother of the bride, was matron-of-honor. She wore Nile green silk, trimmed with white Fillet lace, and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas. The best man was Albert C. Burdick, of Lowville, N. Y., brother of the groom, and the ushers were County Registrar Frank H. Smith and Asa Fitz Randolph.

An impressive feature of the ceremony was the singing of the bridal chorus, "Faithful and True," from Lohengrin. This was rendered by a quartet composed of Mrs. John B. Cottrell, Mrs. J. E. Kimball, David E. Titsworth and William J. Tallamy. Arthur L. Titsworth was the accompanist. The words of the wedding march follow:

"Faithful and true we lead ye forth, where love triumphant shall crown ye with joy!
Star of renown, flow'r of the earth, blest
be ye both, far from all life's annoy.
Champion victorious, go thou before!
Maid bright and glorious, go thou before!
Mirth's noisy revel ye have forsaken,
Tender delights for you now awaken!
Fragrant abode enshrine ye in bliss,
Splendor and state in joy ye dismiss,
Faithful and true we lead ye forth, where love triumphant shall crown ye with joy.
Star of renown, flow'r of the earth, blest
be ye both, far from all life's annoy!"

The groom's gift to the bride was a heart-shaped brooch, set with emeralds and diamonds. The bridesmaids and the matron-of-honor received silver card cases, inscribed with their monagrams, and the groom's gifts to his ushers were pearl stick pins. At the conclusion of the ceremony, a collation was served by Russ, of Elizabeth, and music was furnished by Carpenter's orchestra. The decorations were by Mrs. L. J. Denton, and the general color scheme of the wedding was green and white.

Dr. Burdick is a physician at the St. Lawrence State Hospital at Ogdensburg, N. Y. He was graduated from Williams College in the class of 1895, and from the Buffalo Medical College five years later. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa society at Williams. The bride is well known in city and borough, where she has a host of friends. The couple will be at home at the St. Lawrence Hospital after May first.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. H. B. Putnam, nee Miss Ella Titsworth, of Troy, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Burdick, A. C. Burdick, Master Charles Burdick, a nephew of the groom, and Charles Stephens, of Lowville, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Hardy, of Brooklyn, and Mr. and Mrs. Alberto Buccini, of New York.

WE MAY HAVE TUNNELS--- SO TRADE BOARD HEARS

The regular meeting of the Board of Trade ws held last night but owing to the absence of President Marshall and several conflicting affairs, no business of importance was transacted. B. F. Coriell was in the chair.

Secretary A. S. Herr, who was appointed a committee of one at the previous session to confer with railway men and others in New York to learn if a tunnel under the Hudson to connect with the New Jersey Central was contemplated, reported that he had talked with Mayor Fisk. He was told that there is a possible chance of an undertaking of this kind being started within three years. William Jeffery, of Berkeley Heights, attended the meeting and asked that the Board have a delegation at the dinner of the New Jersey Real Estate men at the Park Avenue Hotel, New York, on April 25. The matter was taken under advisement.

M. A. Rose, a local real estate man, submitted a proposition to the Board to have an advertisement setting forth Plainfield's advantages placed on a huge sign board he has had erected on his Watchung avenue building and which faces the railroad. He offered to contribute the space gratis and by vote it was decided to let President Marshall appoint a committee to consider the matter in detail.

Communications were received from the Boards of Trade in several cities asking that the local board express its approval of Congressman Fowler's currency measure as compared with the Aldrich measure.

The application of Edward Hardingham for membership was acted upon favorably.

PLAINFIELD AUDIENCE HEARS FRANCIS ROGERS

The song recital given at the home of Mrs. George A. Beaton, of West Seventh street, yesterday afternoon, by Francis Rogers, the famous baritone, and Joseph McIntyre, who was at the piano, was a noteworthy musical event. It was the first appearance of Mr. Rogers here and he was greeted by an audience that occupied every available bit of space in the handsome residence. He was in fine voice and for over an hour he charmed all with the sweetness and complete mastery of his selections.

The whole program was devoted to numbers by Mr. Rogers, and they afforded an exceptional opportunity for a display of his vocal talent. In the first group were six little songs by Robebrt Franz, in German, and the second group comprised four French songs, while seven numbers of old and modern composition were given under the third grouping and with the rendition of the final selection, "Rolling Down to Rio" (Kipling), Mr. Rogers generously responded to the single encore of the afternoon. Mr. Rogers' work was of the highest possible character and all were delighted with his singing.

Mr. McIntyre, at the piano, shared the honors of the afternoon. As an accompanist for the great artist, he displayed that rare genius which has characterized his work in the past and he received equal praise with the singer in the generous applause bestowed by the audience. The second recital will be given Thursday, April 9, at the home of Mrs. J. P. Stevens, when Paul Dufault and Mr. McIntyre will present a program of a classical character.

FORMAL CHARGES PREFERRED AGAINST ALBERT JAEGAR.

Harry Berlowitz, the special policeman felled by a stone Wednesday night, was resting easily this morning and according to Dr. A. K. Brennan will soon be on the road to recovery. The blow he received on the back of the head did not fracture the skull but caused a slight concussion of the brain. As yet Berlowitz has made no statement of the facts leading up to the occurrence.

At police headquarters this morning, Chief Kiely preferred a formal charge of atrocious assault and battery against Albert Jaegar, the stone thrower, and he will be arraigned tomorrow. He has been locked up since he was first arrested as Judge Runyon declared he would not fix bail until he was fully satisfied of the outcome of Berlowitz's injuries. The injured man was not on duty at the time he was struck but exercised his authority as a special policeman in ordering the gang of boys at Spooner avenue and Third street to cease annoying a storekeeper.

—The West End chemical engine was sent out last night in response to a still alarm for a chimney fire at the home of John Schmidt, 922 West Third street. A couple of extinguishers stopped the trouble.

TO FORM A G.O.P. CLUB

Plainfield Republicans to Effect Organization at Casino on Thursday, April 9.

ALL LOCAL VOTERS TO JOIN.

No Factionalism and No Booms for Candidates—Proposition Is Endorsed By the Leaders.

As chairman of the Union County Republican committee, Frank H. Smith has mailed postal cards to every Republican voter in Plainfield, calling for a meeting for the purpose of organizing the Plainfield Republican club. It is planned to effect organization at the Casino on Thursday night, April 9.

Mayor C. J. Fisk, Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell, City Clerk James T. MacMurray, together with prominent "New Idea" men, are back of the movement, the announced purpose of which is to solidify all factions.

It will not be the purpose of the new organization to boom any particular man for office, but to work in harmony for the best interests of the party.

Summit, Rahway and Elizabeth have prosperous clubs, and the aim is to have an active association in every city, town and crossroads in the county. The clubs at Roselle, Cranford and Westfield will be revived, and others will be started just as soon as possible in other places, including Springfield, New Providence, Fanwood and other places.

Suitable club rooms, it is understood, will be engaged and it is hoped to have the charter membership include every Republican voter in the city. Those who fail to receive notices are requested to be present without further notice.

FIFTH DIST. DEMOCRATS PICK DELEGATES, APRIL 28

District delegates to the Denver convention will be chosen by the Democrats of the Fifth Congressional district at a meeting to be held at the Trenton House, Trenton, Tuesday morning, April 28, at 11 o'clock. The formal call for that purpose has been issued by John J. Lane, of Summit, as chairman of the Congressional committee in this district.

A lively scrap is expected at the meeting over the choice of delegates, it being the avowed plan of General Dennis F. Collins, the Union county chairman, and others to prevent a Bryan delegation being named. It is said that Mr. Collins is assured of the support of Morris county in this effort and that he is reasonably certain of having things his own way despite the protests of "Farmer-orator" James E. Martine, of this city, who has gotten in the fight to help his friend from Nebraska.

The Democratic Progressive League, in other words the Bryan camp in New Jersey, has quietly hit upon Martine as one of its four candidates for delegates-at-large, the others being Robert Davis, Thomas Ferrell, William C. Gebhardt. Martine is determined to go to Denver and it was only after he was convinced that there is little or no prospect of his landing as a district delegate that he was named, it is said, for the delegate-at-large candidacy.

Mr. Martine declared today that he would do all in his power to prevent a anti-Bryan delegation going from the Fifth district but that it mattered little so far as results were concerned. "I'm going to Denver because I have the price of the carfare. If my friends won't let me go in the capacity of a delegate, I'll be there as a visitor for I'll be darned if I'm going to miss seeing Mr. Bryan nominated."

Wins Medal in Big Games.

George Linke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Linke, of West Second street, captured a silver medal in the First Regiment A. A.'s annual indoor games at the Newark armory Wednesday night. He was a member of the Stevens Institute team which won second place in the one mile interscholastic relay handicap, competing against some of the best runners in New Jersey. The games were witnessed by 4,000 people and were declared the most successful in the history of the regiment.

STILL STAID METHODISM

Laymen Overwhelmingly Defeat Proposition for Liberal Amusement Policy.

ELECT FIVE LAY DELEGATES.

Two Hundred Prominent Men Attend Annual Session at the First Baptist Church.

Defeated by the overwhelming vote of 104 to 56, the resolution of the clerical committee on resolutions of the Newark Conference of the M. E. church, urging a more liberal policy relative to the question of amusements among loyal Methodists, was killed by the Laymen's Association at its annual conference at the First Baptist church this morning. This action means that the lay delegates to the General Conference will not be instructed to urge more liberality on the amusement question, but are to abide by the stern laws of Methodism as now contained in the rules,—no freer interpretation being sanctioned.

The motion, which was defeated by the votes of the laymen from the smaller towns and boroughs, was approved by the resolution committee of the clerical conference, of which J. W. Strayer is chairman. It was presented to the laymen near the close of the morning session at the Baptist church today by M. S. Daniels, of Roseville, as chairman of the laymen's committee on resolutions. It read as follows:

Amusements Tabooed.

"Resolved, That the lay delegates to the General Conference urge more liberality relative to the question of amusements."

When the resolution was put to a vote, fifty-six rose to their feet in its endorsement, but when the "nays" were called for, the resolution was overwhelmingly defeated by the rising of 104 laymen, principally from the smaller churches.

The principal object of the session was the election of five delegates to the General Conference of the Methodist church to be held May 10 at Baltimore, Md. There were thirteen nominations, but no voting was done at the morning session. The candidates mentioned were these:

Candidates for Delegates.

Dr. James R. Joy and Dr. H. K. Carroll, of Plainfield; Frank Morse, of Boontown; William Dufford, of Paterson; John R. Mott, of Montclair; Frank Larter, of Newark; Captain C. W. Kennedy, of West New Brighton, S. I.; J. W. Pearsall, of Ridgewood; M. S. Daniels, of Roseville; Frank M. Hough, of Paterson, R. R. Doherty, of Jersey City; Chas. T. Jones, of Bellville, and Mrs. C. F. Woodruff, of Flemington. Of these candidates, Messrs. Carroll, Joy, Kennedy and Mrs. Woodruff are from the Elizabeth district; Messrs. Daniels, Larter, Jones, and Mott, of the Newark district; Messrs. Dufford, Hough and Morse, of the Paterson district, and Messrs. Pearsall and Doherty, of the Jersey City district. From these candidates five and three reserve delegates are to be elected to the general conference to be held at Baltimore, May 10.

Get Down to Work.

Upon the resumption of the session, the report of James R. Joy, chairman of the committee on organization and rules for election, was received and approved. It outlined a plan for the election of five delegates to the Methodist conference to be held in Baltimore May 10, and three reserve delegates.

At this juncture, Dr. C. G. Woodruff, of Flemington, chairman of a committee from the conference in session at the First M. E. church, inviting the laymen to join the pastors at luncheon at the Park Club during the noon recess. The invitation was accepted by Chairman Ward in behalf of the laymen, but when it came time for adjournment, the meeting was so deeply engrossed in the nomination of delegates and it was 12:20 before the session broke up.

Two Hundred Delegates Present.

With about 200 lay delegates present, the session was opened promptly at 10 o'clock, when W. M. McGee called the laymen to order. John H. Ward, of Newark, was elected chairman, and W. M. McGee secretary.

Following these elections, Mr. Ward took the chair and there were short devotional exercises an invocation by L. H. Larue, of Jersey City, and singing of a hymn.

On motion of James R. Joy, the chairman was empowered to appoint three committees— a committee on credentials, committee on organization to perfect a permanent organization, and rules to govern the elections, and a committee on resolutions. The following were named:

Committees.

Committee on credentials: George A. Horne, of Hackensack; Robert R. Doherty, of Jersey City, and Walter Admitted on Probation and to Full Membership at M. E. Conference Today.

CONFERENCE PASSES RESOLUTIONS FAVORING LOCAL OPTION; ELECTS FOUR OF THE FIVE DELEGATES TO THE GENERAL CONFERENCE

The important business at the executive session of the Newark Conference this morning was that of admitting a class of nine probationers to the full membership of the body as well as passing local option resolutions and electing delegates to the General Conference.

These were the lucky probationers: William Burd, of Harmony; S. Rechnetzer, of Linden; James Jamieson, of Mt. View; A. N. Smith, of Oxford; N. P. Champlin, of Arlington; E. M. Compton, of Rosebank, S. I.; Charles E. Collerd, of Hope; Charles H. Powers, of Travisville, S. I.; Fred B. Curry, of Suffern, New York.

Henry W. Murphy, R. W. Lake and H. Sloat were received as local deacons, and those admitted on trial were Alfred Yeoman, George Oakesson, Warren P. Coon, R. W. Lake, W. T. McRorie and Thomas T. Crawford.

Bishop Extends Greeting.

Immediately following the admission of the class, the members were escorted to the conference where they were addressed by Bishop Spellmeyer.

"I congratulate you on your admission to the Conference," began the Bishop. "If God wants you in the ministry you will not fail. Your success may not always be according to your standard, but the number of failures is not as large as you are wont to think. There are rewards for faithful service. The throne of the Christianity is the pulpit, and I want you to fix in your mind this fact, that you should be qualified to preach strong sermons. I know that preachers have the ambition to deliver fine sermons, but there is another thing I like better, that is to preach such sermons as will do the hearer good and be a spiritual uplift.

A Minister's Duty.

"Characters are to be built up. The demands on the preacher today are greater than ever before. Men are reading more than ever, and it is necessary that you be fully prepared when you enter your pulpit to preach. Be alert, quick and ready to respond to calls for help.

"You should visit your parishioners, become acquainted with the children and every member of the family. Get the children interested and you are sure to bring the whole family into the church. Be a good pastor. It is a high position, and you must be clean handed, and have clean hearts.

"Seek the salvation of souls. Be not too particular about praise of your work, show an evangelistic spirit, and by some means or other get souls. There is no office quite so high as the Christian ministry and the characters we possess are the only thing that is lasting. May God make you good ministers."

Basis of Representation.

Another important matter presented at the executive session was in reference to the basis of representation to the General Conference. These resolutions were offered by Rev. [illegible] C. Snodgrass, and will come up later for discussion:

Whereas, the great size and expense of the General Conference seem to make necessary a change in the basis of representation, and,

Whereas, the chief difficulty in the re-adjustment centers in the problem of an equitable representation of the larger Annual Conferences as compared with the smaller, therefore,

Conference's Petition.

Resolved, (1) That the Newark Conference hereby memorializes the next General Conference on this subject.

(2) That we make the following suggestions:

(1) That the maximum ratio of representation be made but little greater than the minimum.

(2) That where an Annual Conference has not a sufficient number of members to entitle it to one delegates to the General Conference, the General Conference shall associate it with one or more other Annual Conferences, for representative purposes only.

(3) That at the session next preceding the General Conference the several Annual Conferences thus associated in a representative group, or district, shall choose by ballot, without debate, one or more electors, who shall be members in full connection of the conferences by which they are chosen.

Other Suggestions.

(4) The electors from the various Annual Conferences of the representative group, or district, shall elect the delegate or delegates to the ensuing General Conference. The General Conference shall fix the number of members of an Annual Conference to each elector.

(5) That in our judgment the number of delegates to the General Conference should not be more than one delegate to seventy-five members of an Annual Conference, nor less than ninety.

When the regular session was resumed, it was announced that D. D. Eaton wished to be located, and that Nicolo Scarito had withdrawn from the Conference to unite with the Baptist denomination.

Five Delegates.

The Bishop then announced as the order of the day, the election of five ministerial delegates to the General Conference. In connection with this Secretary Dodd explained that the membership of the Conference, with the new class admitted today, is 250, which gives a representation of five delegates. It would require five additional members to give the Conference another delegate.

Reports on Book Work.

While the ballot for delegates was being taken and counted, the conference received Rev. Dr. Cook, the book editor of the conference, and Rev. Dr. Adna B. Leonard, conference secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions, who made a strong defense of the administration of the board's affairs, which he said had previously been the object of much criticism.

Dr. Leonard presented a strong array of facts to show that the business of the society is and has been wisely conducted, and that the contributions have steadily increased. During the past five years the receipts were $8,653,284, as against $6,574,630 given during the previous five years.

Invite Laymen to Attend.

At this point it was suggested that a committee of three be appointed to invite the laymen to attend the session of the conference. The Bishop named Rev. C. S. Woodruff, Rev. H. A. Buttz and Rev. R. B. Urmy as such committee and 12:10 was the hour fixed as the time for receiving the laymen.

Rev. John Krantz, sales agent for the Methodist Book Concern, was introduced and set forth the claims of the publications of that house.

The privileges of the floor were given to Rev. J. Frank Burke, superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League. He told of the progress being made throughout the county for the abolition of the liquor traffic, and especially the part being taken in this work by the league.

Mr. Burke called attention to an article published in a morning paper stating that the New Jersey Conference did not favor local option, and declared it to be false. He said that every member of that conference favored local option. As far New Jersey he felt sure she would soon be in line with other States that have abolished the saloon.

Resolutions for Local Option.

Following Mr. Burke's talk, resolutions putting the conference on record in favor of local option were adopted as follows:

"Resolved, First, that the members of the Newark Conference recognize the principle of local option to be wise, safe and aggressive principle of government relating to the control and suppression of the liquor traffic.

"Second, that we vote with pleasure a distinct and clearage of public opinion which has been created by the Anti-Saloon League.

"Third, that we are joyous over the effectiveness of the work of local option as demonstrated by the decrease of immorality where it is in force.

"Fourth, that we commend the aggressive yet wise administration of the league by its superintendent, J. Frank Burke.

Anti-Saloon Managers.

"Fifth, we recommend the names of Revs. Charles L. Mead, R. B. Urmy, Fillmore Condit and G. Rowland Monroe as members of the State Board of Control of the Anti-Saloon League.

"(Signed) Revs. C. J. Hoyt, G. C. Wilding, D. W. C. Ramsey, W. R. Neff and W. H. Morgan."

Rev. C. L. Mead called attention to the article in a morning paper on the attitude of the conference relative to local option, and the secretary was instructed by a rising vote to inform the editor that it was a misrepresentation of facts.

Rev. Dr. Walling Clark, president of the Methodist College, in Rome, and Rev. Dr. C. B. Mitchell, of Cleveland, O., were introduced to the conference, the former making a few remarks.

Conference Delegates.

In the choice of delegates to the General Convention on the first ballot, these were elected: Rev. Dr. H. A. Bultz, Rev. John Krantz and Rev. C. M. Anderson. The whole number of ballots were 222, and 112 were necessary for choice.

The first ballot was as follows: Rev. Bultz, 183; Krantz, 141; Anderson, 135; Mead, 111; Morgan, 73; McCrea, 71; Guttridge, 70; Meeker, 54; Muller, 37; Baldwin, 32; Hall, 30; Wilding, 21; Dodd, 14; Tuttle, 14; Hurlbut, 13; King, 12; Snodgrass, 11; Cole, 9; Vogel, 8; Randolph, 7; Ryman, 5; Walker, 4; Sparnon, 4; Mayham, 4; Urmy, 3; McCowan, 3.

Another Ballot for Delegates.

The second ballot for the choice of ministerial delegates was announced by the Bishop. The total vote was 218 and 110 were necessary for a choice. Rev. C. L. Mead received 169 and was therefore chosen as the fourth delegate. There now

EXHIBITION OF SPRING MILLINERY

OPENING DAYS Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 2, 3 and 4.

We invite the Ladies of Plainfield and surrounding towns to visit our show rooms on the above dates and view the most interesting, clever and original ideas in Millinery Art to be found outside the large cities. In connection with the true Parisian models on display, we will also show a surprising line of new creations from our own workroom—a display that reflects true artistic talent and creative genius.

Every year seems to bring the "White Store Millinery" into more popular favor, and we feel confident that this year's exhibit will prove the most interesting of all. Our milliners will be pleased to give you every attention, and see that your visit to our parlors will be both pleasant and profitable.

Late Suppers

Welsh rarebits, lobster salads and the like nearly always produce distressing after-effects. Rich food taken at irregular hours, not only causes temporary derangement of the stomach and bowels, but often brings about chronic dyspepsia and indigestion.

If you will eat all kinds of food at all kinds of hours, you can prevent unpleasant consequences by taking

DR. D. JAYNE'S SANATIVE PILLS

For Liver Complaints, Gout, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Affections of the Bladder and Kidneys, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Biliousness and all Bowel Affections, Jayne's Sanative Pills are undoubtedly the oldest, most reliable and effective remedy known. Can be taken as a dinner pill, laxative, purgative or cathartic. Never gripe.

Sold by all druggists, in two size boxes, 25c. and 10c.

Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge is a natural, gentle and effective tonic. Splendid for dyspeptics, as it acts directly on the stomach, toning and strengthening that organ, and enabling it to do its work properly.

The Millinery Department

Did you come to our Millinery Opening last week to see the styles Miss Strohuber designed? Every woman of Plainfield who is interested in smart Millinery should have been here. It was an exhibition of styles not to be seen hereabouts, and judging by the crowds that attended, and the Hats purchased during these opening days, Miss Strohuber was well repaid for her untired energy in planning, and creating, and dreaming of nothing but Hats these past 30 days. If you have not been here, come this week. Our salesladies will be pleased to show you through, and you are not urged to buy, for you will scarcely resist these charming Easter Bonnets, priced not much more than half of New York prices.

CHILDREN'S WASH DRESSES FROM 2 TO 6 AND ON UP TO 15 YEARS.

Pretty little Wash Dresses for little girls, and bigger ones; made of linens, percales, madras, and sheer white lawns, trimmed daintily in white and colors; some are made especially for every-day school wear, yet have a "touch" that make them different from those you always see and are tired of; others more elaborate, and of hand-some materials for dressy occasions, 98c to $4.98

SPECIAL—MEN'S SHIRTS 50c.

Not the usual 50c Shirt, or They Wouldn't Be Mentioned Here.

It's a purchase we made of splendid woven madras shirts, made to retail at 75c and $1.00; the styles are good, too, but scarcely any two sizes of a pattern; that is the reason they are 50c. Samples of these in our "special" window at the Front street entrance.

STEEPLEJACK DISPLAYS GREAT PRESENCE OF MIND.

Jersey City, April 3.—Blown from his swinging chair by a sudden gust of wind, Joseph P. Bailey, a steplejack, yesterday hung by his fingers to the rim of a smokestack 200 feet above the ground, while a crowd watched his swaying body and expected him to fall. Bailey, however, retained his head and worked his way hand over hand to the other side of the stack, where his chair had been blown.

Working his body into position, he dropped into the chair. He did very little work on the stack for an hour after the ordeal.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company is erecting a factory at Bay and Provost streets, this city, and Bailey went aloft to rivet the steel rim on the top of the stack.

Almost from the start he had trouble. As soon as he went aloft he run into what is known as "an upper strata of wind." This is a common occurrence with steeplejacks, but one that they dread. While there was no perceptible breeze on the ground, 200 feet in the air there was a heavy wind. That is what Bailey ran into.

The wind had died down and Bailey was working, when a sudden blast of wind came across the river. Bailey was in a position to get its full force. In an instant the chair was swaying, and then in some unaccountable manner the chair swung away from his body. Bailey felt his support going, and reaching up with both hands he grasped the rim of the stack as the chair swung clear of his body.

He worked his way around the rim of the stack, and got to the chair. He then began swinging his body so as to work the chair into position. Finally he got his feet into the spaces meant for them, and dropped back into the chair. As the watching crowd cheered, he lowered himself to the ground. He was white as a sheet.

An hour later Bailey was again at the top of the stack.

FEAR INFLUX OF IDLE MEN.

Serious Results May Ensue in Elizabeth Unjess Bricklayers' Strike Is Settled.

Elizabeth, April 3.—Serious results are feared from the strike begun Wednesday by the Bricklayers' and Plasterers' Union of this city if it is prolonged, owing to a possible influx of unemployed men from other cities. The carpenters have a contract with the boss builders which expires May 1, and they also may decide to strike. The strike of the bricklayers, however, is bound to retard all building operations in Elizabeth this spring.

One mason contractor said yesterday that the bosses were willing to meet the men half way and pay them fifty-five cents an hour instead of the sixty cents they demand, and would also enter into an agreement on this basis to last one year, but would not sign a three-year contract. The master masons think that in the present depressed condition of business that when they asked the journeymen to accept a reduction of ten cents an hour or wages of $4 a day, instead of $4.80, which the strikers were getting, it was not an unreasonable proposition. The boss masons have plenty of work on hand.

John Mitchell to Be Editor.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 3.—John Mitchell, retiring president of the miners, yesterday announced his plans for the future. He will establish and operate in Indianapolis a labor paper, with its special object the continuance of industrial peace between the miners and operators of the country.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Bishop Scarborough has arranged to confirm a large class of children and adults in Ascension Episcopal church, at Atlantic City, on Thursday, April 9. He will also officiate the same day at the dedication of the new chapel and new parish hall, on South Kentucky avenue.

The joint executive board of the bakers and confectioners of New Jersey will meet in the Retail Grocers' Association Hall, Trenton, Saturday afternoon. Several speakers have been secured by Secretary John Ahlbach, including the officers of the Central Labor Union and Otto Erdien, of the Trenton Deutsche Zeitung.

Knocked down by a trolley car of the Public Service Corporation at Broadway and Bulson street, Camden, yesterday, James Buchl, five years old, of 1907 Filmore street, had his left arm so badly crushed that it had to be amputated at Cooper Hospital. The lad never whimpered while the operation was being performed, or while his arm hung in shreds on his way to the hospital.

L. L. Eavenson, of Philadelphia, owner of the wrecked Sindal, an English steel ship which went ashore at Ocean City, on December 15, 1901, loaded with a general cargo, bound for New York, from Kobe, Japan, has began the work of demolishing the wreck. Several thousand dollars' worth of rare and expensive Japanese ware are in the hull of the wreck, which, so far, it has been impossible for divers to get out.

Declaring that prisoners in the Atlantic county jail are in danger of being roasted in their cells in case of fire, Freeholder Irving, insisted that some means of fire guard be adopted for the building. According to plans shown the board, the only exit for those in jail in case of a fire would be through one corridor, which is of wood, and in a place to catch fire easily from any other part of the structure. Work will be started at once to make the jail safe.

Mrs. Josephine Whitney, eighty-three years old, widow of Thomas P. Whitney, Sr., who was a wealthy glass manufacturer, died suddenly at her country home in Glassboro of heart failure. Mrs. Whitney had just completed arrangements for a trip to Boston to visit Mrs. Fannie Hatch, her only daughter. Besides Mrs. Hatch, Mrs. Whitney leaves four sons, John P. Whitney, for many years president of the Whitney Glass Works at Glassboro, and Samuel Whitney, Cutler and Thomas Whitney.

Geoffrey Scheer, of Vineland, lived and died a hero of the Crimean War, but was too modest to let it be known. After his death last week it became known. Scheer was born in France. When a young man he joined the Imperial army, served for four years and received a medal for bravery at the battles of Inkerman and Balaklava. Later he participated in the Sardinian War, and, coming to the United States, he and his brother Gustave enlisted in Company C, of the Thirty-eighth New Jersey Volunteers. Scheer talked Arabic and could speak and translate four different languages. He was well posted on French, English and Roman history.

SAYS WIFE THREW COFFEE.

Orin N. Hughson Also Alleges Other Woes in Asking for a Divorce.

Morristown, April 3.—The hearing on an application for divorce made by Orin N. Hughson against his wife Evalena opened here yesterday before Vice-Chancellor Frederick W. Stevens. Former Governor George T. Werts appeared for Mr. Hughson and Prosecutor Charles A. Rathbun for the wife.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hughson were on the stand, his testimony going to show that there was incompatibility of temper. He charged that at divers times she had thrown hot coffee over him; that she had beaten a photograph album to pieces over his head, and that at night she had persistently annoyed him. Occupying a bedroom adjoining his own, she had placed a sewing machine against the door, he said, and ran it, so that the vibration made night hideous. At other times, he alleged, she placed a chair against the door and threw pillows at it, causing it to knock against the door with a bang, and he claimed that she did these things because, when he is suddenly awakened, he becomes ill from the shock.

Mr. Hughson's testimony tended to show that Mrs. Hughson was subject to spells, and that her peculiar and unpleasant conduct occurred at these times. Mrs. Hughson, who was formerly Miss Powelson, of this city, was on the stand previous to adjournment, and denied many of his allegations relating to herself.

Flames Consume Farmhouse.

Whitehouse, April 3.—The large dwelling-house on the farm belonging to the estate of the late William P. Johnson, near this place, was totally destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon. The blaze is believed to have originated from a defective flue. The house was occupied by Theodore Dilley and family, and they succeeded in rescuing some of their furniture, but could do nothing toward saving the building. A number of neighbors who saw the flames went to the scene and assisted in keeping the barns from catching fire. The loss is about $4,000, almost entirely covered by insurance.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS:

Tonight and Tomorrow Morning.

Sun sets 6:23, rises 5:34; moon sets 9:18 p. m.; moon at greatest libration west; 8:15 a. m., moon in conjunction with Venus, nearly 6 degrees south; 8:20 a. m., moon in conjunction with Mars, 4¼ degrees south; 10 a. m., planet Mars in conjunction with planet Venus, the latter being 1½ degrees north.

The Board of Trade should and undoubtedly will decline the offer of a local real estate man to advertise Plainfield's advantages on a huge sign board to be erected on top of a Watchung avenue building. The aim of this body is to attract people to "The City Beautiful" and a place filled with such eyesores as sign-boards is not of that type. It will be a happy day when Plainfield finds legal means of ridding the city of such nuisances.

In a dispatch to a New York paper under a Morristown date announcement is made that "The evident disposition to renominate Mr. Fowler has been received by Morris county with pleasure." The truth of the matter is that the leaders in all three counties of the district realize that an eighth nomination for Mr. Fowler would mean certain defeat, it is reasonably certain that the Elizabethan is serving his last term in Congress. A man whose candidacy reduces the normal Republican majority from 5,000 to 500 is not the sort the party would risk naming as a standard bearer at this time and so far as any disposition to renominate him is concerned no one seems to know its source.

An exchange in commenting on "Absentee Senators" draws attention to the fact that while matters of importance demand their attention at Washington, Bailey, of Texas, and Davis, of Arkansas, are killing time at home. "These, unhappily," it points out, "are not isolated cases." This, unfortunately, in some cases at least, is all very true and it draws attention to the fact that John Kean, of our own State, is one of those who has faithfully attended to his work in and out of season. Mr. Kean may not be a gifted speaker or a cheap gallery-playing reformer, but he certainly is one of the most powerful forces in the real Senate—the committee room where the genuine work is done.

I believe the best way to control the liquor question is by high license and restricting the number of saloons. Here in Plainfield we've tried prohibition, and it didn't work—the people got it somehow, and you can't get evidence against a "speak-easy" without committing a crime yourself. When we had it there were more arrests for intoxication than there are now. For my part, I wouldn't care if there wasn't a saloon in existence, but we've got to license them and regulate them. We've got local option here, although there is no law. We let the people decide what they wanted and they decided for high license—Mayor Charles J. Fisk in his address of welcome to the Newark Conference of the M. E. church.

As our Methodist brethren say: "Amen!"

Adjournment was then taken to allow the credential committee to examine the credentials of the laymen. This occupied considerable time, due to the late arrival of several of the delegates.

Gulick Took a Nap.

Abram J. Gulick, of Lincoln, who manages to keep that community in the limelight most of the time, was found slumbering against a tree on Crescent avenue by Patrolman Dobson yesterday afternoon. An excess of liquor had brought about the somnambulistic state. He was locked up overnight and Judge Runyon let him off on susepnded sentence this morning.

remains one more delegate to be chosen, and that will be done tomorrow morning. The result of the second ballot was as follows: Revs. Mead, 169; Morgan, 76; McCrea, 73; Guttridge, 50; Meeker, 25; Halleron, 16; Baldwin, 7; Muller, 7; Wilding, 6; Tuttle, 4.

Laymen Received.

In the meantime the members of the Laymen's Association were received by the Conference, according to the usual custom, the visitors occupying seats in the body of the church. In an address of welcome the Bishop said it was a great honor to be a layman in a Christian church, to stand side by side with the Christian minister.

"You undoubtedly feel the importance of the honor conferred upon you," said the Bishop. "You are a great help at our prayer-meetings and in the financial management of the church. You are a loyal body of men and we are indebted to you for your co-operation and help. We ask of you sympathy and fidility and we are assured that as laymen and ministers the cause of Christ will be carried forward."

President Ward Responds.

John H. Ward, of Newark, who was chosen president of the Laymen's Association, this morning, was called upon to respond to the words of the Bishop and to bring greetings to the conference from his association. George J. Ferry, of Mendham, also a member of the association, made a few remarks, in which he paid deserving tribute to the Bishop. Speaking in a humorous vein he said that among the varied experiences of the Bishop he was glad that when he was in China he did not have to eat watermelon seeds with chopsticks. He welcomed the Bishop to his old home in the Newark Conference and added that he felt sure he would have the co-operation of every member.

Following the usual announcements by the Bishop as to committee meetings and conferences, the session adjourned. The Bishop's cabinet will meet this evening instead of in the afternoon, when there will be further consideration of important matters.

Wesleyan Brotherhood.

This afternoon the anniversary of the Wesley Brotherhood was observed, Rev. A. B. Richardson, presiding. Rev. Mr. Dingley will make the address: This evening at 8 o'clock will occur the anniversary of the Board of Home Missions. Rev. Dr. J. H. Howard will preside and the speaker will be Rev. George Elliot field secretary of the Board of Home Missions.

Foreign Missions Meeting.

A change was made in the program for last night's session of the Newark Conference. Instead of the anniversary of the Board of Home Missions being observed, that of the foreign missionary society was substituted, and the home society will engage the attention of the members tonight. During the opening part of the service, Miss Grace Carroll, accompanied by her sister, Miss Alice Carroll on the organ, sang a contralto solo, and the Scripture reading and prayer was by Rev. Ralph B. Urmy. Rev. F. C. Baldwin presided and the address of the evening was by Rev. Dr. Adna B. Leonard, corresponding secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions.

Dr. Leonard's Address.

In part, Dr. Leonard said:

"It is a great thing to say 'Myself for Christ,' but a greater thing to say 'The world for Christ.' That is the basis of our whole endeavor. The Bible is in world-wide demand. It is an Oriental book, naturalized in the Occident and is now going back to the Orient. The Bible is the only book that will be published in all languages. It has a great message and is the book for all races. It proclaims a God that loves the whole world.

Talks on China.

"When I learn that there is no word in the Chinese language that means love I can appreciate why the Chinese love the Bible when they become acquainted with it. Christ said, 'Go yet into all the world and preach the Gospel,' and it is our duty to obey. From first to last the Bible it pitched on this plain-world-wideness. That is the standpoint we are to occupy.

"I want to speak to you of what is known as Eastern Asia-China. We know little about this country. It must be reckoned with in the future. It is the richest country in agriculture, the products being practically inexhaustible. The vast system of irrigation renders famine or drought impossible. The use of everything available for fertilizer maintains the richness of the soil.

"The system of farming is wonderful. In many parts of China two crops are harvested every year, and it is abundant. A writer has said that our fuel supply will be exhausted within the next two hundred years. When that time comes we can get an endless supply from China.

A Great People.

"We know but little of the Chinese. They are capable of great endurance in burden-bearing. What wonderful soldiers they will make when trained. They are well-to-do, liberal and self-supporting. Did you ever see a Chinaman begging? It is the rarest thing to see one seeking alms or drunk. He will live on his wage and save part of it and send it home.

"Other foreigners have a vote, but the Chinaman is denied the privilege. For that reason he is not thought much of by politicians and is not allowed common advantages. We do not realize what a revolution has taken place among the Chinese on the educational problem. Williams says that the population cannot be estimated at below 450,000,000. They are increasing faster than they are dying. If we give these people a chance they will turn out the greatest scholars in the world. Less than 100 of those who went through the Boxer uprising gave up their belief in Christianity under threats of death. Without moral teaching these people would be a terror to the world. We have reached that point where we don't dare to close the doors on the Atlantic coast. There are too many foreigners here now to stop the tide. They want their relatives and friends to come here and live.

China's Progress.

"In the last eight years wonderful things have occurred in China. In every province can be found an army under Japanese instruction and they are making great strides in military science. The Chinese are superstitious, but let us not be too hard on them for that. We too are superstitious and we should not ridicule our foreign friends. I believe that there are people here tonight who would not want to see a new moon except over their right shoulder and I am sure that they would refuse to sit down at a table and be one of thirteen guests. The Christian religion is the only thing that removes superstition and I hope this truth will sink deep into your hearts.

"You have not heard a word during the past five years about the division of China. The nations of the world realize that the Chinese are preparing to defend themselves. Manufacturing industries are springing up all over the country. Why, the natives are even making soap, and that is a hopeful sign. I don't know of a country that is more in need of soap than China. England forced opium on China and what was the result? Countless dens of vice have sprung up all over the country and I don't believe that England will ever be able to rid herself of the shame of this act. The decree has been made that the opium traffic must cease within the next ten years in China and we are praying that it may be so.

Favors Prohibition.

"Are you aware that two-thirds of this country of ours is under prohibition rule and now the District of Columbia wants the liquor traffic driven out. This temperance reform wave which is sweeping up from the south is destined to affect every part of the north, a sort of reciprocity for what we have done for the south. The politicians don't like prohibition, and from what your Mayor said, I guess he doesn't like either.

"As to the rumor about war between Japan and this country, I want to say that there will be no war. Japan does not want it, and we do not. Japan is taxed to death and it is wonderful how she carries the burden. Only recently she tried to obtain a large loan in Paris and failed.

"We want to carry forward the Gospel of Christ. Double your subscriptions for foreign missions. Christ is going to win. He did not start this campaign to be defeated."

The service closed with the benediction by Rev. Dr. Charles L. Mead.

Home Missions Meeting.

The anniversary of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Newark Conference, held in the First M. E. church yesterday afternoon, was full of interest and attracted a large number of members and friends. Mrs. C. S. Woodruff, of Flemington, the conference president, was in the chair, and conducted the devotional exercises. Rev. C. S. Woodruff offered prayer, after which the president briefly stated what had been accomplished during the year, adding that it afforded great encouragement and should make the members feel like doing a great deal more for home missions.

The Reports.

The record for the year was more fully set forth in the report of Mrs. Hedley R. Woodward, corresponding secretary. She stated that there are fifty-six auxiliaries, with a membership of 2,300 in the conference. The value of the goods sent to home mission stations is $518.83, while 1,246 garments have been made. The sum of $750 has been given to the Deaconess Home in Jersey City and $528 to the Deaconess Home in Newark. The total raised for the year for this work amounted to $2,275, and all the pledges had been kept.

She reported total receipts of $12,380 from the various sources, all of which had been expended. Mention was also made of the death during the year of Mrs. B. F. Hamm, of Cranford, and Mrs. Francis M. Glazier, of Newark. Mrs. Woodward stated that there are 700 women engaged in the Deaconess work.

Deaconess' Work.

Rev. R. K. Boys, secretary conference board of nine, presented a report especially as to the Deaconess work. He said that there are nineteen members of the order in the conference, eight at the Newark Home and 11 at the Jersey City Home. Through the generosity of J. W. Pearsall, of Ridgewood, and Arthur E. Kline, of Jersey City, a handsome $18,000 home had been made possible in Jersey City, and $1,000 has been received toward better accommodations in Newark. He reported a balance of $331.53 in the treasury of the Newark Home, which with the receipts for the year made a total of $1,943.08. The disbursements were $1,608.87, leaving the present balance of $334.21. The receipts, with balance at the Jersey City Home, were $3,217.02, and the disbursements, $3,111.60, leaving a balance of $105.42. He also referred to the fine work being accomplished by the deaconesses.

Dr. Tuttle's Address.

After the reports an able address was delivered by Rev. A. H. Tuttle, of Summit, who a quarter of a century ago was pastor of the First M. E. church. His theme was "The Religion of This Work," and he presented an exceptionally strong appeal in behalf of home missions, frequently giving an apt illustration to show the needs of great effort in carrying the Gospel to those at home.

He declared every Christian to be a representative of the Lord and in consequence duty bound to give their best endeavor in the upbuilding of His kingdom. "Try to help somebody where you are," said Dr. Tuttle, "and keep your heart right for out of it are the very issues of life. Ye are the Sons of God and by beginning mission work at home we will soon find ourselves seeking a wider field."

The speaker praised the women's society for the excellent results accomplished during the past year and spoke of encouragement to them as well as the Deaconesses, who were well represented at the meeting. During the service an offering was received for the work.

Society's Officers.

The officers of the society are President, Mrs. C. S. Woodruff, Flemington; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Hedley R. Woodruff, Summit; recording secretary, Mrs. William R. Doremus, Paterson; treasurer, Mrs. J. M. McNaughton, Plainfield. These women occupied seats on the platform during the meeting.

HOPE CHAPEL REVIEWS THE PAST YEAR'S GROWTH

With one of the largest attendances that his been noticed in several years, the congregation of Hope chapel held the annual meeting, last night, for the purpose of hearing reports from the church, Sunday-school and other departments. All showed that the past twelve months had been marked by a substantial increase in membership and finances. Rev. L. R. Howard was moderator and Walter I. Firstbrook was made secretary pro tem.

The church report, submitted by Mr. Howard, stated that the enrollment is 410, an increase of fifteen over the previous year. The pastor officiated at fifteen funerals, eleven marriages and ten baptisms. The congregation lost two members by death. In the absence of the treasurer, Robert Slorah, Walter Bradford gave the financial report, showing that the church had raised $990.14 during the year.

According to the report of Ira W. Travel, the Sunday-school is in a flourishing condition and now has an average attendance of 345. The Sunday-school treasurer, Donald Mortimer, reported that since October 13 a total of $240 had been received and $163 expended. This is the first year that the Sunday-school has been under the superintendency of G. H. Condict, who succeeded the late Henry C. Squires.

The other reports submitted, those giving them and the amounts raised during the year were as follows: Women's Bible class, Mrs. M. A. Clark, receipts $28.55, balance $100.91; flower fund, Women's Bible class, Mrs. Johnson; Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. L. R. Howard, $212.13; organ fund, Mrs. L. R. Howard, balance $446, receipts $1,200; Mary Miller Wright Missionary Society, Miss Bertha Jones, $7.20; women's missionary society, Mrs. M. A. Clark; Judge Runyon's Bible class, Benjamin Evans, $80; Young People's Society, Miss Bertha Jones, $44.20; Men's Club, Walter Firstbrook, $22.80; Boys' Club, Walter Firstbrook; Ways and Means committee, Donald McInness, $812 raised for organ fund and other purposes.

In the election of officers, Philip Braunson was made treasurer and James Penny and Benjamin Evans assistants.

Miss Emilie Messler.

Miss Emilie Messler passed away yesterday at her residence in Somerville, after a long illness, from erysipelas. She was a daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Abram Messler, formerly pastor of the First Reformed church, and had long been prominent in church and social circles. She was the secretary of the Somerset County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and an officer of General Frelinghuysen Chapter, D. A. R. She was also a member and active worker in the First Reformed church.

May Ward Coming.

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU SAY.

In speaking of a person's faults,
Pray don't forget your own;
Remember those with homes of glass
Should never throw a stone.
If we had nothing else to do
Than talk of those who sin,
'Tis better we commence at home,
And from that point begin.

We have no right to judge a man
Until he's fairly tried;
Should we not like his company,
We know the world is wide.
Some may have faults—and who has not?
The old as well as young;
Perhaps we may, for aught we know
Have fifty to their one.

Then let us all, when we begin
To slander friend and foe,
Think of the harm one word may do
To those we little know.
Remember, curses sometimes, like
Our chickens, roost at home,
Don't speak of others' faults until
You have none of your own.

Time She Began.

It was on a Sixth avenue surface car. A woman sat with with her little daughter, fwho to all appearances was seven or eight years old. The conductor came for the fares, and the woman gave him a five cent piece.

"Is the little girl with you, madam?" asked the conductor.

"Yes," assented the woman.

"Her fare, please," said the man.

"But I never have paid for her," began the woman.

"And does that prove that you're never going to?" asked the conductor, taking the fare reluctantly tendered.—New York Press.

Why the Band Left.

First Actor—I hear that the orchestra in your theatre was sacked in a body the other night. What was the matter?

Second Actor—Why, they spoiled the best situation in the play. You know the court scene, where the hero is sentenced to death?

"Yes."

"Well, they were told to play something appropriate, and the judge had no sooner put on the black cap than the idiots struck up 'Where Did You Get That Hat?'"—London Scraps.

Flowers and Tress—A Game.

A game full of fun, although it is old, is called flowers and trees. As many as are present can play. The first one says, for instance, "My first is a public house, my second is a state to which all must come, my third is a command to depart, my all is a flower." Answer: "In-di-go." Only a minute is given for guessing; the one who guesses having a turn. A list of flowers and trees can be looked up before playing unless one is familiar with a good many.—Washington Star.

Woman's Wit.

A man found that his wife had bought a few puffs of false hair. This displeased him. So one day he hid in the hall outside of her room, and just as the lady was adjusting the false puffs he darted in upon her.

"Mary," he said, reproachfully, "why do you put the hair of another woman upon your head?"

"John," retorted Mary, with a glance at her husband's shoes, "Why do you put the skin of another calf upon your feet?"—Everybody's

How Are Your Ears?

One asks not in levity,
Rather is one very sincere.
Ears have grown in importance.
Of yore woman powdered her nose.
Now she gets in deeply for ear culture.

Perhaps she bleaches them with peroxide of hydrogen.

Then, tell it not in Gath, she may give them a touch of pink paint.

Of course, the woman of the flaring ear does not exist—she slept in bandages in her youth.

To Thaw Frozen Pipes.

When pipes become frozen during intensely cold weather they may be thawed by spreading on a piece of cloth a thick layer of unslaked lime, tying the cloth around the frozen pipe and throwing water over it. The heat produced by combining the water and lime is sufficient to thaw the pipes. This is especially good in vertical pipes, on which it is usually difficult to apply external heat.—Good Housekeeping.

Laces.

All figure.
There are two leaders.
Filet and Val. stand first.
Motifs of Irish crochet may be added.
Cluny and guipure are used to a degree.
Nets are very much in demand; many are braided with soutache.

Better Trick.

"She was going to marry the sleight-of-hand performer."

"But he has decided to give her up."

"Why is that?"

"Her father was so good at sleight-of-foot."

Anticipation.

The teacher of a private school allowed her pupils only one drink of water in the morning, unless they had had salt meat for the first meal. When one day a child asked for the second supply she was therefore cross-questioned, "Had you salt meat for breakfast?"

"No," was the innocent reply. "But we're going to have it for dinner."

PROPERTY—TITLES.

The Harcuvar Copper Company owns outright in fee simple with no debt, nine full Mining Claims comprising 185.5 acres, together with one unpatented claim held for its water rights as well as mineral. The names of the claims are as follows:

"Sunny Side," "Triumph," "Ada," "Mystic, "Treasure Trove," "Mountain Queen," "Harcuvar," "Midget," "Afroyo," and "Agua Frio."

The Company has erected a first class boarding house with all necessary equipment; has provided sleeping accommodations for the men; has erected a substantial portal house to the tunnel including blacksmith shop, store room, etc., ore cars, track (16 lb. rails) and tools to run the work with three shifts of miners.

The title of these claims has been declared perfect by Judge Hawkins and they are now in process of patenting, our patent survey has already been accepted by the United States Surveyor General.

DEVELOPMENT PLANS.

We have complete surveys by the well known Mining Engineering firm, Haggott, Girand Company, and our development plans have been laid with the utmost care and skill. Passing through the group east and west are two prominent diorite dykes. They are from 20 to 40 feet wide each and are from 30 to 60 feet apart, carrying ore on both the north and south contacts and with the country rock between them highly mineralized. On the north contact vein on the north dyke on the Sunny Side Claim we have exposed through prospecting shafts from 5 to 9 feet of ore that runs from 2 TO 24 PER CENT. IN COPPER AND FROM 0.22 TO 1.52 OZ. IN GOLD WITH SMALL SILVER VALUES.

To develop this excellent surface showing a cross-cut tunnel 5 foot by 7 foot 6 inches is being driven a distance of 418 feet where it will cross-cut the ore zone at 275 feet vertical depth. This tunnel is being driven by hand and is now in 200 feet, but the installation of an air compressor and air drills is contemplated at an early date so that our work can be conducted with more dispatch. For further development we offer today in lots of not less than 100 shares either for cash with a 5 per cent. discount or on the installment plan of five equal monthly payments of 5 cents for each share. "ONE GOOD INVESTMENT IN WORTH A LIFE-TIME OF LABOR." If you don't buy a block of Harcuvar Copper Company stock now, and reap the cream of the investment you will be the loser.

A Copper Mine is a Commercial Proposition, Not a Speculation.

No single industry in the world is now paying as large a profit on money invested as the Copper industry. Several Copper Mines in Arizona and Mexico are paying from 100 per cent. to 3,000 per cent. on an investment made only a few years ago. The richest copper section in the world is the Arizona Copper belt. The average cost of producing copper in Arizona is less than 7½ cents per pound. No other copper region in the world is able to duplicate the quantity at anything near that cost. This low cost of production justly entitles Arizona Copper Stocks to the highest place in the confidence of the investor for the lower the cost of production, the greater the net earnings and dividends. These are facts which leave no room for argument and therefore we do not hesitate to advise our friends to put their idle money into Arizona Copper Mines.

THE MAN WHO INVESTED $1,000.00 IN CALUMET AND ARIZONA SIX YEARS AGO NOW HAS A SNUG FORTUNE OF $36,630.00 AND LAST YEAR RECEIVED IN DIVIDENDS $16.50 PER SHARE, AMOUNTING TO $4,994.50. THIS STOCK WAS PUT ON THE MARKET IN 1901 AND WAS FIRST SOLD AT FROM 40 CENTS TO $3.00 PER SHARE, NOW $110.00. WOMEN'S and MISSES' NEW SUITS 2.00 - - - - - 15.00

An Easter Gift of $5. Because we made an especial deal with a good maker. His output has been confined to higher priced suits. He decided to make a new, lower price line this season and wanted to show us that he could do it without sacrificing his reputation or profit. We gave him the order, but when he came to figure after the suits were finished, he found that they could not have been made under $20.00. He kept his agreement, however, and pocketed his loss; all new models; adapted to any figure $15

Misses' and Junior $20.00 Suits—A host of pretty mixtures and solid color materials; 24-inch or 30-inch coats; many with contrasting color and cuffs; excellent linings $15

Women's $20.00 Suits—Of choice shadow panamas, pretty mixtures and solid color materials; jacket plain or fancy, collarless, neatly trimmed at neck and cuffs, or plain regulation notch collars, at $15

You Can Scarcely Equal Them at $20.00—Buy while you can at $15.00.

Women's Lingerie Dresses—Dainty dresses, imported batiste; laces selected with unusual care; three models, pink, light blue, white, bodice embellished with sheer laces and finest embroideries, rich motifs of Venise lace; skirts, work of art; tuckt and lace trimmed; $20.00 would not be too high when compared with dresse elsewhere; if we told you how many we were selling you would be surprised, but when you see them you will acknowledge the reason to be the great value $15

Women's Separate Skirts—New, pretty, fashionable chiffon panama, black and leading shades of blue, and brown; all good styles, several materials, bands and folds, full pleats, high kilt models; if you do not need one now, surely you will later, and there's great advantage in buying now, from complete assortments and special values; worth $8.00 easily, at $6.50

Girls', Misses' to $10.00 Dresses—Man o'war style, for school, for golf and outdoor generally; navy, brown, and a few mixtures; product of best manufacturers; skirts cut full, deep laid pleats; blouse with yoke, silk ornaments on sleeve and shield; girls 6 to 10 years; misses' 12 to 16 years; some were to $10.00, all at $6.50

Girls' Coats at $6.00—Mothers praise our assortment and value; especially these; if you have not tried the "Normal College" coat, don't buy until you see them; beautifully tailored, properly fitting, rich reds, navys, tans, browns, and mixtures; 6 to 14 years; a group of coats worth coming to see—seldom such good garments at $6

Brand New Better Lingerie Waists at $3.00—Beautiful new models; excellent sheer lawn and batiste, some pointed yokes of German Val. lace; others entire front embroidered or Val. lace trimmed; back, lace trimmed or neatly tuckt; sleeve of some trimmed with rows of Val. insertings, fancy lace cuffs with German and French Val. inserting, lace trimmed collars; some have dainty jabot, open front, or back, long or short sleeves, you will be enthusiastic over beauty and quality $3

HIS NEW TOY.

I'm tired of my choo-choo cars,
I've no use for my ball—
I do not want that watch of pa's;
I'm weary of them all.

The dolls and wagons, horses, men,
I've played with day by day
I do not care to see again
So take them all away.

I've got a new and lovely toy
That beats these out of sight;
A pinky, white, small baby boy
Came to my house last night.

TO THE BARGAIN COUNTER.

Be discriminating.

Never run into debt to buy anything no matter how advantageous the opportunity may seem to be.

Familiarize yourself with prices so that you know about what an article should cost.

Buy only at reliable shops. If the article is not good of its kind it is not a bargain at any price.

January, July and August are the months when read bargains may usually be found.

Be chary of buying trifles that are merely passing fashions. If such things are reduced it generally means that their day is over.

Don't buy anything unless you know what you are going to do with it.

In certain things there is practically no change in fashion.

Materials for underclothes, trimming for the same, materials for children's frocks and household linens can often be bought advantageously, and put away until needed.

On to His Job.

"I want some collars for my husband," said a lady in a department store, "but I'm afraid I have forgotten the size."

"Thirteen and a half, ma'am?" suggested the clerk.

"That's it. How on earth did you know?"

"Gentlemen who let their wives buy their collars for 'em are almost always about that size, ma'am," exclaimed the observant clerk.—Everybody's Magazine.

Supply in Danger of Exhaustion.

"Did yuh hear that Si Huskinby had gone and ordered a tombstone for himself?"

The Coliseum.

The largest single structure in the world for audience and spectacular purposes is the Coliseum at Rome. It is in the form of an eclipse. Its long diameter is 615 feet; its short, 516; the height of the outer wall, 164. The arena is 218 feet long by 176 broad. The tiers of seats accommodate 100,000 spectators.

The Religious Kind.

"What would you like me to bring you?" asked Freddy's mother, who was about to start on a shopping tour.

"I think I'd like some building blocks," replied the youngster. "And mamma, see if you can't get the kind that makes a church. I want to play with them on Sunday."—Woman's Home Companion.

AMUSEMENTS.

Every visitor to the Belasco theatre in New York comments on the wonderful realism which is shown in "The Warrens of Virginia" in the details regarding the condition of the Confederate army represented in the stirring drama of the Old Dominion. Contrasted with the rough and ready appearance of some of the Union leaders, shown in the first act, general interest is inspired in the ragged looks of the Confederates, who are reduced to the last stand, with every hope staked in the arrival of the relief train, which forms the nucleus of the dramatic action of the play. This gives Frank Keenan a rare opportunity as General Buck Warren to present a picturesque figure of the Confederate who, though driven to the last ditch, still maintains his good humor when he and the commander of the Union forces, comrades of the Mexican war, stand face to face and defy each other in the first act. Such harmony as produced by the acting of Mr. Keenan and the atmosphere created by Belasco is to be witnessed only at a theatre under the direction of America's foremost play-wright-manager.

Broadway sat up and gasped when Sam Bernard proposed to give his five-year-old son Dick a birthday party on the stage, at the Casino theatre, but all New York applauded and hugged the little fellow in sympathy when father really did it. This was the first birthday party ever tagged to a regular theatrical performance. After the matinee of "Nearly A Hero" the curtain went up again and there were Dick and fifty of his little friends, seated around a table loaded with the things that make children's stomachs shout for joy. They had previously witnessed the performance from the boxes. While the entire audience remained, Dick and his companions had their party without the least embarrassment, and the young man was fairly smothered in hugs and congratulations from people who went back of the stage at his invitation.

Lew Fields, in "The Girl Behind the Counter," at the Herald Square theatre, has just entered his three hundredth series of performances, with never-lessening interest. With more than two hundred actual performances, not counting special matinees, the English musical comedy triumph, adapted to the American stage for Mr. Fields and the Shuberts, is setting an enviable pace. Incidentally, life back of the curtain at the Herald Square often produces some interesaing sidelights. They are telling a story now of how the short one in the comedy waiter scene appeared late for a matinee recently. He went to Mr. Fields, explaining that he had overslept himself. "Aw, go on!" exclaimed the comedian; "you're too short to sleep long!" It was the unanswerable retort.

Otis Skinner, in "The Honor of the Family," is delighting throngs of New Yorkers at the Hudson theatre at every performance. Every now and then the hardened playgoer comes across a character portraiture, sometimes in a good play, sometimes in a bad one, that is so perfect in detail and so convincing in effect that one is bound to confess that acting is after all one of the arts. Such a performance is Otis Skinner's portrayal of the Napoleonic herd, Philippe Bridau, in the dramatization of "Menage de Garcon." To a generation that knows its Balzac and loves its Balzac, Mr. Skinner's impersonation of Bridau comes as a familiar friend. The courage, daring, ready wit and cool nerve of the man are all as clearly pictured by the actor as they are by the novelist. It is a great performance and the actor responsible for it must rank high in his profession for scoring one of the decisive triumphs of the present theatrical season. As a matter of fact Otis Skinner's career as an actor has been a long series of notable achievements, in each case approaching perfection. Mr. Skinner is an artist in the fullest sense of the word.

From every point of dramatic and artistic novelty and excellence the engagement of the distinguished actress, Bertha Kalich, in "Marta of the Lowlands," at the Garden theatre, New York city, which began March 24, is one of the most important and interesting of the season's theatrical offerings. Under the direction of Harrison Grey Fiske, Madame Kalish in the very emotional character of the peasant girl, Marta, has met with unusual tributes of praise in every city of the present tour, the authoritative dramatic critics recognizing her as one of the greatest of the world's contemporary actresses. "Marta of the Lowlands" is considered to be the masterpiece of Angel Guimera, the foremost dramatist of Spain.

Bonita, the handsome star of Mortimer M. Theise's "Wine, Woman and Song," the attraction that made such a tremendous success at the New Circle theatre last season, has the honor of being the first to play the Queen of "Three Weeks." Of course the show at the American theatre is only a travesty, but it is original, and the audiente shows its appreciation by continuous laughter while the skit is on the stage. It must be mentioned that Miss Bonita is assisted by Lew Hearn, the funny little sheriff, and a real "near tiger skin" (that is, if some tigers are spotted this one is O. K.) Miss Bonita looks the part of the Queen and Miss Glyn herself could not be otherwise than pleased at her appearance. The "Tiger Skin" would also come in for praise on the artistic manner in which it plays the "thinking" part. But the fair Elinor would surely gasp if she saw Hearn as "her big blue eyed Paul." Far be it from us to intimate that Mr. Hearn has not the manly appearance of a regular Paul; but—It is a very bright bit of work; in fact one of the best bits of business that has been seen this season, and fits well in this show of original features.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

With new music, new ensemble and new faces, George Sidney will come to the New Plainfield theatre tonight in his new, refreshing musical comedy, "Bussy Izy's Boodle." Mr. Sidney is well known to the theatre-going public and much interest will undoubtedly be taken in his engagement here. The scenic setting, the costumes and electrical effects are a wealth of beauty and color, offset by a beauty chorus of thirty. The production will be given as the annual benefit to the ushers at the playhouse.

George Sidney in "Busy Izzy's Boodle" at New Plainfield Theatre Tonight.

"Two Jolly Companions" will hold the stage at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday evening, April 7. Although this being the first time the play has been presented in this city its reputation has preceded. It is a farcical play, built on the same lines as "My Friend From India," and many other of the latest comedy successes. Wherever it has been presented it has kept the audience laughing and made them forget the cares of life. Perhaps one of the greatest reasons for its success is due to the fact that it is entirely free from anything that would offend the most fastidious. It is clean, pure and wholesome in its fun and yet broadly farcical. The action of the play is quick, the dialogue and situations of the play are amusing throughout and the construction is excellent, but very few farcical plays have ever been given such a strong cast as will be seen in this production. The company includes Herman H. Rose, Phillip Silverwitch and as good a singing chorus as you'll find in many of the larger musical attractions.

The more faith a woman has in her husband the more she needs it.

OVER THE TEA CUPS.

Some people wash the hair with tar soap after an egg shampoo, but the plain egg is very cleansing and leaves the hair much softer than if soap is used with it.

Should the use of grease on the face have a tendency to produce superfluous hair it may be checked by mixing spirits of camphor with the grease or by occasionally rubbing it over the skin.

Frequent dusting saves sweeping. A room dusted often and thoroughly will not require such constant sweeping as one that is dusted carelessly and seldom.

A woman tourist advises every woman going West to take with her a thin cambric bag to cover the hat when it is placed in the car rack. It is said the dust contains a great deal of alkali injurious to the delicate fabrics now used for hat trimmings.

Pots and pans in which onions, cabbage or any strong vegetables have been cooked should first be thoroughly washed and then set on the stove with soda and water—two or three tablespoonfuls of soda to a gallon of water. When this solution comes to a boil, rinse the vessel well out, wipe dry, and put it away.

"Don't growl so," said the philosophic man, "we can't all be born with a silver spoon in our mouths, you know."

"No," replied the pessimist, "and if I had been born that way the spoon would have choked me"—Philadelphia Press.

BIG LOCKOUT THREATENS.

Westfield, April 3.—At a meeting of the Master Builders' Association, held here Wednesday night behind closed doors, it was unanimously decided to lock out all the men in the building trades along the Central Railroad, from the Elizabeth city line to the Plainfield city line, next Monday, unless the workmen are willing to call fair all the jobs that were declared unfair on account of the lathers.

The situation was made acute Wednesday, when E. C. Winters, a carpenter here, ordered his men to work on a job where the lathing had been done by non-union men. The carpenters refused to work in the house and struck.

The meeting of the master builders was called with the above result. If the men do not accede, the work on about three hundred houses in course of erection will be tied up, and several hundred workmen will be involved. Many of the buildings are under contract to be completed on May 1, and a meeting of the union has been called for Saturday night. The men maintain that they will not recede from the position they have taken, arguing that if they give in it will mean the open shop in this district.

HUNT CLUB ANNOUNCES APRIL RUN SCHEDULE.

The Watchung Hunt Club announces this schedule of runs for April: Saturday, 4, Country Club, 3:15 p. m.; Wednesday, 8, kennels, 6:30 a. m.; Saturday, 11, Mt. Pleasant School-house, 3:15 p. m.; Saturday, 18, Dog Tavern, 3:30 p. m.; Wednesday, 22, kenels, 6:30 a. m.; Saturday, 25, Colonia, railroad station, 3:30 p. m.; Wednesday, 29, kennels, 3:45 p. m.

Should unforeseen circumstances or weather conditions arise which would make it doubtful if the hounds will go out, members can get definite information in regard to this by calling up the master at 8545 Cortlandt, New York, or Harvey Fisk, secretary, 5000 John, New York, on Tuesdays afternoons or Saturday mornings.

LOOKS LIKE SNUB FOR COLBY.

At Adjournment Conference Essex Senator Was Not Invited to Attend.

It is now pretty well assured that the Legislature will adjourn on next Thursday night. A conference of the Republican Senators was held yesterday afternoon, at which Speaker Jess and Assemblyman Thompson were present. After much discussion it was agreed that if the law makers attend strictly to business they will be able to quit on April 9. It was decided to enforce all the rules to bring this about.

A good deal of criticism was heard over the fact that Senator Colby was not invited to take part in the conference. The Senators were in the President's room for nearly half an hour before the Essex Senator knew of what was going on.

Thirty Years a Bank Clerk.

J. Rem. Garretson, teller in the First National Bank at Somerville, was presented with a gold watch and chain yesterday by the directors of that institution in apppreciation of his thirty years' service as an employe of the bank.

MAY BE HORSE THIEVES.

Men Arrested on Suspicion in Jersey City Gave False Plainfield Addresses.

The local police received a telephone message from headquarters at Jersey City at 1 o'clock this morning, stating that two men who had been arrested there as suspicious characters and who had probably stolen a rig they had in their possession, had claimed to live in Plainfield. The prisoners described themselves as Henry Motz, of 259 East Second street, and Amos Cadmus, of 311 King street. As there is no King street in the city a cop was sent out to look up the Second street address and found it to be a vacant lot. The names they gave are not in the city directory and no one seems to know them.

The information was telephoned back to Jersey City and the police there said they would hold the men for further investigation. The rig they were driving comprised a black horse and a rubber-tired runabout.

LEGISLATURE DEADLOCK ON THE UTILITIES BILL.

The House at Trenton yesterday by unanimous vote refused to adopt the utilities bill passed by the Senate on Wednesday. The Senate late yesterday afternoon refused to concur in the amendments of the House substituting the Martin bill for that passed by the upper house.

President Hillery appointed as a conference committee Senators Ackerman, Robbins and Minch and Speaker Jess named Assemblymen Martin, Whitehead and Sullivan. The committee will attempt to reach an agreement before the reconvening of the Legislature next week.

MEDICAL SOCIETY ELECTS.

Members Also Hear Interesting Paper on "Hydrophobia" at the Annual Meeting.

The Plainfield Medical Society held its annual meeting in the Hotel Kensington, last night, during which the following officers were elected: President, Dr. Ellis W. Hedges; vice president, Dr. J. H. Carman; secretary and treasurer, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges. Dr. T. S. Davis was elected to membership. The customary banquet followed.

During the evening, a paper on "Hydrophobia" was read by Dr. Merrill, one of the heads of the Pasteur Institute and it was made the subject of a general discussion.

Elizabeth Council Matters.

Elizabeth, April 3.—A communication was received by City Council Wednesday night from Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, stating her approval of the new police cells provided through the remodeling of the city hall, and congratulating the aldermen upon the improvement. The Board of Freeholders in a communication to Council Wednesday night asked that body to take up the question of paving Broad street and Bayway at the corner occupied by the courthouse with asphalt. The present cobblestone paving is so noisy that courthouse officials have claimed to be unable to work. The county and city will share the expense.

Refuses Telephone Franchise.

Elizabeth, April 3.—The Council Committee on streets and highways, to which was referred the application of the Hudson and Middlesex Telephone Company for a franchise in this city, submitted a report Wednesday night, in which the petition was rejected. It was stated in the petition that owing to the fact that the company would make no other means of compensation to the city than the income to be derived from renting part of the conduits proposed to be laid, it was deemed inadvisable to allow the company the franchise.

Kept Marriage a Secret.

Dan Cupid has been working on the quiet at Dunellen, and the borough society was surprised to learn recently that John Peters, Jr., son of Assessor John H. L. Peters, has been married since Sunday, March 22. The bride was Mrs. Frances Watts, of Newark, and the couple were married by Rev. Dr. Martin, pastor of the Methodist church at Newark. Mr. and Mrs. Peters will live on Madison avenue, where they are furnishing a home.

DR. COOKE STILL PURSUES CHANCELLOR JAMES R. DAY

The Rev. George A. Cooke, whose charges against Chancellor James R. Day, of Syracuse University, because of his attacks on President Roosevelt, were dismissed by Bishop Moore when brought before the New York Conference of the Methodist church at St. James' church, New York, on Wednesday, bobbed up again at yesterday's session with a statement that he had just begun to fight.

Before giving out his statement Mr. Cooke went to the platform and had a short chat with Bishop Moore. After stating that he would stand by everything he has done or said, Mr. Cooke declared that Bishop Moore had no more authority to throw out his charge against Chancellor Day than he had to throw Dr. Day out of the church without a trial. Mr. Cooke characterized Chancellor Day's attacks on President Roosevelt as "false, vicious and malicious." He added:

"The American public must not jump to the inference that the Methodist church is hopelessly in the clutches of the Standard Oil Trust. Thank God, other days are coming and this battle will be fought in other fields."

Mr. Cooke finished his statement by declaring that he would carry his charges against Dr. Day before the general conference, which meets in Baltimore next month.

The general conference is the final court of the church. It does not hear charges, but if it decides that Bishop Moore exceeded his authority in throwing out Mr. Cooke's charges it may order a new hearing.

ARTHUR MILLS SOON FOLLOWS WIFE TO GRAVE.

Arthur A. Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Caleb H. Mills, of Grandview avenue, died at the home of his parents, yesterday afternoon, just three days after the burial of his wife, Amelia Mills. The latter died at their residence in New Brunswick last Friday and the funeral was held Monday.

Mr. Mills had been suffering from a pulmonary trouble for a long time and with his wife gone it was decided to bring him to his parents' home, this being done on Tuesday. He was then in a serious condition and he failed rapidly. The young man was thirty-one years old and had lived in North Plainfield nearly all his life. He leaves two small children.

The funeral will be held at the parents' home at 8 o'clock tonight and will be attended by a delegation from Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of which he was a member.

ABOLISH VOTING MACHINES.

Senate Passes Holcombe's Bill and It Is Up to Fort.

Assemblyman Holcombe's bill, which was originally Senator Robbins' bill, for abolishing voting machines, passed the Senate last night. The bill provides that where machines are ordered for a district 25 per cent. of the voters can call a special election to decide whether they shall be used or not.

The bill passed the Senate early in the session, and was substituted for Mr. Holcombe's original measure when it came over in the House.

Big Amateur Program.

One of the "biggest and best" amateur programs yet put on at the New Plainfield theatre was witnessed by a capacitl crowd last night. First prize went to Joe Evans, trick roller skating dancer; second to Vera Fox, soloist and third to George Hoffman, buck and wing dancer. Before the amateur numbers were given, a young man holding the check for seat G 3 was awarded a handsome tolet set.

For Inebriate Asylums.

The House committee on public health introduced last night a substitute for Young's bill for the establishment of inebriate asylums in first-class counties in the shape of a joint resolution, prepared by Chairman Hines, for the appointment of a commission of three to investigate the "propriety and necessity" of a State psychopathic institute.

Chinese Priest Coming.

Peter Chang, the Chinese priest, who is visiting in this country with Bishop Henninghaus, of the diocese of South Shangtong, will be in Newark on Tuesday evening, and will deliver an address in German in the Krueger Auditorium. The object of the address is to encourage supporting the missionaries in the Far East.

New Auto Catches Fire.

A new automobile, just brought from Newark by a Plainfield man, caught fire on Grant avenue, between Third and Fourth streets, this noon. No. 3 company, from the West End fire house, was summoned and put out the flames before any great damage had resulted. The owner was unable to tell what started the blaze.

Final Shooting Match Tomorrow.

At Brantingham's hotel grounds tomorrow afternoon, the last of a series of three shooting matches between Tom Brantingham and Joseph Rocchietti, of Rahway, will take place. The race will be for 100 birds a side, and will be followed by sweepstakes. This will probably be the last shoot of the season.

Rev. Dr. T. I. Coultar, pastor of the Halsey Street M. E. church, Newark, will occupy the pulpit of the Seventh-Day Baptist church tomorrow at 10:30 o'clock.

PLANNING MISSION WORK AMONG LOCAL ITALIANS.

Pursuant to a motion of the last congress of the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union, a meeting was held at the Y. M. C. A. to discuss mission work among the Italians of Plainfield. Representatives of various churches met with the missionary and executive committee of the Christian Endeavor Union. Rev. A. P. Culp, of the Presbyterian church, of Bound Brook, was present and explained the work that is being carried on among the Italians of Bound Brook under the direction of a union evangelistic committee composed of the pastor and two representatives from each church.

Mr. Culp said that the efforts of an Italian minister among his countrymen in Bound Brook had resulted in the conversion of six men, and a union Italian church is about to be established to receive them. In his opinion the Italian work in Plainfield could be carried on successfully in conjunction with the work in Bound Brook.

A committee of fifteen was appointed with power to formulate plans and to complete arrangements for the founding of a mission in this city. This committee will meet next Monday night at the Y. M. C. A. to prepare a statement to be presented at a special meeting of the congress of the local union to be held on Thursday, April 9, at the First Presbyterian church.

Jumped from Train: Badly Hurt.

Thomas Bigley, 18 years old, of Newark, jumped from a Lehigh Valley freight train at South Plainfield yesterday afternoon and received injuries that made it necessary to remove him to Muhlenberg Hospital. One leg was broken and he was badly cut about the head. Bigley was stealing a ride on the train and made a quick leap when he saw Detective Jenkins, of the railroad force, coming toward him.

Salvation Army Meetings.

Tonight at 8 o'clock, Rev. Charles S. Kemble, of Elizabeth, will speak in the Salvation Army hall on "Why I Believe in Salvation." Tomorrow night Rev. John H. Howard, D. D., of Jersey City, will speak on "Why I Believe in Christ." Good instrumental music and singing will be features.

DeWitt Clinton Tomorrow.

The local scholastic baseball season will open tomorrow afternoon, when the Plainfield High School baseball nine will meet the team from DeWitt Clinton High School, New York, at Crescent Oval. Murphey and Dodwell will be the points for the local team at the start.

—Discussing plans for the discovery and handling of defective and atypical-minded children in the public schools, Dr. M. P. E. Groszmann, of the school at Watchung Crest, made an address before the principal, and faculty of the Newark schools in the lecture room of the Newark City Hall on Wednesday.

At the Plainfield Rescue Mission tonight in the W. C. T. U. rooms at 8 o'clock, Rev. Wilbert Westcott will speak on "Why I Believe in Salvation."

SOME ODD STATISTICS OF THE ROMAN CHURCH

The "Official Catholic Directory" purports to give the statistics of the Roman Catholic communities in countries in which residents of the United States are supposed to be interested. The figures are returned from the chancery offices of the various dioceses and pretend to accuracy.

One scarcely looks for errors in such a carefully compiled volume. Take the diocese of Salt Lake as an illustration. The recapitulation says that there are twelve secular and nine religious priests in Bishop Scanlan's territory, which causes wonderment when it is gravely asserted that there are only twenty clergymen under his jurisdiction.

At first this might seem a typographical blunder, but all is made clear when the figures for the Canadian diocese of Saskatchewan are examined. There we are told that eleven seculars, plus fifty regular priests, give a total of sixty-two, and the clergyman lost in Utah is accounted for in the wheat belt.

Bishop McFaul takes pains to tell of the efforts made in his diocese to save the foreigners, particularly the Italians. In this city there is one Italian church with two priests. Even New York with its tremendous influx of Italians does not seem to have as many Italian stations as its New Jersey neighbor.

The figures for the Philippine Islands are pathetic. The diocese of Jaro, now vacant through the death of Bishop Rooker, has more Catholics than the archdiocese of New York and 123 priests to carry on the religious labors. If a few of the laymen could be transferred to some of the Canadian or Irish dioceses that seem overloaded with canons and deans things might be equalized. There are some striking contrasts nearer home. In Utah and the part of Nevada which comprise the diocese of Salt Lake there are said to be 10,500 Catholics. According to Mormon statistics there are 45,000 Gentiles in Salt Lake alone. It is difficult to believe, then, that the Catholic body is such a minority, particularly when one remembers the gorgeous cathedral, costing $1,000,000, which has just been opened under the shadow of the Temple.

There is no Catholic daily newspaper printed in English in the United States, but there are eleven dailyy newsptpers in foreign tongues. O'Connor seems to be the most numerous of the clergy here, there being seventy-seven priests of that name. The Sullivans muster seventy, the Smiths have fifty-five and the O'Connells thirty-four.

Chicago is strangely modest in this volume. She will not venture to say how many Catholics reside within her boundaries. The general summary gives the number 1,200,000, the same as for New York, but whether this is just to the Windy City let the Chicagoans tell. It would seem that the New York with 894 priests might have a few more Catholics than Chicago with 631 priests, but this impression of the children in the parochial schools of the two archdioceses Chicago has more pupils in the city alone than New York in the whole district. Another surprising contrast in the school enumeration is offered by comparing the archdiocese of Boston with its suffragan see, Hartford. In both the number of grammar parochial schools is the same, seventy-five. Hartford is notable also for the theological students it has scattered all over the world. It claims 160 young men in the seminaries of fourteen different nations, which affords illuminating testimony of the polyglot character of the Catholic population in Connecticut. With Springfield, Mass., Hartford again enjoys the distinction of possessing a "vigilance council," and these are the only dioceses that obeyed the papal injunction to create such a board.

Suppers and Sleep.

Should one sleep soon after meals? This is a question which American Medicine answers by saying that if one has eaten heartily or heavy food he will best not sleep for two or three hours after eating. An old English saw runs, "After dinner sit awhile; after supper walk a mile," this being much like the older Latin saying, "Postepulas stabis vel passus mille meabis." In Italy, where meals are lighter than in the north of Europe, the saying prevails, "The supperless man tosses all night," but Anglo-Saxons think digestion halts during sleep. Much, however, depends, our medical contemporary thinks, on the kind of food eaten before sleepin. The aged man digests with difficulty, which fact is expressed in the Spanish proverb, "Who steals an old man's supper does him no wrong." But habit has much to do with the question of safety in eating on retiring or not long before.—Baltimore Sun.

Probably.

"What's it a sign of to dream of getting something you've wanted a long time, but felt that you couldn't afford?"

"Sign that you are likely to be the recipient of dunning letters in the course of time if you don't watch out."

COSTLIER WOMEN'S HATS.

"Campaign," a Wonderful Affair, Is to Be All the Rage.

It will be larger. It will be spreading, sweeping, with enormous rolling brim, ornamented with fluffy laces and a cockade entwining the national colors. It is known as "mother's joy," but in commercial parlance is called the "campaign" hat. This is the latest creation of the milliners who are members of the national association, recently in session at Chicago. Pearl gray and blue are to be the fashionable shades. The hat is to be worn in the back of the head, with a lace "lid" covering the hair beneath.

Presidential campaigns come high. So do the hats, and it is to be presumed that it is from this fact they derive the name. They will cost from $40 to $100.

A symposium of the views of the milliners as to 1908 styles, leaving out of consideration the "campaign" hats, shows the following forecasts:

Hats are to be chiefly trimmed with flowers, preferably roses.

Hats are to be more expensive than last year.

Hats with feathers are to be worn only on dress occasions.

Hats to be fashionable must be in gobelin blue, pale yellow and a shade of green or flame red.

The "Merry Widow" sailor, with wide brim, is to be much worn.

Hats, it is declared, will range in prices from $10 to $150, with the average hat at about $25.

Understanding Poker.

The women believe that every man knows all about poker, but only a few men do. It is true, however, that nearly every man pretends to understand the game thoroughly. When there is a poker joke at a theatre all the men smile and look at their women folks with a sort of pity, but the fellows who smile know very little about the game and are afraid to play it, for in almost every little social affair connected with chips and pairs there is a tin horn gambler industriously engaged in working chumps. The few men who really understand poker have a habit of winning the money of the men who pretend to understand it, so the large majority of men know nothing about the game further than that a good hand is hard to get.—Atcheson Globe.

Well Grounded.

"Is my son getting well grounded in the classics?" asked the anxious millionaire.

"I would put it even stronger than that," replied the private tutor. "I may say that he is actually stranded on them."—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE WIT AND WISDOM OF BILLY SANDERS.

We're got so now that we'll save a man from the microbes ef we have to stave him to death to do it.

A man wi' plenty of money in the bank don't like to draw it out for to pay debts he's forget about.

I reckon you hink that you-all up here in Atlanta have e'en about got all the civilization that's a-commin' to you; but, reely, you ain't came to deep water. The furder you git to'rds the big North the more you'll find.

I ain't got a thing in the world agin sentiment, so long as it don't stand in the way of the main chance.

I've got so I allers loog for some kinder string when I see a paper makin' a hero out'n a man, an' ef thar's one thar I can allers most ingineer'lly find it.

Now, I'll tell you—an' you'll b'ar wi' me whilst I'm a-doin' of it—I wish the whole state of Georgy an' likewise all the cotton states was rich enough an' powerful enough for to be muckraked an' investigated every day in the week.

When the trusts want to skin a flea for his hide an' taller, they'll start up a butcher shop for to do the business ef they can't git it done no other way. An' when they want to go no a stillhunt, they'll put up a costly bureau an' washstand in Washin'ton, an' pay a man a hundred dollars a week for to slip paragraphs in the newspapers of the country.

The fact is all of us have to git down to modern business methods sooner or later, an' the sooner the better. We'll have to take off our big bags of sentiment and bury 'em by the side of the road.

A lie may have jest as long legs as a mule colt, but it's jest as weak-kneed an' it can be run down an' lassoed lots quicker than folks think it can.—Joel Chandler Harris in Uncle Remus' Magazine.

Saved Him Trouble.

He was about to start on a week's trout fishing. Rods, reels, gaff, creel—everything was in readiness. But his wife, smiling joyously, hurried into the room, extending something toward him.

"For goodness sake," he exclaimed, "what on earth are you doing with those old fly papers?"

"I saved them for you from last summer," she answered. "You said you always had to buy flies when you went a-fishing."—London Answers.

The Will of Widow Peevy

By HUGH PENDEXTER

(Copyright.)

Hiram Bascom had lived on borrowed time for several years; therefore, his death in the lonely Otisville farmhouse surprised no one across the line in District No. 6. Nor did the fact that he had executed a will in favor of his sister, Mrs. Melly Peevy, who was seriously ill, cause any radical comment, as she was his only next of kin. But each nimble tongue was set a-wagging when it was known he had designated the old squire as executor. For the older generation could easily remember how Hiram and the squire came to the parting of political ways at the threshold of manhood, and how they had passed and repassed each other daily for many years with no show of recognition.

Now he was dead, and Mrs. Peevy was an heir, and the old squire had dual cause for wonderment. First, he was amazed at being named executor; secondly, he was deeply surprised to learn Hiram Bascom had accumulated any property to bequeath. He had always believed the small farm was mortgaged to the maximum, and his usually shrewd mind failed to figure out the source of any assets whatever.

No such pessimistic speculations disturbed his neighbors, however. By some subtle process of reasoning they quickly decided hermits and misers to be synonymic, in that both possessed nothing but secret hoards of gold. Else why be a hermit? This to the neighborhood at large it was sufficient to know Hiram had led a life of seclusion and had executed a will, and Mrs. Peevy was an heir and a person of importance in the district.

The squire was only anxious that Mrs. Peevy should recuperate, with the estate crystallizing into a modest reality. Yet in one respect he could not entertain the general optimism. His knowledge of Hiram's affairs, coupled to an appreciation of Otisville farm values, operated to instill suspicion, even while his kind heart cried out for the best.

That night Mrs. Peevy's inheritance was the sole topic of interest in Jessup's general store.

"I tell you Hiram Bascom was one of the shrewdest business heads in the county," declared the storekeeper, ostentatiously snapping shut the cheese-box cover as he detected old man Jameson fondling a cracker.

"Guess everything he touched turned to money," suggested Highway Commissioner Phillpot. "Even if th' farm is mortgaged there's probably considerable free and clear."

"I should say $300," mused the storekeeper slowly.

"Five," firmly insisted Mr. Phillpot, whose imagination was cumulative.

"I wish Currier was here to tell us how she's gitting along," said the storekeeper. Currier was the head selectman with whom the Widow Peevy was living.

"I guess he's too busy tryin' to find out how she's goin' to will it," laughed Mr. Phillpot.

Mr. Currier on entering did not fail to surmise the drift of the conversation, but the knowledge seemed to disturb his sad complacency to no degree.

"Hullo, Mr. Currier!" cried the storekeeper genially, as the others smoked in silence; "I was jest saying I wished you'd happen in and tell us how Melly is."

The head selectman shook his head dolefully as he replied: "I guess she's got to go. Doctor says she's sinkin' fast. Thinks it's her heart." Then after a little pause and as if recalling it by accident, he added: "She had a lawyer over to-day."

This bit of news caused the group to stiffen and exchange questioning glances, while Jessup turned and nervously began dusting the cover of the bean bin. But when he wheeled to the stove again his face was devoid of expression, and he murmured several times: "Poor Melly! Too bad!" Then listlessly: "And who will be poor Melly's heir?"

Mr. Currier, not a bit deceived by the other's seeming indifference in putting the query, scratched a match slowly on the rusty stovepipe, and when assured the tobacco was evenly lighted, returned: "When it comes to a sartainty, I don't know. Of course, I don't hang around a sick room when a person is making a will. I don't want her property. I'm no fortune hunter. Why, I even went so far as to tell her, right before th' lawyer, mind ye, that she mustn't leave it to me. I made her promise she wouldn't."

The silence that followed this surprising assertion was so deep that even the scampering of a mouse in the back of the room was audible to all.

"But who d'ye s'pose will git it?" whispered the storekeeper, behind a confidential palm, now inclined to ignore the stove.

"Wal," drawled Mr. Currier, spreading his feet as if bracing himself, "ye see, while I can't answer fer it, I have no right to stand in my family's way, an' I was honest enough to tell her so. An' although I didn't ask th' lawyer, I have a pretty strong suspicion that either my wife or daughter will be her heir."

It was late the next afternoon and the squire was preparing to walk over to Currier's to inquire after the patient when the selectman ran hurriedly into the yard, breathing heavily.

"Not dead?" cried the squire.

"No, not yet," panted Mr. Currier. "That is, she wasn't when I left th' house. She was taken worse at noon. Aaron Jessup, dang him! called to see her an' told her he'd been over to Otisville this morning an' found that her brother didn't leave no property!"

"Huh!" ejaculated the squire, striding toward the gate.

"Yas," wheezed Mr. Currier, "an' she jest began to fade away. I hushed Jessup after th' doctor, an' the doctor says she's goin' fast. But she wanted to see you once more."

Few words were spoken beyond this, except as the old squire muttered: "Dear me! dear me!" until the house was reached. At the door they met the doctor.

"How is she?" whispered the squire.

The doctor drew down his mouth and shook his head decisively.

"Just hanging on by will power. I guess Jessup said something to her about her property and it upset her. He's inside now. There's no hope. You'd better hurry in."

"Can't nothing be done?" begged the squire.

"Nothing," discouraged the doctor. "All we can do is to make her last moments easy."

"I'll do anything," whispered the squire.

"All you can do is to say whatever will please her, so she can die in peace," explained the doctor.

With soft tread the squire entered the sitting-room, where Jessup sat ruefully in the corner, and without heeding the storekeeper passed to the sick room.

Mrs. Peevy was moaning faintly. As he entered she smiled sadly.

"Well, Melly," he whispered, "I thought ye was going to try to git well."

"No," she murmured; "I might have hung on a day longer, but when Jessup said there wasn't any estate I seemed to sink mighty fast. I was reconciled to go when I believed I was a heir, as it ain't so bad to die and leave property. But to be fooled like this and to die and leave nothing is too much. If I'd only passed out yesterday when I believed I was really a heir."

"Er—why, ye be, ain't ye, Melly?" stammered the squire, brokenly, vaguely remembering the doctor's admonition. "I'm—I'm the executor. I guess I ought to know."

"Oh, squire," she whispered, joyously; "then there is an estate and I can die happy! How much is it?"

He averted his honest old eyes. To lie at that moment was sacrilege.

"How much am I worth, squire?" she insisted, plucking at his sleeve.

But it would make her last moments happy, and to gain time in which to determine the total, he asked, shamefacedly: "Guess."

"As much as $300?" she pleaded.

"Four hundred," he replied, firmly.

"Four hundred!" she gasped. "Now I am at peace. I can pass out calm and contented." And her hands were folded in resignation.

The squire motioned to the doctor.

"She's going," whispered the doctor.

Mrs. Peevy slowly closed her eyes and then opened them quickly and settled her fat chin in determination.

"I'm going to git well," she declared, and there was new strength in her tone. "I ought to be up and well with such a legacy to live on. I owe it to you, squire, to live."

"She is going to git well," cried the squire softly to those in the outer room. "Her pulse is stronger and the doctor says she will recover. I feel like a two-year-old."

Jessup breathed deep in relief and observed: "Then my blurting out the truth about her legacy didn't hurt her any?"

The squire desisted from his lively manners and rubbed his forehead in perplexity, and the lines about his mouth lengthened. For the first time he recalled what he had said to ease her last moments. He had told her the value of the estate and he was one who never changed his words. As he reviewed it quickly his jaw set and turning to Jessup he growled: "She's worth $400, and will live to enjoy it."

"Great Scott!" mumbled Mr. Currier. "Then her calling in a lawyer to make her will was well thought of."

"Lawyer? Will?" gasped the squire. "I know nothing of all this."

"Yas," explained Mr. Currier gravely; "I believe she had willed her property to a member of my fambly. She'll probably let it stand. But whether she does or don't, she'll always have a home here."

The storekeeper grinned maliciously as he informed: "You're mistook, old neighbor. I talked with her lawyer this morning. If she'd passed out her property would have gone to the squire."

The old squire turned in the doorway in amaze. Then his eyes grew tender as he faced the sick room. A sacrifice was a sacrifice, and $400 would be sadly missed. But she had remembered the friend of her youth, and her gift had been planned in all sincerity. He straightened his sturdy shoulders as if to shake clear the seventy-odd years and blew his nose loudly. Then motioning the storekeeper into the yard he brusquely demanded: "How much will you give for those two hosses?"

"What I've always been willing to give," returned the storekeeper, eagerly. "Five hundred dollars."

"Have the money ready to-morrow."

"I certainly will. Probably I shan't git much good out 'of 'em this winter. Looks as if we was going to have a hard one."

"Yas," sighed the squire mechanically; "it'll be tough sleddin' this winter."

THE MAIN THING.

We got a heap of good advice
On how to keep a wife
From men who claim that they have seen
Most every side of life.
The gist of all of it is we Should kiss her every day,
But don't forget to hand her out
The large end of your pay.

It's very nice to bring her home
A bunch of roses and
A box of candy as you did
Before you won her hand.
But if your change is somewhat shy
It makes life more complete
If in its place of flowers and sweets
You bring her home some meat.

They tell you to be kind to her
And treat her as you did
Before you took her to your heart
When you were but a kid.
That all sounds very nice, indeed,
But would the lady thrive
On ice cream sodas and the things
That kept her then alive?

The kissing part is right enough
Provided she will stand,
But will it ever take the place
Of ready cash in hand?
Perhaps it might be well to use
A mixture of soft soap
But don't forget to bring her home
Your weekly envelop.

Do Women Like to Be Bossed?

Speaking of the "Taming of the Shrew," a woman whom one would scarcely imagine cherished such sentiments remarked: "All women love masterful men, and though I do not approve of the whiplash method of Petruchio's wooing, still even that is preferable to the pleading, humble style of lovemaking some men assume, for it is only assumption after all, not their genuine feelings. I like, and I know most women feel the same, a man that above all else they can respect and are just a tiny bit afraid of. Just as soon as the woman gets the upper hand she loses half the delight of being ordered around by one whom she would ten times rather serve as slave than rule as master."

Using Court Plaster.

In mending articles with court plaster never apply while the latter is wet. Wait a few seconds, until it gets sticky; then there is no danger of moisture penetrating the goods to make a soiled place in the right side, as many have experienced while mending in this manner. Turn the right side toward you, lay on it a clean cloth and iron perfectly smooth. If any frayed pieces are noticeable, clip these with a pair of scissors. Mending tissue can be basted into place, as the basting threads are easily drawn out. To take out a hem put in with gum tissue it is only necessary to run a warm iron over the goods, and the material is easily pulled apart.

THE ESCAPADE

A POST MARITAL ROMANCE

By Cyrus Townsend Brady

ILLUSTRATIONS BY E. M. BIRD

Ellen knew something about sword play. She was no mean fencer herself, and she saw with an anguished heart that Lord Strathgate was forcing the attack, and that her husband had all he could possibly do to keep from being spitted upon his adversary's nimble sword. Rumor had not exaggerated Strathgate's wonderful mastery. His blade was like a lambent flame and played like lightning about her husband's weapon. Desperate as was the task, however, Carrington just managed to avoid these deadly thrusts. His shirt had been cut in half a dozen places, and a thin splotch of blood showed where one of the thrusts had grazed the skin, but he was practically scatheless.

He confined himself after that first return to defense, not from choice, but because there was nothing else to do. Strathgate pressed him unmercifully and gave him no opportunity whatsoever for a return. It was thrust, thrust, thrust! with the rapidity of thought itself. Indeed, so fierce, so sustained, so desperate was Strathgate's attack that the perspiration beaded upon his forehead, his breath came quick.

Ellen, who had eyes for everything, noted it, so, too, did Carrington. As for my lord, he had stood to it like the man and sailor that he was. He had not given ground one instant, and although in the excitement of the contest Strathgate had pressed him harder and approached much nearer, my lord had stood as if he were rooted to the spot. It was a magnificent example of determination coupled with a high degree of skill, for no mean fencer could have stood at swords' points with Strathgate without having been thrust through a dozen times, unless his skill had nearly matched the other's or equaled it.

The two men approached so closely that further fencing became impossible. With a swift movement Strathgate forced aside Carrington's sword and sprang back out of reach. He dropped his sword for a moment and stood panting slightly.

Carrington spoke now.

"Has my lord exhausted his attack?" he said softly.

Strathgate's answer was a resumption of his guard and another hard and direct lunge for his enemy's heart.

Carrington smiled as he parried. He had been in some doubt as to his ability to sustain Strathgate's attack. He was no stranger to the field of honor, but he had never faced a sword so imbued with venomous life as that that slivered along his blade this morning. Yet he imagined that Strathgate had done his best. He had shot his bolt. He could do no better than he had done, and there began to come into Carrington's mind a sense of mastery. Again he met Strathgate's furious attack. This time it seemed to Carrington that the onslaught was less rapid and less dangerous. Probably this was a misapprehension and the fact that Carrington parried the vicious thrusts more easily may have been due to a growing sense of familiarity with Strathgate's method.

Btu Strathgate was not yet spent. There were certain dangerous thrusts he knew of, dangerous in that they exposed the one who used them to a counter-attack, and dangerous from their unexpectedness to one against whom they were made; consequently, Strathgate was usually doubtful about employing them, but Carrington had confined his attention simply to parrying, save the first thrust, and Strathgate, thinking rapidly, determined that it would be safe to employ this unusual stroke. After a marvelous burst of speed in which he seemed to have regained all his power, he suddenly dropped almost upon one knee, leaving his body uncovered, and thrust terrifically upward.

If Carrington had been returning stroke for stroke, that moment had been Strathgate's last. As it was, the parry was rather slowly executed and Strathgate's point got fairly home in Carrington's side. It was not a thrust through the body, nor was it a graze. It was betwixt the two.

Strathgate sprang violently backward as Carrington made an ineffective reply wtih his weapon.

The two faced each other once more.

"Stop, gentlemen," cried Blythedale and Parkman in one moment, intervening between the two.

"Nevinson!" called out Parkman.

The surgeon came bounding forward.

"'Tis naught," cried Carrington, waving them aside. "See!"

"Only a flesh wound," said Nevinson, examining it quickly.

"Back, gentlemen, you are giving Lord Strathgate a breathing space."

"I am of the opinion that enough has been done," began Blythedale, "for honor—"

"Not while one of us lives," answered Carrington.

"My lord speaks for me," cried Strathgate. "Back, gentlemen!"

And once more the two men fell on guard.

Why Ellen had not fainted at that moment she could not tell. The world swam before her vision, but by an effort she commanded herself. The battle was not over, and she must see it until the end. She had confidence yet. My lord's wound was not a serious one and certainly now Strathgate had shot the bolt.

But no, Strathgate attacked as furiously as ever, but this time my lord's tactics were different. As if the sight of his own blood had maddened him, he was not content to parry, but he himself assumed the offensive. Like diamonds the points of the blades sparkled in circles of light. The ring of steel on steel and the grating as one blade fell upon another blade was continuous. It was bewildering to Ellen, bewildering to everyone except the two men. Blythedale and Parkham stood staring as if their eyes would be strained from their heads. Their breaths came shorter and shorter. Even the cool, phlegmatic doctor came forward and stood gazing. Ellen and Deborah had long since passed the stage of expression. They lay scarcely breathing, their eyes following as they could every movement of the straining men, of the flashing sword.

There was no advantage for either of the combatants yet, save that thrust of Strathgate's, that is, no outward advantage; but Strathgate was beginning to pay the penalty of his life and of his desperate endeavors in the commencement of the attack. His breath came shorter, the sweat stood thick upon his brow. Carrington grew cooler after the first flush of passion consequent upon his slight wound. His strength grew greater. He pressed Strathgate harder. But the earl was not yet done. Nerving himself, summoning all his resolution to his aid, in a series of brilliant onslaughts he sought to bring to a sudden end an affair for which, if it should be much more prolonged, he knew his strength would be unequal.

But Carrington met him with a wrist of steel and a blade quicker than the light itself. How it was done, no one could see, but after a series of rapid thrusts and disengagements, the spectators saw Strathgate suddenly throw up his arms. His blade fell wavering to the ground. Those who stared saw two feet of bloody steel thrusting out from his back. Carrington had seized an opportunity and had lunged with such force and power and directness that the quillons of the hilt of his rapier had actually struck the breast of Strathgate as he ran him through the right shoulder over his guard. The thrust just grazed the lung. Carrington strove to withdraw his weapon, succeeded partially, when Strathgate collapsed uttterly and crashed to the ground, snapping off the projecting end of the blade behind his back as he fell upon it.

He strove horribly for a moment to rise and then settled back biting his lips to stifle a groan of agony. Carrington stood over him with hand upraised. Which had the whiter face it would be hard to say.

"Strathgate!" cried my lord, bending over him.

"Carrington," murmured Strathgate in his agony, fairly wrenching the words from his lips, "you're a damned fool. The woman loves you—not—me!"

He stopped.

By this time Blythedale and the doctor were by Strathgate's side. Parkman also woke to action. He ran to Carrington's side and drew him back.

"A damned fool!" cried my lord, hoarsely, "ay, that I've been."

Parkman said nothing. He fetched Carrington's coat, waistcoat, sword and shoes and assisted him to put them on.

"We had best go now, Bernard," he said when Carrington was clothed.

"Find out how he is yonder before we leave," said Carrington, looking toward the group busied about poor Strathgate.

Presently Parkman came back with news.

"He's desperately hurt. Your blade just grazed the lung."

"Will he pull through?"

"Nevinson doesn't know. He hopes so. God! it was a terrible thrust. I thought he had you at first. I never saw such play, but, man, you were his master."

"I was his master because he was a villain," answered my Lord Carrington. "He nearly had me undone at first, but I knew he couldn't go the pace, and a clean life and an honest heart wore him down at last; and yet I don't know which is much the worse, the damned scoundrel or the damned fool! I hope he'll live. Somehow, when I saw him there helpless on the grass, my sword through his breast, a good deal of the enmity went out of me. If I could get my wife now, I'd be satisfied. A damned fool!" my lord laughed nervously as he turned away.

Yes, if he could have gotten his wife then, he would have been satisfied, and his wife would have been satisfied, too. But Ellen lay in the bushes in a dead faint. The relief of the denouement had been too much for her. And there was horror at the picture of Strathgate, blood spurting about the blade of the sword where it entered and where it left his body, reeling, his hands in the air, white-faced, desperate, crashing down at her husband's feet.

Debbie, in a like state of collapse, but not quite insensible, not knowing what to do, not daring to do what she knew, if she had known.

CHAPTER XX.

My Lord is Arrested.

But Lord Carrington was not to go very far in his present path, for two carriages which had galloped rapidly across the park toward the one which had brought him thither stopped suddenly before Carrington and Parkman. The door was thrown open and Sir Charles Seton and a naval officer in full uniform alighted from the first. From a second a sergeant and four marines, completely armed, descended to the sward.

The marines instantly fell in ranks and stood at attention. The naval officer looked back toward them. The sergeant saluted and declared himself ready for the business on which he had come. Seton had taken a step toward his friend, when the latter, his pale face suddenly flushing, darted at him.

"On These." Answered McLear.

"Seton," he said in a low, fierce voice, "where's my wife?"

In the intensity of his passion he seized Seton by the shoulders and shook him slightly.

Now, Sir Charles had come there with a great pity for Carrington in his heart and a willingness to forget and forgive the other's insults and threats, but the soldier was as quick tempered as the sailor, and his own face answered the ruddy flag in Carrington's cheek.

"Take your hand off me, Lord Carrington," he cried, wrenching himself free and springing backward, his own hand upon his sword.

"I've had one man's blood on my hands this morning," returned my lord, savagely, "and I don't want to have another's, but, by heaven, if you do not instantly declare to me what you did with my wife, I'll strike you where you stand!"

"And I swear to you," cried Seton, whipping out his blade, "that if you come near me again I'll run you through without benefit of clergy."

"Sir Charles Seton," began my lord, evidently mastering his feelings with great difficulty, "little do I care for your threats, but I must have an answer to my question. Lady Carrington is known to have boarded that merchant ship which was overhauled, I have no doubt, by the Britannia. Knowing our navy as I do, I have no hesitancy in believing that Lady Carrington was taken from that ship; that she was brought back to Portsmouth on the Britannia, and has been, or is now, under your care. Where is she?"

"Lord Carrington," returned Sir Charles, standing upon a punctilio, "I recognize no right in you to question me and I decline to give you any reply in your present condition."

"Will you reply to my sword's point?" exclaimed my lord, passionately.

"With pleasure," said Sir Charles, proudly, "but perhaps I may say this much. I don't know where your wife is, or Mistress Slocum, either. I wish to God I did. She isn't under my protection as you insinuate."

"That's a lie!" burst out my lord, fiercely.

"Good God!" cried Sir Charles, stepping forward menacingly.

"Charles," said Carrington with a sudden change of manner, "you were once my best friend, for God's sake, tell me where my wife is?"

"You've insulted me publicly," cried Seton, a man of slower temper, but of quite as hot a disposition, once aroused, as his former friend. He recked nothing of my lord's appeal. He saw only the fearful insult that had been hurled upon him. "Draw your weapon!" he exclaimed, extending his own blade so that the point almost touched Carrington's breast.

My lord suddenly seized Seton's sword by the blade with his naked hand, and although the sharp edge bit into his palm, with a quick jerk he tore it from the surprised baronet, who was naturally not expecting an act of that kind.

"Tell me, tell me!" he cried. "You may kill me after that, or I you if needs must be, but where is my wife?"

"Bernard, you're beside yourself," said Parkman, picking up Sir Charles' sword, "let me apologize to you, Sir Charles, for my principal."

He bowed gravely and extended the hilt toward Sir Charles. But Sir Charles would not be pacified.

"Tell your principal to make ready at once," he continued, "or I shall feel justified in cutting him down."

"This can go no further, gentlemen," now interposed the naval officer who had come with Seton.

"And what business is it of yours, McLear?" cried my lord, laying his hand on his sword hilt and quite desperate at the situation in which he found himself. "I take it that you have no interest in this quarrel unless it is to perform a friend's office for Sir Charles Seton with whom you came."

"Have I not?" said McLear, sharply. "Nay, never menace me with your blade, Lord Carrington. I'll take charge of it."

He stepped closer and extended his hand for my lord's sword.

"And on what grounds pray?" asked Carrington in a high voice.

"On these," answered McLear, equally determined. As he spoke he hauled out from his pocket a folded paper. "'Tis an order of arrest from Admiral Kephard for disobedience of orders, failure to rejoin your ship, insulting language to your commanding officer. Admiral Kephard's sign and seal, sir." He shook the paper forth as he spoke. "Now, your sword."

"As a gentleman and I make no doubt a man of honor yourself, Lieutenant McLear," continued Carrington, glancing at the single epaulet on the officer's shoulder, "you will, I am persuaded, grant me a few moments respite in which this gentleman and I may continue our debate."

"What, and run the chance of having to carry back a dead body to the admiral? No, sir," returned McLear peremptorily. "I have orders to bring you to the Britannia in your proper person."

"And if I refuse?"

"Sergeant," McLear turned to the marine, "if Lieutenant Lord Carrington does not hand me his sword before I count ten, you will advance your men and take it from him by force."

"Parkman, will you see this thing done?" cried my lord as McLear, who was a man of great determination, began to count.

"You're in the wrong, Bernard," answered Parkman, "you must obey orders. I've no doubt you can get clear, but now the admiral's word goes."

"And did you, Sir Charles, provoke this quarrel knowing that I was bound and fettered?"

"Damnation!" cried Seton. "You insult and insult and insult me! Give him five minutes, Mr. McLear?"

"Nine!" said McLear with especial emphasis.

"Squad, attention!" cried the sergeant.

Carrington knew that the game was up. Without another word, he seized his sword by the blade and tendered the hilt to McLear.

"That's well," said the lieutenant, quickly, "now, if you will enter the carriage with me. And you, Sir Charles."

"I wouldn't ride in the same carriage with him, curse him!" returned the baronet hotly. "Leave me here. I shall get away. I have some acquaintance with Blythedale, and—"

"Very good," said the officer turning away.

"Tell me one thing," said my Lord Carrington as McLear approached the carriage which my lord had already entered, "is my wife—are there any women aboard the Britannia?"

"She is not there, she hasn't been there."

"Was there anyone taken from that merchant ship?"

"No one was aboard of her. I heard Collier say that those they sought to seize from her had escaped."

Carrington's face lighted and then fell, lighted at the thought that his wife was not with Seton, fell that her whereabouts was as much a mystery to him as ever. He had wronged Seton dreadfully. He was a proud man, my lord, but something must be done.

"Sir Charles Seton!" he cried and Seton turned and stepped toward him, his face black with passion, but his manner cold and composed. "I did you an injustice. I am [illegible] to atone for it in any way you may decide if ever I get free from this cursed arrest, but I cannot go away easy in my mind without any apology."

"No apologies," cried Sir Charles, "are adequate to such a situation."

"I suppose not," returned my lord. "I've just done for Strathgate yonder, perhaps fate'll get even by giving you a chance at me. You know what Strathgate said to me?" he continued with one of those quick changes of manner to which he was subject. "As he lay on the grass with half a fathom of my blade in his breast, he cried out: 'Carrington, you're a damned fool!' It's true, Charles. Drive on, McLear," he said, sinking back in the cushions and turning his face away.

The two carriages rolled out of the park rapidly leaving Seton staring in amazement at the remarkable and contradictory remarks of his former friend.

When he recovered his equanimity in some measure at least, the baronet turned and walked toward the two still busied about Strathgate. His situation was so critical and there was so much to do that they had paid no attention whatsoever to the exciting incident which had just taken place within earshot.

Lord Blythedale looked up as Sir Charles approached.

"Hello, Seton," he said. "You know Strathgate, I believe. He and Carrington have had it out here this morning."

"I understand," interrupted Sir Charles.

"Well, Strathgate's got it terribly. Dr. Nevinson here has just succeeded in stanching the blood. Will you call my head keeper, you'll find him over beyond the coppice yonder, and we'll have him bring a shutter and take Strathgate up to the house. It'll be touch and go with him, I'm sure. Demned unpleasant piece of business this and so early in the morning!"

"Did you find the ladies, Seton?" came in weak and faltering tones from Strathgate's pale lips as he recognized Sir Charles bending over him.

"No," replied Sir Charles. He hated the man, but he was terribly down and perhaps would soon be quite out and he could not get up the heart to treat him cruelly. He had played the fool, yes, and worse, the knave, but he was paying for it a high price. "No, they were not on that ship. They had gotten away somewhere."

SHOOTER OF SALOON MAN GETS OFF LIGHTLY.

Through the efforts of former Prosecutor Wilson, Captain Bernard Cavanaugh, fifty years old, of Troy, N. Y., who several weeks ago was sentenced to two years in State prison for shooting at an Elizabethport saloon-keeper, will escape that penalty.

When Mr. Wilson heard of the case he interested himself in the matter and learned that the prisoner bore an excellent character in Troy, where for thirty years he had worked for the owner of several vessels. This man went to Elizabeth and had an interview with Judge Atwater, who refused, however, to reopen the case and grant a new trial. Then Mr. Wilson hastened to Somerville and got a writ of stay from Supreme Court Justice Bergen.

A hearing on the writ took place Monday before Judge Atwater, who dismissed it and reaffirmed the sentence. Cavanaugh was to be taken to State prison this morning. Justice Bergen and Judge Atwater were sitting on the bench in court waiting for the jury to come in with the verdict in the Hunt murder trial; Mr. Wilson brought Captain Cavanaugh before the two jurists and made a strong appeal for clemency.

After a brief consultation between Justice Bergen and Judge Atwater the latter said that under the circumstances he would revoke his former action and recentence the prisoner to six months in the county jail.

Summoning Sleep.

At all times a perfect mob of ideas and words stands at the gate leading into the mind, trying to get in. While we wake and are sane, says a writer in Everybody's Magazine, there is something that stands at this gate and lets in only the sensible ideas and the words that have relation to the subject in hand. All the others it keeps shooting away with: "Get back there! Go on away!" It is this inhibitive faculty that keeps us sane. But in order to reach the general paralysis of sleep we have to pass through a preliminary stage wherein we are as foolish as any lunatic. When the sentinel at the gate of the mind goes off duty for the night the mob of irrational ideas and words comes trooping in, and so when I would court sleep I deliberately open the door of my mind to the rabble, turning loose upon it a troupe of unrelated words and phrases. For some reason or other I find that the vocable "abracadabra" is a good one to start off with. Often a word or sentence will repeat itself with increasing rapidity—and shall I say loudness?—until it is all a jumble which breaks up simultaneously with the disintegration of the colored pattern before my closed eyes.

"Regulars" On the Honor Roll.

The eight "regular" Republican Assemblymen who stood so manfully by Leader Martin, in refusing to break their party pledges at the demand of King Caucus, are worthy of especial honor by the people of the State. Four of these men were from Essex county—Messrs. Braun, Clark, Lowrey and Smith. Bergen county furnished two others—Assemblymen Fake and De Vine. Mr. Pierce, the successor of Randolph Perkins, of Union, was the seventh, and Mr. Crosby, of Ocean, completed the list. These organization Republicans will undobutedly be branded as "traitors" by the bosses in their respective counties, but they can smile at that charge so long as they have a clear conscience and know they are honestly representing the wishes of their constituents and are living up to their campaign pledges.—Newark News.

Practical Work for an Automobile.

Edward C. Belden, a young and prosperous farmer near Suffield, Conn., has turned his ordinary road runabout automobile to practical uses both as a labor saving machine and money earner. About a year ago Mr. Belden purchased a second-hand Kno automobile of nine horsepower and at once put it to work sawing up cord wood during the part of the season when there was little doing on the farm. He soon after gave up part of the farm life and started in to take jobs for sawing wood and baling hay and has already several jobs booked for cutting up tobacco stalks next month. Last winter he baled between 300 and 400 tons of hay, sawed between 250 and 300 cords of wood and cut several tons of tobacco stalks.

Couldn't Bluff Him.

She was obese, passing fair and—well, she admitted that she had been on earth for twenty-nine years. He was scanty haired and old enough to know better.

"Will you marry me?" he queried.

"You are asking a good deal," she gurgled in reply.

"Oh, well," he rejoined, "I always was partial to large women."—Chicago News.

Voting Machine Bill in House.

The House yesterday passed a duplicate of the Robbins bill providing that where 25 per cent. of legal voters in a district object to voting machines a special election shall be called to act on the objections. The procedure is so cumbersome that there is little expectation of oblition of many machines.

HOW HE HAS MADE A SUCCESS

L. T. Cooper Tells Chicago Reporter Why He Accomplishes So Much.

No man in recent years has been more successful in restoring human health than L. T. Cooper. During his stay in Chicago, and while he was meeting thousands of people daily, he gave the following reason for the remarkable demand for his medicine to a reporter:

Mr. Cooper said: "My New Discovery is successful because it corrects the stomach. My theory is that few can be sick if the digestive apparatus is working properly. It naturally follows that few can be well with a poor digestion.

"I know from experience that most of the tired, half-sick people that are so common now-a-days have half-sick stomachs. Put the stomach in shape, and nature does the rest. The result is general good health. My medicine does this. That is why fifty thousand people here in Chicago are using it who never heard of me until a month ago."

Among the fifty thousand mentioned by Mr. Cooper who used his medicine in Chicago is Mrs. Hilda Pflueger, living at 1203 Ainslie Avenue. This is the statement she makes concerning her experience with the medicine:

"I have been sick for six years with stomach trouble. I was always hungry, but did not dare to eat much, as I had severe pains in my stomach, and also through my body. I could not sleep at night and was very restless. I was also very nervous, and would have severe headaches. I was constipated, and always felt bloated after eating.

"I had tried many remedies, but could secure no relief, until one day I noticed in the newspapers what wonderful results Cooper's medicines were accomplishing in Chicago. I decided to try them, and shortly after commencing the treatment I began to feel better. I did not have those severe pains in my stomach, and I could sleep at night; my appetite improved, and I can now eat well. I am feeling like a new woman.

"I am very thankful to Mr. Cooper for what his remedies have done for me. They have restored me to good health, and I would advise any one who suffers as I did to try them."

We sell the Cooper medicines. They are easily the most celebrated preparations ever introduced in this country, growing in popularity daily.—T. S. Armstrong.

LOCAL LAYMEN DELEGATES

Drs. J. R. Joy and H. K. Carroll Chosen Lay Representatives to General Conference.

The election of five lay delegates and three reserve delegates to the general conference of the Methodist church to be held in Baltimore May 10, occupied the entire afternoon session of the Lay Electoral Conference at the First Baptist church yesterday. The regular delegates chosen were Dr. James R. Joy, president of the Laymen's Association, and Dr. H. K. Carroll, of this city; M. S. Daniels, of Roseville; J. W. Pearsal, of Ridgewood, and W. M. Dufford, of Paterson. There were thirteen candidates for the five delegacies and Messrs. Joy, Daniels, Pearsall and Dufford were elected on the first ballot, while Dr. Carroll, who was the candidate receiving the greatest number of votes on all the other ballots, did not secure the necessary majority until the Conference had voted four times. Of 167 votes cast, on the first ballot, Daniels received 133; Joy, 96; Pearsall, 91, and Dufford, 80. Dr. Carroll received 121 votes of the 143 votes cast on the fourth ballot.

Reserve Delegates.

By the unanimous vote of the conference, Mrs. C. S. Woodruff, of Flemington, was chosen by acclamation as the first of the reserve delegates. Joseph Walker, of Irvington, George Backus, of Jersey City, and Frank E. Morse, of Paterson, were nominated as the other candidates, and Messrs. Walker and Morse were elected on the first ballot.

While the tellers were busy counting the votes, the Conference considered four amendments, which the clerical conference had asked them to vote on for the general conference. The first of these, a resolution to maintain the Episcopacy of the Methodist church, and to continue with the plan of itinerant general superintendency, but to elect a Bishop for work among particular races and languages, involved considerable debate. It bears particularly upon the colored Methodists, who are desirous of having a Bishop to lead them. Recently even the colored people have taken a stand against the measure, and it was unanimously defeated at the session yesterday afternoon.

Time Limit Restoration.

By a vote of 110-32, it was resolved to endorse the restoration of the time limit. This question called forth some heated debate in which representatives from the smaller towns and villages were particularly prominent. In the case of three other resolutions regarding the ratio of bishops and the ratio of representation, the conference decided not to concur with the wish of the clerical conference in voting on the matter, feeling that it concerned more the members of the general conference.

Harvey E. Tingley, of Jersey City, who came to this city from the New York conference, was introduced to the meeting, during the balloting, by Chairman Ward. He is head of the Wesley Brotherhood, and spoke especially on the interests of that organization, emphasizing the value of civic righteousness and explaining the work of the Brotherhood in assistig the poor and needy.

Dr. Mitchell Speaks.

After the laymen's conference, the tenth annual meeting of the Laymen's Association of the Newark Conference was held. Dr. Joy presided, introducing the speaker of the afternoon, Rev. Dr. Charles Bayard Mitchell, pastor of the First Methodist church, of Cleveland, Ohio. Dr. Mitchell was formerly pastor of the First Methodist church in this city, and spoke on the topic, "The Mission of a Methodist."

LAD'S HAND LACERATED BETWEEN COG WHEELS.

Salvatore Delicci, an 19-year-old Italian employed at Debele & Stahl's, on Somerset street, got his left hand caught in the cog transmission of an ice cream freezer this morning, and it was badly torn and lacerated before the power could be shut off. The ambulance was summoned, and he was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where an examination showed his injuries to be but slight flesh wounds.

The accident happened as Delicci was re-filling a freezer with ice. The lad's hand was caught between two cog-wheels. Mr. Debele, who was near the freezer, instantly threw off the power belt and released Delicci, who was thrown into a panic of fear by the sight of blood and the pain. There were no broken bones.

Communion at Warren.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey will officiate at the administration of the Holy Communion in connection with the morning service at 10:30 tomorrow morning at Warren chapel. In the evening, Rev. J. H. Tundrell, of Paterson, one of the pastors at the Methodist conference, will preach.

HORACE G. ADAMS SUES ON NOTE FOR $6,000

Suit has been instituted in the New Jersey Supreme Court of Trenton by Horace G. Adams against Hubert H. Hull and others for $6,000. The case is founded on a promissory note made by the defendants to the order of themselves and endorsed by others and Adams.

The defendant, Hubert H. Hull, through his attorney, George J. Fermier, of Jersey City, has entered a denial of the allegations made by Adams, and in his defence amongst other things, says that if the note sued was at all it was made in fraud, or that it was made without lawful consideration, and that the same is usurious, and that if the note is a proper note it was not properly presented for payment. This case will have to be tried in the Supreme Court before Justice Bergen at Elizabeth. Judge William Newcorn represents Adams.

ENGINE'S SPARK CAUSE OF A FARMER'S SUIT

Suit has been started in the New Jersey Supreme Court by George W. Harris, of Piscataway Township, against the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company for $1,000 damages in tort. Harris claims in his declaration that he was the owner of a farm known as the Harris Farm, near Lincoln, New Jersey, and that on November 29 he claims that a locomotive engine of the Lehigh Valley R. R. Co., drawing the "Black Diamond Express," was passing his farm about 1 o'clock on that day and it "unlawfully" permitted large sparks or flames of fire and live cinders to escape from the engine and set fire to his meadows, fences and posts and trees to his damage.

Harris alleges that the railroad company was negligent in not having proper screens or netting about the locomotive so as to prevent these sparks or cinders from landing on his property, and that their failure to have the screens or netting resulted in his damage. He asks the court for one thousand dollars. The railroad company, through Collins and Corbins, of Jersey City, its attorneys, have entered a denial of the allegations.

The case will have to be tried before Justice Bergen and a jury at New Brunswick.

LOCAL LAWYERS ATTACH BANKER THOMAS' HORSES

A writ of attachment has been issued out of the New Jersey Supreme Court at the suit of the Metropolitan Trust Company of the City of New York against Edward R. Thomas, the New York banker, for $200,000. This writ was directed to the sheriff of the county of Monmouth and is returnable April 15. On March 25 Sheriff Francis, of Freehold, made a levy on the goods and chattels that he could find belongings to Thomas in his county.

The sheriff levied on 26 two-year old colts, which were appraised at $13,000; 13 yearlings, $7,800; 7 young colts, $2,600; 2 stallions, $350; 1 stallion, $100; 90 bails of hay, $125; 6 saddles, $18; 1 pair scales, $5; total, $32,598.

The suit was commenced by an affidavit made by William A. Coddington, who says that he is the attorney for the Metropolitan Trust Company and he alleges and says that Edward R. Thomas is indebted to his company in the sum of $131,332.09 with interest thereon from April 22, 1907, and that he is not now a resident of this State, and on this affidavit the writ of attachment issued and was placed in the hands of the sheriff.

E. R. Thomas is the same person who was former president of the Provident Insurance Company and an officer and director of any banks and trust companies in New York, and whose home in Newport was attached in a similar way sometime ago. No defencee has yet been interposed on behalf of Thomas in this suit.

Reed and Coddington, together with T. M. Day, appear as the attorneys for the Metropolitan Trust Company in this suit.

Yankees Win, 14-13.

In a closely contested game on the Sycamore avenue grounds, the Yankees defeated the Tigers by a score of 14-13. Grisley and Little were the points for the winning nine, while Coyle and Kenyon were the battery of the opposing team.

Monday Afternoon Club.

DEMAND OF REPUBLICANS

City Committee to Pass Resolutions Calling on Legislature to Keep Pledges.

That resolutions may be passed demanding that the Legislature remain in session until it fulfills the party platform pledges of the Republican administration, an emergency meeting of the Plainfield Republican Executive Committee has been called for Monday night. The radical action is taken by City Chairman W. S. Angleman as a result of request filed according to the by-laws by six members of the committee, R. Henry Depew, president of the New Jersey People's Lobby; Duncan W. Taylor, Frank L. Holt, Howard L. Tracy, chairman of the "new idea" city committee; Frederic W. Butler and Robert L. Lee, all of whom are Colbyites.

It is the purpose to pass radical resolutions addressed to the Governor, the Senate and the House calling attention to the neglect on the part of the lawmakers to carry out the promises contained in the platform upon which Mr. Fort waged a successful campaign. It is demanded that "the promises be redeemed and that in particular an effective utilities bill be passed."

At the same meeting arrangements will be made for the selection of delegates to the State and Congressional district conventions. Plainfield will have seven delegates. The first ward gets one delegate; the second, two; the third, one, and the fourth, three.

The call for the meeting follows:

"Plainfield, N. J., April 3, 1908.

"To the Members of the Republican City Executive Committee:

"A written request has this day been made to the chairman to call a special meeting, which request is as follows:

"Pursuant to Section 2 of Article 4 of the Constitution the undersigned request you to call a meeting of the committee on onday evening, April 6, for the purpose of passing resolutions and forwarding same to the Governor, Senate and Assembly, requesting them to remain in session until the reform measures promised in the party platform have been acted upon and the promises redeemed by the enactment of proper laws; and that in particular an effective Utilities bill be passed. And that any business bearing upon this subject may be brought up.

"Respectfully,
"R. Henry Depew.
"Duncan W. Taylor.
"Frank L. Holt,
"Howard L. Tracy.
"Frederic W. Butler.
"Robert L. Lee.

"In accordance, therefore, with the provisions of the constitution of the committee, a special meeting of the Republican City Executive Committee is called for onday evening, April 6, 1908, at eight o'clock at the Casino for the purposes set forth in the said request.

"Respectfully,
"W. S. ANGLEMAN,
"Chairman."

It is due to Assemblyman Carlton B. Pearce to state that he was the one representation of Union county in the present Legislature to vote and work against any adjournment of that body until the platform pledges of his party had been fulfilled. Assemblymen Moxon and Kirstein, the latter having taken little or no active parts in the sessions, favored an early adjournment. Senator Ackerman agreed to the Senate majority date, but it is understood that he is anxious to have the utilities bill the civil service measure and other important matters.

MRS. SARAH A. BOICE DIES AT DAUGHTER'S HOME

Mrs. Sarah A. Boice, widow of the late Ephraim D. Boice, who lived for many years in Piscataway township below South Plainfield, died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Benjamin W. Hand, of Orange, formerly of this city. She had been ailing for two months from a complication of troubles but death was directly due to paralysis.

Mrs. Boice was seventy-one years old and when she and her husband left the farm, they came to this city to make their home. Mr. Boice died about five years ago and since then she has been living either at Westfield or Orange. Besides Mrs. Hand, she is survived by one other daughter, Mrs. O. Bittle, of Newark, and one son, W. E. Boice, also of Newark. Mrs. Peter Benward, of New Market, is a sister.

Mrs. Boice was a member of the South Plainfield Baptist church and the funeral will be held there Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

—Beginning tomorrow the stage will again run between the borough and Baptist church for the Sunday service.

SACHER SUES SACHS; HERE ARE THE FACTS

Suit has been started in the New Jersey Supreme Court by Kussel Sacher against Nathan Sachs for $500. Sacher sues to recover on a cheque which is unpaid on a note made by Sachs to the order of the First National Bank and which was endorsed by him and which he was obliged to pay after it had been protested.

Nathan Sachs, through his attorney, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., has filed an affidavit of merits in which he swears that he believes that he has a just and legal defence. The case will be heard before Justice Bergen at Elizabeth at the next term of court.

ENDEARING TERM UPSETS CITY COURT EQUANIMITY

The decorum of the city court was somewhat upset during a case, this morning, by the pesistency of William Pryor, a typical Southern darky, in addressing Judge Runyon as "Honey." He was called as a witness in a case involving Edmund Brown, colored, Lawrence Bray and Neill Scott, Jr., who were arrested a week ago for fighting at Third street and Plainfield avenue.

Pryor appeared with his head all bound up and a couple of minutes were devoted to making plain that the bandages were simply a coincidence and had not been brought about by the scrap in question. This led to the discovery that the witness was somewhat hard of hearing as failing to catch a question put to him by the court, he exclaimed:

"Honey, Ah 'specis yuh better repeat dat."

The southern accent and the endearing term were more than Judge Runyon could stand for and he joined the spectators in a broad smile that grew to a hearty laugh when Pryor, all in absolute earnestness, continued:

"Honey, Ah sure seed dis scrap and de white men done struck de fust blow; 'deed dey did, Honey."

The humor in his words, added to a violent swinging of arms to emphasize them and the bobbing of the bandaged head convulsed the magistrate and judicial severity gave way to unadulterated mirth. As a result the defendants were dismissed on suspended sentence.

SITE AND APPARATUS FOR NEW FIRE HOUSE

Members of the Councilmanic fire committee yesterday visited Hartford, Conn., to inspect a combination automobile chemical and hose truck which it is proposed to install in the new fire house to be erected in the Netherwood section of the city. Herbert Buxton and Robert E. Hall were the two members who made the trip. It is said that they were both favorably impressed and will likely recommend its purchase.

An option has been obtained by the city on a large tract of ground near the Netherwood station on South avenue near Belvidere avenue and it is expected that the city fathers at their meeting on Monday night will instruct the fire committee to negotiate the purchase of both land and apparatus. Plans for the building have not been submitted as yet but it is probable that all arrangements will be completed by May 1 so that the fire house will be finished before summer comes.

Sues to Recover Alleged Bill.

A suit has been instituted in the New Jersey Supreme Court by Clerk T. Rogers and William Newcorn, as trustees for Zerviah L. Rogers, partners as C. T. Rogers and Co., against Henry Berg for $1,000. In the declaration of the plaintiffs they allege that they sold and delivered to Berg coal at the township of New Market to the amount of $311.10 and that he has failed to pay for the same. The papers were served on Berg in Newark by Sheriff Somer. Berg has filed an answer in which he denys that he owes the plaintiff anything, through his attorneys, Riker and Riker, of Newark. Rene P. F. Von Minden represe ntsthe plaintiffs. This case will be tried before Justice Bergen at the next term of the Middlesex Circuit Court at New Brunswick.

Fort Favors Old Fire Heroes.

Governor Fort last night signed Senate bill No. 198, allowing the Exempt Fremen's Association to have one representative in the convention of the State Firemen's Relief Association. A delegation of volunteer and exempt firemen, including D. W. Littell, of this city, had previously called upon him and urged that he approve this bill.

CLERICAL DELEGATES TO GENERAL CONFERENCE OF M. E. CHURCH

Rev. C. M. Anderson. Rev. Dr. H. A. Buttz. Rev. Dr. John Krantz. Rev. Dr. C. L. Mead.

NEWARK CONFERENCE ELECTS REV. A. C. M'CREA AS FIFTH DELEGATE TO GENERAL CONFERENCE

Rev. Abel C. McCrea, the popular pastor of the First M. E. church, was chosen as the fifth member of the delegation elected as representatives to the General Conference of the church at the third day's session of the Newark Conference of the M. E. church today. The other delegates, as chosen yesterday, are Rev. Dr. C. L. Mead, Rev. Dr. John Krantz, Rev. Dr. H. A. Buttz and Rev. C. M. Anderson.

Several matters of a routine nature were taken up when the third day's business session this morning. Upon the recommendation of Presiding Elder L. C. Muller, Rev. Frank McDaniel was placed on the supernumery list, the matter being referred to the Board of Stewards for consideration and liberal treatment. Rev. G. P. Hammond was transferred from the active list to the supernumery.

Those comprising the probation class admitted to full membership yesterday were elected to elders orders and will be ordained tomorrow and the usual report was presented concerning the other students in the ministry indicating the progress made.

At the suggestion of Rev. W. E. Palmer, a committee on complimentary resolutions was appointed, he being the chairman. The other members are Rev. J. H. E. Schultz and Rev. J. H. Howard.

Presiding Elder's Report.

The annual report of Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, presiding elder of the Jersey City district, was called for at this time. He reviewed the work throughout his district, showing that in nearly every charge there has been an increase in membership and finances.

In a great many instances the salaries of pastors have been increased and large sums have been spent for improvements, while much work has been accomplished in the reduction of church indebtedness. A deep spirit of evangelism has prevailed in all churches in the district. The report also showed a membership of 2,528 in the Junior Epworth League and a substantial increase in all departments of work for young people.

In unfinished business the relation of Nicolo Scarito with the conference was discontinued at his request, he having united with the Baptist denomination. Upon the motion of Dr. Halleron, A. B. Fitzgerald was elected to elder's orders.

Newark District Report.

The Bishop being anxious to complete the reports of the presiding elders, called upon Rev. Dr. J. M. Meeker, of the Newark district, and he presented his annual review of work there. As in the case of the reports of the other presiding elders, Dr. Meeker showed a steady and encouraging growth of the churches in his district. He said that twenty-eight churches have cancelled their obligations to the Centenary Collegiate Furnishing Fund. There are now 668 on probation, a net gain of 771. The Sunday-schools of the district have a total membership of 15,442. The sum of $34,070 has been expended on church buildings and in improvements and $24,653 has been paid on indebtedness. The total increase of salaries amounts to $2,650, and not a single decrease was reported.

Bishop T. B. Neely, of South America, was among the visitors to the conference during the morning. He was introduced by Bishop Spellmeyer amid hearty applause.

Announcement by the Bishop that a ballot would be taken to elect a fifth delegate to the General Conference, deferred from yesterday, caused quite a stir. The members were instructed that but one name should be placed on each ballot.

The Balloting.

On the first, second and third ballots there was no choice of a delegate, and before adjournment a third ballot was taken, the result to be announced at the opening of the afternoon session. On the first ballot the whole number of votes was 195, of which ninety-eight were necessary for a choice. The result: Revs. Mc. Crea, 70; Morgan, 67; Gutteridge, 36; Meeker, 8; Cole, 4; Tuttle, 2; Muller, 2; Halleron, 1; Wilding, 1; Vogel, 1; Sitterly, 4. The whole number of votes cast on the second ballot was 199, and 100 were necessary for a choice. The result: Revs. McCrea, 91; Morgan, 80; Gutteridge, 20; Meeker, 2; Cole, 1; Tuttle, 1; Vogel, 1; Palmer, 1. It was then decided to take a third ballot, when 200 votes were cast, 101 being necessary for a choice. The result: Revs. McCrea, 99; Morgan, 84; Gutteridge, 13; Meeker, 1; Cole, 1; Tuttle, 1; Palmer, 1.

Rev. Abel C. McCrea was elected on the third ballot as a delegate to the general conference.

Paterson District Report.

The fourth and last report of the presiding elders was presented by Rev. L. C. Muller, of the Paterson district. The condition of the various churches was stated to be highly satisfactory, with increase in membership and financial support. The sum of $642 was reported raised toward the Centenary Collegiate Furnishing Fund, with $1,158 still to be collected. It was shown that the pastors in this district have made a special feature of visitation among their people.

The district has paid $14,748 on debt, in which all of the churches had an equal share in the work. The benevolences subscribed for early in the year were shown to be ahead of last year's amount.

The pastors report 1,020 conversions and 920 have been received on probation. The presiding elder stated that during the year he travelled 5,000 miles going to and fro over his district, preaching every Sunday and many times besides and meeting every official engagement.

The district lost by death several prominent members, whose support was a source of great encouragement.

Resolutions of congratulations were offered by Rev. J. M. Meeker and Rev. W. C. O'Donnell and were ordered sent to Bishop Thomas Bowman, of the Newark Conference, who is now in the ninety-first year of his age.

The Bishop Speaks.

Addressing the conference personally, the Bishop said that while he had never been a presiding elder he considered it a great office and he was a firm believer in it. In one circuit conference he recalled that there were thirty candidates for the office. "There is one presiding elder in this district whose term expires at this time," said the Bishop, "and I have been requested to present him a purse." The Bishop then gave Rev. Daniel Halleron a sum of money contributed by the members.

The Bishop said that in one conference in the west the ministers went to their several appointed places without complaint and he hoped the same would be true here.

In responding, Dr. Halleron thanked one and all. He said that no one could have been treated better. "I shall never be an elder again," said Dr. Halleron, "hereafter I shall be one of you."

Monday morning at 11 o'clock was fixed as the time for having the treasurer's report of Centenary Collegiate Institute.

Gift to Bishop.

The members were greatly interested in the presentation to the Bishop of a painting, "The Christ of Nazareth," the work of Rev. W. H. Russell, of Newark. Rev. Dr. H. A. Buttz presented the portrait in a few appropriate words. Responding, the Bishop said, "You have been thinking of things I did not know. It is a gift I prize highly. If the conference had not been behind me I would not be in my position today. I feel that every man is my brother."

The Bishop was deeply affected by the incident and visibly displayed his feelings of appreciation.

Introduced to Conference.

Rev. Dr. George Elliott, field secretary of the Board of Home Missions, who spoke at the anniversary meeting of the society last night, was introduced to the conference and made a few remarks.

Through Wellington Moorehouse, a report of the Board of Stewards, was presented. This showed the receipts for the year to be $15,111.50, and according to the usual custom such financial assistance as required was given in all four districts. On motion of Rev. Alexander Craig a vote of thanks was given to the Board of Stewards.

On the motion of Rev. J. M. Meeker, the presiding elders and the secretary of the conference, were instructed to take the necessary steps to have the conference incorporated in due form. Another motion by Mr. Meeker, which was adopted, authorbill presented to the Legislature vestbill presented to the egislature vesting the title of property of extinct Methodist church and other religious societies in the Newark Conference with the power to sell and convey the same.

In accordance with a motion offered by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, Revs. Crang, Russell, Richardson, D. B. F. Randolph and C. S. Woodruff were appointed a committee on insurance.

Conference Evangelist.

Before the close of the morning session several resolutions regarding the appointment of conference evangelist, the number to be appointed and the question of having them make a report at the annual conference. Rev. W. M. Trumbower, Rev. J. J. Fauls, Rev. H. C. Thompson and Rev. W. S. Coeyman were named in resolutions and suggested to the Bishop as persons for appointments as evangelists.

Rev. T. H. Landon, now president of the Bordentown Military Institute, was recommended in a resolution for reappointment to that position. A motion by Rev. C. S. Woodruff prevailed fixing Monday morning at 9 o'clock as the time for holding an executive session. Before adjournment it was decided to hold a business session this afternoon and the Bishop announced that Rev. Dr. Palmer, of Jersey City, would preside. Rev. Dr. Mason, colored, and Rev. Dr. Hart, were also announced speakers for the afternoon.

This evening there will be an Epworth League reception, followed by the anniversary meeting of the league.

Dr. Elliott's Talk.

The needs of home missions and church extension were presented at the session of the Newark Conference in the First M. E. church, last night, by Rev. Dr. George Elliott, field secretary of the Board of Home Missions. It was the anniversary of the society and for more than an hour the speaker held the closest attention of the large congregation. His theme was "The Coming Americans," and he began by saying that it is the character of the citizen that counts for much. It is more valuable than military glory, political prestige or great wealth.

"No nation in history has been destroyed because it was weak in arms," said Dr. Elliott, "but because she has forgotten God. The vital question today is 'what kind of men and women have we here.' We have a good ancestry. It is a fine thing to have a good grandmother and I have learned that it takes about three generations to make a gentleman. God did not give America to the dark ages, neither did He give North America to Spain. He gave it to the land of the open Bible. It is to the men of New England that we owe much of our inspiration. We are an Anglo-Saxon race, the largest English speaking body on the globe and God is not going to turn America

RAHWAY VALLEY R. R. PLAINT.

Fighting Lackawanna for the Right to Install Switch at Summit.

Interstate Commerce Commissioner Franklin K. Lane gave a hearing Thursday in the federal building, New York, on the complaint of the Rahway Valley Railroad Company against the Lackawanna Railroad. The complainant road runs between Aldene and Summit, ten miles, and owns two locomotives, two passenger coaches and one freight car. It has connections with the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Lehigh Valley and the Baltimore and Ohio, and most of its work lies in switching freight cars and carrying interstate freight to and from several manufacturing plants and the large roads named.

President W. W. Cole complained that his road wanted to build a switch at Summit connecting it with the Lackawanna lines at that point, and that the latter road objected, contending that any additional freight service on its line would interfere seriously with the commuting passenger traffic. Mr. Cole said the promoters of the Rahway Valley road had built their $250,000 line on the understanding that the switch at Summit would be allowed.

PATERSON HAS NO PAY FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS.

Withholding by State Treasurer of Railroad Tax Leaves City Without Funds.

Paterson, N. J., April 4.—School teachers of this city were not paid yesterday, the Board of Education having no funds to its credit. This condition has been brought about by the failure of the State Treasurer to forward Paterson's quota of the school tax, which amounts to about $130,000, and is needed to tide this city over until July 1, when the city's fiscal year begins.

This money held by the State Treasurer represents Paterson's share of the railroad tax, which has been held up by the courts for the last year and which the city hoped to get before March last. The State Treasurer withholds Paterson's share because of the fact that only ninety per cent. of the railroad tax has been collected. He says that under the Martin tax he is compelled to hold the money until the full tax has been collected. There is a bill now before the Legislature, known as Assembly bill No. 325, giving the State Treasurer power to divide that part of the tax receipts now in his possession.

W. G. Scott, vice-president of the Board of Education, and Thomas Fletcher, chairman of the Board Finance Committee, sent a letter yesterday to Governor Fort asking him to sign this bill if it be presented to him. Unless this is done none of the educational employes of the city can receive any pay until after June 30.

GET MONEY ORDER CROOKS.

Two Caught in Jersey City After a Chase.

Jersey City, April 4.—Two men who had been swindling merchants by means of alleged bogus money orders were captured last night after a lively chase by Detectives Prescott and Rooney. They give their names as Frank French and John Rose and their residence as New York. The orders are for sums between $10 and $20. The men would make small purchases and give the money orders in payment, getting the difference in cash.

Chief of the Detective Bureau James Larkins thinks the money orders are genuine and are part of the booty secured by burglars who broke into a Boston postoffice some time ago.

Mrs. Henry E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue, has gone to New Haven to visit her daughter, Mrs. Foster, and Mrs. White.

LANDLORDS ORGANIZE.

Want Protection Against Delinquent Tenants.

House owners of Elizabeth met last night and formed the Elizabeth Landlords' Protective Association. William Higgins was elected president and George Neuritter treasurer. A record will be kept of delinquent tenants. The reason for this action, it was said, is that the tenants refuse to pay rent on the plea that they are out of work, which in many cases is not true.

Captain of Coal Barge Drowns.

Elizabeth, April 4.—John Ford, captain of coal barge No. 36, owned by the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, tumbled overboard Wednesday night from his vessel, which is moored in the slip at the foot of Pine street, Elizabethport. Before assistance could reach him he sank. The body was recovered later and removed to a morgue. The victim was about sixty years old.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

A return engagement of Edward Vroom in "The Luck of MacGregor" will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight.

"Two Jolly Companions" will hold the stage at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night. Although this being the first time the play has been presented in this city its reputation has preceded. It is a farcical play, built on the same lines as "My Friend from India," and many other of the latest comedy successes. Wherever it has been presented it has kept the audience laughing and made them forget the cares of life. Perhaps one of the greatest reasons for its success is due to the fact that it is entirely free from anything that would offend the most fastidious. It is clean, pure and wholesome in its fun and yet broadly farcical. Many misunderstandings come from it. The comedy is brought out after the ludicrous domestic episodes. The action of the play is quick, the dialogue and situations of the play are amusing throughout and the construction is excellent, but very few farcical plays have ever given such a strong cast as will be seen in this production. The company includes Herman H. Rose, Philip Silverwitch and as good a singing chorus as you'll find.

LURED BY 'POSSUM, FINDS STOLEN GOODS.

Summit, April 4.—Scattered over the ground near the recently abandoned sewage disposal beds in Passaic avenue, Lewis Ortman, a produce peddler, who resides in Long Hill, three miles west of this city, yesterday found about two dozen silver knives and forks, which comprised a portion of a quantity of silverware valued at over five hundred dollars, taken by burglars from the residence of William N. Coler, Jr., in Summit avenue, on the night of November 23 last.

Within a few hours after Ortman had reported his "find" at the police station, Chief of Police Brown, Sergeant Murphy and Policeman Smith dug up fifty pieces of the stolen silverware, consisting of trays, spoons, dishes and candlesticks, near the spot where Ortman had found the knives and forks.

While driving in Passaic avenue, on his way home, Ortman was attracted by an opossum which was ambling along the roadside. He jumped out of his wagon to attack the 'possum and declares he saw the silverware scattered around. Fearing that he might get into trouble if he took the articles, Ortman drove hurriedly to New Providence, where he met a friend whom he told of his discovery. The men drove back, and, securing the silverware, brought it to the police station here.

The articles later recovered by the police were buried beneath a piece of sheetiron and were but little damaged. Chief of Police Brown is confident more silverware remains hidden.

WOOD SENTENCE NEXT WEEK.

Camden Boy Murderer Convicted Yesterday Is Liable to Thirty Years' Imprisonment.

Camden, April 4.—Joseph Wood, the sixteen-year-old slayer of little Ethel Nevins last October, who was convicted yesterday of murder in the second degree, will be sentenced early next week. The maximum penalty is thirty years' imprisonment.

Speaking of the verdict, Prosecutor Scovel said: "In all my experience as a lawyer I have never been more satisfied than I am with this verdict. I can truthfully say that I feel satisfied that the State's officers, the jury and all connected with the case have done their full duty.

"This verdict is the solution of a problem that was vexatious. It would have been an injustice to the community to have permitted the boy to go free, and it did not seem just right that this unfortunate boy should be electrocuted.

"The Monday after the murder I visited the scene of the home of the boy and became acquainted with all the conditions that were involved in the case. Then I concluded that Joe had never had a chance. I found that his home surroundings showed why his moral sense had been obliterated, and I could not see my way clear in fighting against his life. It seemed that it would not be justice, although it might be entirely legal to send the boy to the electric chair."

Boys Arrested for Stealing Rides.

Rahway, April 4.—James Garrity, Daniel W. Doalley, John Graff and Thomas Centallio, all of New York, whose ages range from sixteen to twenty years, were arrested at the Junction here last night for stealing rides on a Pennsylvania Railroad train. Detectives Thomas Walsh and Frank May made the arrests. They are thought to be a part of the gang that has been making life miserable for detectives and trainmen during the past three months by dropping pieces of coal on them from overhead bridges and annoying brakemen. Acting Police Justice C. H. Lambert, in view of their youthfulness, released them with a warning.

—The Public Education Society of Somerset county will hold its April meeting in the assembly room of the Somerville public school building next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Miss Eliza Benton, from the lecture staff of Teachers' College, Columbia University, will make an address on "Domestic Science."

The Millinery Department

Did you come to our Millinery Opening last week to see the styles Miss Strohuber designed? Every woman of Plainfield who is interested in smart Millinery should have been here. It was an exhibition of styles not to be seen hereabouts, and judging by the crowds that attended, and the Hats purchased during these opening days, Miss Strohuber was well repaid for her untired energy in planning, and creating, and dreaming of nothing but Hats these past 30 days. If you have not been here, come this week. Our salesladies will be pleased to show you through, and you are not urged to buy, for you will scarcely resist these charming Easter Bonnets, priced not much more than half of New York prices.

CHILDREN'S WASH DRESSES FROM 2 TO 6 AND ON UP TO 15 YEARS.

Pretty little Wash Dresses for little girls, and bigger ones; made of linens, percales, madras, and sheer white lawns, trimmed daintily in white and colors; some are made especially for every-day school wear, yet have a "touch" that make them different from those you always see and are tired of; others more elaborate, and of hand-somer materials for dressy occasions, 98c to $4.98

SPECIAL—MEN'S SHIRTS 50c.

Not the usual 50c Shirt, or They Wouldn't Be Mentioned Here.

It's a purchase we made of splendid woven madras shirts, made to retail at 75c and $1.00; the styles are good, too, but scarcely any two sizes of a pattern; that is the reason they are 50c. Samples of these in our "special" window at the Front street entrance.

ROBBERY OF POSTOFFICE.

Thieves Enter South River Building and Steal Cash and Registered Mail.

New Brunswick, April 4.—The postoffice at South River was entered by one or more burglars Thursday night. They got away with $540 in cash and stamps. The burglary was discovered by Postmaster Samuel M. Gordon when he opened the office yesterday morning.

The postoffice is on the first floor of the Citizens' Hall building. The rear is occupied by William Morgan for his undertaking business. Entrance was effected by forcing a rear window and then forcing the door between the rear and the postoffice section. The combination was knocked off the safe and then the lock was picked. In addition to the cash and stamps all the registered mail was stolen and a gold watch belonging to Mr. Gordon's sister-in-law, which she had given him for safe-keeping.

Baptists Get Title Cup.

Winning the second indoor track meet of the Sunday-school Athletic League at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Thursday night in competition with athletes from the Congregational, First Presbyterian church and Warren chapel, the gym team of the First Baptist church established their ownership to the silver championship cup, offered by C. W. McCutcheon by winning it the second consecutive year. They won 62 points in the four classes of indoor athletic events, events, while the Congregational church athletes were second with a total of 24 points. The First Presbyterians got a single point, and the Warren chapel boys failed to show for any place. No new records were established.

Pupils Give Shakespeare.

Four scenes from the play of Julius Coesar were presented to the students of the Plainfield High School at the morning exercises by the members of the Senior class yesterday. The class had recently finished the study of the play and chose to moke the examination in the subject take the form of a dramatic presentation of selected scenes rather than to follow the time-honored pencil and paper method of examination.

First Y. M. C. A. Practise.

The Y. M. C. A. baseball squad will report for the first practise of the season at Crescent Oval this afternoon. Among the promising candidates are Captain Craig, Ralph and Will Schoonmaker, Conover, Marsh, Scott, Banks and Payne, of last year's nine. Will Russell, who pitched for the Dunellen nine two years ago, is among the candidates for the slab.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Thieves entered the home of Clarence Shinn, at 310 North Sixth street, Camden, yesterday and carried away silverware and other articles. They also helped themselves to milk and cake.

Knocked down by a wagon near her home, 328 Division street, Camden, last night, Elizabeth Hand, five years old, sustained serious injuries and was cared for at the Homeopathic Hospital.

For going on a rampage in the restaurant of Yoy Sooy, at 1023 Broadway, Camden, Daniel Degan, a youth, was arrested by Policeman Troncone and held in $500 bail by Recorder Stackhouse yesterday.

A bulldog belonging to William Weir pounced upon the ten-year-old son of William Sidway, at Mays Landing, yesterday and fastened his teeth in the lad's upper lip, badly lacerating it. The boy was otherwise injured.

Struck by a piece of iron while at work at Seventeenth and Benson streets, Camden, yesterday, John Hinkie, forty-one years old, of 1831 South Twentieth street, Philadelphia, was injured about the head. He was taken to Cooper Hospital.

The Deutscher Herald, one of the two remaining German newspapers of Egg Harbor City, has suspended publication, its editor, George F. Breder, explaining that as the city has lost many of its German residents demand for such papers has fallen of.

Suit for alimony has been begun by Mrs. Kate Bishop, of Riverside, against her husband, Robert N. Bishop, now of Langley, Wash., whom she accuses of failing to provide for her and their child. The couple have been married twenty-one years.

In the Circuit Court in Camden yesterday, Anna Mellon was given a verdict of $5,000 against the Victor Talking Machine Company. While operating a machine at the company's plant Miss Mellon alleged she was permanently injured, because the foreman had failed to make repairs to machinery. The defense was that contributory negligence was the cause, and the case will be appealed.

The marriage of Miss Ollie Hulse, of Bordentown, to John Wilkinson, of Wilmington, Del., was announced yesterday. The ceremony was performed two months ago, but it was kept secret. Miss Hulse is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hulse, formerly of Edgewater Park, but now of Bordentown. It was while on a visit to Wilmington that Miss Hulse met her husband. It was the old tale of love at first sight, and a secret wedding was the outcome.

After having his automobile in his possession about ten days, during which time he has operated it little, Dr. G. W. Vanderveer, of Mt. Holly, had a disastrous experience just after turning from the roadway to enter the driveway at his home yesterday afternoon. One of the engines had been idle by reason of a defective vibrator, but when the turn from the roadway was made the defect corrected itself, and the automobile shot forward with such force that Dr. Vanderveer could not check its progress until it crashed into the porch at the residence of Elwood Stead, breaking a column and the side railing. The machine was slightly damaged.

TO DETERMINE NEED FOR INEBRIATES' HOME.

Trenton, April 4.—Under the rule adopted by the Assembly upon Majority Leader Martin's suggestion what may be the last measure to be introduced in the House this session was put in Thursday by Chairman Hines, of the Committee on Public Health. It was in the shape of an Assembly Joint resolution substitute for House bill 159. The original bill was introduced on February 17 by Mr. Young, of Essex, and was intended to permit the establishment of a Home for Inebriates in Newark. It had been drafted by Alonzo Church, secretary of the Essex County Park Commission, and there have been several hearings on it. It was disapproved by Mr. Hines and his colleagues, however, and Thursday afternoon's resolution followed as a consequence. This sets forth what whereas it has been suggested the first cost of an institution as desired would be $600,000, the committee feels it would be judicious "before entering upon so important and expensive an undertaking" to have a thorough investigation of both the necessity and the proposed cost made. The resolution suggests that a commission of three be appointed by the Governor for this purpose, and that $5,000 be appropriated for the expenses of this. On motion of Mr. Hines the resolution was advanced at once to second reading.

Two other measures introduced just ahead of Mr. Hines' resolution were: Mr. Cattell places the deputy commissioner of banking and insurance, chief clerk of department of banking and insurance, State supervisor of roads on free pass list.

Mr. Holcombe provides for the payment of premiums for the killing of hawks, foxes, mink, weasel and skunk in this State. The money is to be paid out of the State treasury on certificate issued by a justice of the peace on the State treasurer.

F. E. Kinsman and family, of Sherman avenue, are planning to remove this spring to Massachusetts, where they will spend the summer.

ROUTINE MATTERS IN THE BOROUGH COUNCIL

A resolution introduced by Councilman Nichol at last night's meeting of the Borough Council that the Somerset Board of Freeholders be requested to build a bridge over the east branch of Stony brook, where it crosses the new extension of Watchung avenue, revived the old complaint about North Plainfield' treatment by the county organization.

Former Mayor Smalley was in attendance at the meeting and asking the courtesy of the Council he took the floor. He declared that if the borough officials wanted any improvements on Watchung avenue they would never be gotten if it was put up to the Somerset freeholders. The only way North Plainfield would get a bridge, he said, was to go ahead and build it at North Plainfield's expense. The councilmen seemed to think the same way but the Board will be petitioned.

In the course of reference to borough sewers, it was stated by Mayor Townsend that the matter is still being held up by Plainfield. A definite answer has been awaited for the past month or more but something has delayed it, yet some response may be expected in the near future.

Most of the business transacted at the meeting was of a routine nature. The committee on stationery and supplies was instructed to purchase a typewriter for the use of Borough Clerk Fred Martin and the street committee was authorized to buy a street roller provided the cost does not exceed $300. The resignation of Thomas Doud as a member of the Board of Health was received and Thomas Finney was appointed a marshal to do special duty. At the request of the Orchard Park Improvement Association, and following a lengthy discussion of the same, two lights were ordered placed on Pearl street, between Watchung avenue and Chatham street.

Chairman Waldron, of the street committee, reported that $349.43 had been expended during March, most of it for the filling in of upper Duer street. According to the report of Recorder Dolliver there were twenty-four arrests during the past month and $53 in fines colected.

Summons Served in $1,000 Suit.

A suit for $1,000 has been instituted by Lebbeus L. Manning and Walter F. Manning, partners as L. L. Manning and Son against Katharyne C. Dowd and the summons was served by Sheriff Sommers of Newark on March 4. No declaration or bill of particulars has yet been filed, so that the present papers do not disclose for what the suit has been brought. Codington and Swackhamer are the attorneys for Manning and Son.

Want Case Discontinued.

A rule for the discontinuance of the case of Woolston and Buckle against Eva H. VanSickel has been entered in the New Jersey Supreme Court at Trenton. The rule entered shows that the claim of Woolston and Buckle together with court costs has been paid in full. This suit was brought by Woolston and Buckle against Eva H. Van Sickel to recover $205.64 on a book account.

Vesper Service at Y. W. C. A.

The meeting at the Young Women's Christian Association tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock will be addressed by Dr. N. W. Clark, of Rome, Italy, and promises to be of unusual interest. CONFERENCE ELECTS M'CREA over to the dark skin, at least for the next one thousand years. We may may have some English people here, and I want to tell them that I think we have inproved on the stock that came from across the way. We have added Irish blood to our stock and there is the Dutch who settled in New York. I am glad they came here, because along that line came Theodore Roosevelt, who 'with all his faults we love him still.' He makes me provoked nearly every morning with his frankness or freakness, but before night I forgive him. He has at least made it respectable to be a politician.

Irish—The Real Thing.

"There are the Scotch-Irish people, so-called, I think because they are neither Scotch nor Irish. They may be some here tonight. If so I want to say that they are a strong, sturdy race. But we must not forget the Irish—the real thing. Give him time and he will be a policeman. But man is only in the making. He has not yet developed his full possibilities.

"On February 12 next we will celebrate the centennial of a man who stood four square to every wind that blows—Abraham Lincoln. Today we are not importing the good stock of other days, but they are coming to this country twice as strong. I believe that the future of the next one thousand years will lie in the hands of the Saxon and Slav. Last year 400,000 immigrants from Austria-Hungary came to this country. That place is called the whirl-pool of Europe, but I think the right name would be the rag-bag of Europe.

"Has it occurred to you that Germany is not sending her sons to this country nowadays. What has happened? When a nation begins exporting her goods she stops exporting her men. Her manufactories are demanding their labor more and more."

Cosmopolitan Nation.

In conclusion Dr. Elliott spoke of the many other races that are inhabiting this country by the hundreds of thousands, not forgetting the Jew, the Russian Jew in particular, whom he classel as an undesirable citizen. He was of the opinion, however, that it is the duty of this Christian nation to have a more friendly attitude toward the Jew and to use every endeavor to bring him to a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ. He said that if he was a young man of twenty-five years he would ask the Bishop to send him to the East Side of New York, where he might study more closely the life and character of the Jew. He declared that right in that particular section is to be found a greater number of students than in the section about Central Park, and the "400" were never known to have a weakness for thinking.

Closing his earnest remarks, Dr. Elliott made a strong appeal for more co-operation in the cause of home missions and larger contributions to the support of the work.

At Brotherhood Meeting.

Owing to the important meeting of the Laymen's Association at the First Baptist church, yesterday afternoon, there was scarcely a corporal's guard at the anniversary meeting of the Wesley Brotherhood at the First M. E. church. Rev. A. B. Richardson presided, and after the opening exercises he made a few remarks concerning the objects of the Brotherhood and of the work accomplished, especially in his own church. Other remarks were made by Rev. John H. E. Schultz, Rev. J. B. J. Rhodes and the general secretary, Rev. W. G. Patterson. On account of the small attendance the service was a short one, those present going to the session at the First Baptist church.

MRS. CAROLINE R. WEISS ENDS LIFE OF SERVICE.

Mrs. Caroline Weiss, mother of Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the North Plainfield police force, died this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Allen, of Somerset street. She was seventy-seven years of age, and had been a resident of the borough for the past twenty-two years. Mrs. Weiss had been ailing for about a year, and death was due to a complication of diseases.

Widow of the late Henry Weiss, who died about fifteen years ago, Mrs. Weiss was the mother of ten children, six daughters and three sons, nine of whom survive her. These are Mrs. Julius Stephany and Mrs. Fred Nuse, of Newark; Mrs. Charles Harris, of Steiner place; Mrs. William Allen, of Somerset street; Mrs. Albert Stine, of Grandview avenue; Mrs. Kate Leland, of Somerset street; Henry Weiss, of Regent street; Christopher Weiss, of Lincoln place, and Chief Marshal Weiss. Mrs. Weiss, whose maiden name was Caroline Harley, was born at Wurthemburg, Germany, and came to this country when a girl. She was for many years an active worker in the First Baptist church, where she was a member of the Christian Endeavor Society, the Ladies' Aid Society and the Home Department of the Sunday-school. Of recent years she has been identified as one of the most earnest workers at Faith chapel. No arrangements have as yet been made for the funeral.

Jaegar Boy Released on Bail.

Albert Jaegar, the West End boy who is accused of throwing the stone that injured Special Officer Harry Berlowitz, was released from jail on $200 bonds last night. The case was called in the city court, this morning, but at the request of Chief iKely the matter was adjourned for two weeks. It is thought that Berlowitz may possibly be well enough by that time to offer his side of the case.

AMUSEMENTS.

Francis Wilson's tour in "When Knights Were Bold" has been so successful that Charles Frohman has extended the route until the end of June.

Charles Frohman has purchased from Madame Yvette Guilbert the English-speaking rights to the words and music of all her songs, for Hattie Williams' future use.

Charles Frohman has decided to establish Otis Skinner in a Repertoire Company next season. Besides "The Honor of the Family," Mr. Skinner will revive four of his former successes.

Ethel Barrymore's tour for next season has been so laid out as to enable her to accept an invitation to perform "As You Like It" out-of-doors in the Greek theatre of the University of California.

Charles Frohman announces Joseph Coyne and Alexandra Carlisle in Henry Hubert Davis' play, "The Mollusc," as the first bill at the Garrick theatre when the house re-opens early in September.

Hattie Williams has received the complete manuscript of "Fluffy Ruffles," her play for next season. On May 2 Miss Williams will sail for Paris, there it procure additional gowns for her new part.

Barnum & Bailey's Greatest Show on Earth, the coming of which is always a matter of great interest to young and old alike, is doing an unprecedented business at the Madison Square Garden, New York. There are circuses and circuses, but to the New Yorker Barnum & Bailey's circus is the only one, in all of the world. New York loves huge things and so it loves its circus, which, by the way, is the only one that is annually seen in the Empire City. Big as has been the circus during previous years this season it is bigger than ever. As exhibited at the Madison Square Garden it will be the biggest thing of its kind and the world has known. The huge entertainment will mark an epoch in the development of the circus. Rich and glorious in novelties, wonderful acts, sensational feats and thrilling surprises, the circus still finds abundant room for real educational features. No other form of entertainment devised by man makes so many appeals to so many people as does the circus. A city in itself is the circus this season. It contains fifteen hundred people. The menagerie is larger than that possessed by any of the local zoological societies around the country. There are several hundred horses. The big spectacle, "Cleopatra," with which the circus entertainment opens, calls for a thousand men and women. On the program there are one hundred and ten acts. There are three hundred and fifty performers and they come from all corners of the earth. Twenty-seven different languages are spoken by the people on the roster.

The program offered at Proctor's Newark theatre during the week commencing April 6, will be headed by the well-known comedian Harry Gilfoil in his initial conception of a gay old Boulevardier "Baron Sands," the gay old sport, who is not as "old as he looks but as old as he feels." W. C. Fields returns after a long absence in his screamingly ludricous juggling act. Chris Richards, one of England's best comedians, is also booked. Barrows-Lancaster Company presents their laughable post bellum sketch "Tactics." Of special interest will be the appearance of J. N. Norcross and company in their turn representation of a refined up-to-date minstrel first part. Mr. Norcross is an old time resident of Newark. Hanson and Nelson, two pretty young misses appearing in a neat singing and dancing act. Madden and Fitzpatrick company will be seen in a slang classic entitled "The Turn of the Tide." The Four American Trumpeters will give a series of musical selections featuring a quartette finale on xylophones. New animated pictures.

Queen Victoria's Mittens.

There are a pair of mittens, small, simple, runs a London paragraph, commenting in the lace exhibition, and of a mellow ivory, lent by Mrs. Payne, which Queen Victoria wore a year after her marriage, and another more ornate pair, lent by Mrs. Malcolm Drummond, whose great-grandmother's hands they clasped that tense night, the even of the battle of Waterloo, when the sound of revelry at the historical ball in Brussels was hushed by the heralding of war.

Trousseau Gowns.

"Trousseau gowns are lovlier than ever," says the fashion editor of The Woman's Home Companion, "but as they have increased in beauty, they have lessened in number. Very few brides of today, no matter how fashionable they may be, order a trousseau consisting of a great number of costumes. The reason for this is that fashions change so that it is necessary every little while to have a new -style gown if one is to keep pace with the capricious modes.

WHY SO WEAK?

Kidney Troubles May Be Sapping Your Life Away—Plainfield People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Here is Plainfield testimony to prove it.

Oliver H. Voorhees, job printer, living at 21 Stone street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was suffering from kidney weakness for a long time, due, probably, to my being compelled to be on my feet so much of the time. On arising in the morning I would find myself very weak, and suffering from severe pain in the back and sides, accompanied by headache. The kidney secretions were of bad odor, and the desire to pass them was too frequent. I could not seem to find either a doctor to cure, or a medicine that would help me until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's pharmacy. Before I took three boxes I was relieved of my aches and pains, and my kidneys were well again."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

PROPOSALS FOR SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at a meeting held March 2, 1908, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Monday, evening, April 6, 1908, at 7:45, at the Board room in the High School building, corner Ninth street and Arlington avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for furnishing school supplies for the ensuing school year, commencing July 1, 1908, a list of which can be obtained at the office of the Board. All proposals to be endorsed, "Proposals for School Supplies" and addressed to the Secretary of the Board.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, the Secretary will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding, or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board. No bids will be received previous to the hour designated, and none will be received thereafter. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

A TETE-A-TETE WITH PA.

My pa, he didn't go to town
Last evening after tea,
But got a book and settled down
As comfy as could be
I'll tell you I was awful glad
To have my pa about
To answer all the things I had
Been tryin' to find out.

And so I asked him why the world
Is round, instead of square
And why the piggies' tails are curled,
And why don't fish breathe air?
And why the moon don't hit a star
And why the dark is black,
And just how many birds there are,
And will the wind come back?

And why does water stay in wells,
And why do June bugs hum,
And what's the roar I hear in shells,
And when will Christmas come?
And why the grass is always green
Instead of someties blue,
And why a bean will grow a bean,
And not an apple, too?

And why a horse can't learn to moo,
And why a cow can't neigh
And do the fairies live on dew,
And what makes hair grow gray?
And then my pa got up and, gee!
The awful words he said,
I hadn't done a thing, but he
Jest sent me off to bed.

LONG ENGAGEMENTS.

Naturally the girl who loves a man will promise to wait for him, even though marriage should be very far in the dim distance.

But if she waits longer than two years she begins to get discouraged and to look old maidish. Love grows commonplace from the long wait.

Other men forget all about her; she gets out of the way of going out at all, as she spends all her evenings with her fiance.

The only way to avoid all this is for the ineligible man to refrain from paying serious attention to any girl until his prospects warrant his asking her to marry him.

It is too late to back down after he has won her love. The only fair thing to do then is to tell her of it, but he must not make love to her in the first place.

The girl cannot very well set the date for the marriage nor complain of the long engagement. She can do nothing but wait and lose heart and looks in the waiting.

An engagement of a year gives them a chance to become friends as well as sweethearts.

Of course if they have been friends for years before the engagement a short engagement is all right, but the average engagement is between people whose acquaintanceship has been brief.

ANCIENT GREEK DIE.

Unique Specimen Preserved in the Museum at Athens.

Professor K. Zengelis, writing in the Chemiker Zeitung, calls attention to what is probably the only genuine antique die used for coinage that has been preserved. It was found in Egypt in 1904, but is now in the Museum of Athens. It consists of bronze, and is engraved with the owl that was stamped on Athenian tetadrachama pieces, which contained about as much silver as three qparter-dollars. The die is of high scientific interest on account of this evidence it gives of the skill of the ancients, three or four hundred years before Christ, in meatllurgy. It contains about 22½ per cent. of tin, and nearly 70 per cent. of copper. It is extremely hard, but at the same time possesses a certain malleability, due to the great purity of the copper and tin, which were carefully freed from all traces of lead and zinc to preserve the hardness, and from arsenic and antimony to avoid brittleness.

A Distinction Without a Difference.

Five-year-old Deborah had been invited to take luncheon at a restaurant with Miss K.

"Do you like cocoa?" she was asked.

When the answer was "Yes," the beverage was duly brought, but remained untasted.

At last Miss K. said, "Why don't you drink your cocoa, Deborah, when you said you wanted it?"

"I didn't say I wanted it," replied the child poliately; "I only said that I liked it."—Woman's Home Companion.

Superstitions on Cutting the Nails.

Cut them on Monday, you cut them for health;
Cut them on Tuesday, you cut them for wealth;
Cut them on Wednesday, you cut them for news;
Cut them on Thursday, a pair of new shoes;
Cut them on Friday, you cut them for sorrow;
Cut then on Saturday, see your true love tomorrow;
Cut them on Sunday, bad luck will be with you all the week.

Lenten Wear.

Gray is liked.
Black is classic.
White is for evening.
Likewise pale gray and mauve.
Black and white checks are in demand.

After all, the "sackcloth and ashes" garb is beautifully varied.

Sure Cure.

"Pray, Dr. Goodley, what is a quick cure for the gout?" was the question of an indolent gentleman to his hard-worked friend.

"Live upon sixpence a day and earn it," was the unexpected answer.

THE ESCAPADE

A POST MARITAL ROMANCE

By Cyrus Townsend Brady

ILLUSTRATIONS BY

"My Lord Is Well?"

"Devilish clever woman, that," faltered Strathgate, "and beautiful. Carrington's a damned fool—if he—did—run me through. You're another, Seton, and—I'm—"

But what Lord Strathgate was in his own opinion, he did not at that moment reveal, for the effort at speech had been too much for him. With a sort of ghastly chuckle, he fainted quite away again.

"We have no time to lose," said Nevinson, abruptly. "We must get him to the house at once."

"I'll call the keepers myself," said Blythedale, who should have done it at first, as he knew where he had posted them.

"Fetch me some water, if you will, Sir Charles," exclaimed the doctor, "from the brook yonder! Here's a cup."

Sir Charles did as he was bid, and although he went and came in the twinkling of an eye and extended to the surgeon the cup of water desired, he had time while he filled it to pick up something else that lay by the bank in the soft ooze of the border of the brook. He noticed the foot print of a woman's shoe and by the side of it another little knot of ribbon like that he wore, a knot of scarlet, the color Mistress Debbie affected and with which, he remembered—for he had met Lady Ellen when she came from the ship to England—the dress she wore on the ocean, which she had undoubtedly assumed for traveling, was trimmed. It matched that other knot of scarlet which he had worn next his heart since he took it from the carriage floor.

Ellen and Deborah had escaped! Why was it not possible for fortune to have brought them there? His eye swept the scene with the instinct of a trained soldier to whom the habit of seeking cover has become second nature. The coppice! They were there and he would see them; they should not escape him now. He hastily arranged his course.

In a few moments Blythedale came back with his keepers and a shutter from the nearest keeper's house over which blankets and comforts had been hastily thrown. With infinite care, they lifted the prostrate, senseless Strathgate upon it and started for the hall.

"If you'll forgive me, Blythedale," said Sir Charles in answer to an invitation to accompany them, "I have something to think about and I shall stay here alone for a few moments."

"Oh, very well, suit yourself," returned Blythedale, "but when you've had your thought out, come up to the hall and I'll give you some breakfast and something to drink to take the taste of this demned unpleasant business out of our mouths, and so early in the morning, too! Poor Strathgate!"

Seton stood quietly until he had satisfied himself that the party had got out of sight and sound. Then he turned to the coppice.

"Mistress Deborah," he cried softly, approaching the edge. "Lady Ellen!"

He listened. He detected a slight whimpering sound and then a sob.

"Mistress Deborah, I know your voice," cried Sir Charles forcing his way through the undergrowth regardless of his clothing, and in a moment he was by the side of Mistress Debbie.

Mistress Debbie had been lying upon her face. She lifted herself up on her arms and was staring at Sir Charles as well as she could stare at anyone with the tears streaming down her face. Leaves and bits of mold clung to her person, her eyes were heavy, her face was haggard. It is evidence of the quality of Sir Charles' passion that, even in this guise, he thought her beautiful.

He stooped over her instantly, caught her in his arms and drew her to her feet. Mistress Debbie fell against him, clung to him with an astonishing access of strength and cried the more.

In his excitement and rapture at this delightful contact, Sir Charles did not notice the other darker figure lying prone near the spot whence he had plucked his love. As soon as his eye fell upon her, he quickly lifted his sweetheart's head and held her from him a little.

"Is that Lady Ellen?" he asked.

"Yes," said Debbie contritely, "I was so glad to see you, I forgot—"

"Is she dead?"

"Fainted, I think. You see we saw all that terrible battle—"

"We must get her out of here at once," said Sir Charles, releasing Deborah. He stooped down and, although Ellen was no light burden for any man, he picked her up and followed by Debbie forced his way through the coppice on to the sward which had already been the scene of such memorable events that morning. He laid her gently on the grass, bade Debbie loosen her collar, ran to the brook, came back with a hat full of water and splashed it manlike, unceremoniously into Ellen's face. Then he drew from his pocket a small flask which he happened to have with him, and forced a few drops of liquor between Lady Ellen's pale lips. Then he and Deborah fell to chafing her hands. Presently, with a long sigh Lady Ellen opened her eyes.

She stared hard at Seton for a moment and then the color slowly came back into her cheeks. She strove weakly to rise upon her hand and Debbie slipped her arm behind her and supported her.

"Where is my lord?" she asked faintly. "I saw it all. Oh, my God, I saw it all!"

"Lord Carrington was not hurt," "I know," faltered Ellen. "Strathgate! How horribly he was punished," she murmured. "We have all suffered, but I must go to my lord now. You have run me down on a lee shore, Sir Charles. Will you take me to him?"

"Dear Lady Carrington," said Sir Charles, tenderly, "I would do so—You must prepare yourself for another shock."

This time Ellen sat bolt upright, disdaining Deborah's help and in spite of her restraining arm.

"My lord is well?" she cried in anguished tones.

"Perfectly well," said Sir Charles, "but arrested."

"For what? For the duel?"

"Nay, for disobedience of orders, for refusing to rejoin his ship, for—"

"And he was following me," cried Lady Ellen with a heavenly smile, "he cared more for me than orders, or—"

And then the thought of Lady Cecily swept into her mind and clouded her heart.

"Madam," said Seton, "believe me he cares more for you than anything under heaven."

"And am I not to go to him now?" asked Ellen. "I see how foolish I have been."

"If you will forgive me the suggestion," said Seton, "'tis Carrington who has played the fool and now he's in a grave situation. Admiral Kephard is his friend, but he is helpless. My lord must stand a court-martial and 'tis likely to go hard with him."

"What is to be done?" asked Ellen, seeing her new found cup of happiness about to be dashed from her lips.

"You must go to the king, tell him the whole story."

"Who will take me there?" asked Ellen, after a long pause.

"I will," returned Sir Charles. "Think you that having at last run you down, I would allow Mistress Debbie out of my sight again? Courage, madam, we will appeal to his majesty in person. He hath a kind heart for all his strange ways, God bless him! We will all go together and appeal to him, but first I must get you shelter"—and Sir Charles looked away as he spoke—"and clothes suitable for your sex. We will go to Blythedale hall."

"Have they taken Lord Strathgate there?"

"Ay," returned Sir Charles, "in a helpless, fainting condition."

"I will never go," said Ellen, decidedly, "under any roof in which he abides, living or dead."

"Very well," said Sir Charles. "Mistress Deborah shall stay here with you. I will get a carriage somewhere and we will go to the next posting station and at the first convenient stopping place the definite arrangements may be completed."

"And you and Debbie, Sir Charles?" queried Ellen.

"If Mistress Debbie will accept me," said Sir Charles, bowing ceremoniously, "I shall be proud to be her husband."

"Oh, Sir Charles," faltered Debbie, rising to her feet and blushing like the crimson ribbon with which her dress was trimmed, "I did not want to run away a bit," she said as Sir Charles, utterly oblivious to Lady Ellen, caught her in his arms.

"You found Baxter's 'Saints' Rest' a heavenly volume," says my lady, softly. "May it be peaceful and happy with you to the last page."

"Amen!" assented Sir Charles, cutting short Debbie's ejaculation in the most approved and delectable way.

CHAPTER XXI.

The Little Man of Windsor.

There was nothing very awe inspiring in the sight of the plain, homely looking little Dutchman walking under the trees at Windsor; nor was there anything more impressive in the figure of the dumpy little woman who walked by his side, but for all that Ellen got down on her knees in the pathway as the two figures approached her. Lady Carrington's example was followed precipitately by Sir Charles and Mistress Deborah Slocum.

"Hey!" cried the little man blinking and peering at the three kneeling figures, "whom have we here?" His eye ranged from Ellen to Deborah and comprehended the baronet kneeling in the background. His dull face lighted with a glance of recognition. He knew the army list by heart and most of the officers appearing thereon, especially those of any degree of rank or station.

"Sir Charles Seton, is it not?" went on the plain little man, "and you are a captain in the Sussex light infantry. Rise, Sir Charles," he continued, gravely, "and you may present me to these ladies, your companions."

Sir Charles, glad enough to be released from his uncomfortable position, rose to his feet and stood at attention with a military salute. Then bowing profoundly, he said:

"Your majesty,"—for the little man was no less a person than King George the Third—"this is the Countess of Carrington, and this is Mistress Deborah Slocum of the—er—Massachusetts Bay Colony."

"Of the state of Massachusetts, your majesty," said Deborah, with great spirit.

"My affianced wife, your majesty," continued Seton, hastily, hoping to prevent an outbreak of wrath in his majesty's mind at Deborah's contumacy.

"Not content with stealing my colonies," said the king, kindly, but with a note of melancholy in his voice, "you Americans"—he choked a little at the word—"must now take the brave officers of my army. Rise, Mistress Slocum, and you, madam."

He extended his hand to Ellen, who was nearest to him.

Poor Ellen, who had come upon a desperate errand, to beg a great gift from the king, made no scruple about kissing the monarch's fat and pudgy hand ere she rose to her feet in obedience to the king's indication.

"Lady Carrington," continued royal George meditatively, "let me see." He knew the peerage too, did this industrious little monarch, almost as well as the army list. "Your name is Ellen, is it not?"

"Yes, your majesty."

"And you, too, are an American. I remember it all now. Lord Carrington was captured by your rebel friends. He was twice captured in Philadelphia, by you, my lady. I recall it all now," cried the king with a sprightly air, greatly delighted at his mnemonic feat. "Yes, my dear—" he turned to the stout little lady who stood quietly by his side—"you remember my telling you all about Lord Carrington's love for this lady. And now—" he stopped and looked about him vaguely.

"And now, your majesty," began poor Ellen, "his wife comes to you with a petition."

"A petition? For what?" asked the king, curiously.

"Lord Carrington is arrested, sir."

"Arrested! And for what?" asked his majesty.

"For—"

Ellen faltered.

"For disobedience of orders, sir," interposed Seton.

"How?" said the king. "'Tis a serious charge. And by whom preferred?"

"Captain Careysbrook of the Niobe, sir."

"And wherefore?"

"Lord Carrington being ordered to report aboard ship, refused to go and the ship sailed without him, sir."

"What reason had he for this disobedience?"

Little George had been a soldier himself, and he was very strict indeed on branches of military etiquette.

Sir Charles hesitated. A pious man was the king, and desperately down upon dueling. Yet the truth had to be told.

"Your majesty," he began then he stopped.

"Sir," cried Ellen, taking upon herself the burden, "my husband fought a duel for me."

"A duel?" asked the king, frowning.

"Yes, your majesty."

"And with whom?"

"With the earl of Strathgate, sir."

"What was the result of the duel?"

"Lord Strathgate was severely wounded, sir."

"Not killed?"

"No, your majesty."

"I'm glad of that," returned King George. "The earl of Strathgate is ill prepared to meet his Maker. Proceed, madam."

"That is all, sir. Lord Carrington was arrested immediately after for not having gone aboard the ship. You see, sir, he knew the night before when he received the orders that he would have to fight with Lord Strathgate in the morning, and he couldn't go. The fault is mine, your majesty, and therefore I humbly ask his pardon."

"Explain yourself, madam," returned the king, with a good deal of formality.

"Your majesty," began Ellen, falteringly, "I have been a very foolish woman. I ran away—with—Lord Strathgate."

"What!" exclaimed the king, his face flushing with indignation. "And you have the effrontery to come here and confess it."

"Lady Carrington does herself an injustice," again interposed Sir Charles Seton. "'Tis a long story, sir."

"Long or short," answered the king, "I must have it. How was it, Sir Charles?"

"It began at a house party at Carrington, your majesty." He hesitated and turned to Ellen. "I must make a clean breast of it," he said.

"By all means," cried the king, "conceal nothing, keep nothing back!"

"Lord Carrington was ashamed of his wife, sir."

"And why?" asked the king, with a glance of admiration at Ellen, now clothed simply, but in the proper habiliments of her sex, and who certainly looked lovely enough and sweet enough for any man on earth.

"Because, sir," said Ellen, answering the direct question, "I would not gamble; I could not dance; I was ignorant of the accomplishments of the day."

"Hum!" growled the king. "Proceed, Sir Charles."

"There was a lady there who sought to encourage my Lord Carrington in his foolish and wrong estimate of his wife."

"Who was the woman?"

Sir Charles hesitated.

"I command you, sir, by your allegiance, that you tell me her name instantly."

"It was Lady Cecily Carrington, your majesty," answered Deborah, who had no scruples at all in the premises.

"The hussy!" ejaculated the queen, to whom Lady Cecily's person and reputation were equally well known.

The king raised a warning hand. Sir Charles, at a nod from his majesty, resumed his tale.

"Thinking herself betrayed, as well as despised and mocked, my lady fled by the aid of Lord Strathgate."

"But, your majesty," interposed Deborah again, with astonishing boldness, she felt quite equal to any king that walked the earth, being a free born American citizen and she wished that Elder Brewster could see how she was bearing herself now, "I went with her."

"I Hastened Here to Take the Blame Upon Myself, Sir."

"Good!" exclaimed the king, with evident satisfaction in his voice and manner, "but pray, why did you go away with a person of Lord Strathgate's reputation?"

"Your majesty," answered Ellen, "I knew naught of it. He had been kind to me. I told him that I wanted to get to Portsmouth and take a ship for the United States. He promised to take me there, but instead started to drive us to his own estate. Mistress Slocum and I escaped from him, took a boat by the sea shore and made the best of our way to Portsmouth harbor."

"We paid for the boat we took, your majesty," interposed Deborah again.

"Well, what next?" asked the king, smiling a little at the American girl.

"Lord Strathgate pursued us to Portsmouth by shore and Lord Carrington followed him. They met. My husband knew that I had gone with Lord Strathgate. Words passed between them. There was a challenge and a week ago they fought at Blythedale hall. Mistress Slocum and I were there, and—"

"Did they fight in your presence?" interrupted the king.

"We were concealed in some bushes [illegible] had retreated for rest [illegible] arrange to continue [illegible]

"And you saw the duel?"

"Yes, your majesty," answered Ellen. "He fought like a hero, sir, and for me."

"Then what happened?"

"Then he was arrested and taken back to the Britannia—"

"And what next?"

"I hastened here to take the blame upon myself, sir," said Ellen, sinking again to her knees, "and to beg that you will pardon my lord and restore him to duty."

"Hath he had lesson enough, think you?"

"I'll answer for it that he has, your majesty," said Sir Charles.

"And have you had lesson enough?" demanded little George, looking down quizzically into the upturned face of the woman kneeling before him.

"Yes, your majesty," answered Ellen, "enough to last me all my life."

"Why, here's promise of a pretty reconciliation," said the king, with a rising inflection in his voice, turning to his wife.

The old woman nodded.

"Forgive him your majesty," she said kindly. "I will warrant he will not forget the experience."

King George was not a very brilliant man. Even Ellen, anxious to view him in the most favorable light because of her petition, could see that, but he had a brilliant idea at that moment. He stood thinking, his plain face brightening with a smile, and when he smiled he was really quite winning. He looked so honest, so true, and so good, if he were stupid, that Sir Charles and Deborah could not help smiling with him; beside, 'tis etiquette to smile and to frown with the king, whether he be wise or foolish.

Ellen did not smile. She had too much at stake. She waited in lovely appeal, tears trembling in her eyes, color wavering in her cheeks, her bosom heaving, her hands outstretched.

PUPILS PRESENT DRAMA

Cast of Junior Class, N.P.H.S. Gives "The Cricket on the Hearth."

An innovation in local amateur theatricals was the presentation of the drama, "The Cricket on the Hearth," by the pupils of the junior class of the North Plainfield High School at the Casino last night. Drama is a new phase of amateur work among the pupils, for the local theatricals have in the past have promised only farces or comedies. A capacity house greeted the players, and the production was a decided success.

The complete cast of characters follows: John Perrybingle, a carrier, W. G. Herrman; Gruff and Tackleton, a toy-maker, Eldon Miller; Caleb Plummer, his man, Clarence Steiner; Old Stranger and Edward Plummer, Fred McClintock; Dot, Mrs. Perrybingle, Miss Florence Fowler; Bertha, Caleb's blind daughter, Miss Ida Englehart; May Fielding, Miss Gertrude Berkhan; Mrs. Fielding, Miss Elvira Hoerster; Tilly Slowboy, nursemaid, Miss Jennie Nelson; a messenger, Roy Vanderbeek; guests, Miss Marion Major, Miss Ruth Day, Gay Hartley and Roy Vanderbeek. The music for the final dance and "soft music" throughout the production, was furnished by a trio of the pupils—Miss May Wyckoff, pianist; Ellsworth Bennett and Delmore Weinberger, violinists. The executive staff included Miss Helen T. Stahlberger, who coached the cast; Eldon Miller, stage manager; George Parsons, property maneger, and W. G. Herrman, chairman of the entertainment committee.

GEORGE THATCHER RETURNING.

As an added attraction and "headliner" for the vaudeville show he was ill present at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night, Manager Counihan has secured George Thatcher, the famous minstrel man and former Plainfielder. He will appear in the black-face monologue he has been giving over the K. and P. and Kohl and Castle circuits since leaving "The County Chairman" company, in which he played "Sassaffass Livingston."

Another big feature in the show will be the return of May Ward and her "Dresden dolls," the act that made a big hit with local patrons about a year ago. Eight other acts of a varied nature will round out the bill.

Episcopal Mission Conference.

An all-day conference missionary meeting, attended by about a hundrer representatives of Episcopal churches from nearby-cities,was held yesterday at Holy Cross church. In the morning, there was an address by Rev. A. H. Clark, Indian missionary at the Rosebud Agency, South Dakota, and at the conclusion of the session, luncheon was served in the parish house. The afternoon session was devoted to conference discussions of various missionary problems. A dozen churches were represented, delegates coming gfrom Elizabeth, Trenton, Bound Brook, New Brunswick and other cities.

BOROUGH COUNCIL GRANTS BIULDING PERMITS.

A total of eight applications for building permits of various kinds was received by the Borough Council at its meeting last night. All were granted with the exception of two that the members had received no previous information about and which they wished to investigate before taking action. These were from D. N. Force for the erection of two houses 16 by 24 each on Warren street and to move a storage building from the back of the lot to the front, and from George Giddes for an addition on the east side of a building at Pearl street and Watchung avenue and to erect a barn, 16 by 24, on Watchung avenue.

The permits granted were as follows: Horace J. Martin, for the erection of a frame house 22 by 26 at 14 Pearl street; L. C. Sheppard, the building of a porch to the house at 28 Somerset place; E. A. Lowe, the erection of a shed 16 by 25 at the rear of 67 Fairview avenue; Schenck and McAfee, the building of an addition to the property at 212 Somerset street to be used as a bathroom; C. M. Huff, erection of a chicken house 7 by 10 at 29 Lincoln place; Orchard Park Improvement Association, two frame houses south-east of Chatham street.

WATCHUNG STONE COMPANY GETS BOROUGH CONTRACT.

The contract for furnishing crushed stone to North Plainfield during the coming year was awarded to the Watchung Stone Company by the Common Council at its meeting last night. Only two bids were submitted, the other coming from J. Y. Wilson. The figures were as follows:

J. Y. Wilson—Screenings, 95 cents per ton; half inch, 90 cents; one-and-a-half inch, 85 cents; two-and-a-half inch, 70 cents.

Watchung Stone Co.—Screenings, 84 cents; half inch, 84 cents; one-and-a-half inch, 79 cents; two-anda-half inch, 69 cents.

When the bids were first read, there was some inclination on the part of Councilman Waldron, chairman of the street committee, to have the awarding of the contract held over for two weeks but this was opposed by Mr. Van Arsdale. He said he saw no reason why the matter should be held up and the majority of the councilmen concurred with his view. The contract was accordingly awarded to the Watchung company, of which Warren B. Travell is the representative.

An Anniversary Surprise.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Dunn, of West Fifth street, were given a surprise by fifty or more of their friends who called unexpectedly, last night, to assist them in celebrating the twentieth anniversary of their wedding. Both were totally unprepared for the self-invited visitors but everyone was soon made at home and an enjoyable time was had. Mr. and Mrs. Dunn are members of the First Presbyterian church and the affair was arranged by members of the congregation. Mrs. Dunn is a daughter of the late Jeptha Frazee.

Will Pay for Cops' Clothes.

Acting on a resolution introduced by Mr. Van Arsdale, the Borough Council voted last night to give each of the marshals $30 every six months to reimburse them for money expended in clothing. It is practically an increase in pay of $60 a year. Mr. Van Arsdale explained that the city pays its policemen at a much better rate and while the borough could never expect to equal it, he believed the reimbursement was timely.

PROPERTY—TITLES.

The Harcuvar Copper Company owns outright in fee simple with no debt, nine full Mining Claims comprising 185.5 acres, together with one unpatented claim held for its water rights as well as mineral. The names of the claims are as follows:

"Sunny Side," "Triumph," "Ada," "Mystic, "Treasure Trove," "Mountain Queen," "Harcuvar," "Midget," "Arroyo," and "Agua Frio."

The Company has erected a first class boarding house with all necessary equipment; has provided sleeping accommodations for the men; has erected a substantial portal house to the tunnel including blacksmith shop, store room, etc., ore cars, track (16 lb. rails) and tools to run the work with three shifts of miners.

The title of these claims has been declared perfect by Judge Hawkins and they are now in process of patenting, our patent survey has already been accepted by the United States Surveyor General.

DEVELOPMENT PLANS.

We have complete surveys by the well known Mining Engineering firm, Haggott, Girand Company, and our development plans have been laid with the utmost care and skill. Passing through the group east and west are two prominent diorite dykes. They are from 20 to 40 feet wide each and are from 30 to 60 feet apart, carrying ore on both the north and south contacts and with the country rock between them highly mineralized. On the north contact vein on the north dyke on the Sunny Side Claim we have exposed through prospecting shafts from 5 to 9 feet of ore that runs from 2 TO 24 PER CENT. IN COPPER AND FROM 0.22 TO 1.52 OZ. IN GOLD WITH SMALL SILVER VALUES.

To develop this excellent surface showing a cross-cut tunnel 5 foot by 7 foot 6 inches is being driven a distance of 418 feet where it will cross-cut the ore zone at 275 feet vertical depth. This tunnel is being driven by hand and is now in 200 feet, but the installation of an air compressor and air drills is contemplated at an early date so that our work can be conducted with more dispatch. For further development we offer today in lots of not less than 100 shares either for cash with a 5 per cent. discount or on the installment plan of five equal monthly payments of 5 cents for each share. "ONE GOOD INVESTMENT IN WORTH A LIFE-TIME OF LABOR." If you don't buy a block of Harcuvar Copper Company stock now, and reap the cream of the investment you will be the loser.

A Copper Mine is a Commercial Proposition, Not a Speculation.

No single industry in the world is now paying as large a profit on money invested as the Copper industry. Several Copper Mines in Arizona and Mexico are paying from 100 per cent. to 3,000 per cent. on an investment made only a few years ago. The richest copper section in the world is the Arizona Copper belt. The average cost of producing copper in Arizona is less than 7½ cents per pound. No other copper region in the world is able to duplicate the quantity at anything near that cost. This low cost of production justly entitles Arizona Copper Stocks to the highest place in the confidence of the investor for the lower the cost of production, the greater the net earnings and dividends. These are facts which leave no room for argument and therefore we do not hesitate to advise our friends to put their idle money into Arizona Copper Mines.

THE MAN WHO INVESTED $1,000.00 IN CALUMET AND ARIZONA SIX YEARS AGO NOW HAS A SNUG FORTUNE OF $36,630.00 AND LAST YEAR RECEIVED IN DIVIDENDS $16.50 PER SHARE, AMOUNTING TO $4,994.50. THIS STOCK WAS PUT ON THE MARKET IN 1901 AND WAS FIRST SOLD AT FROM 40 CENTS TO $3.00 PER SHARE, NOW $110.00. TEN YEARS AGO UNITED VERDE SOLD AT FROM 15 TO 50 CENTS AND IS NOW PAYING 75 CENTS PER SHARE REGULAR MONTHLY DIVIDENDS.

TODAY WE OFFER YOU AN INTEREST IN THE HARCUVAR COPPER COMPANY WHICH IS LOCATED IN THE RICHEST PART OF THE ARIZONA COPPER BELT, AND WE FIRMLY BELIEVE THAT EACH $1,000.00 INVESTED IN HARCUVAR NOW SHOULD BE INTRINSICALLY WORTH SEVERAL THOUSAND DOLLARS BY THE TIME WE GET OUR PROPERTY DEVELOPED. INVESTIGATE THIS PROPOSITION AT ONCE AND SEND US YOUR ORDER AS THE ALLOTMENT IS LIMITED.

NEWARK M. E. CONFERENCE HARD AT WORK EAGERLY AWAITS BISHOP'S APPOINTMENTS

Bishop Henry Spellmeyer's appointments, it is epected, will be announced tomorrow morning to the Newark Conference of the M. E. church, which is in session at the First M. E. church here. It is said that Rev. Abel C. McCrea, the pastor of the First M. E. congregation, could obtain the appointment as presiding elder of the Elizabeth district if he would only say the word, but it is well known that he prefers to remain where he is so well esteemed as a pastor.

Reliable reports have it that Rev. Dr. William C. Snodgrass, pastor of the Perth Amboy church and formerly pastor here, will be named as presiding elder of the Elizabeth district. His closest competitor for the honor of succeeding Rev. Dr. Daniel Halleran is Rev. G. C. Wilding.

Rev. E. E. Roberson, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, according to report, will be named as pastor of a Passaic church, which gives a $2,000 salary. Charles S. Kemble, pastor of the Park Avenue church, Elizabeth, will be Rev. Mr. Roberson's successor. Rev. Orra J. Shoop, pastor of the Cranford church, will become pastor of Grace church, succeeding the late Dr. C. W. Parsons.

Executive Session.

Matters pertaining to the Mt. Tabor Camp-meeting Association were discussing during the executive session of the Newark Conference, this morning, and its was decided to have a committee of five appointed to confer with the standing committee of the association for the purpose of bringing about a re-organization of affairs there. It was also voted to continue all those now on the supernumery list. These matters brought out considerable discussion. Revs. Halleron, Mead, Vogel, D. B. F. Randolph and Urmy were appointed the committee on camp-meeting association.

Dr. Dodd, Third Reserve.

When the regular session was resumed, the Bishop announced a ballot taken to elect a third reserve delegate to the General Conference. Rev. Dr. Dodd received fifty-nine votes and Rev. Dr. Guttridge fifty-six, but as eighty-five were necessary for a choice, another ballot was necessary, when Rev. Dr. Dodd was the choice, receiving 110 votes out of 179.

In the meantime, Dr. Eugene Noble presented the report of the trustees of the Centenary Collegiate Institute, in which he made a plea for more money for the institute. He paid high tribute to the school adding that it is a "corking good" institution. He stated that there are more applications from girls to enter the school than from boys. The question of an endowment fund was referred to, and Dr. Noble said that it is a question whether it would not be advisable to separate the boys and girls and provide separate courses of study. There was also a question as to the wisdom of lengthening the course, and re-adjustment of conditions.

Collegiate Institute.

Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, as chairman of the special committee on the Centenary Collegiate Institute Furnishing Fund, presented, his report which contained this:

Contribution to furnishing fund: Total amount required, $24,669; total amount raised in previous years, $10,424; amounts raised this year on the several districts, Elizabeth, $464; Jersey City, $32; Newark, $989; Paterson, $553; total, $3,038.

Rev. Dr. Snodgrass.
—Courtesy Newark News.

We regret, however, that so long a time has been required to bring the fund thus far to completion. We urge that this commission be continued and that an enthusiastic and determined effort be made by pastors and presiding elders to consumate the work during the ensuing year. It is our porpose to report to the conference of 1909 the final and authoritative attitude of each charge toward the furnishing fund and we hope to be able to say that every charge has paid the amount of its apportionment.

Applaud Dr. Whitney.

During the early part of the session Bishop Joseph Hartsell, of Africa, and Rev. Dr. G. H. Whitney were introduced to the conference and were received with great applause.

Time-Pastorate.

The question of the four-year time-limit of pastorate, caused considerable discussion and some of the members were opposed to debate at this time and that opinions prevailed. Tomorrow morning was fixed as the time for general discourse.

The Bishop wishing to take up several important matters with the presiding elders to meet them in the chapel, and Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut took the chair. Rev. Dr. C. E. Bealls, field secretary of the American Peace Commission, was introduced and spoke briefly.

Bishop Hartsell Talks.

There being a desire to hear Bishop Hartsell, he was introduced. He recalled twelve years ago when he entered upon his work in Africa. At that time he asked for twenty years' service and has served more than half that time. He referred to a recent visit to Morocco, where he said there are great possibilities for the future. Speaking of the influence of the powers in that country, he said that the English flag is the missionary flag.

The interests of the Chautauque Literary and Scientific Circle were presented by Rev. D. W. Howell, secretary of the circle which was founded by Bishop J. H. Vincent, formerly of this city.

The Love Feast.

There was a great outpouring of people at the First M. E. church, yesterday morning, when the services of the day began with a love feast, which was in charge of Rev. Alexander Craig, and all united in offering testimony and prayer. It was an impressive meeting and the fact that Bishop Spellmeyer was to preach the

AGAINST A LOCKOUT BUT STRIKE POSSIBLE

The Master Builders' Association of Westfield, Cranford, Roselle, Scotch Plains and vicinity held a meeting last night and voted against the proposed lock-out of all the building trades in the Elizabeth and Plainfield districts. This practically means that union men will not be employed on such structures, now in process of erection, where the non-union lathers have been employed: and that buildings, in the process of construction, where non-union lathers were employed after the union men went on a strike, will be completed by non-union carpenters.

The vote against the lockout prevents making the locality an open shop for the present, though it may force the union men to go on a general strike. The Carpenters' Union, of this place, held a meeting last night and appointed a committee to confer with the employers and striking lathers in order to see if an adjustment of the strike could not be attained.

KEELY HAS "REP"—THAT'S WHY BUNDY BACKED AWAY

John E. Keely, a contractor, of East Seventh street, appeared in the city court, this morning, as complainant against Henry Bundy, colored, who he alleged had assaulted him in the yard at his home, yesterday morning, following an argument over a money matter. There was no doubt in anybody's mind but what Keely had been given what is commonly known as a "trimmings" as he had a most artistically damaged face to prove it but Judge Runyon found it a hard matter to decide who was to blame for the fracas. Bundy claimed that Keely attacked him and he only defended himself while the complainant asserted the colored man had struck the first blow.

In the course of his testimony, Bundy said he had gone to Keely's place to get paid for a harness he had sold him and that a dispute arose over the amount because he had failed to return a horse clipping machine which he borrowed. It ended by Keely ordering Bundy off the premises and the colored man said he started to "back away." When asked why he proceeded in this manner he replied:

"Well, Keely has a reputation of telling men to clear out and then planting his foot against them when they turn. I made up my mind he wasn't going to catch me napping; that's why I backed."

Bundy also said that Keely hit him on the side of the head as he was going away and he struck back in self-defence.

"After I was out of the yard," continued the defendant, "Keely heaved big rocks at me and if his aim hadn't been poor I'd have had a crushed skull."

The case was adjourned until Saturday morning to allow Bundy to procure witnesses he said had been near at hand. Councilman William Gloak and John Gill were on the premises at the time but neither saw who struck the first blow.

BURNS SUCCEEDS RUNYON AT TELEPHONE OFFICE.

Paul H. Burns, of Montclair, this morning superceded Charles W. Runyon as local agent at the Plainfield office of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company. Mr. Runyon, who has been in the company's employ for many years, is still retained and will be assigned to special work.

The present staff of the company here now consists of George M. Beal, district manager in charge of the traffic work; Paul H. Burns, local agent, and W. C. Applegate, general foreman in charge of the plant. Mr. Runyon has been a valuable man to the company and is largely responsible for the success of this utilities company here.

Communion at Marconnier.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was celebrated at Marconnier chapel yesterday morning, when Rev. J. T. Lansdale, the pastor, acted as celebrant. Mrs. Bertha E. VanCourt, wife of W. E. VanCourt, was received as a member on confession, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Schenck were received by letter. Elder A. L. Force and Deacon William R. Kriney, of Trinity Reformed church, assisted the pastor by distributing the elements of the sacrament. Dr. Lansdale's sermon was on "Faith, Hope and Love," as qualities resulting from regularly attending the communion service.

BANKER GILBERT'S TALK

Former Mayor Addresses Massachusett's Institute on the Financial Situation.

DWELLS ON CENTRAL BANK.

Plainfielder in Speech at Springfield Is Optimistic—The Evils of a Central Bank.

Before Springfield Chapter of the American Institute of Bankers, at Springfield, Mass., the other night, former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, president of the New York Clearing House, gave a talk on the times in finance, touching incidently on the central bank idea which has been so much agitated.

In part Mr. Gilbert said:

"Great changes have taken place in the history of the world during the past ten years. Whilst we have been working out our own small problems in a small and circumscribed environment, the Orient and Africa, with more than one-half of the world's population, have been opened up to western civilization, the age of electricity has been ushered in, with its multipled uses for iron and copper and steel. The age of the automobile, and big battleships; stop and think of how much costly material and labor the world has been expending for these things, and municipal improvements, too,—old cities are being torn down and rebuilt—and the wonderful expansion of railroads, which during my own lifetime, in our country alone, have increased more than 200,000 miles in trackage, and which owing to ever-increasing traffic and the necessity for heavier locomotives and larger cars, require to be renewed every few years. The mineral production of the world shows the same amazing expansion. Consider what an impulse these things alone have given to the demand for material things of life.

"The demand for the material things of life has been doubled during the past fifteen years; the world at large has felt the impulse of this quickened demand and experienced a prolonged period of business prosperity. In our own country during the past seven or eight years the value of farm lands alone has advanced fully 8000 millions of dollars, and the value of farm products proportionately. Arid and semiarid, and swamp lands have been redeemed, and today are filling up rapidly with a new population, and distributing throughout the markets of the world the agricultural and industrial products of this new made territory. Our farmers have grown rich, they are no longer satisfied with the common necessities of life, but demand a share of the luxuries as well.

"Our manufacturers have shown the same amazing growth; the product of 1907 expressed in dollars being at least 5000 millions greater than in 1900, and our foreign commerce 1000 millions greater, and until the recent panic burst upon us our industrial classes were in the highest state of prosperity ever experienced in our history. I wish that my vision was broad enough to take in all of the remarkable changes that have occurred in the world's development during the past decade, but the few I have suggested will enable you to understand better some of the causes which are responsible for the period of prosperity which so recently and so disastrously was brought to a close. Why was it brought to a close? Why could it not have gone on? What was there lacking in our business system or our financial system that we could not prevent excess?

"This brings up an interesting question. What caused the panic? Nearly every business man who does any serious thinking has his own theory—the consequence is we have among the many assigned causes—overcapitalization, overtrading, spec-

GET-TOGETHERS HONOR FREEHOLDER 'SAM' WILBUR

Saturday was the birthday anniversary of Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, and twenty-three members of the "Get-together-Club," the "Amen Corner" of the local Republican camp, called on him unexpectedly at his home on Westervelt avenue in the evening. The "Get-togethers" bore with them a handsome silk umbrella, which was presented to the Freeholder by former Mayor James F. Buckle. The evening was passed with songs and music, and refreshments were served at midnight.

In accordance with a custom which he has observed for the past fourteen years, Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, dined with Mr. Wilbur on his birthday night. Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Aatham, of Baltimore; and Miss Mabel Willet, of Westfield, were also at the dinner.

Doorkeeper "Aleck" Ayres, of the "Get-togethers," wishes it to be understood that he will have a birthday this year.

SPLIT MAN'S SCALP IN AN UNPROVOKED ASSAULT

Angered because he had been "kidded" over missing an easy shot in a pool game at Blimm's hotel, Saturday afternoon, William H. Bohl struck James Calloway, of the borough, a terrific crack on he head with the butt end of a cue. The impact was so great that Calloway's scalp was split open and the weapon used was broken in three pieces. The injured man was rendered partially unconscious and did not fully revive until he had been taken to Dr. Hughes' office and cared for.

Bohl left the place immediately after the assault but was arrested later by Detective-Sergeant Flynn and was arraigned in the city court this morning. Calloway attended the session with his head swathed in bandages and his counsel, S. S. Swackhamer, asked for an adjournment until Saturday morning. The reasons he gave led Judge Runyon to grant the request. It is understood that Calloway will begin a civil suit against Bohl and the result will depend upon the outcome of the assault charge.

Men who were in the hotel at the time and who saw the blow struck say it was entirely unprovoked and that Bohl would have fared badly at the hands of Calloway's friends but for his leaving in a hurry.

STRAY SPARK FIRES BARN; LOSS OF $600 FOLLOWS.

A barn belonging to R. B. VanArsdale and situated in the rear of his home at 426 Orchard place, caught fire this morning and was badly damaged. An alarm was turned in from box 46 at 10:48 and the fire department put in an hour extinguishing the flames. Two streams of water were used.

The blaze was in the hay mow when first discovered and was evidently started by a spark blowing from some debris burning nearby. The building is of brick and frame construction and the burning was slow, thus enabling the firemen to keep the flames confined to the upper part. A lot of mantels and tiling material was stored on the first floor and these were somewhat damaged.

The loss is placed at $600, covered by insurance.

Ministers' Visit N. Y. H. S.

Rev. Dr. Thomas E. Gordon, of Newark, and Rev. Dr. Whittemore, of Washington, two of the Methodist ministers in town for the conference, were at the Somerset stret school for the morning eercises today. A fire drill was held and they expressed enthusiasm over the rapidity with which the pupils left the building. Supervising Principal Charles S. Hamilton, of Hillsborough township, Somerset county, spent the morning at the school.

Mountain Fires Threaten Property.

Brush fires on the mountain in the vicinity of Scotch Plains threatened the houses of several residents near Johnson's Drive Saturday afternoon, when the flames, driven by the high wind, spread rapidly. A dozen men went into the woods at nightfall and beat out the fire, before it had done damage to out-buildings. Much valuable timber was burned.

Colby Theatre Party.

Members of the Republican League for Limited Franchises and Equal Taxation will witness Robert Mantell's performance of "King Lear" at the Newark theatre tonight. The party is in honor of Senator Colby. Owing to the continuance of the session of the Legislature longer than had been participated, it is probable that many who had been planning to attend will be missing.

REV. ERSKINE M. RODMAN GOES TO HIS REWARD; ALL PLAINFIELD MOURNS LOSS OF A MAN OF GOD

Rev. E. M. Rodman.

Rev. Dr. Erskine Mason Rodman, dean of the Plainfield clergy and rector-emeritus of Grace church, died suddenly at his home on East Seventh street shortly before noon yesterday. The end came while the congregation to which he had ministered for thirty-eight years was at morning prayer and the sad news was conveyed to the members, of the parish by the rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stvenson. The service was interrupted while the people, nearly all of whom had been baptised or married by the departed rector, offered up a prayer.

The death of Dr. Rodman came as a great surprise as he had been enjoying his customary health and activity until Thursday. Then, for the first time, he complained of heart trouble but the manner in which it was manifest caused his family and friends no especial alarm. It was thought yesterday morning early that he was improving and this information was imparted to those who inquired about him on the way to church. The sinking spell that resulted in death began at 11:30 and in less than half an hour he had passed away.

Rev. Dr. Erskine Mason Rodman was born seventy-eight years ago in the Greenwich village section of New York city. His father was Washington H. Rodman, a vestryman in St. Luke's church. It was in this parish that Erskine Rodman was reared. As a boy he was quick to learn and he entered Columbia College when he was sixteen years old, graduating with the class of 1850 with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. The honorary degree of M. A. was conferred upon him by the same college in 1886. He prepared for priest's orders in the Theological Seminary at Alexandria, Va. He was ordained a deacon by Bishop Meade in 1854 and one year later was admitted to the priesthood by Bishop Johns, of Virginia.

Dr. Rodman's first charge was at Meckleburg, Goochland county, Va., and while there he married Miss Nannie Selden, of Powhattan county. She died in 1868, leaving one son, Randolph Rodman, now residing at South Orange. Dr. Rodman left Mecklenberg to become rector of Christ church, Norfolk, Va., where he remained seven years. He was there before and during the war of the Rebellion and while the conflict was on he served as chaplain in General Longstreet's corps of the Confederate army.

His next charge after Norfolk was at St. Peter's church, Peekskill, N. Y., and shortly after becoming rector he married for the second time, his wife being Miss Sarah Wickham Sharpe, of Goshen, N. Y. She died in this city in April 1905. By this union there were two daughters of whom one is surviving, Miss Mary Wickham Rodman, of this city.

Leaving St. Peter's church, Dr. Rodman became secretary of the Episcopal Board of Missions and continued in that capacity four years, resigning to accept the rectorship of Grace church, this city, in November, 1870. The parishoners at that time worshipped in a frame structure at East Front and Richmond streets. This structure was afterward removed to Sixth and Sycamore streets where it was used as a parish house after a new church building had been erected at Seventh and Sycamore. cornerstone of the present Grace church was laid in 1884. He continued to serve until 1902 when he was made rector-emeritus.

Dr. Rodman's rectorship in Plainfield was one of continual activity and he endeared himself to everyone in the city. While ministering to the wants of his parishoners he was always ready to do a kindly act elsewhere and it was seldom that he was called upon that he did not respond immediately. He was the first president of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, and was the father of that institution which was originally an Episcopal church charity. He was one of the founders of the Ministers' Association and at the time of his death was president of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home. He was a member of Anchor Lodge, F. and A. M., Jerusalem Chapter, R. A. M., Trinity Commandery, Knights Templar, and Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum. He was chaplain of Anchor lodge.

The funeral will be held at Grace church Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and will be in charge of Rev. E. V. Stevenson, his successor rector. The body will lie in state at the church from 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon until 9 at night and from 8 o'clock Wednesday morning until the hour of service. From the time the body is taken to the church until the funeral is held, a vigil will be maintained continuously by an honorary guard selected from the Masonic and Royal Arcanum orders and the ves-

METHODIST PREACHERS IN THE LOCAL PULPITS

Methodist ministers in this city for the conference preached at services in the local churches yesterday morning and evening. Music was a special feature at most of the churches and the congregations were unusually large.

Taking for his topic "The Two Lives," Rev. Dr. Charles L. Mead, pastor of the Centenary Methodist church, of Newark, addressed a mass meeting of men at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium yesterday afternoon. Illustrating his topic by the story of Nicodemus, the speaker emphasized the saving value of strong development of the moral and spiritual man as well as the physical body. Nelson A. Miller led the singing, and there was a violin solo by Martin A. Korff, leader of the association orchestra.

Rev. Dr. Robert S. Young, another of the Methodist ministers in conference here, addressed the mass meeting of the boys' department at the same time in the boys' room of the association. He spoke on "The Making of Man." He spoke of the value of developing the sterling qualities of character in youth, using Abraham Lincoln as a model young man of character. Phillip VanArsdale led the singing at the meeting.

Rev. Dr. William H. Morgan, pastor of the Central Methodist church, Newark, preached at the morning service at Trinity Reformed church yesterday. His text was from Acts 26: 19, "Wherefore, O King Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision," and the discourse was a powerful one. In the evening, the sermon was by Rev. Dr. Warren L. Hoagland, pastor of the Park church, East Orange, who spoke from the text "These things I speak to the world that they might have my joy fulfilled in themselves," found in John 17: 13. Dr. E. P. Johnson, pastor of the church, officiated at both morning and evening services, which were largely attended.

Other local pulpits were supplied as follows:

Crescent Avenue church, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, morning; Rev. George W. Smith, evening. First Presbyterian church, Rev. D. F. Diefendorf, morning; Rev. Samuel Jones, evening. First Baptist church, Rev. N. W. Clark, morning; Rev. A. B. Richardson, evening. Congregational church, Rev. G. C. Wilding, morning; Rev. W. E. Palmer, evening. Park Avenue Baptist church, Rev. C. S. Ryman, morning; Rev. C. L. Mead, evening. Grace M. E. church, Rev. A. H. Tuttle, morning. Monroe Avenue M. E. church, Rev. A. H. Hayes, morning; Rev. W. B. Fleming, evening. Hope chapel, Rev. H. E. Lytle, morning; Rev. M. W. Womer, evening. Faith chapel, Rev. R. W. Lake, morning; Rev. Alfred Yoeman, evening. Warren chapel, Rev. J. H. Tunbrell, evening. A. M. E. Zion, Rev. W. C. Kinsey, evening. Y. W. C. A., Rev. H. A. Buttz, afternoon. W. C. T. U., Fletcher Gariss, afternoon. Plainfield Rescue Mission, Rev. C. H. Powers, evening. Salyvation Army Hall, Rev. Thomas Hall, evening.

Two Still Alarms.

A still alarm at 4:26 Saturday afternoon called the fire department to the Casino for a slight fire. A nearby resident was burning some debris and it is thought a stray brand lodged on the roof, starting the blaze. A hydrant stream had to be used to put it out but the damage was slight. A still alarm at 7:05 Saturday night called a hose wagon to the home of Mrs. Joseph Dunham, 930 Park avenue, for a chimney fire.

Rev. Charles Cain, pastor of Stony-Point M. E. church, N. Y., preached at the West End Tabernacle last evening on "The Life of Paul." He is a promising young man in the ministry of the Methodist denomination.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

SOMERVILLE.

Mrs. Bertha Decker and children, who have been visiting her father, Lewis A. Thompson, on West Cliff street, returned to her home at Basking Ridge Saturday morning.

Mrs. A. McWilliams and Miss Doughty entertained the General Frelinghuysen Chapter, D. A. R., at the home of Miss Doughty Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Charles Garretson, of Newark, has been spending a week with Miss Lillian Koehler.

Miss Jennie Cox, of New York, is visiting her uncle, John Cox, on South street.

Miss Mollie Pool, of Brooklyn, is the guest of Mrs. C. H. Pool, on West High street.

Mrs. William H. Condit is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Eldridge Ward, at Peapack.

Miss Jean Cawley is the guest of Mrs. William H. Cawley, Jr., in Dover.

RARITAN.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Commissioners will be held this evening in Firemen's Hall.

Mrs. H. C. Williamson has returned from Brooklyn, where she visited her sister, Mrs. M. J. Crouse.

Miss Meda Wyckoff, of Millstone, is visiting her brother, Charles Wyckoff, in Raritan.

Mrs. John King, of Skillman, is a guest of her sister, Mrs. C. J. Cassidy, on Wall street.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gainor have been visiting her mother in Newark last week.

John Hockhoff has been visiting relatives in New York city.

John Wagner has been visiting relatives in Philadelphia.

NORTH BRANCH.

The entertainment given Wednesday evening in the Cedar Grove schoolhouse under the direction of Miss Pearl Wear and James Van Dyke was a success. About twenty-eight dollars was netted for the benefit of the organ fund.

The new Methodist church at Neshanic Station now has about seventy-five members. At a recent sacrament of the Lord's supper fifteen persons were admitted into full membership and three taken on probation.

Miss Helen Hart, a student in Wellesley College, is spending the Easter vacation with her father, Rev. John Hart, at the Reformed church parsonage at Neshanic.

Mrs. Edward Hight, of this place, has been spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Peter Van Camp, at Dreahook, near Whitehouse Station.

Mrs. Robert B. Dunham has returned to her home at Larger Crossroads after a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Walter S. Tilden, at Roseville.

J. W. Niese and family, of Centre County, Pa., have moved into the residence lately vacated by V. L. Cregar, at Neshanic.

Mrs. Jane Dunham has sold her farm near North Branch Depot and purchased the Philip Williams lot in this place.

James Bowman, Sr., of Brooklyn, is a guest for a month of his son, D. W. Bowman, at South Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Codington have moved from their farm near this place to Somerville.

Joseph Vleit, of Elizabeth, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Horace Philhower at North Branch.

WESTFIELD.

Rev. Richard L. Watkins, of Staten Island, conducted services at the Methodist church yesterday. Rev. R. H. Middleditch occupied the pulpit of the Congregational church and Rev. L. D. Calkins preached at both services at the Presbyterian church. Communion was held in the morning at the Baptist church.

A council of seven churches called to dissolve the relations of Rev. Henry H. Guernsey and the Westfield Congregational church, met Thursday, but as there was not a quorum present nothing could be done. Another meeting will have to be called.

Mrs. Eleizer Peek, of Westfield, widow of Dr. W. T. Peek, died at her home Friday. Mrs. Peek was in her fifty-eighth year, and is survived by one son, DeWitt C. Peek, and a daughter. Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon.

BOROUGH SCHOOL AMATEURS REMEMBER THEIR COACH.

Miss Helen T. Stahlberger, who coached the cast of North Plainfield High School pupils for the presentation of "The Cricket on the Hearth" at the Casino Friday night was presented with a handsome copy of the play at the conclusion of the second act. The presentation speech was made by Eldon Miller, who took the part of Tackleton. The book is a de luxe edition of the dramatized version presented, bound in limp leather. On the fly-leaf are written the names of the cast.

The presentation was a complete surprise to Miss Stahlberger, who responded with a few words of thanks. The success of the play was in a large measure due to the coaching of the teacher, who has been working with the members of the cast for the past five weeks.

Family Arithmetic.

The lady was leaving after making a call, and stopped a moment to chat with the small daughter of the house on the lawn.

"Are those your two little brothers over there by the swing, Dorothy?" she asked.

"Yes," replied the little girl slowly. "I mean they are my two half brothers." There was a longer pause, and then she added musingly, "And I think I'd rather have one whole brother than two halves."—Woman's Home Companion.

Willing to Buy.

"I haven't tasted liquor for thirty-nine years."

"Um."

"I say I haven't tasted liquor for nine-and-thirty years."

"Well, sir, is that a boast or a hint?"

IDEALS ALTER.

A girl's ideal at seventeen
Must have fine eyes;
Likewise a bold and striking mien
And faultless ties.
But later on her fancies roam
To one who'll bring his wages home.

A man's ideal at seventeen
Must be a sprite;
A dainty, fluffy, elfin queen
Of sheer delight.
But later on he sort of feels
He wants a girl who can cook meals.

Christening Robe.

White nainsook, pin tucked, hand embroidered on the rounded yoke, all outlines finished with lace beading, was simple, dainty and plain for the prim little robe. And, by the way, the narrow lace beading for baby dresses is something you want to get to outline fine lingerie waists. It is splendid for joining sleeves to the waist. But the work must be done by hand.

Going Into a New Line.

"What'll you swap off a three-cent Nicaragua '95 for, Jack?" asked Jack's uncle of the young stamp-collector. "I won't swap it off for anything, Uncle George, but I tell you what I will do. I'll swap off my whole collection for a goat. Stamps are always the same, but goats—my!—goats, they're never the same!"

Kentucky Potatoes.

Pare and slice thin six large potatoes, as for frying. Throw in cold water for half an hour, then remove from the water, wipe dry and put them in a shallow baking pan. Pour over them a cupful of milk seasoned with salt and pepper. Bake an hour; then pour over them half an ounce of butter and serve very hot.

Teeth.

The Sporty Boy—"How would you tell a young partridge from an old one?"

The Youth—"By the teeth."

The Sporty Boy—"Great Scott! A partridge has no teeth, youngster."

The Youth—"No! but I have."

Baby's Dimples.

Love goes playing hide-and-seek
'Mid the roses on the cheek,
With a little imp of Laughter
Who the while he follows after,
Leaves the footprints that we trace
All about the Kissing-place.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Millville Board of Education has ordered fire escapes placed on all school buildings of the city.

Detectives of the Pennsylvania Railroad Saturday reported to the Burlington police robbery of the Union News stand at the Burlington station.

Coming in contact with a live electric light wire which had fallen to the roadway, Mark Smith, a boy, was stunned and his face burned at Mt. Holly.

The Camden Bar Association has elected Howard M. Cooper, president; former Judge Howard Carrow and Judge C. V. D. Joline, vice-presidents; S. Conrad Ott, secretary, and William Early, treasurer.

While she was ironing trousers at the tailor shop of William Mergenweck, at 402 Federal street, Camden, Saturday night, a woman ironed over a match in the trousers pockets and caused a fire. The loss is about $100.

With an old pen knife George Henry, living near Moorestown, extracted a bullet which has been buried deep in one of his legs by the accidental discharge of a revolver he had been cleaning. The wound is healing nicely.

Suffering excruciating pain, Albert Johnson, seven years old, son of George Johnson, of Riverside, has been removed to Cooper Hospital, Camden. Several weeks ago the child swallowed a pin, the effects of which were not felt until a few days ago. The child is in a precarious condition.

The largest otter seen in Salem county in years has been captured by William Shough and Howard Sickler in the muskrat traps, set at the head of Hope creek. The otter weighed twenty-five pounds and was four feet in length. Clarkson Bradway also trapped an otter weighing sixteen pounds.

Among the recommendations made by Chief of Police John Bimson, of Paterson, in his annual report, read at the regular meeting of the Police and Fire Board Saturday evening, is that a precinct be established in the southern section of the city. He also suggests two new sub-stations, one for the east side and the second for the over-the-river section.

Letters were sent to councilmen and the heads of the various city departments of Camden by Mayor Ellis, Saturday, calling a conference at the city hall tonight, to take steps to provide work for idle men. The question of an emergency appropriation of $100,000, covered by a bond issue, to be used in improving the streets and other municipal improvements, will be discussed.

"For God's sake, don't send me to that place again," pleaded John Conover, alias Moran, in court in Trenton, Saturday, when Judge Relistab sentenced him to State prison. Conover said he had spent seven years in the prison and complained he was badly treated. Judge Ralistab took pity on the man and sent him to the workhouse for three years. Conover was charged with robbery.

Captain Patrick Sweeney, of Engine Company No. 4, Paterson, has been named by the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners of that city as deputy chief of the fire department, his appointment taking effect this morning. Fireman Charles Nolan, of Engine Company No. 9, was named as a captain of the department to fill the vacancy created by the elevation of Captain Sweeney.

When testimony was taken in the suit of Nathan Worth against Ernest Watts, executor of the estate of Firman Dubel, before Vice-Chancellor Leaming, in Camden, Saturday, it was testified that Dubel was brought home in a state of intoxication. Joseph Gaskill, counsel for the executor, gave a definition of drunkenness, as given to him while a judge of the Burlington county courts, by stating that when a man is drunk he must be "on the ground and holding fast."

WORKING ON THE JERSEY SHORT LINE.

Elizabeth, April 6.—It was reported here that the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Philadelphia Short Line companies would soon resume work in the construction of their freight and passenger short line route between Trenton and this city. The construction camps, which have been closed on some sections and on others only working part of the time during the winter, and the subsequent shutting down of all work during the financial depression, are being filled with laborers, and it is the intention of the companies to push the work through to completion. The rails are laid almost to Elizabeth, where the Pennsylvania Railroad will cut off, cross the city and enter the main tracks again just north of the city at Waverly.

The Pennsylvania purchasing agency, the Manor Realty Company, of Philadelphia, has been buying up properties in Elizabeth for a right of way for an elevated structure through the city to reach its Waverly yards. The Short Line passenger route will cross Staten Island and enter St. George eventually, although Elizabeth may be its terminal for some time.

Maw's Request.

"Anything you want in the city, Mariar?"

"Yes, paw. Bring me some o' that subway jam I've read so much about.

TURKISH TOWELS

Better bargains than you have purchased in a year—especially if you are a good enough judge to appreciate the real merits of good Turkish Towels,—the wearing quality. These are all made of double thread, which means practically double service; they are close and firm and fast woven edges, even to the lowest grades, thus the descriptive size alone would not give them justice.

At 10c—The bleached, are 16x35, the unbleached 18x35; a good value for 12½c.

At 12½c—The bleached are 18-36, and are hemmed, the unbleached are 18-37; value 15c.

At 15c—The bleached are 18-37, the unbleached 19-37, both hemmed, and are regularly 18c.

At 25c—Both extra heavy weight, bleached are 23-41, the unbleached 25-41; value 29c.

At 50c—Heavy bath sheets, bleached size 28-58, double thread, as the smaller sizes, but of heavier cotton yarn; value 59c.

STATE HEALTH REPORT

Of the 3,268 deaths reported to the State Bureau of Vital Statistics for the month ending March 15, 392 were caused by pneumonia, a decrease of 124 from the previous month; 265 were caused by diseases of the respiratory system (pneumonia and tuberculosis excepted); 344 from pulmonary tuberculosis; 402 from diseases of the heart and circulatory system; 407 from diseases of the nervous system. Bright's disease caused 223 deaths, suicide 46 and cancer 130.

During the month ending March 31, 514 samples were examined in the State Laboratory of Hygiene under the direction of the State Board of Health, of which 360 were above standard and 77 below standard.

AMUSEMENTS.

As the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night, Manager Counihan will present a big vaudeville bill, headed by May Ward and her "eight Dresden dolls," and George Thatcher, the minstrel man. Popular prices will prevail.

It is a matter of congratulation that in these days of Frenchified farces, when bedsteads and pajamas seem to be a necessary adjunct to create laughter, that an American farce constructed on legitimate lines, pure, clean and wholesome without the shadow of suggestiveness, has scored a greater triumph than any of the imported doses. This is the first season of "Two Jolly Companions," and we do not feel at all egotistical when we say that the play will last for many seasons to come. The scenes of the play are laid in and about New York city, and the characters of the people that we meet in every day life. Mr. Herman R. Rose has been especially engaged for the leading comedy role, and he will be ably assisted by an excellent acting and musical company. "The Two Jolly Companions" will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night.

HUSBAND IS DENOUNCED IN THIS DIVORCE SUIT.

Vice Chancellor Stevens at Newark yesterday afternoon heard argument in the suit for divorce brought by Orion N. Houghson, an undertaken, of Morristown, against his wife, Evalena Houghson. In his bill of complaint Houghson charges desertion, while in her answer Mrs. Houghson names Mrs. Mary K. Stickweh as co-respondent.

According to statements made by George T. Werts, counsel for Houghson, his client purchased a house at 514 Orange street, Newark, in which he wished to establish his wife, but she refused to come there to live, and on this alleged desertion the suit for divorce is based.

Mr. Houghson had the burial of the persons who died in the State Asylum at Morris Plains, and averred that there were often as many as half a dozen dead bodies in his establishment. For this reason, he said, he did not care to live in the neighborhood of the undertaking parlors, but preferred more inviting environments. His wife, however, Mr. Werts said, refused to change her abode.

In opposing the petition to have their marriage ties severed, Mrs. Houghson, according to the statements of her counsel, Charles A. Ratbun, claims that Houghson rented an apartment in East Orange in the name of "Miss Trowbridge," and placed Mrs. Stikweh in them. Mr. Rathbun also declared that in the testimony which was recently taken at Morristown it was clearly shown that Houghson often visited these apartments.

"This man," the lawyer said, "has followed Mrs. Stickweh from pillar to post for the past ten years, and yet he asks his wife to come and live in this house on Orange street, Newark, when this woman is under the same roof."

After hearing argument Vice Chancellor Stevens reserved decision.

Shade Trees on Our Country Roads.

Rural roads in New Jersey generally lack a feature of interest that is conspicuous in rural sections in European countries, and that is regular rows of shade trees. Now that automobiling is in general vogue this defect in New Jersey scenery is remarked and criticized. A bill has been passed by the Senate authorizing the State Forestry Commission to plant shade trees along country roads, and as a law it will be of great benefit to the State. Besides adding beauty to the landscape, the trees afford grateful shade to the wayfarer, making driving attractive to visitors, and provide an important addition to the State's forestry. In France on many roads fruit trees are planted, and the sale of the product provides a good income for use in forestry work. There are sections of New Jersey where that plan could be adopted with good results.—Newark Star.

Brunswick Bowlers Win.

In the first games of the home-and-home bowling series between Skelly and Britton, of this city, and Hogarty and Smith, of New Brunswick, rolled on Johnny Campbell's alleys Friday, the visiting team took five out of seven. In the fourth try, the New Brunswickers rolled an aggregate of 530, the best for the night. Skelly and Britton's best score was 408.

CITY GOVERNMENT ILLEGAL?

Firemen's Lawyer Raises Question as to Perth Amboy.

Perth Amboy, April 6.—Attorney-General Robert H. McCarter has notified City Attorney Charles C. Hommann that Peter A. Peterson, a Perth Amboy lawyer, has raised serious questions as to the legality of the present system of government of Perth Amboy and asking his views on the subject. He says that the lawyer's points seem to be well founded, and asks for reasons why he should not take steps to present the question to the courts for settlement.

Mr. Peterson represents volunteer firemen who are fighting the passage of an ordinance instituting a paid fire department in this city. He claimed that the city had no right to pass such an ordinance, as it is an illegally constituted body. If the firemen's ordinance is declared illegal, of course all other work of the Aldermen is illegal. The Attorney-General's letter has caused a sensation here.

JERSEY DEALERS PUT ICE UP.

Paterson Wholesalers Increase Price to $2 Per Ton Despite Dull Season.

Paterson, April 6.—Wholesale ice dealers here have announced that ice to retailers will hereafter be $2 a ton instead of $1.50, the prevailing price last year.

The retailers expressed surprise at the increase, inasmuch as they are expecting a dull season on account of the adverse conditions in the shops and mills of this city. It is estimated that there are at least 15,000 more men than the usual average out of work in this city at this time. It is also said that the local wholesalers stored their ice this year cheaper than at any time in the last ten years, it being estimated that the cost was not more than 10 cents a ton.

Trolley Line Bridge Closed.

It was decided yesterday by the Board of Freeholders at Bayonne to erect a new bridge across the Morris Canal on Avenue C, in that place. The present one wobbles when the trolley cars pass, and it was feared the bridge would collapse under their weight. Passengers will have to foot it across a temporary walk while the new bridge is being built.

40 Years a Guardsman.

New Jersey's pioneer National Guardsman, Drum Major John W. Brownlee, of the Fourth Regiment, will be presented with a forty-year service medal by Brigadier-General Edward A. Campbell, of Newark, at the review to be given in the New Jersey City Armory on the evening of April 9.

TWO BOYS MUST FACE TRIAL FOR MURDER.

Indifferent in Court but Fearful in Jail as They Inquire Into Their Fate.

Trenton, N. J., April 6.—Joseph Branzner and Herman Haupt, the Trenton boys who Thursday night confessed to the assault which resulted in the death of Mrs. Anthony Kade at Fallsington, Pa., were held Saturday morning without bail to await requisition to the Bucks County Court, where they will face a charge of murder.

Neither made any comment or showed any feeling when the charge of murder was made, although it is said that this was the first intimation that they had received that their attack on the woman had caused her death. After their removal to jail, however, both boys tearfully inquired as to what their fate might be.

The boys have made additional confessions to the police, detailing how they went to the house for the purpose of robbery and clubbed the woman to silence her cries, and how they ran away for fear of being discovered. Neither will admit the stabbing and each accuses the other of the clubbing.

ROMANCE ENDS IN SPANKING.

School Principal Fined for Punishing Pretty Teacher When She Spurned His Suit.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., April 6.—Edward Sullivan, principal of the Exeter Borough Schools, was arrested Saturday charged with spanking Miss Anna Flynn, one of the school teachers in his charge.

Sullivan, it is alleged, was attentive to Miss Flynn until he found she preferred a young man of Hungarian parentage, who was a college graduate. After that discovery it is alleged that he appoyed her in many little ways, and on Thursday, going to her schoolroom, taunted her about the Hungarian until she lost her temper and struck him. She charges that he then bent her over the back of a chair and struck her several times. Pupils informed a school director, who lives near by, and Sullivan's arrest followed.

Alderman Brown fined him $10 for disorderly conduct and held him under $500 for trial on the charge of assault and battery and $500 bail to keep the peace.

—A surprise party was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. George R. Carter at their home on West Third street, Wednesday night, when about a score of friends called to celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding. The affair was arranged by Mrs. William H. Carter and Mrs. Fred Carter and proved a complete surprise.

TRULY A MAN OF GOD.

The death of the Rev. Dr. Erskine Mason Rodman yesterday has taken from Plainfield its best-loved citizen. No words of praise can fittingly characterize the wealth of esteem in which this venerable man has been held for decades by the people of this city irrespective of religious or other belief, as no one in the history of Plainfield has ever so endeared himself to the hearts of all classes of the people.

The noble dean's bright sunny temperament, his never-failing broadness of mind, and his ever-present kindliness of heart and spirit made him the trusted friend, the kind counselor, and the genial companion of all. In his affiliations with the ministers of churches other than his own he anticipated by many years the spirit of the present open pulpit of the great Episcopal Church, and the present pleasant relations of the various churches in Plainfield with each other is owing largely to his broad-minded treatment of religious questions.

Grace Episcopal Church, to which he ministered for many years, grew under his guiding hand to be one of the leading churches in the State, and the many matters outside of work strictly religious to which he was ever ready to lend his aid evidenced his interest in humanity and the worth of his work here. He was the real founder and was the first president of Muhlenberg Hospital, which is but one of the many monuments of a noble man. Full of years, he was yet young; although retired from the active ministry, he was yet more active than many just entering the service; a churchman, but the warm-hearted friend and brother to all. His bright smile and never-failing good nature, his hearty hand-clasp and pleasant word were an inspiration and blessing.

All Plainfield mourns the death of Dr. Rodman, the well-beloved one who has gone to the House of Many Mansions.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF OUR BELOVED SISTER, CAROLINA WEISS.

SAFE HOME.

Safe home, safe home, with Jesus over there
On Canaan's blissful shore;
Beyond the sky, where all is bright and fair,
To rest for evermore.
The weary days, the restless nights all past,
The sufferings o'er, safe home, safe home at last.

Safe home, safe home, where saints and angels dwell
Her soul has taken flight;
Away to fairer clime—no tongue can tell
O! what a glorious sight
Her eyes behold! Farewell, farewell—I'll wait
For my belov'd ones, near the pearly gate.

Safe home, safe home, the Jordan safely crossed
Where storms can never beat;
We follow, though a little longer tossed,
And then again we'll meet,
Then walk the golden streets, sing songs of praise
Rehearse the sweetest story: "Saved by Grace."

CHURCH 70 YEARS OLD

Seventh Day Baptists Celebrate Anniversary of Local Congregation's Beginning

AFTERNOON & NIGHT SESSIONS.

Election of Officers Part of Yesterday's Observances When All Committee Reported On Church Growth.

Celebating the seventieth anniversary of the founding of the local Seventh-Day Baptist church, practically the entire congregation was present at the anniversary services held yesterday afternoon and evening at the church. The services began at 3:45 in the afternoon, when Rev. A. H. Lewis, former pastor of the church, officiated at simple devotional exercises. At 6 o'clock the afternoon session concluded, when supper was served to about 150 of the parishioners. A feature of the gathering was the greeting read by David E. Titsworth, chairman of the general committee, from the retiring pastor, Rev. George B. Shaw, now in charge of a pastorate at North Loup, Nebraska, and from the pastor-elect, Rev. Edwin Shaw, who assumes charge of the local church July 1. Mr. Titsworth also read communications from absent members of the community, among them a letter from Mrs. Mary Ann Rogers, of Horseheads, N. Y., who is the only surviving constituent member of the local church.

The officers of the church for the coming year were elected at the afternoon session. William M. Stillman was re-elected trustee for a term of five years, and the other elections are these: Asa F. Randolph, church clerk; William M. Stillman, treasurer; G. E. Stillman, assistant treasurer; Arthur L. Titsworth and C. H. Dunham, auditors; D. E. Titsworth, chorister; Miss Jessie M. Utter, organist. The ushers elected were Arthur J. Spicer, George M. Clark, Charles F. Neagle, F. Rollin Williams, Milton St. John, Raymond Burdick, Arthur B. Titsworth and Roland Davis. W. C. Hubbard and John Cottrell were elected to the canvassing committee and the entertainment committee will comprise W. C. Hubbard, Dr. M. C. Clawson and George Clark.

John B. Cottrell acted as chairman of the business session, when reports of the trustees, treasurer and various committees were received. Superintendent Henry M. Maxson, of the Plainfield public schools, as secretary of the trusees, recommended in his report the same sum for the budget of the ensuing year, and the report of Treasurer William M. Stillman showed the church to be on a firm financial basis.

During supper phonograph selections were rendered on Arthur Spicer's instrument. A committee from the women's Christian Endeavor Society of the church was in charge of the supper, including Mrs. I. N. West, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. W. R. Mosher; Mrs. A. L. Titsworth, Mrs. A. L. Rogers, Miss M. T. Green and Miss Elizabeth Dunham. The evening session was opened by devotional exercises at which Dr. Theodore L. Gardiner officiated and Theodore G. Davis sang a bass solo, "Vesper Prayer." David E. Titsworth gave a summary of the year's work in the church and the various societies, and various questions of denominational and church government were discussed.

The general committee in charge of the anniversary consisted of David E. Titsworth, chairman, J. D. Spicer, Mrs. J. E. Kimball, Mrs. C. M. Burdick and Miss Mildred Green.

A TRIBUTE.

Plainfield, April 5, 1908.

In the death of Dean Rodman, Plainfield mourns one of its oldest and best beloved citizens. For many years he has gone in and out among us, loved and respected by all. Always cheerful and kind, he was particularly attentive in times of sickness and death. It mattered not to him in bereavement, whether the departed was a member of the communion to which our friend belonged, he was ever ready to render his services. He dies full of years and honors, and we very truly say of him that he fought a good fight, kept the faith and finished his course.

"Now the laborer's task is o'er;
Now the battle day is past;
Now upon the farther shore
Lands the voyager at last.
Father, in thy glorious keeping
Leave we now Thy servant sleeping."

ulation, too much prosperity, lack of capital, defective currency system, indiscreet utterances of the president, combined with his aggressive policies for reform. Now you can make your own selection—you may choose from the number the provocative which is most in harmony with your own theory. A diagnosis which would come nearest the truth, however, would probably suggest the grouping of all of these assigned causes together, under one expressive title, namely, excess. Excess! not in one department alone, not confining itself to any particular line of business, but excess which has gradually eaten its way into our whole business life during the past eight or ten years of remarkable national development and prosperity. Every panic through which I have passed during my banking life has been the product of excess.

The American people in their business affairs seem inclined to excess. They cannot stand too much prosperity. In this respect they seem different from other people, which may be accounted for in this way—we inhabit a country of vast and unexplored resources—opportunities for acquiring wealth are great, business men feel that they ought to get rich in a few years, and they steam up to the full limit of their business energy and their business credit in their effort to accomplish this one thing. This always leads to excess—it led to excess in 1907, and bankers saw the signs of panic and discussed the probability of it a year and a half before the panic came, and it is because we are prone to excess in our business life that panics become necessary, to prevent our going to too great excess, to compel us to stop, to turn about, to face the other way and let the great law of compensation and readjustment work out for us a restoration to normal conditions.

"Grand old bank of England! How I wish it were possible to have such a bank here. Why not? We are told that this country is too large—that because a central bank works well in England, France or Germany it furnishes no criterion for the United States with many times the territorial area of either of them. We are told that in this country politics would dominate a great central bank. Are we willing to confess that we lack the wisdom to select and appropriate from the world's best systems the principles which work so admirably to prevent the serious financial disturbances which are so prevalent with us?

Must we confess that we are unable to formulate a plan by which politics could be kept out of a great central bank? I cannot believe it. We may not be able to agree upon a central bank, but sooner or later we must agree upon a system which will enable us to utilize our reserve fund whenever it shall become necessary. Why should there ever be a suspension or a partial suspension of cash payments with a thousand millions of lawful money locked up in the bank vaults of the country?"

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINFIELD AND FANWOOD.

Owing to its being conference week no morning service was held at the Methodist church yesterday. In the evening Rev. Mr. Dutrick preached his last sermon as pastor unless he is reappointed by the presiding elder. His parishioners have petitioned the conference to reappoint him as their pastor for another year.

Rev. H. S. Atkinson, of New York, occupied the pulpit at the Baptist church yesterday at both services and administered communion at the morning service. Mr. Atkinson is a forceable speaker and both services were well attended. In the evening his subject was "The Men Whom Christ Accept."

The electric light circuit through town has been poor for several nights. All the lights through town were out of commission Saturday night, while the lights on Front street have not been doing business for several nights.

The annual parish meeting of the Baptist church will be held in the church parlors tonight. Besides the election of trustees there will be considerable other business transacted.

The stage of the Sunday service at the Baptist church, which was discontinued some time ago, was again put on for the convenience of the borough attendance at the church.

Owing to illness Miss Hannah Hayes, organist at the Baptist church, was detained at home Sunday. This necessitated the substituting of the piano for the pipe organ.

The weather was too chilly Saturday afternoon for baseball practise. Manager Alberts thought it better to lay off than run the risk of someone throwing an arm out.

Mrs. Nettie Atwood led a well attended meeting of the B. Y. P. U. held in the church parlors last night.

The junior ball team started the season Saturday by defeating the Garwood juniors by the score 16-6.

The weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held last night in the Methodist church.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

"Christ and the Company at Gabbatha" was the topic of yesterday morning's sermon at the Presbyterian church, when Rev. W. W. Casselberry preached. At the First Baptist church, Rev. George H. Gardner preached on "The Four Sins that Crucified Jesus Christ; Are They Prevailing Sins of the Day?" at the evening service. A solo by D. W. Lapham, Jr., and special music by the choir were features of the service, which was largely attended.

The organization meeting of the Dunellen Board of Education will be held tonight, at which time the new members will be sworn in. The regular April meeting of the Board will be held tomorrow night.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Coffey entertained the Saturday Night Club at their home, "Brookview," last week. The affair was a "Talent Party" and was attended by about a score of boroughites.

The semi-annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church was held Saturday, at which time officers were elected and reports submitted.

The April meeting of the Borough Council will be held tonight, when it is expected that Mayor Swackhamer will name a candidate for recorder.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The April business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society will meet at the home of Oscar Thorne on Wednesday night. On Saturday night the Baptist church congregation held its annual business meeting. The reports of the different societies were encouraging. Plans are under advisement, and a committee formed, to deal with the whole question of finances and there is every hope that in another year the general report will be even more favorable than that of this year.

On Friday night next there will be a dime sociable given in the lecture room of the Baptist church, at which it is promised that the mystery of "The Box of Monkeys" will be disclosed. It will be remembered that the above named farce was given two weeks ago in the village, but the object to which the proceeds were to be devoted was not divulged.

Exhibition of Paintings.

Miss Caroline Minturn Hall, daughter of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, formerly of Madison avenue, has sent out invitations for an exhibition of paintings at the Women's Municipal League, 19 East Twenty-sixth street, New York, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week from 4 until 7 o'clock.

—Hugh B. Sweeney, of Liberty street, has been appointed solicitor for the Plainfield Business College, in place of George H. Isaacs, who resigned about a week ago. Mr. Sweneey has been taking a course at the college, and leaves the work of a student to accept the position.

Harry E. Kingslow, who has been visiting his parents on West Fourth street, in this city, left this morning for Bluefield, West Virginia, where he is engaged in the drug business.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. L. J. Ellis, of Park avenue, is visiting at her former home in Nashville, Tennessee.

Mrs. Lucy Hooley, of Sycamore avenue, is confined to her home with an attack of heart trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Tobin, of Grant avenue, are the parents of a daughter who came to their home Friday morning.

Among Southerners in New York is Mrs. Orville T. Waring, of Augusta, Ga., wife of a former Plainfielder. She is visiting Mrs. Mildred Timberlake.

Mr. and Mrs. Lambert K. Alpaugh, of Califon, were visitors last week at Muhlenberg Hospital, where their daughter, Miss Ida Alpaugh, who is a nurse, is ill.

Mrs. E. A. Parse and Miss Helen Adams, of Grove street, have returned home after a pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Honeyman, of Knoxville, Tennessee.

POPULISTS' TICKET WATSON AND WILLIAMS

All that W. J. Bryan's friends were able to save from the wreck of fusion, in the People's Party national convention, which yesterday nominated Thomas E. Watson, of Georgia, for President, and Samuel W. Williams, of Indiana, for Vice President, was the State of Nebraska, his home, and Minnesota, the latter represented by only one delegate.

George A. Honnecker, of Jersey City, was the permanent chairman of the convention.

The convention practically reaffirmed the Omaha platform. The first plan adopted is for the issuance of money direct by the government to the people without the intervention of banks, to be distributed through Federal and internal improvement. The idea of distribution was tacked on by Jacob S. Coxey. Other planks adopted follow:

Public ownership of railroads and other public utilities; homesteading of land; parcels post; governmental regulation of corporations by a general law regulating corporations doing an interstate business; initiative and referendum; direct vote for all public officers with the power of recall; federal statute recognizing the principle of the initiative and referendum; giving the people power of instructing their national representatives in Congress; abolition of child labor; eight-hour day; employers' liability laws; condemns federal injunctions and gambling on futures.

The New Jersey members of the new national committee are:

James B. Kiem, Jersey City; James Edgarton, Ridgewood; George A. Honnecker, Jersey City.

PRODDED PANTHER SPRINGS ON KEEPER.

Animal Fearfully Tears Man's Leg Before Beaten Off With a Heavy Club.

While transferring a large panther to a cage in the menagerie at Hillside Park, Belleville, Saturday, Samuel Alexander, a keeper, was attacked by the animal and had his right leg torn from the knee to the ankle.

When he men shoved a box containing the panther against the cage the animal refused to move and was prodded with a bar.

Enraged, the panther sprang into the cage and upon Alexander, who stood close to the cage. Herman Schmitt, head keeper, went to Alexander's assistance and drove the panther off with a heavy club. Alexander probably will lose his leg.

ADVERTISING FRAUD CHARGED.

Letters Answering Tempting Offers of Employment Lead to Arrest of Atlantic City Man.

Atlantic City, N. J., April 6.—Promises, in advertisements, of pleasant places, with good pay, in resort hotels and cottages, brought to William Blackledge hundreds of letters. He was prospering until the victims of his promises wrote to the police here.

Seventy-five of these letters from Philadelphia and interior towns of Pennsylvania, covering an erea from Harrisburg to Pittsburg, led to his arrest and release upon bail. The police say some of the letters were pitiful and the agent collected from $1 to $15 for his promise to place the writers. He was arrested under a special State law, passed a year ago, regulating employment bureaus. Blackledge is to have a hearing Tuesday before the Recorder.

MRS. JOHN F. DRYDEN ROBBED.

Wife of Erstwhile New Jersey Senator Accuses Footman of Taking $1,350 Watch.

Washington, D. C., April 6.—Accused of stealing an open face watch, the back of which was studded with diamonds, attached to a triangular diamond studded chatelaine, from Mrs. John F. Dryden, wife of the one time Senator Dryden, of New Jersey, Alonzo Harris, a negro footman, twenty-five years old, was held in $2,000 bail in the police court Saturday.

The watch and chatelaine are valued at $1,350. They have not been recovered by the police. Mrs. Dryden appeared in court as the chief witness against Harris.

The robbery is alleged to have occurred on March 7, while Mrs. Dryden was calling on Mrs. John Dalzell, wife of Representative Dalzell, of Pennsylvania.

BAYONNE SCHOOL VACATION.

Officials Grant Easter Week—Teachers Said to Be Underpaid.

Bayonne public schools will remain closed during Easter week. This was decided by the Board of Education Friday, and the pupils and teachers are elated.

That Bayonne pays some of its teachers too small salaries was declared yesterday by the superintendent, Mr. Christie. He recommended to the Board of Education that the salary schedule be revised, and said that the city has difficulty in obtaining teachers, especially for the high school, because other cities pay larger salaries.

An entertainment and dance will be given at the Casino by Benovolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., next Wednesday night.

Did You Burn Too Much Coal?

It's cheaper to have a good furnace, to say nothing of the comfort. The best furnace is the

BOYNTON

The Furnace with the Square Fire Pot

It has the only fire pot that furnishes perfect combustion, burns all the coal cleanly, without clinkers or clogging, and at the same time saves coal and labor. Look up a Boynton dealer and ask him to explain.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for steam or hot water. Also ranges.

HELD FOR DOBBINS MURDER.

Negress Identifies Somers and Schmels As His Assailants.

Jersey City, April 6.—John Somers and Christian Schmels were held without bail for the Grand Jury in the First Criminal Court Saturday on a charge of slaying Martin Dobbins last Sunday night.

Fanny Bee testified that she saw Somers strike the blow that felled Dobbins. George Wesseling and August Metzger, the companions of Somers and Schmels, who made statements to Captain Larkins to the effect that they followed Somers and Schmels on the morning of the assault and heard a thud, supposedly of a man falling, repeated their stories.

Assemblyman Joseph Tumulty and Alexander Simpson appeared for the prisoners. Acting upon their advice, the prisoers declined to make any statements. Mrs. Bee was held in $1,000 bail as a witness, and Wesseling and Metzger in $500 each.

GAME WARDENS WARNED.

State Board Prohibits Them Acting as Guides to Gunners.

Trenton, April 6.—The State Fish and Game Commission has sent out circular letters to all of the deputy game wardens of the State warning them that they are not to act as guides for private gunning parties or otherwise serve private interests on public or private game preserves.

It is intimated that the wardens are appointed for the purpose of protecting game and enforcing the law rather than to assist in any way in the wholesale slaughter of game.

APPROVES THE PLAN FOR $60,000,000 SUBWAY.

New York, April 6.—The proposition to build a new subway from the battery to the Bronx under Broadway and Lexington avenue to cost $60,000,000, was approved by the Board of Estimate Saturday. The board adopted a resolution calling on the Public Service Commission to submit forms of contracts for digging the new subway.

Mayor McClellan and Comptroller Metz opposed the action on the ground that the city will not be able to secure the funds necessary to begin the work.

SNOW THE INCENDIARY.

That's How Amateur Sleuths Explain Jersey City Fire.

Jersey City, April 6.—Amateur sleuths think they have discovered the author of the fire which destroyed the woodshed in the rear of 234 Duncan avenue Thursday night.

It was Snow. In the flurry at about 8 p. m. they say flakes dropped into a small heap of unslaked lime lying close to the shed. The police, however, are looking for a human incendiary.

HIS OWN SURGEON.

Mt. Holly Man Cuts Bullet from His Leg With Penknife.

George Henry, living near Mount Holly, acted as his own surgeon, not having money to pay one, and extracted a bullet from his leg with his penknife. He then poured salt water into the wound to prevent blood poisoning.

The accident happened while he was cleaning a revolver, which was discharged in some way unknown.

Recommends Receivership.

Vice-Chancellor Howell Saturday filed at Trenton an opinion recommending the appointment of a receiver to wind up the affairs of the United States Independent Telephone Company. The company, according to the bill of complaint recently filed with the court, was capitalized at $50,000,000 and has no assets, with liabilities amounting to about $13,500,000. The company is a New Jersey corporation, doing business in New York, and similar proceedings have been instituted in that State.

Glee Club Concert.

Plans are being perfected for a glee club concert, under the direction of Mrs. H. L. De Forest, chairman of the music committee of the Young Women's Christian Association and of Mr. Holmes, who has had charge of the glee club in that institution for the past ten ten weeks. The concert is to be given in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening, May 5. Out of town talent and local musical talent of a very high order has been secured to assist the glee club.

Hires Foreign Lawyer.

Perth Amboy, April 4.—The Board of Water Commissioners has employed a New York lawyer to draft the form of bond for the $100,000 issue for the extension of its water system. President Clark of the board said few New Jersey lawyers can prepare bonds that will pass in New York State.

Rubber Plant to Resume.

New Brunswick, April 6.—Superintendent James Deshler, of the United States Rubber Company, announced Saturday that the big plant of the company here, which has been shut down for a long time, will be reopened on full time this week.

—A spring class in embroidery will be organized at the Young Women's Christian Association on Wednesday evening, April 6. The course will include the popular white work of all kinds, instruction being individual. The course will continue for eight weeks at a very nominal cost.

THE ESCAPADE

A POST MARITAL ROMANCE

By Cyrus Townsend Brady

ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY

"I have it," said the king, at last. "Rise, madam; your husband shall suffer nothing worse than a reprimand and a fright."

"Lord Carrington is a brave man," said Ellen, "you couldn't frighten him, sir."

"Not even with the prospect of losing you?" returned the king, rather shrewdly.

"But, sir, that would break my heart. I want him pardoned that I may have him again," exclaimed the poor wife, piteously.

The king threw back his head and laughed a truly royal laugh.

"So you shall, my dear," he cried, reaching his hand up and patting her on the shoulder, for she was taller than he. "Leave it to me. My lord shall be frightened out of his wits and yet have you in the end. I shall arrange it. Sir Charles, take the ladies to Windsor. Mistress Deborah when you marry this young soldier here, you become my subject. How likes your hot American blood that, mistress?"

"Your majesty," answered Deborah, rising to the occasion and putting for the nonce her Americanism in her pocket, utterly reckless of what Elder Brewster might think, "since you have acted with such royal generosity to Ellen—Lady Carrington and her husband I mean, I can view the prospect with equanimity."

She courtesied deeply before him as she spoke.

The king laughed again. He was in high good humor.

"Take care of her, Sir Charles. These Americans are of a rebellious breed, you know."

"Your majesty," said Ellen, "I think this will be a peaceful couple. The affair began by the reading together by the two of Baxter's 'Saints' Rest.'"

"'Tis a goodly volume, well writ, and by a learned and godly man," said the king, gravely, "and 'tis a good omen. You may kiss the queen's hand, if you will," he continued, and this was the sign manual of George's approval of the two women, for had he believed Ellen other than she was he had never allowed her to approach his homely but beloved little wife. "Now, Sir Charles," he resumed, after the obeisances had been performed, "take the ladies to the castle and await my return. Send one of my gentlemen-in-waiting to me by the way, after you reach the castle. Ladies, I wish you good morning."

The king, like the little gentleman he was, doffed his hat gallantly to the two ladies as Sir Charles, saluting profoundly, led them away.

A great weight was taken from Ellen's heart. The king, who possessed the power of life and death over his soldiers and sailors, had promised to free her husband and restore him to her arms. Punishment, trouble, difficulty, were to intervene, but the end was certain and Ellen was content to wait.

The gentleman-in-waiting presented himself to the king, who had stood quietly under the trees talking animatedly with his wife and chuckling with pleasure at the idea that had come to him.

"The Britannia arrived in the Thames last night, did she not?"

"Yes, your majesty."

"And my message directing Admiral Kephard to present himself was transmitted?"

"Yes, your majesty."

"The admiral is at Windsor?"

"He is, your majesty."

"Bid him to come to me here under the trees. I have something to say to him."

"Yes, your majesty," returned the equerry, bowing and withdrawing rapidly.

And presently old Admiral Kephard [illegible] attended by Captain [illegible] and Lieutenant Colley came rolling along the way. At the [illegible] and his [illegible] motioned to them to rise. If were a cruelty to make a fat old man like Kephard, trussed up like a turkey cock in tight uniform, kneel down on the ground out in the open air.

"You need not kneel, admiral, nor you, gentlemen," said the king, extending his hand to Kephard, who bent over it and kissed it heartily with every evidence of appreciation of the king's ineffable condescension. "How do you find yourself this morning?" continued his majesty.

"Very well, your majesty," said Kephard.

"And you, Captain Beatty, and you, sir?"

The gentlemen addressed bowed profoundly.

"We are all fit for service against any of your majesty's enemies now, as always," returned Kephard, with another salute.

"I know that," said the king, kindly. "You have had a pleasant voyage?"

"Yes, your majesty."

"You brought with you on your ship a prisoner?"

"Subject to your majesty's pleasure, of course," returned Admiral Kephard.

"And what are the charges against Lord Carrington?" asked the king.

"Disobedience of orders, sir," returned the admiral.

"Hath he been tried yet?"

"Not yet, sir. A court-martial is ordered for to-morrow on the Britannia."

"And what will be the result of their deliberations?"

"He is sure to be found guilty, sir," answered Kephard, gloomily.

"Hum!" said the king. "And the punishment?"

"Suspension, degradation, dismissal, unless your majesty should be pleased to mitigate the sentence."

"And what were the circumstances of the disobedience?"

Admiral Kephard coughed and looked embarrassed.

"Out with it," said the king, bluntly. "He stayed from his ship to—ah—fight a duel."

"How does he bear himself now?" continued the king, to Admiral Kephard's surprise.

He had expected a violent outburst from his majesty, who thoroughly disapproved of dueling.

"Gloomily, your majesty. In short, sir," the admiral burst forth, "he's been a damned—I beg your majesty's pardon, and yours, madam. 'Tis an old sailor's habit," he stammered in great confusion.

"Proceed, Kephard," said the king, smiling, "but no more of that."

"Carrington has been a fool," resumed the old warrior, flushing deeply under his tan, "he had the sweetest wife on earth and was ashamed of her and flirted with another woman who couldn't hold a candle to her, and she ran away, in her innocence getting Lord Strathgate to assist her. Strathgate's motives were—well, your majesty will understand. She escaped from him. Carrington pursued him. They fought."

"So I have been informed," said the king.

"Very well, your majesty, then there's nothing for me to do but to beg you to be merciful to the young man. I think he's heartily sick and sorry of it now, and only wants his wife. He's one of the best officers in the service, it would be a pity to degrade him, and, to tell the truth, I love the lad dearly. Won't your majesty be a little easy with him—a nominal punishment? We can't afford to overlook the affair entirely."

"Hark ye," admiral," said the king. "Gentlemen—" he turned to the other two sailors—"I commit her majesty to your tender offices. Admiral Kephard and I will have a word or two alone. Come, admiral."

The king turned as he spoke and walked out of ear shot, the admiral lumbering along in his wake. They consulted together animatedly for a few moments, the king smiling, not to say grinning, if so unroyal a word may be used about majesty. Suddenly the old admiral burst into a roar of laughter. He lifted his hand and slapped it down on his leg. For a moment the king had thought in his enthusiasm he meant to clap him on the shoulder.

The admiral bellowed out in a voice that could have been heard a half mile away in a gale of wind:

"'Fore God, your majesty, 'tis a noble idea, a royal jest!"

"Think you it will work?" said the king as he walked back to the other group.

"Excellent, in faith—"

"And you will carry it out?"

"To the very letter, sir. To-morrow, your majesty."

"And let no inkling of your purpose come to the prisoner."

"None, sir, and the lady, your majesty, what of her?"

"I reserve to myself the pleasure of telling her," returned the king.

"And have we leave to withdraw now, your majesty?" asked the admiral, as they approached the other group.

"Go, and go quickly, Kephard," said the king, extending his hand again. "I would that I could be there and see the denouement."

"But your majesty can see some of it at least," said Kephard, "if you will board the Britannia any time to-morrow, and indeed you would vastly honor us; the men would be like to die for joy at such a visit. You could at least watch the prisoner take his departure."

"I'll do it," said the king. "At what time?"

"At your majesty's convenience, of course; but the tide ebbs at 11 o'clock and that would be a suitable time for—"

The king raised his hand.

"At 11 o'clock, six bells, you call it, don't you?"

"Yes, your majesty."

"I shall be there. Don't betray me."

"By no means, your majesty," returned the admiral.

And making their salutations and obeisances to their majesties, the little party withdrew, leaving the king in high glee as he explained to his grim little consort the details of his sportive plan.

CHAPTER XXII.

The Royal Intervention.

Five bells in the forenoon watch on the Britannia. The great ship in the perfection of readiness, so clean that you could have eaten your dinner off her decks with a clear conscience if you wished; her 700 men in spick and span uniforms, her officers gorgeous in gold lace, royal blue and spotless white; her marines in vivid scarlet; her masts decked with flags from flying-jib to spanker-boom end, her yards manned with row after row of sailors, others mustered around the great guns on the main deck, was ready for a visit from her august master.

Everybody on the ship was full of excitement except the lonely prisoner in the gunroom. A barge was seen pulling from the shore and from a flagstaff forward the royal ensign fluttered out in the fresh morning breeze. In a few moments a little man in a shovel hat and plain civilian's dress stepped out of the boat and clambered briskly up the accommodation ladder—really a flight of stairs which had been rigged over the side. The admiral, the flag-captain, the officers of the ship, hats in hand, with much bowing and saluting met him at the gangway. As the royal foot touched the white deck the royal flag was broken out at the masthead, the boatswain piped, the band struck up "God Save the King" and the great guns of the main deck thundered out the royal salute.

The admiral turned, faced forward, waved his cocked hat and the whole ship rang with enthusiastic cheering. The king nodded like the plain little famer he was, without any particular ceremony, shook hands with the admiral, waved his arm graciously to the officers and, attended by the admiral, stepped aft and disappeared later in the great cabin under the poop deck.

"Now," said the king, as he sat down in the cabin, "has everything been prepared?"

"Everything is ready, your majesty. The ship is provisioned for her cruise, the officers and men aboard. All ready, sir."

"I performed my part of the undertaking this morning."

The king chuckled. Kephard grinned profoundly, but said nothing.

"You can fetch the prisoner here now."

The admiral turned and called the orderly, gave him a message, and in a few moments my lord Carrington, unarmed, presented himself in the cabin.

By the king's direction Kephard stood in front of his majesty, and Carrington did not at first see who was there. He knew certainly from the commotion that the king had come aboard the ship, but that was all.

"Lieutenant Lord Carrington," began Admiral Kephard severely, "the hour of your court-martial has arrived, but before you appear in its presence his gracious majesty has kindly thought fit to see you in person. He is here to receive you, to hear what you have to say for yourself."

Admiral Kephard suddenly stepped aside and disclosed little George sitting back in the huge admiral's chair. Little George had a very heavy frown upon his face and did his best to assume a godlike and menacing mein. Carrington knelt at once. The king looked hard at him.

"Rise, sir," he said in a voice which he strove to make harsh and forbidding. "Pretty doings I hear about you."

Lord Carrington bowed profoundly, but said nothing.

"Have you nothing to say for yourself, sir?" continued the king.

"Your majesty, nothing."

"Hey! What?" cried King George.

"Nothing, sir."

"You make love to another woman, Cecily Carrington; you are ashamed of your wife; you allow her to run away with Strathgate—"

"Your majesty," cried Carrington, stung to action, "give me leave, sir." He bowed. To interrupt the king was a heinous offense. "Have I permission to proceed, sir?"

"Proceed," returned his majesty.

"You have been misinformed in one particular. Nothing you can say of me or to me is unmerited, that I will admit; but Lady Carrington did not run away with Lord Strathgate."

"I understood he drove away with her in your carriage at night, at two o'clock in the morning."

Lord Carrington winced under the apparent insinuation.

"That is true," he replied; "but my lady was entirely innocent. She had with her a young woman, a companion. She knows not the world, your majesty."

"And you were ashamed of her for that?"

"I was, your majesty. Now, I glory in the fact."

"Go on, sir."

"And she simply used Strathgate as she would a coachman. When he would fain have abducted her she tried to shoot him. She did escape from him and, thank God! I was able to place him out of the running before he could pursue her or annoy her again."

"You fought a duel with Lord Strathkate?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Among Girls.

"Yes," said she defiantly, "I admit that I kissed him."

"Did he put up much of a struggle?" inquired her best girl friend.

Special Master's Sale

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

Between MARTHA E. FORCE, Complainant, and JOHN T. DOLBIER, et als., Defendants.

By virtue of and in pursuance of a decree of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, dated the twenty-sixth day of February, nineteen hundred and seven, made in a certain cause pending in said court, on bill for partition, wherein Martha E. Force is complainant, and John T. Dolbier, et als., are defendants, I, Nelson Runyon, the Special Master of said Court of Chancery, in said decree mentioned, will expose to sale, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, on at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, on the premises hereinafter described, namely, all those certain tracts or parcels of land and premises, situate, lying and being in the Township of Fanwood, in the County of Union, and State of New Jersey, mentioned in the bill of complaint in this cause, and therein described as follows:

TUESDAY, THE TWENTY-FIRST DAY OF APRIL, A. D., 1908,

The First Tract—Beginning at a stake on the northeast side of the road leading from Scotch Plains to the Two Bridges, and in the line of land late of John Rogers, deceased, which stake is also the north corner of lot number two, hereinafter assigned and set off to Jonathan Dolbier; from said beginning running south, forty-three degrees and forty minutes west, and binding on lot number two, six chains and thirty-two links to a stake; thence binding on said lot north, forty-nine degrees and thirty-five minutes west, one chain and fifty links to a stake; thence still binding on said lot south forty-three degrees and forty minutes west, ten chains and eighty links to a stake; thence binding partly on said lot and partly on lot number six, south forty-three degrees and twenty minutes west, ten chains and twenty-five links to a stone in a corner of William Hand's land; thence binding on his land north, forty-six degrees and forty-five minutes west, seven chains and twenty-two links to a stone in another corner of said Hand's land; thence binding partly on land in the possession of Silas Faitout north, forty-five degrees and five minutes east, sixteen chains and thirty-two links to a stone in a corner of the last mentioned land, and in the line of heirs of John Rogers, deceased; thence binding on the said heirs south forty-seven degrees east, five chains and sixty-two links to the south corner of the said heir's land; thence still binding on the land of said heirs, north, forty-three degrees east, eleven chains to a stake on the northeast side of said road, in the line of the said land late of John Rogers, deceased; thence along the side of said road, and binding on the said land south, fifty degrees and fifty-five minutes east, two chains and sixty-six links to the beginning, containing thirteen acres and forty-eight hundredths of an acre of land.

The Second Tract—[viz Number Six] Begins at a stake in William Hand's line, and in the north corner of lot number seven, hereinafter assigned to Jesse Dolbier; thence binding on said Hand's land, north, forty-three degrees and thirty minutes east twenty-five links to the first mentioned stone in the corner of said Hand's land, which stone is also the south corner of lot number one; thence binding on said lot north, forty-three degrees and twenty minutes east, four chains and seventy-five links to a stake in the line of lot number one, it being the west corner of lot number two; thence binding on the last named lot, south, forty-nine degrees and thirty-five minutes east, five chains and seventy-five links to a stake in the line of lot number five, it being also the south corner of lot number two; thence binding on lot number five, south, forty-three degrees and forty-five minutes west, one chain and forty-six links to a stone in the west corner of said lot which stone is the north corner of Matthew Connet's woodland; thence binding on said Connet's land, south, forty-three degrees west, three chains and fifty-four links to a stake in said Connet's line, it being the east corner of lot number seven; thence binding on said lot north, forty-nine degrees and thirty-five minutes west, five chains and seventy-five links to the place of beginning, containing two acres and eighty-four hundredths of an acre of land.

The tracts above described, being the same premises set off to Cutter Dolbier, by the Commissioners appointed by the Essex County Orphan's Court, to partition certain lands devised by Jesse Dolbier, deceased, designated by said Commissioners, as lots numbers one and six of said decedent's lands, as appears by the records of said Court, in book H, pages 242, etc., January, 1834.

The Third Tract—Beginning at a stone corner being Jackson Pound's and running with his line north, forty-nine degrees west, eleven chains and eighty links to a corner of William Hand, then with Hand's line north, forty-four degrees east, eleven chains and twenty-eight links to a corner of Johnson Martin; thence south forty-nine degrees east, five chains and seventy-eight links to a stone corner, being Matthew Connet's; thence with his land south, forty-four degrees west, three chains and forty-three links to another of said Connet's corner's; thence south, forty-nine degrees east, five chains and ninety-three links to another of said Connet's corners; thence south, forty-four degrees west, six chains and seventy-seven links, to the place of beginning, containing ten acres of land, be the same more or less. Being the same premises conveyed by Erkuries B. Dunham, et als. to Cutter Dolbier, by deed dated March 7th, 1849, and recorded in Essex County Register's Office, in book R, No. 8, of Deeds, pages 154, etc.

The Fourth Tract—Beginning at a stone planted for a corner, being the south corner of Johnson Martin's land, and west corner of a lot of woodland, formerly owned by Eliphalet DeCamp, deceased, and the north corner of land belonging to the heirs of Henry Tucker, deceased; thence binding in part on the line of said heirs, and partly on the line of Moses Tucker's land south, forty-four degrees and forty-five minutes west, eleven chains and ninety links to a stake on the line of said Moses Tucker, being also the east corner of a tract of land belonging to the heirs of John Dolbier, deceased; thence binding on the line of said Dolbier's heirs, north, forty-nine degrees and forty-five minutes west, five chains and eighty-nine links to a stake in an angle of the land of said Dolbier's heirs; thence binding in part on the line of said Dolbier's heirs, partly on the line of Jesse Dolbier and partly on the line of Cutter Dolbier, north, forty-four degrees and fifteen minutes east, twelve chains and nine links, also the west corner of said Martin's land; thence binding on the said Martin's line, south, forty-eight degrees and five minutes east, six chains to the place of beginning, containing seven acres and twelve-hundredths of an acre of land, more or less. Being the same premises conveyed to the said Cutter Dolbier by William Hand, Jr., and wife, by deed dated April 20th, 1853, and recorded in the Essex County Register's Office, in book R, No. 8, of Deeds, pages 156, etc.; including the estate and interest in dower of the defendant, Lydia A. Dolbier, widow of Erastus M. Dolbier, deceased, in the said premises; and including, also, the inchoate right of dower of the defendant, Sarah Dolbier, wife of John T. Dolbier, and also the inchoate right of dower of the defendant, Maria L. Dolbier, wife of Arthur H. Dolbier, and also the inchoate right of dower of the defendant, Kittie VanBuren Dolbier, wife of Frederick E. Dolbier, in the said premises; together with all and singular the hereditaments and appurtenances, to the sand premises belonging, or in anywise appertaining.

Tracts Nos. One [1] and Two [2] as above described, are subject to the lien of a mortgage for Three Hundred and Fifty Dollars, and interest thereon at six per cent. per annum, from September 1st, 1907.

"HOLD ON TO THE ROPE," SHOUTS THE POTENTATE

Led by Potentate H. W. Marshal, a half-dozen nobles of Salaam Temple, Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, etc., etc., who hail from Newark, came in over the burning sands this morning and leaving their camels in charge of Noble W. L. Hetfield, Jr., heralded the tidings that all is peace within their fold but that there is serious discussion over the report spread by the heathen that the tickets for Wednesday night's minstrel show at the New Plainfield theatre had been disposed of. "Hold on to the rope," shouted the potentate to Noble Hetfield as he disappeared with fez and all into The Daily Press office.

"What, ahoy, brothers!" shouted the potentate. "The seats are not all gone. The theatre is an omnibus—there's room for all. On the eighth day according to our calendar and a like number of days before the full of the moon we will present an oasis of fun for all. The Arab Patrol bids you welcome!" So saying the potentate departed to rejoin his brethren.

Led by Voss' band of sixteen pieces, the Arabian patrol of the Shrine, accompanied by two score other nobles of the ancient order, will invade the citadel of Noble C. J. Fisk on Wednesday afternoon. The caravan will pass over the highways and by the market places of the city. At night they will present a "bang up" minstrel show at the New Plainfield theatre.

INVENTOR'S INGENUITY.

Marked Model "Eggs" to Insure Safe Handling.

On Saturday last a firm of patent attorneys in Washington received by express a small box labeled "eggs." When opened the box was found to contain a light model of an invention and twelve eggs.

The clerks who opened the box were considerably puzzled, as there seemed to be no connection between the model and the eggs, and were at a loss to understand until a letter in the mail arrived. It was from Mrs. W. T. Rossman, the inventor, who lives at Mangaup, Sullivan County, New York.

Mrs. Rossman said that to insure safe delivery and careful handling she marked the package "eggs." She put the eggs in, she said, to keep from telling a lie.

WIN HARD UPHILL GAME

With Score 8-2 Against Them, P.H.S. Boys Trim DeWitt Clinton Nine by Rally.

BAD WEATHER FOR BASEBALL.

Bases On Balls and Errors Plentiful On Crescent Oval In Cold Wind—First Regular Game.

Hampered by a heavy wind and a low temperature, which made good baseball impossible, the Plainfield High School nine defeated the DeWitt Clinton High School team, of New York, in an up-hill game on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon. The final score was 11-9, although the visitors had a lead of 8-2 in the sixth. It was the first regular game of the season for both nines.

Cold fingers made it impossible for the players to handle the ball at times, and eight errors were tallied against the local nine, while the visitors made five misplays. It was a bad day for the pitchers, Murphey, of the High School, fanning but four men, while eleven drew free passes. Thomas, the colored twirler of the visitors, gave fifteen passes and fanned six. The local nine got seven hits and Clinton four.

Up to the seventh, things looked hopeless for the local team. Saunders' two-bagger, with a couple of passes and some errors, gave Clinton four runs in the second, and they scored again in the third, and hammered in two more in the fourth. Doane's hit and some errors by Clinton, started the scoring for the Plainfielders in the third, when two runs came in. Thomas weakened after the seventh, and the High School runs came in, three in the seventh, four in the eigth and the two necessary for the game in the ninth. Dutcher scored the winning run on Dey's hit, but a question as to the score continued the game until Van Zandt was forced home when Thomas passed Dodwell. The official summaries:

Members of Newark Lodge of Elks are making big preparations for the celebration of their silver anniversary on Wednesday evening in the Krueger Auditorium. Arthur Moreland, of New York lodge, and District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Alex. D. Findlay are among those for set speeches.

The Plainfield Sunday-school Teachers' Union will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. Rev. L. R. Howard will teach the lesson on "The Raising of Lazuras." A business meeting for the election of officers will be held afterwards. All are invited to attend.

NEWARK CONFERENCE WORK

conference sermon had a tendency to fill the church to overflowing.

Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor, was in charge of the regular morning service. Rev. Dr. Smith, former presiding elder of the Elizabeth district, offered prayer after the responsive Scripture reading by Rev. Daniel Halleron, presiding elder. There was an anthem by the vested choir and a solo number by Miss Bertha van-Nuis Willis, after which the sermon was preached by the Bishop. His theme was "In Christ's Stead," taken from a portion of the twentieth verse of the fifth chapter of Second Corinthians. In part he said:

Bishop's Sermon.

"We believe and teach that Christ died for man, all men in all parts of the world and ages. We are accustomed to say that Adam was the head of the race, the first man. In him God beheld humanity. The Son of God died for all men. As Christ was in our stead, so we are now called to be in his stead. He has a substitute for his personal absence in the Christian. Christ and his followers are called the light of the world.

"Christ was going, but he wanted his disciples to remain. I believe that Christ is still manifest here in the Church of God. Not any one church, but the universal church. Under the dispensation of grace God revealed himself and became incarnate. Under this dispensation God is in man and we are in Christ's stead.

"First, as workers in Christ's stead. The secret of a man's happiness is in work. Christ was a great worker. He was always attending to his Father's business. Beginning at the age of twelve years he traveled and toiled as though He knew that He would die young. A Christian must be a worker and he must have a spirit of unselfishness and glorify God in whatever he does. He must remember that even in the giving of a cup of cold water in Christ's name is not without a reward.

Workers for Christ.

"What is the supreme motive in all that ye do? You should not only be workers in God's name, but in Christ's stead. You are to do what only a man can do. Christ did mighty works, but we are told that we as Christians are to do even greater works. Christ said, 'It is expedient that I go away,' but the disciples didn't understand. They said, 'Lord to whom shall we go, ye have eternal life.' We now understand those words of Christ as the disciples did not.

"Christ went away that the Comforter might come. We are to be in Christ's stead as witnesses. He spoke the truth concerning God and man is to reveal it. Truth is not an ethical formula. It cannot be written down. It is to be found in character and life. While Christ spoke the truth He did even more, He was true to our ideals.

"We tell people to look at Christ, not to look at us, when they are seeking religion. He is the ideal. Of course, men should look at Christ and study Him, but they will also look at Christians, too, and we must not forget that we are in Christ's stead. As Christ was made in our likeness so we will be transformed into His likeness.

God's Presence.

"We believe that God is in the world. Some of you have seen Him on Alpine heights and other great summits; in the caves of Kentucky where are to be found wonderful formations and along the Hudson river with its beautiful vendure. Yes, we have seen God in His works; in the diamond that sparkles with a beauty that man cannot duplicate, but not only in these things, but in the sick room with the ill and dying we have seen Him.

"The best evidence of supernaturalness in God's children is that they reflect His character. On what rock does our church rest? Not on creeds which are made by men, but on humanity, or the Christ in humanity, the lives of true Christians against which the very gates of hell cannot prevail. I sometimes think that it is unfortunate that we have no true portrait of Christ, but I think it is better as it is. God wants not idolaters, but that our bodies shall become His temple.

hrist's Sacrifice.

"While we are often obliged to suffer in Christ's stead, we cannot suppliment His passion, neither are we required to imitate His suffering. We are not only to take on the outward form of Christ, but the spirit of Him. The sacrifice he made on the cross is to be repeated by us. It will be valuesness unless it is a living sacrifice. The tendency of the devil is to drive Christ out of the human soul and by so doing he is attacking Christ. He is trying to subdue the God that is in man.

"What is the victory that overcometh? Your faith in Christ. When He was on earth He was a stranger. He was betrayed, forsaken, scourged, crucified and buried in a borrowed tomb. Was there ever a sorrow like this. Yet He opened not His mouth. He lived as He preached. Not one of you has ever been provoked like that and you are not asked to suffer like that. You are only to show the same spirit. We have not the elements of the Christian life unless we have learned to be meek and merciful. Christ was sacrificed for the truth and any man who follows Him will have to suffer. While the days of martydom have passed, I believe that the spirit still lives and that there are those here who would go to the stake rather than sacrifice their trust and faith in Christ. You are asked to live for Christ, not to suffer martydom. Have we the seal of God on our foreheads? Is it on our hearts? Our mission is that of working in Christ's stead. May God help us all to realize this and reflect His glory throughout all time."

The Ordinations.

At the close of the sermon, the Bishop ordained Miss Nellie Stright and Miss Marion Brown as deaconesses. The candidates were presented by Rev. C. S. Woodruff, who together with Rev. Daniel Halleron and Rev. Dr. Muller, joined in the responsive Scripture reading. The Deaconesses were also accompanied by Mrs. M. T. Rice, superintendent of the Deaconesses Home in Newark, and Mrs. C. S. Woodruff Bishop Spellmeyer ordained the two candidates according to the church rule.

Miss Stright is a visiting Deaconess stationed at Newton, Sussex county, and is a member of the Jersey City Deaconess Home. Miss Brown is a travelers' aid Deaconess, located at the Pennsylvania Railroad station, Newark. She is a member of the Newark Deaconess Home. They have both completed their study in the National Training School in Washington and have given two years of service in their work.

Ordinations.

Bishop Spellmeyer officiated at the ceremony of ordination of deacons and elders at the Methodist church yesterday afternoon, when seven deacons and nine elders were presented and received the impressive rites and charges of the church. The candidates were presented by Dr. John F. Dodd, secretary of the conference, and the presiding elders from the four districts, Daniel Halleron, C. M. Anderson, T. M. Meeker and L. C. Muller, took part in the ceremonies, which were witnessed by a large gathering.

Those ordained as deacons were Harry W. Murphy, Rush W. Lake, William H. Sloat, Thomas T. Crawford, Willis S. MacRorie, Alfred Yeoman and Warren P. Coon, and the elders were Edgar M. Compton, Archibald N. Smith, Charles E. Collard, Frederick B. Curry, Frederick W. Sloat, Charles C. Cain, Charles H. Powers, A. Boylan FitzGerald and David M. Ausmus.

Age of Luxury.

Endorsing insistent, persistent importunity on the part of church members in a "tremendous but kindly assault" against luxury and self-indulgence as practised by the rich and influential, Rev. D. D. F. Randolph, pastor of Trinity church, Paterson, preached a powerful sermon of a socialistic nature at the ordination service. The text was from St. Paul. 11:7, "Trouble me not for the door is now shut, my children are with me in bed; I cannot rise and give it thee." The speaker said that such "men in bed" are a common type; not slothful nor sluggards, but indifferent in the midst of prosperity to the needs of others; living in luxury and comfort, but declining to help their fellow men.

"Such a man is a most discouraging character in the world of Christian workers, and 'the man in bed' is desperately wanted in this land, where he can do such much good. The problem of the salvation of the slums is of no more importance than that of the salvation of the suburbs. We must wait on the men of influence and persuade them to give. The question as to whether the heathen can be saved is not as vital as whether 'the man in bed' can be saved.

Sounds Warning.

"The day has come when society is not going to tolerate luxury and mere idleness. This world is now shipwrecked and every man must share of his wealth and his possessions with his neighbor, for the sake of his salvation and that of his children. The business of the church is to rouse each twentieth century Dives to his duty to society, which has made him what he is. It is imperative that he be persistently urged to share his social and political privileges with his neighbor, not live the life of indifference and ease, surrounded by luxury.

"God means that salvation shall follow the flag, and that America shall save the world to the cause of Christ."

Rev. W. H. Ruth, of Rutherford, and Rev. W. S. Cowan, of Newark, assisted at the service, which immediately preceeded the ordination ceremonies.

Dr. Mason's Talk.

Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, colored, corresponding secretary of the Board of Education, Freedmen's Aid and Sunday-schools in the South, represented these interests at the evening service in the First M. E. church, and for more than an hour told of the progress and presented the needs of his work. In part he said:

"Forty-three years ago with one teacher and a borrowed capital of $800 we began our work of Christian education among the colored people of the South. Our first school was in the little town of Newman, Ga., started under a bush arbor on a borrowed lot. What are the results today? From that humble beginning of forty-three years ago, we have 46 institutions of learning with 600 teachers, 12,500 students and lands and buildings valued at $2,110,000. Of these 46 schools, 21, with 4,000 students are among the mountaineers situated for the most part in eastern Tennessee, Western North Carolina and Northern Georgia and Alabama. In these sections the mountaineer is in great evidence and the schools have been brought to his very door.

"The remaining 25 schools are among the negroes with 8,500 students and are planted in strategic positions in the black belt of the South in easy access of the people who need them most. Our aim in these schools among the colored people from the beginning has been not to make great scholars or brilliant men, but good men, useful men. Consequently, we have not been troubled with the old theories as what the people could learn or could not learn. These were incidental matters that did not touch the heart and care of our work.

The Work Accomplished.

"For the test of real manhood is not what a man knows or thinks he knows, but what he really is and what he is really worth to the community in which he lives. Accordingly we have emphasized the moral and ethical in our system of education. To know one's self, to correct and control one's self, to be able to stand up for the truth when the truth is in the minority, to breast the current of a corrupt and debased public sentiment, enough to love the man that would hate you—that is the kind of education that is the basis of all our work in the South.

"It is essentially ethical and moral and that kind of education, my friends, would not hurt some other people in other sections of our great country. Working upon these lines we have had great success. Nearly 14,000 young colored men and women have been sent out as Christian teachers and scores and hundred sent forth as carpenters, blacksmiths, shoemakers, masons, tailors, cabinet makers, dressmakers, cooks, milliners, have gone out as examples of thrift and industry among their people."

In conclusion Dr. Mason spoke of the urgent need of more money with which to carry on the work both among the negroes and the mountain whites.

Epworth League Conference.

The anniversary service of the Newark Conference Epworth League was held Saturday night, when the church was thronged with local Epworth Leaguers. Rev. J. Francis McConnell, pastor of the New York Avenue M. E. church, Brooklyn, made the address, reviewing the work of the League, and giving statistics of the workers. Music was a special feature, and the vested choir was in attendance. Miss Bertha van N. Willis sang.

Previous to this anniversary service, there was a reception and fellowship meeting held in Vincent chapel, the home of Chapter No. 1, of the League. Dr. Stephen J. Herben, editor of the Epworth Herald, was present, with general conference officers, conference board and district cabinets.

Conference Alternates.

Rev. W. H. Morgan and Rev. Jacob Cole were elected alternate delegates to the General Conference, at the business session of the Newark Conference, Saturday afternoon. This was done after Rev. A. C. McCrea was chosen the fifth delegate. There were 170 votes and Mr. McCrea received 86, the number necessary to a choice.

At the request of Bishop Spellmeyer, Rev. W. E. Palmer presided at this session. There were several memorials presented from other conferences, seeking the endorsement of the Newark Conference on their way to the Baltimore gathering in May. One of these memorials came from the New Hampshire Conference, its object being to bring about a different arrangement in the assignment of bishops to the various conferences. Of course, it will be optional with the bishops. It seemed to be the desire of the New Hampshire Conference that the bishops plan to spend more time in the districts where they preside so that they can become better acquainted with conditions. After considerable discussion the memorial was endorsed.

$4,000 For Episcopacy.

Rev. Mr. Boswell was of the opinion that such a change would be advisable. He cited the fact that the Newark Conference pays about $4,000 toward the Episcopacy fund, yet the bishop only spends one week in the conference. He believed that the bishop should spend at least a week or more inspecting the districts. In reply to this Dr. Halleron, presiding elder, said that in nineteen cases out of twenty it is the fault of the presiding elder if the bishop is not acquainted with true conditions.

Another memorial which came from the New York Conference requested a change providing that the election of presiding elders be by vote of the conference instead of by appointment of the bishop. This caused a great deal of discussion, and the vote to endorse wast lost. It appeared to be the opinion of some that such a change would inject more politics into the conference, but there were many who presented arguments to show that this would not be true. Remarks on the question were made by Rev. P. C. Bascom, Rev. Mr. Mayham, the latter declaring that if he could have his way he would abolish all the presiding elders and elect seventy-five bishops, and would thus be able to save millions of dollars that now go to the elders. He would have the bishops visit the districts and thus become thoroughly conversant with conditions. In the present case, Mr. Mayham said, the bishop knows all four districts and his remarks were not intended for him.

Memorials Received.

A memorial from the Rock River Conference sought to separate the Sunday-school from other benevolences and have the pastor preach a sermon once a year to the school. This was referred to the committee on Sunday-schools.

From the Nebraska Conference came a memorial asking that a committee be appointed to consider the relation of the church to social problems, but the question was considered one for experts and was finally laid on the table. Another memorial from the New Hampshire Conference requested that the old catechism be republished, and this was also tabled. Still another memorial, this one from the Arkansas Conference, sought an organic union of the different branches of Methodism and this was endorsed.

Rev. Dr. C. R. Barnes offered a memorial to be sent to the General Conference requiring persons who obtain letters of dismissal from a church to report once a year, under forfeiture of dismissal from the denomination. The object of this is to prevent persons from holding a letter an indefinite time or when asked for it claim to have lost it and thus a complete record is not possible. The memorial was adopted and together with the others endorsed will be sent to the General Conference.

Rev. Dr. Mason.

During the afternoon, Rev. Dr. M. C. B. Mason, colored, secretary of the Board of Education Freedmen's Aid and Sunday-schools, addressed the conference briefly, telling in a few words what has been accomplished during the year. Rev. Dr. Hart, representing the Church Insurance Society of Chicago, also made a few remarks.

Before adjournment an attempt was made to fix the place of next meeting, but the members of the conference was not ready to consider the question.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will be held in the church lecture room tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

BUNGALOW MAN TALKS AT DIAMOND HILL SCHOOL.

William Jeffery, the bungalow man of Berkeley Heights, delivered a lecture to the children and parents of the Diamond Hill School in New Providence township this afternoon. His subject was "Education." He delighted the audience with stories showing the necessity for real education, love and obedience to best impulses.

An old grand piano came in for a great overhauling by Mr. Jeffery, who has a keen musical ear. The piano was in a sad condition of collapse and could not be used at all, not even to strike up a discord and as Jeffery put it, it hadn't even a minor note left in it.

He said that a Board of Education who permitted such things to exist in the schools without any attention are clearly not fit to be in control. Mr. Jeffery congratulated the pupils and parents upon the election of three new members of the Board of Education and hoped that they would do something to fix up the piano at once.

PASTOR LOSES PULPIT FOR JOINING THE ELKS.

It is a sad offense in Pine Plains, New York, among some of the church folk, at least, to belong to the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. The order may be all right for actors, lawyers, physicians and others, but the Pine Plains Baptists won't have an Elk for their pastor. By a majority of three they have just requested the resignation of the Rev. Mervin V. Jacobs because he joined Poughkeepsie Lodge of Elks, although warned beforehand by his anti-Elk parishioners to keep out of the order.

The Rev. Mr. Jacobs has learned, he says, a whole lot about how little the Pine Plains Baptists know about the Elks. He arrived in the village a year ago and soon afterward joined Poughkeepsie lodge. Influential leaders of his flock told him the Elks sold liquor. He denied it, and steps were taken to depose him. The opportunity came when exalted ruler George Kennedy, of Poughkeepsie lodge, which has three hundred and fifty members, appointed the Rev. Mr. Jacobs chaplain. Straightway the dominie was asked to resign, and when he refused a meeting was called and after a heated session the congregation divided, and a motion to ask him to resign was carried by a majarity of three. The Rev. Mr. Jacobs has submitted his resignation, to take effect July 1. Representations have been made to him that if he will give up the Elks his congregation will reinstate him.

DISORDER MARKS CLOSING SCENE OF CONFERENCE

WHEN PASTORS' TIME LIMIT IS WARMLY DEBATED

Talking against time, waiting for the annual appointments and with a good subject for debate, that of recommending a return to the time-limit of pastorates, the closing hour of the morning session of the Newark Conference was marked by scenes of disorder today. Countless questions were put, the presiding officer ignored motions, points of order and privileges were called and there was an utter lack of order throughout this part of the discussion.

Rev. Dr. Alexander Craig, one of the venerable members of the conference, attmpted to make a few remarks, mildly admonishing the ministers for their unbecoming actions and he was declared out of order. He insisted on being heard and refused to sit down.

In the heat of the argument, Rev. W. E. Palmer declared that if it were not showing disrespect, he would appeal from the decision of the chair, so provoked was he at the ruling on his questions.

In referring to his remarks, Dr. Craig said that he regretted that Mr. Palmer would so far forget himself as to display such passion. This statement brought forth hearty laughter, for the ministers considered Mr. Palmer's action in a lighter vein, and afterward he made a few explanatory remarks tending to put himself right before the conference.

The trouble arose over the memorials recommended to be sent to the General Conference requesting a time-limit of pastorates. The first one was offered by Dr. Buttz, and suggested that the Bishop make the annual appointment of a minister to the same charge for a period of four years, and at the expiration of that time, be privileged to continue the pastorate for another four years under the same conditions, if the best interest of the church would be conserved. In the original drafting it also provided that no official action for removal be taken except for cause, but afterward this clause was stricken from the memorial.

Another memorial, on the same subject as the Troy Conference memorial, calling for a five-year limit, and still a third, offered as a substitute by Rev. Dr. Robinson, of Newark, and simply calling for a return to a time-limit, furnished the basis for the endless discussion. Motion upon motion was made, until the chair was simply bewildered. Previous questions were called, motions to adjourn, etc., all of which combined to make the confusion the more amusing.

At the conclusion of the hour quiet was restored and after several votes were taken, it was announced that Dr. Buttz's memorial, with the clause referring to removals for cause, was adopted, while the Troy Conference memorial and the substitutes offered by Dr. Robinson were defeated. The question being settled, a motion to adjourn was quickly passed.

The action taken by the conference on time-limit is only in the nature of a request to the General Conference, the local body having no power whatever to adopt it. For this reason it was the opinion of many that the discussion was useless.

One of the interesting items of business considered during the closing hours of the conference was the report of the treasurer, Rev. Jacob Cole. This showed that during the past year there was raised for the Board of Foreign Missions $17,719 and the sum of $13,543 for the Board of Home Missions. Other principal items were as follows:

Board of Education, $4,931; Conference claimants, $10,166; American Bible Society, $1,457; General Conference expenses, $3,370; total benevolences, $55,988. In the Elizabeth district the sum of $3,320 was raised for foreign missions, $2,604 for home missions and $1,997 for the conference claimants' fund. The conference expenses' fund received $531. For the Women's Foreign Misisonary Society $12,039 was raised and $9,210 for the Women's Home Missionary Society. The contributions for the combined boards of foreign and home mission showed a decrease of $508 over last year.

Eagerness on the part of the ministers to learn the result of the assignments to be made by the Bishop and presiding elders as the annual appointments was in evidence when the closing business session of the Newark Conference was held this morning. During the early part of the session the members considered a number of reports, some left over from yesterday, and all were received and the usual course adopted.

Revs. D. B. F. Randolph and Perry Bascom were named as members of the camp-meeting committee, taking the places of Revs. G. G. Vogel and R. K. Boyd, who declined to serve.

The report of the special committee to take up the question of summer resorts maintained on Sunday by railroads in the State, was presented by Rev. C. L. Mead, and he offered resolutions which were adopted, condemning the action of railroads in conducting such resorts on the American Sabbath, and assured the churches of Hunterdon county as well as other parts of the State of the hearty support of the conference in their efforts to stop the practise complained of. It was regretted that the conference could not recommend that Sunday-schools visit these resorts.

The Rev. R. B. Urmy, questioned whether liquor was sold at Bellewood Park or Cranberry Lake. Dr. Dodd stated that he understood that there are hotels near these resorts, where liquor is sold.

Rev. C. X. Hutchinson complained that the railroads have heretofore refused to give Sunday-schools or churches special rates for day excursions and showed no disposition to cater to the better class of the people.

In the opinion of Rev. W. E. Palmer, the adoption of the resolutions would have its proper effect.

Upon the recommendation of a committee comprising Revs. A. C. McCrea, W. C. Snodgrass and H. K. Carroll, resolutions on the death of Rev. Erskine M. Rodman were adopted. They expressed the appreciation of the members of such a noble and faithful life and extended their sympathy to the bereaved family. The resolutions were adopted by a rising vote, and in this connection Dr. Snodgrass, who knew Dr. Rodman personally for several years, added his appreciative esteem.

The Newark Conference yesterday took a decided stand against allowing Sunday-schools or churches to run day excursions to summer resorts in this State which are kept open on Sunday and where outings are held on that day. The discussion followed a resolution offered by Rev. W. C. Kinsey, of Clinton, condemning the action of the Lehigh Valley Railroad in keeping Bellewood Park open on Sunday for general amusement, and it was the sense of the members that all church excursions be abolished to such a resort. The discussion became so animated that it was finally decided to refer the matter to a committee, comprising Rev. W. C. Kinsey, Rev. C. L. Mead, of Newark, and Rev. W. E. Palmer, of Jersey City, with the understanding that it confer with all railroads in the State on the subject.

Rev. Mr. Mead called attention to the fact that the Lackawanna Railroad conducts such an amusement resort at Cranberry Lake, while the New Jersey Central during the season runs excursions every Sunday to Mauch Chunk and Lake Hopatcong.

In the opinion of Mr. Palmer such action might be construed by the railroads as a "slap" at the companies for taking away clerical privileges, but Rev. Joseph Walker, of Jersey City, said that the conference should be free to act in such a matter without dictation from the railroads or any one else.

It was finally agreed that all railroads should be condemned and the matter will be taken up with the officials before the summer season opens at the various resorts referred to in the resolution.

KILL DEPEW RESOLUTION

City Committee Urges Union County Legislators to Have Platform Pledges Fulfilled.

CONSERVATIVE ACTION TAKEN.

Chairman Angleman Announces His Various Committees—Plans For the Primaries.

After prolonged discussion the resolution introduced by R. Henry Depew, president of the New Jersey "People's Lobby," at the Republican City Committee meeting last night was effectually killed. Mr. Depew attempted to get through a resolution, as told exclusively in these columns some days ago, directed to Governor Fort and the Legislature that the lawmakers remain in session until they enact the Martin utilities bill, the Ackerman civil service measure and other reform schemes.

County Chairman Frank H. Smith demonstrated in short order that it was going beyond the province of the committee to attempt to dictate to the members of the Legislature accredited to other counties and that it would be impertinent to demand of the Union county representatives that they work for the passage of a particular bill. Mr. Smith asserted that it was the duty of the senator and the assemblymen of Union to judge which utility bill is preferable and which civil service measure should be passed. City Chairman Angleman and others coincided with Mr. Smith's declaration that the wisest course for a city committee to pursue would be for it to request that the senator and assemblymen of their own county use their efforts to obtain the passage of such reform measures as promised in the Republican party platform. The committee agreed with him.

These committees were appointed by Chairman Angleman for the year: Finance—R. I. Tolles, Duncan W. Taylor, Herbert Buxton and R. H. Depew; legislation—G. W. V. Moy, C. S. Sminch, F. L. Holt and W. L. Hetfield, Jr.; naturalization—S. P. T. Wilbur, H. Tracy, Mr. Fletcher and F. D. Randolph; registration—J. S. Higham, Amos Andrews, R. H. McCready and H. C. Runyon.

The call for the primaries on April 16 will be issued as soon as the county committee acts.

It was announced at the meeting that there would be a big crowd out for the meeting called for at the Casino tomorrow night when the Plainfield Republican Club will be formally organized.

COMPLAINANT SCORED DESERVEDLY BY COURT

Mrs. Annie Sutphen, of South Second street, appeared in the city court, this morning, as complainant against Mrs. Theodore Vroom, a neighbor, who she alleged had assaulted her. There was hardly a noticeable scratch on Mrs. Sutphen's face but Mrs. Vroom's looked as if it had come in contact with a buzz saw and Judge Runyon sought an explanation. It then developed that the complaining witness was the one who had committed the assault and the case was immediately dismissed.

Mrs. Sutphen made the fatal mistake of trying to argue the matter after the dismissal and sought to tell Judge Runyon that Mrs. Vroom owed her for a stove. This assertion practically explained why the complaint had been made and the magistrate gave her a scoring that will last her over Easter.

"You can't make any collecting agency out of this court," he exclaimed in conclusion; "and don't you come here again with a trumped up charge like this. If you do you'll be sorry. Now get out."

And Mrs. Sutphen stood not on the order of going but went.

Coal Wreck Interrupts Traffic.

Traffic on the New Jersey Central was upset for several hours during the early part of this morning by a small wreck in this city. As an eastbound coal train was pulling over the Park avenue bridge shortly after midnight, the air hose burst, causing several cars to buckle and leave the track. The mix-up came in a bad place as only two tracks are in use between Park and Plainfield avenues because of bridge building operations. The Elizabethport wrecking crew cleared up the trouble by 4 o'clock.

New Presiding Elder.

Dr. H. B. F. Randolph succeeds Rev. Dr. Halleran as presiding elder of the Elizabeth district of the Newark M. E. Conference.

The finance committee, of which Councilman Herbert Buxton is the chairman, presented the annual tax ordinance at the April meeting of the Common Council last night, showing that the total amount to be raised during the coming year is $139,890.

The report as presented follows:

"Your finance committee, after carefully considering the estimates furnished by the various committees, have determined that the amount necessary to be raised by taxation to be the sum of $139,890, distributed as follows:

For general fund, $50,000; (which includes $30,000 for the improvement of streets); for electric lights, $15,250; for principal on sewer bonds, $6,000; for interest on sewer bonds, $10,500; for support of the city poor, $8,000 (which includes the sum of $1,500 for support of indigent patients at Muhlenberg Hospital); for maintenance of the public library and reading rooms, $7,500; for maintenance of the fire department, $34,000 (which includes hydrant bill for the last quarter of 1907, $1,226.25, and claim of Wyman & Haberle for improvements of No. 1 engine house on West Second street, $1,385.27, and other sundry bills amounting to about $350, carried over from last year); for interest on school bonds, $5,440; for principal on school bonds maturing this year, $1,000; for the care of shade trees on the highways, $2,200; total, $139,890.

"Estimating that the amount required for schools and the amount of the county, State and school tax will not exceed what was levied in 1907, the total amount to be raised by tax will be about the same as last year."

The ordinance was read twice and ordered advertised.

MISS CAMPBELL TALKS ON "THE IMMIGRANT"

The consideration of "Problems of American Life," the subject of study chosen by the members of the Monday Afternoon Club for the rest of the season, was opened yesterday by an interesting lecture on "The Immigrant" by Miss J. M. Campbell, of Passaic, at the meeting held at the Casino. The lecturer, with two other commissioners, was appointed by Governor Stokes in 1907 to investigate and report on the subject of immigration in New Jersey.

Beside the large number of European and Slavonic nationalties in the cities and towns of the State, Miss Campbell said there were 1,500 Chinese and Japanese, and a Jewish municipality unlike any other in the world. This vast incoming population she classed as a rule, docile, industrious and law respecting, but received by us only with tolerance when it should be the aim of the State to advance their virtues and utilize the many good qualities they bring with them. "Immigration," she said, "was no ground for distrust. Some one had said of America there were only two things native here, Indians and buffaloes. So the citizen of longer standing should be patient and helpful to the new comer." Miss Campbell asked pertinently what would become of us without immigration as most of the new comers were our miners, agriculturists and manufacturers. She thought it easier to teach the foreigner our ways than to teach an American the dignity of labor.

Husband Lost On Honeymoon.

Mrs. Eliza Morris Gartley, of Bayonne, who was married to Samuel Gartley, of that place, on March 25, is anxiously waiting to hear from her husband, who disappeared while they were on their honeymoon. He is reported to have been in this city last Friday night, but his bride fears foul play. He was last seen on Staten Island Saturday night.

WEST END GETS SCHOOL?

Board of Education Likely to Erect $50.000 Building near Clinton Ave. and Front St.

FOR FIRE PROOF STRUCTURE.

New Bids Are to Be Received For Darrow Avenue School House to Cost $90,000.

When the Board of School Estimate meets in the last part of May, the Plainfield Board of Education will ask for approximately $50,000 for the erection of a school building in the west end section, north of the railroad tracks. The persistent and reasonable agitation for better school accommodation for the section west of Grant avenue and north of the railroad tracks has prompted the Board, it is said, to plan the erection of a building in the vicinity of Clinton avenue and West Front street.

At the meeting of the Board of Education at the Plainfield High School last night, considerable time was spent in the consideration of sketches for six and eight room buildings, and it has been decided to erect a school of this size. The plan of the new building, which, with the Darrow avenue school will give ample accommodations for the pupils in the west end, is to be such that it can easily be enlarged to twelve or more rooms as the number of pupils increases.

Conservative in the matter of expense, the Board decided last night that sufficient foresight should be used to secure a building which can be used for many years, and enlarged to suit increasing needs. It is essential that such a building be fireproof, and with this in mind, the Board will ask for an appropriation of between $45,000 and $50,000. This will be entirely expended in the erection of a six or eight room building, which will be so constructed as to allow for enlargement.

Charles F. Abbott, chairman of the building committee of the Board, has been especially active in the consideration of the new building, and it has been through him that sketches have been prepared for the ground plan of the new primary school building.

Because the bids for the proposed Darrow avenue school were all too high for the appropriation of $90,000, it was decided at the meeting last night, to re-advertise for bids, making certain changes in the plans and specifications. The bids as opened several weeks ago showed the lowest to be $106,000, so that the building committee has revised the plans for the new school to cut down the cost about $15,000. The bids for this school will be opened at the special meeting of the Board to be held Monday, April 27.

MYGATT CALLS HALT ON COUNCILMANIC METHODS

The action of Councilman Gloak, chairman of the street committee, in endeavoring to obtain the passage of an ordinance at the April meeting of the Common Council, last night, calling for the permanent improvement of certain streets, brought forth a protest from Mr. Mygatt on the grounds that such ordinances were passed too heastily, no opportunity being given to change them after the adoption on second reading.

During the lively debate between the two members, Mr. Gloak said that the ordinance was drafted by Corporation Counsel Marsh and having been considered, in his opinion, should be passed. Mr. Mygatt contended that while he was a member of the street committee, he knew nothing about the ordinance and doubted whether the other members of the body were aware of its provisions. He took a firm stand for the principle involved and finally won his point by having the ordinance laid on the table. The point was made by him that after an ordinance is read for the first time it should be laid on the table for a time and each member of the body should be furnished with a copy so that he may vote intelligently.

The ordinance called for the improvement of North, Leland, Netherwood and Monroe avenues, West Eighth and West Third street and Clinton avenue, and contained a provision for the issuance of $20,000 worth of municipal bonds, of $1,000 denomination each, payable within three years. Mr. Gloak and Mr. Buxton were the only two members to vote against laying the ordinance on the table.

TWO COPS DISMISSED; HUMILIATING CEREMONY

Councilman Randolph, as chairman of the police committee, announced to the city fathers last night that after a fair trial, Patrolmen Thomas Burns and Edward S. Smith had been dismissed from the police department on the charge of being intoxicated while on duty and entering a public bar-room in uniform while in that condition. The action of the committee was confirmed by the Common Council. The two men were brought before Mayor Fisk earlier in the evening for sentence.

At His Honor's orders the brass buttons were ordered cut off their uniforms, after which the two men were formally dismissed

POLICE HEADQUARTERS BIDS ON MONDAY, MAY 4

Councilman Frank Randolph, chairman of the police committee, presented the approved plans by Tracy & Swartout, and also the deed for the property at West Fourth and Sycamore streets, where it is proposed to erect a new police headquarters' building, at last night's meeting of the Common Council. A resolution offered by him and adopted, fixed Monday night, May 4, as the time when bids will be received for the erection of the building.

Another resolution by Mr. Randolph and adopted, accepted the offer of Henry Haurand to purchase the stables in the rear of the old police headquarters' building used for the patrol wagon and horse and some fixtures in the building for $250.

The resignation of John J. Neylon as a member of the fire department was received and referred to the fire committee.

GET FIRE HOUSE SITE; BUILDING BIDS NEXT

The property on South avenue, near the Netherwood station, was purchased by the city at last night's meeting of the Common Council, as a site for the proposed new fire house in the East End. The lot, which is 60x200, was owned by the Warren Ackerman Estate. The consideration was $1,800.

The action was taken through a resolution offered by Mr. Hibbard, chairman of the fire and building committee, and the money with which to pay for the land will be taken out of any available funds until the issue of bonds is negotiated covering the entire expenses of land and fire house, which it is proposed to erect there. The resolution provided that the committee submit the plans for the buildings and all the matters in connection with the deal for the property to Corporation Counsel Marsh for approval.

Objection to this action was made by Councilmen Mygatt and Montgomery, who argued that too much haste was shown. Remarks favoring the purchase of land and erection of a fire house were made by President Tolles and Councilman Suydam. Mr. Mygatt still objected, however, and by consent of the members was excused from voting on the resolution.

HORSE FATALLY INJURED IN EAST END RUNAWAY.

Crashing into a heavy stone gate post in front of D. F. Ginna's residence at Watchung and Kensington avenues, a valuable grey horse, hitched to the wagon of Rouse & Fullergar, contractors, was fatally injured in a runaway accident yesterday afternoon and subsequently shot by Detective-Sergeant Flynn.

The animal was tied at the new house being erected for Phillip Suffern on Kensington avenue, and shortly after the noon hour, slipped its tie strap and started off down Kensington avenue toward Watchung. Taking fright, it broke into a gallop, and in trying to turn the corner into Watchung avenue, dashed up on the sidewalk and crashed into the stone post. It was badly cut and lacerated and its right hind leg was broken. The animal was valued at $200. The wagon was slightly damaged.

April Wedding at Biltmore.

Invitations have been sent out by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Frithjoff Rees for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth Baxter Rees, to Augustus Dennis Shepard, Jr., on Thursday, April 23, at 12 o'clock at All Souls' church, Biltmore, North Carolina. A wedding breakfast will follow at Kenilworth Lodge, the home of the bride. Mr. Shepard is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Shepard, of "The Gables," Fanwood.

BLAMES CITY CONTRACTOR

Says Letcher Fire Fiasco was Due to Negligence of Street Sprinkler Man's Drivers.

WATER CO. HEAD'S CHARGE.

Monthly Reports Presented at Common Council Meeting—More Street Lights—Hospital Appropriation.

Replying to the communication from the fire and building committee of the Common Council following the investigation of conditions as to fire hydrants, Frank Bergen, president of the Plainfield-Union Water Supply Company, informed that body at the April meeting last night that after a careful investigation of facts in his opinion neither the company nor the fire department was to blame for the hydrants not being in working order or frozen. He called attention to carelessness on the part of drivers of sprinkling carts in not properly shutting the hydrants off. He recommended that the question of establishing stand-pipes for the use of sprinkling carts be taken up by the company and Common Council. The matter was referred. John E. Keely holds the city contract for street sprinkling. Only a short time ago his contract was renewed without competitive bids.

The petition from Andrew Vanderbeek and A. L. Force referring to a notice requesting that the iron railing at the point of entrance to the basement of the building at Park and North avenues be removed, and requesting permission to allow it to remain, was referred to the street committee.

Another petition from Louis Levine, owner, and Morris Roberts, contractor, pertaining to the removal of a building, without a permit, in which explanation was made, was referred to the street committee. Petitions were received from the Highland Park Reality Company, requesting that crosswalks be laid in its property on East Second street, and for the elemination of a street assessment, were referred to the proper committees. Elston M. French offered the city a site for the proposed new fire in the East End, the location being at Leland avenue and George street, and the price $750. It was referred to the fire and building committee.

Petitions were received from J. C. Manning and others for electric lights and hydrants on Randolph road, Cameron and Lenox avenues, and one from Yost Brothers for permission to erect an awning at Front and Somerset streets and another for a light on Denmark road from W. L. Lockwood, were referred to the proper committees. Those from Mr. Manning were referred back for correction and the other one was granted.

Another petition was received from L. E. Hart and all the other owners of land interested in the movement to have an unknown street on Elmwood place vacated, was presented and referred to the corporation counsel.

A request from the Shade Tree Commission for an appropriation of $300 to include the care of the city park, was received, and later it was granted, the sum being understood to include the annual appropriation made to the Town Improvement Association.

City Judge William Runyon presented his first quarterly report as follows: Total number of cases, 212; sentenced, 28; sentence suspended, 123; sent to county jail, 40; dismissed, 11; turned over to juvenile court, 2; on probation, 1; cases pending, 7. The receipts were $152, expenditures, $58.45, and the balance, $93.55, turned over to the city treasurer.

The granting of fourteen sewer permits was reported by City Engineer Gavett and Building Inspector Doane reported the granting of six permits in February and 26 in March. Clerk Horace G. Adams, of the district court, reported the receipts for the month to be $146.92, the expenditures, $49.72, leaving a balance of $97.20.

Overseer of the Poor A. D. Ayres presented his report, showing the expenditure at the Industrial Home to be $416.55. The outside expenditures were $285.60, the total amount being $702.15.

An old tax matter concerning which R. W. Emerson petitioned was reported on by Corporation Counsel Marsh, and an adjustment will be made. A communication was received from the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital offering to care for the city's indigent poor there during the coming year for the sum of $1,500, the usual appropriation. The offer was accepted.

A resolution by Mr. Gloak, chairman of the street committee, which was adopted, approved the plan to make Terrill road a State Aid Road and the clerk was instructed to com-

MR. MOTT NAMED AND CONFIRMED

Trenton, April 7.—Prosecutor Wilbur A. Mott, of Essex county, who was appointed by Chief Judge Gummere to fill the office temporarily owing to the death of Prosecutor Henry Young, was confirmed by the Senate last night, his name having been sent in by Governor Fort for the permanent appointment.

When Mr. Mott, who was Assistant Prosecutor under Mr. Young, was mentioned for the office objection was made on the ground that he was not a counsellor at law, having never taken the necessary examinations. The answer of Governor Fort was that he had looked into the matter and that as the Prosecutor is a constitutional officer the statute requiring that he must be a counsellor could not operate against him, and that if he deemed it wise the Governor could actually appoint a layman to the position.

With the sending of the name of Mr. Mott to the Senate last night it developed that in order to remove any possible friction over the matter Mr. Mott took the required examinations for counsellors last week. He passed them easily, and yesterday his commission was sent to Newark from Trenton. Early last night he went to the house of Chief Judge Gummere, in Newark, and was sworn in as a counsellor at law, thus removing all technical objection to his appointment.

MAN IN SCANT ATTIRE CHASED BY HUSBAND.

Atlantic City, April 7.—"Jack" Peake, formerly captain of the life guards, early yesterday morning found James Flynn in his home, and residents in fashionable Chelsea hotels and cottages were soon startled with cries of "Murder!" and "Help!" Upon pearing out of windows they saw Flynn, a young man, fleeing in scant attire and bare feet toward the beach.

Peake captured Flynn as he reached the strand and sent him to the city jail. Peake refused to permit any clothing to be removed from his house to the police station. Peake lodged charges against Flynn before Magistrate Hughes which involve Mrs. Peake.

Baked Apples With Nuts.

Peel and core the apples, then place in a deep pan, allowing a chaping tablespoonful of sugar and half a cup of water to each apple. In the centre of each apple place a tablespoon of chopped nuts and a strip of lemon or orange peel, and over the whole sprinkle cinamon and nutmeg. Bake very slowly and the juice will become jelly-like.

Another Question.

"I hate to bother you, pop; but, really, I'd like to know——"

"Well, what?"

"How it happens that baby fish don't get drowned before they're learned to swim?"

TURKISH TOWELS

Better bargains than you have purchased in a year—especially if you are a good enough judge to appreciate the real merits of good Turkish Towels,—the wearing quality. These are all made of double thread, which means practically double service; they are close and firm and fast woven edges, even to the lowest grades, thus the descriptive size alone would not give them justice.

At 10c—The bleached, are 16x35, the unbleached 18x35; a good value for 12½c.

At 12½c—The bleached are 18-36, and are hemmed, the unbleached are 18-37; value 15c.

At 15c—The bleached are 18-37, the unbleached 19-37, both hemmed, and are regularly 18c.

At 25c—Both extra heavy weight, bleached are 23-41, the unbleached 25-41; value 29c.

At 50c—Heavy bath sheets, bleached size 28-58, double thread, as the smaller sizes, but of heavier cotton yarn; value 59c.

Wonder of the Age—The Ikonograph

EXHIBITION FREE.

We will give a free exhibition of the Ikonograph Moving Pictures in the rear of our Sporting Goods Section, Second Floor, every morning and afternoon this week.

Mornings at 9:30 to 11; afternoons, 2:30 to 4:30.

Here is a moving picture machine for the home—a truly wonderful invention which enables anyone, even the most inexperienced child, to throw clean-cut pictures, 4x5 feet, on a screen without any of the flickering which makes the ordinary moving picture machine so disagreeable to the eyes. The Ikonograph takes up very little space, the mechanism is remarkably simple, and the machines are obsolutely safe. We are going to introduce these wonderful moving picture machines at a low price, bringing them within the reach of all—with ten feet of film, for only $10

The Ikonograph can be bought on our popular Club Plan, about which particulars will be given in the Sporting Goods Department, Second Floor.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The vaudeville bill which Manager Counihan will present at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night is the best he has ever arranged. It will be headed by Miss May Ward and her eight "Dresden Dolls" and George Thatcher, the world-famous minstrel man. Popular prices will prevail.

"Two Jolly Companions," the farce comedy, which comes to the New Plainfield theatre tonight, is equal to such plays as "Brown's In Town," "Charlie's Aunt," or in fact, any of the comedy successes of the past years; in fact it is better from a dramatic standpoint inasmuch as it has a plot, which is a very complicated affair and relies on its merits alone for success and while there are innumerable specialties, choruses and other novelties which go to make up a first class entertainment, the play could succeed without them. The theme is not supplied by the hackneyed plot of mistaken identity. The story is consistent and the situations come in a natural manner, and are not at all exaggerated. "Two Jolly Companions" is a clever construction and contains everything that is new in the comedy line. The piece will be presented by an intelligent company, headed by the well-known star, Herman H. Rose.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Lillian Burkhart has a new sketch called "The Lady and the Bracelet."

Captain Robert Marshall and Alfred Sutro are to write plays for Charles Frohman.

Henry Arthur Jones is working on a new play which will be produced in New York late in August.

Mlle. Anna Held, who has played "The Parisian Model" for two seasons in America, will open in London about the middle of May.

Annie Yeamans and Edward Harriman will make a short incursion into the vaudeville field in some sketches from "The Mulligan Guards."

Girl Hit By Automobile.

Montclair, April 7.—Miss Clarise Loweree, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lloyd Loweree, of No. 76 Elm street, was struck by an automobile in Montclair Centre Sunday night. The young woman was tossed several feet, but not seriously injured. The man at the wheel stopped the machine, picked the girl up and conveyed her to her home. In the excitement neither the name of the chauffeur nor the number of the machine was obtained. The young woman sustained no broken bones and is reported to be resting easily after her accident.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Edward Munyan, of Mullica Hill, found a homing pigeon with a band on its leg marked "P. F. 34049," Saturday.

Robert Gaines, colored, who shot Bertha Tutis while in Woodbury last summer, apd got away after a long chase, has been captured in Philadelphia and placed in the Gloucester county jail.

The proposed new high school building in Woodbury will be named in memory of the late William Milligan, who was principal of the city schools thirty-five years and county superintendent fifteen years.

Overcome by gas in one of the ovens of the plant of the Camden Coke Company, yesterday, Thomas Barr, fifty years old, of 1242 South Third street, Camden, was taken to Cooper Hospital, where he was revived in a short time.

Stepping from an electric train before it had stopped at the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad Station at Millville, yesterday, A. Stanger was thrown heavily to the platform and sustained severe injuries. Dr. Neal cared for him.

It is expected that the addition to the Soldiers' Home at Vineland will be turned over to the managers by Contractor Pasquale tomorrow. The new part contains fifty-two bedrooms and two parlors, all finished in the most approved style.

Richard Hayden, of 175 Jersey street, went to St. Joseph's Hospital, Paterson, yesterday, suffering from a broken arm. Hayden says he sustained the injury Saturday night, when he slipped on a banana peel and fell heavily to the sidewalk.

Seized with a coughing spell while at dinner yesterday, Adolph Roth, forty years old, of 632 South Second street, Camden, was hurried to Cooper Hospital, where it was found that a bone had lodged in his throat. It was removed with difficulty.

Woodbury's City Council will take up the street lighting matter tomorrow night, but it is pretty well determined not to make a new contract for more than one year, although the Public Service Corporation has given better terms for a five-year contract.

About to walk downstairs at his home, 555 Trenton avenue, Camden, yesterday, William Ross, sixty-six years old, a past grand sachem, Red Men, stumbled and landed on the cellar floor. Taken to Cooper Hospital, he was found to be suffering from a lacerated scalp.

Three-year-old Margaret Suttz found her older brother's revolver lying in an open drawer in their home on lower Atlantic avenue, Atlantic City, yesterday afternoon. The child pulled the trigger of the gun and contents of a blank cartridge, left in the chamber since New Year, blew out one of her eyes and burned her face in a terrible manner. Hospital surgeons hope to save the child's life, but her condition is serious.

The mystery surrounding the finding of the body of a man on the banks of the Newton Creek, near the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad, Camden, was solved yesterday, when Michael Bielinski, of 2207 Carlton street, Philadelphia, identified it as that of Sydor Kazak, a fellow-boarder. Bielinski said that he and the dead man were walking along the railroad tracks on Friday morning shortly after midnight, when, as they were crossing the bridge, they saw a train bearing down upon them. Bielinski hung from the bridge while the train passed, but his companion was struck and hurled into the creek. It is supposed that Kazak succeeded in crawling to the bank of the stream, where he subsequently expired. The man was twenty-seven years old.

ADMITTING BIGAMY, J. H. WARE SURRENDERS.

Baltimore, Md., April 7.—"I am wanted in Camden, N. J., on a charge of bigamy," said Joseph H. Ware, aged forty-eight years, formerly Supervisor of Schools in New Jersey, when he walked into the Central police station and surrendered to Captain Henry yesterday.

Ware has, according to his own story, been a fugitive from justice since January last. He was out of funds, and unable to get work. Ware says he was supervisor of schools in Allendale, Bergen county, N. J. Both of his wives are school teachers, with whom he fell in love while they were teaching in schools, of which he was a supervisor. Wife No. 1 was Miss Tema Robertson, whom he married in 1876. They were teachers in the same school in Milford, N. J. They have a son twenty-four years old.

It was in 1907, while supervisor of schools in Clifford, N. J., that he met Miss Hannah Neale, who was an instructor in one of the eight schools under his charge. After a brief courtship they were married, and lived together until January, this year, when the second wife learned of the first marriage and left him. Since then he has wandered all over the East. He came from Connecticut to Baltimore, finally seeking the Salvation Army for aid. When told he might get a ten year sentence Ware broke down and wept.

Marion Dayton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dayton, was baptized Saturday afternoon at the home of the parents by Rev. George Mooney, formerly of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church.

municate that fact to the Board of Freeholders. Another resolution by Mr. Gloak, which was adopted, put the property on which the sewage disposal plant and Industrial Home is located, in the care of the alms committee.

The J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company, in accordance with a previous petition, were granted permission to erect an awning at its place of business at 620 North avenue, and the petition of Schenck & McAfee to enclose a rear porch at 112 West Front street, was refused, as was also a request from A. D. Thompson for lights in the vicinity of Ravine and Denmark roads.

There was considerable discussion regarding a petition for six lights on West Sixth street, between Monroe and Clinton avenues, and despite a strong argument in favor by Mr. Suydam, it was refused. He thought it was about time the West End of the city received something for its money, and Mr. Buxton concurred with him. Later the petition of F. J. Harris for a light on West Seventh street was granted.

The protest on the part of Mr. Suydam did not prevent Mr. Montgomery from placing lights on Hillside avenue, between Evergreen and Martine avenues, and he tried hard to place two more lights on Central street, but this motion was laid on the table, after Mr. Buxton made a vigorous kick as to the limited appropriation for lights. The motion to table the motion was carried by one vote. Mr. Buxton expressed the opinion that the Second Ward has been receiving all the attention and he believed it was time that other parts of the city received some attention.

At this time Mr. Buxton offered several resolutions which were adopted. One provided for the borrowing of $9,000 on account of the brick pavement work, another for borrowing $14,000 on account of sewer extension work and a third for borrowing $3,000 on account of the Southside sanitary sewer work. Other resolutions by this member provided that $12,000 be borrowed for street and sewer work until the regular appropriations are made, that $3,000 be transferred from the general to the fire fund, that the city treasurer be authoized to buy in for the city property sold for taxes. Upon the advice of Corporation Counsel Marsh, and in accordance with a resolution by Mr. Buxton, the property at 1010-1014 Prospect avenue, formerly owned by the estate of Anna M. Balen, but now in possession of the city, was sold to the Union County Trust Company for $1,000, the offer being made by the company at that price. The city purchased the property sometime ago under a Martin Act sale.

Fraud Order Issued.

The Postmaster General of the United States has issued a fraud order against the National Cement Company, whose plant is at Carpenterville, N. J., and a large part of whose stock is said to be owned by Plainfielders. The mail matter of the concern is now officially barred by the Postoffice Department. The State Geologist of New Jersey is also after the concern, whose first president was Clarence L. Murphy, of this city. Mr. Murphy quit the presidency sometime ago and it is said he intends to resign as treasurer.

Washington's Commission.

Washington's commission as commander in chief of the United States army was approved by Congress June 17, 1775, and on June 21 of that year he set out on horseback to take command of the forces encamped about Boston.

DR. JOY AGAIN CHOSEN AS SCHOOL BOARD HEAD

Dr. James R. Joy was re-elected president of the North Plainfield Board of Education at the organization meeting held in the Somerset street school last night. Councilman Charles L. Nichols was chosen vice president to succeed Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, who was not a candidate for re-election to the board.

The new members of the Board, Edwin S. Boyer and Edmund Rushmore, were present at their first meeting of the school fathers, and Mr. Woodruff was made chairman of the finance committee and a member of the grievance and truancy committee. Mr. Boyer was elected a member of the building and grounds committee and the auditing committee. The complete list of committees, as announced by President Joy, is as follows, the first name being that of the chairman:

Finance committee, Messrs. Woodruff, Nichols and Rushmore. Building and grounds committee, Messrs. Case, Cooley and Boyer. Supplies, Messrs. Miller, Lowe and Rushmore. Grievance and truancy, Messrs. Cooley, Nichols and Woodruff. Autditing, Messrs. Lowe and Boyer. Teachers and text books, Messrs. Joy, Miller and Case. The truancy and teachers committees are headed by the same chairman this year as last. Routine business, together with the payment of the usual budget of bills, occupied the remainder of the session, which was a short one.

M'CAULEY'S INGRATITUDE TO COACHMAN KENNEDY.

"Jim" McCauley, the local celebrity who recently caused a bomb scare by hurling electric light globes at a group of men on Park avenue and escaped punishment by telling Judge Runyon he would go out of town and begin life anew, is in bad with both the city and borough cops today. His promises to do the right thing have been like pie crust and the two departments are hot on his trail, determined to catch him for misconduct last night and this morning. In addition a hotel keeper at Scotch Plains is anxious to get his hands on "Jim" for a little purloining he did in the hostelry while he was beating it from Plainfield.

"Jack" Kennedy, the hackman, has the main grievance against McCauley. He met him on Somerset street shortly before 12 o'clock last night as he was panhandling for dimes and gave him a quarter to get something to eat. Instead of buying food "Jim" spent the two bits for rum and contracted a good-sized jag. Then with all the base ingratutude of a European outcast he appropriated Kennedy's cab, left standing on Somerset street. It is presumed by some of "Jim's" acquaintances that he suddenly remembered he had told Judge Runyon he would leave town and decided to get out in style.

Kennedy recovered the rig this morning.

Stole Employer's Rig.

Frank Kackskarson, aged 22 years, who was hired a week ago as coachman by William A. Parker, of Central avenue and Road ending, left the premises yesterday afternoon, taking with him a horse and buggy belonging to his employer. The police were not notified until he had been gone four hours but at 11:30 last night the rig was located in a livery stable at New Brunswick. It had been left there by a young man answering Kackskarson's description who said he would return in an hour but failed to do so. The coachman came to this city from Perth Amboy.

Honorary Pall Bearers Named.

The following have been named to act as honorary pall bearers at the funeral of Dr. E. M. Rodman tomorrow afternoon: Albert R. Whitney, of Morristown; General W. H. Stirling, William Palmer Smith, DeWitt C. Ivins, S. D. Lounsbury, Henry D. Hibbard, Marion S. Ackerman, Lewis G. Timpson, Edward L. Finch, John B. Dumont, Charles P. Bull, O. T. Waring, H. O. Fleming and W. T. Gough, all of this city. The assisting clergymen to Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson will include Dean Baker, of Princeton, and Rev. Milton Craft, of Trenton, who was a member of Dr. Modman's parish as a boy.

Ran Away from Children's Home.

Charles Payne, a farmer living near Oak Tree, came to police headquarters, this morning, with a small boy who he said had called at his home last night and asked for a lodging. The youngster said at first that he had ran away from home because his mother had ill-treated him but later he told the family that he had come from the Children's Home in North Plainfield. He proved to be Roland Wyckoff, who ran away from the home yesterday afternoon. The boy was turned over to the borough police and taken back to the institution.

Knights Elect Officers.

Clarence Goss was elected eminent commander of Trinity Commandery, Knights Templar, at a convocation last night. The other officers for the coming year are J. Z. Hetfield, generalissimo; M. W. Ewart, captain-general; F. J. Pope, senior warden; J. Hervey Doane, junior warden; B. F. Coriell, prelate; H. Woodland, assistant prelate; C. H. Rugg, treasurer; G. T. Dunham, recorder.

CONFERENCE'S LAST DAY

Conference Board of Education—W. L. Hoagland, president; F. C. Baldwin, vice-president; Alexander Craig, secretary; H. A. Buttz, treasurer; manager-clerical, C. R. Barnes, A. B. Richardson; lay, D. F. Merritt, William Fairlie. Their terms expire in 1911.

Rev. C. L. Mead, pastor of the Centenary M. E. church, invited the conference to hold its next annual session in that church and the same was accepted. In this connection it was stated that Mr. Mead's father, Rev. Joshua Mead, who is a member of the conference will celebrate his fiftieth year as a minister and it is the special wish of the Newark church that the session be held there at that time.

Yesterday afternoon's session was largely taken up with the reception of reports from the standing committees and in every case they were adopted. In a few instances they called forth animated discussion, especially the ones on Sabbath observance, temperance and Bible cause. The action of Governor Fort in advocating and standing by the Bishops' bill was commended, and it was the sense of the members that an increased appropriation be made for the dissemination of Bibles.

Resolutions offered by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, of St. Paul's church, Newark, and adopted, endorsed the work of the American Peace Commission, and recommended that its literature be used extensively. Another resolution, offered by Rev. R. K. Boyd, provided for the appointment of a committee to comprise five ministers and for laymen by the Bishop, to take such steps as may be advisable to bring the conference in closer relation with the Nation Federation for Social Service. The report of the temperance committee, presented by Rev. J. B. J. Faulks, endorsed the work of the Anti-Saloon League, and expressed its belief in the principles of local option, commending the members of the Legislature who voted for the measure.

In a stirring talk, Rev. Dr. Wilding urged the members to stand by their guns in fighting for local option, not to suffer any compromise, to attend the primaries and work for the selection of delegates who will vote for the measure. He read a letter received sometime ago from the secretary of the Liquor Retail Dealers' Association, in which the association denied emphatically the accusation that it had been the means of having candy filled with liquor sold to children.

The special committee, of which Rev. C. L. Mead was the chairman, reported concerning the conference held with the committee from the Reformed Church Synod, and recommended the plan of work outlined whereby the churches of different denominations may co-operate in advancing their interests.

Rev. Dr. Anderson, secretary of the Bishop's cabinet, announced the selection of several standing committees, the most important of which are:

Conference Stewards — Ministers, Revs. J. C. Howard, W. H. Ruth, G. W. Smith, J. L. Hurlbut; laymen, S. S. Day, W. H. Jackson, H. A. Chamberlain, Wellington Moorehouse.

Conference Board of Deaconesses—Ministers, Rev. C. S. Woodruff, R. K. Boyd, J. M. Meeker, C. M. Anderson; laymen, W. H. Beach, H. K. Carroll, Miss Helen Carlton, Mrs. Anna Kent, Miss M. Van Marten.

Trustees Centenary Collegiate Institute — Ministers, Bishop Henry Spellmeyer, A. H. Tuttle, L. C. Muller, D. G. Downey; laymen, G. J. Lerry, Gordon Dunn, M. E. Blanchard, Benjamin Moore.

At this point the Bishop called Rev. G. W. Smith to the chair while there was a discussion of the proposition recommending four years as the time-limit of pastorates. Although the Bishop returned to confer with his cabinet, he decided to remain for a time during the debate to allow the presiding elders to speak.

The matter of time-limit was brought before the conference by Rev. H. A. Buttz, in the form of a memorial to the General Conference. He favored the change, chiefly because it would provide a real time-limit to four years, with a simple form of extension to one year. He did not consider the number of years essential, nor the clause which provides that pastors cannot be removed except for cause so important.

Rev. Daniel Halleron, in a five minute address, favored the change, and Presiding Elder J. M. Meeker said that what was lacking was a loyalty to the church discipline and he hoped there would be no change. Dr. Muller, the other presiding elder, endorsed the memorial.

Arguments against the plan were offered by Rev. J. A. Guttridge, who said that it would keep many churches closed for an indefinite time, for the reason that an appointment under the change would be for four years, with the privilege of another four, if the Bishop so decided it to be for the best interest of church and pastor.

"It is not the business of the presiding elder to ask the question shall the pastor return another year," said Dr. Morgan, "and the church discipline does not authorize such action. That no official action may be taken by the church or pastor except for cause, during a pastorate, is introducing a new element into our church. Is it not true that there are extended pastorates? But for an inefficient pastor the time cannot be short enough and for an efficient man why tie him up to a system?"

"I favor a removal of a time-limit," declared Rev. Dr. Boswell. "If we favor a time-limit for exceptional cases there is sure to be trouble. I challenge the united wisdom of the church to devise a method for exceptional cases. There will be cries of favoritism. There will be no great strife over a time-limit."

PROPOSALS FOR NEW PRIMARY SCHOOL

The sealed bids received and opened by the Board of Education September 30th, 1907, for the proposed New Primary School building, being greatly in excess of the appropriation asked for, the Board rejected all bids, and pursuant to resolutions adopted by the Board April 6, 1908, the Board will meet April 27, 1908, at 7:45 p. m., to receive sealed proposals for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the construction of the New Primary School building as provided in the modified plans, and specifications now on file with the architects, Hall & Rogers, 11 East 24th Street, New York; also at the office of the Board of Education, High School building, Ninth Street and Arlington Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Plans and specifications will be on file until the day above mentioned for opening the bids. All proposals to be endorsed "Proposals for New Primary School Building" and addressed to the Secretary of the Board.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Secretary will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding, or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board. No bids will be received previous to the hour designated, and none will be received thereafter. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

STOCK FARM NOT IN E. R. THOMAS'S NAME

Edward R. Thomas, the young millionaire, spectacularly identified with stock market plunging, auto speeding, horse racing, stock breeding and a few other things, has transferred his fine stock farm at Brookdale to a relative for $1 "and other valuable consideration."

This transfer was accomplished very quietly, Feb. 11, only one week before creditors of Mr. Thomas bethought them of the valuable stock farm in New Jersey and began proceedings to attach its contents.

The first to move was the firm of Carton & Devlin, keepers of a general store at Mattawan, N. J., who got a writ of attachment against the Brookdale farm on a claim of $1,324.70 against the owner. But when the Sheriff of Monmouth county levied upon the sixty-six horses named in the Carton & Devlin writ, he found that Mr. Thomas, just one week before, had transferred the entire property to Anna Augusta Thomas.

In this transfer, seventy-eight horses were enumerated—twelve more than Carton & Devlin specified in their writ. Apparently news travels slowly in the Brookdale and Mattawan sections of New Jersey because a month passed before the big New York creditors of Mr. Thomas got word of the doings at the stock farm. Then the Metropolitan Trust Company rushed in with a second writ of attachment for an alleged indebtedness of $131,332.09.

One week ago the Monmouth county Sheriff levied on the property for the Metropolitan Trust Company and since then the Sheriff's representative has been in charge at Brookdale.

The Metropolitan Trust Company's writ covers twenty-six two-year-old horses, thirteen yearlings, seven colts and three stallions, together with stable, trappings and harness, appraised at a total value of $32,598.

Lawyers Reed and Coddington, of this city, are the legal representatives of the trust company in this action, and they insist that unless Mr. Thomas settles his obligations before April 15 the horses will be sold.

The claim of the Metropolitan Trust Company against the young millionaire figures prominently in a schedule of loans stated in a Grand Jury indictment which was found against E. R. Thomas February 28. The indictment gave a list of loans totalling $900,000 made to the firm of Thomas, Maclay & Co. on account of E. R. Thomas. The biggest individual loan in this list was one of $200,000 by the Metropolitan Trust Company.

All of these loans, according to the indictment, were payable on demand, and for the payment of each E. R. Thomas, by reason of his guarantee, was personally liable. Mr. Thomas could not be seen yesterday to give his version of the stock farm seizure.

Old Cannon for Hackensack.

Hackensack, April 7.—A 4,200-pound cannon will be dedicated to the town in honor of the Civil and Spanish-American war veterans on Memorial Day. The new burial plot of the Spanish-American War veterans also will be dedicated. The Bergen County Battalion, N. G. N. J., the companies of the United Boys' Brigade from neighboring towns, the Hackensack Fire Department and various clubs and societies will parade with the veterans. The cannon is to be removed from the Watervliet Arsenal next week, Assistant Prosecutor John S. Mackay having received word from the War Department that the gun and forty 8-inch balls are at his disposal. Mayor Linkroum, Major John Engle, Chas. C. Reese and J. S. Mackay have charge of the celebration.

Beef and Ham Pie.

Cut cold roast beef into pieces three inches long and one inch wide and cut raw ham into similar pieces, three hard boiled eggs cut into quarters. Line a buttered baking dish with pie crust, pack in the meat and egg, and season well, then add just enough gravy to moisten. Cover with crust, cutting an opening in the centre. Bake for one hour in a moderate oven. When done pour in some more gravy just before sending it to the table.

Egg Puffs.

Soften a tablespoonful of butter to a creamy consistency by working it with a fork; beat three eggs to a froth and add them to the butter; add a level teaspoonful of salt and six tablespoonfuls of flour. Beat all these ingreditents together until they foam, then put them into buttered earthen cups or small tin pans, and bake in a hot oven for half an hour, or until they are cooked through and nicely browned.

Pecan Cookies.

Cream one scant teaspoonful of butter with half a cup of flour; add two eggs, one scant cup of flour, one teaspoon of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of salt, four tablespoons of milk, a generous cup of chopped pecan meats and vanilla to flavor. Drop with a teaspoon on buttered pans about two inches apart. Bake in moderate oven.

Hot Stove—Cool Kitchen

How do you expect to endure the broiling days of summer if you prepare all the food over a glowing coal fire?

You need a "New Perfection" Oil Stove that will do the cooking without cooking the cook. It concentrates plenty of heat under the pot and diffuses little or none through the room. Therefore, when working with the

NEW PERFECTION
Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove

the kitchen actually seems as comfortable as you could wish it to be.

This, in itself, is wonderful, but, more than that, the "New Perfection" Oil Stove does perfectly everything that any stove can do. It is an ideal all-round cook-stove. Made in three sizes, and fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo Lamp a substantial, strongly made and handsome lamp. Burns for hours with a strong, mellow light. Just what you need for evening reading or to light the dining-room. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

Big Sale of Floor Coverings

Following our usual Spring custom, we have inaugurated in our big 4th floor section a sale in which we have included, at the most radical price reductions, the cream of our splendid stock of rugs, carpets and linoleums. These sales have been a feature of our store policy for many years past and are regarded as the most conspicuous events of their character. We prepare for them on a grand scale, and our values are always of a sensational nature. This year's sale has been planned upon broader lines than ever before, and those who purchase floor coverings this week will realize savings of a most positive character. :-: :-:

ACTING MAYOR'S WORK STIRS ELIZABETH

Elizabeth, April 7.—General Dennis F. Collins, president of the City Council, who is acting Mayor in place of P. J. Ryan, who is in Atlantic City, has within the last two days given residents of Elizabeth much food for conversation. For part of Saturday and all day Sunday and yesterday Mr. Collins has assumed the duties of the city's chief executive in a manner that has caused a general stir.

Acting Mayor Collins yesterday notified Street Commissioner Nathaniel K. Thompson it was his duty to see that the streets were sprinkled and that he should see that the Public Service Corporation did its share of the sprinkling. The sprinkling started yesterday and from the stand General Collins has taken it is certain that it will continue. In a communication to the Street Commissioner Mr. Collins said:

"I direct that you immediately call upon the Public Service Corporation to sprinkle at least twice daily the streets upon which they operate their several trolley lines within the city limits, as provided for and ordained in the several ordinances granted their companies. It is your duty to see to it that our people get the benefit of this provision of the contracts now existing between the trolley company and the city. Should the Public Service officials fail to respond to your demand it will be your duty to report the facts to the Executive, in order that prompt and effective action may be taken to compel them to respect the rights of the municipality."

Street Commissioner Thompson notified the Public Service Corporation, and the district superintendent, Mr. Gettings, declared yesterday that the trolley company was willing and ready to sprinkle the streets whenever Mr. Thompson so ordered.

Acting Mayor Collins kept Elizabeth dry Sunday. It is generally conceded a difficult matter to keep Elizabeth dry on Sunday, but General Collins came nearer to having saloons closed than any other Mayor Elizabeth has had. Chief of Police Tenney was given instructions Saturday night, and that he carried them out was evident from the way in which the screen law was observed.

It is generally conceded that the city administration has not been so active in months, and Elizabeth citizens are asking "How long is Mayor Ryan going to stay away?"

FIRE THREATENS STANHOPE.

Flames in Grocery Store, However, Are Subdued Before They Spread to Nearby Buildings.

Stanhope, April 7.—A fire that was prevented from assuming serious proportions only by prompt work by the local fire department occurred yesterday in J. O. Bissell's grocery and meat store on Main street. The fire started in some unknown manner in a storehouse attached to the rear of the store, on one side of which was the kerosene tank, on the other a large quantity of flour, feed and merchandise. The room is also used for unpacking goods, and contained a number of empty packing boxes.

Mr. Bissell and the clerk attempted to remove the oil tank, but the flames had gained such headway that they were unable to do so. Before the arrival of the fire department the flames had ignited the kerosene and burned through the door that communicated to the main store building, which was filled with smoke and flames when the firemen got to work.

As the building is located in the heart of the business section, with frame buildings adjoining on either side, the Netcong Fire Department was summoned, but its services were not needed, as the flames were extinguished after twenty minutes of hard work. The loss will probably reach $2,000 on the stock and $500 on the building, covered by insurance.

The household furniture of William Bissell, who occupies apartments on the second floor, was damaged by smoke and water.

Few Gas Meters Are Fair.

New York, April 7.—Since the establishment of the Public Service Commission last year New York has been possessed of a means for the official testing of gas meters. Figures have been compiled by the commission showing the number of meters tested and the condition in which they were found. During the first six months of the commission's existence there were 1,562 tests on complaints of consumers. Of the meters tested 203 were found to be correct, 809 were fast and 550 were slow. Since January 1 complaints have been much more numerous. For the three months ended March 31 there were 2,805 meters tested on complaints, of which 524 were absolutely correct, 1,820 fast and 661 slow.

Cream Finnan-Haddie.

Take one-half pound of finnan-haddie, pick apart and cook in one heaping tablespoonful of butter till heated through; then stir in one tablespoonful of flour, moistened in one cupful of cream or rich milk, and let it cook for five minutes; add the yolk of one egg, a dash of pepper, and one teaspoonful of grated cheese. "Yes, your majesy."

"You know my opinion of duelling? You know the law?"

"Yes, your majesty. There was nothing else I could do."

"You're not sorry for it?" asked the king sternly.

Carrington had to tell the truth. Although he felt morally certain that he would bring down upon his head the wrath of the king, which would be the last straw added to his already heavy burdens, he scorned to lie.

"No, I am not sorry, sir. I should do it again."

"You're an honest man, Lord Carrington," said the king, "if a very foolish one."

"It was Lord Strathgate himself who told me that I was, saving your majesty's grace, a damned fool."

"Ahem!" said the king, "it seems that Lord Strathgate can speak the truth on occasion. When said he that?"

"Lying on the ground with my sword through him," answered Carrington, his face flushing at the king's deliberate corroboration of Strathgate's uncomplimentary opinion.

"Well," said the king, "that's what caused you to disobey orders?"

"That and that only, your majesty, and I am ready to take the punishment for it, whatever it may be."

"And what is it likely to be?"

"Dismissal from the service, perchance, sir," returned Carrington hoarsely.

"And your wife, what of her; Where is she?"

"I would to God I knew. If I could have word that she were safe and well, sir, I could bear anything."

"You have that word."

"What, sir?" exclaimed Carrington.

"You have it."

"Whose word?"

"Mine, your king's. 'Tis as good as that of any gentleman in England, I take it, Lord Carrington," said the king, with a real touch of majesty.

"Your majesty," returned my lord, sinking to his knees again, "'Tis assurance enough for the most distraught mind. I thank your majesty. I bless your majesty. Now, sir, I am ready for the court."

"Good!" said the king.

"But will your majesty add one favor to this assurance. May I not see my wife?"

"Well, Kephard, what do you think about it? Should a prisoner on trial be permitted to see his wife?"

"Not immediately, your majesty," growled Kephard, turning away to hide his face.

"I think it will have to be as your admiral says, Lord Carrington," said the king. "You cannot see her for the present."

My lord was too proud to beg, yet there was something else he could do.

"There is something else. May I ask your majesty?"

"What is it?" said the king kindly. "Ask what you like."

"Will your majesty—Can a message be carried to her from me?"

"I think there's no harm in that, eh, Kephard?"

"No, your majesty."

"What is the mesasge?"

"Will your majesty tell Lady Carrington how I have misjudged her and how bitterly I have repented my follies, and how proud and happy I am that she is not as Lady Cecily and the others?"

"I think I may say that she will get the message in due time," said the king.

"And if I might further trespass on your majesty's good nature, I will ask to have this letter sent to her."

As he spoke my lord pulled a paper from out his breast pocket.

"What is that?" said the king.

"'Tis a letter I wrote on the eve of my engagement with Lord Strathgate. It may be conceived of as conveying the true sentiments of my heart."

"Hark ye, Carrington," said the king, "I will not have Lady Carrington, to whom I have taken a great fancy, further vexed by letters or messages."

"Your majesty," answered Carrington, "you may read the letter yourself. 'Tis such a letter as would convey joy to any woman's heart, provided she loved her husband and could forgive him his folly."

"Well, as to what may be the state of Lady Carrington's feelings toward you, that will have to be developed later. Meanwhile"—the king hauled from his pocket two papers—"Admiral Kephard, here is an order which will obviate the necessity of a court-martial. As commander-in-chief of the fleet I interpose. I am informed that the frigate Bellona is ready for three years' tour of duty in the East Indies."

"You're right, sir," answered Kephard.

"Here is an order from the admiralty appointing Lord Carrington first lieutenant of that ship."

"Ay, ay, sir," answered Kephard, taking the order and scanning it rapidly.

"Lord Carrington," said the king gravely, "I have estopped the court-martial. Your offense has been a serious one, however, and it cannot go unpunished. Because of it I order you to the Bellona. You will spend three years in the East Indies. Perhaps by that time you will come back a happier and a wiser man."

"A wiser, your majesty, but there can be no happiness for me."

"And why?"

"Because I am parted from Lady Carrington and because I have shown myself unworthy of her."

"Very well," said the king, somewhat indifferently, it seemed, "you will repair aboard the Bellona at once. Her captain has not yet joined. You will assume temporary command and take her to Weymouth, which is the nearest port to your seat, I believe. You will remain there just long enough to get together your sea kit and receive your captain, and then you will proceed to the East Indies, reporting to Admiral Clarkson when you arrive on the station."

"And my wife, your majesty?"

"I have taken care," said the king, gravely, "that she shall be carefully protected and looked after until your return at least."

"And may I not see her before I go?"

"I cannot modify the orders," answered the king. "I have already extended to you unusual clemency. But I give you my word that your wife will be well cared for. She is under my especial protection, remember."

"By Gad, lad!" cried the old admiral, turning about, "get down on your knees and thank the king's majesty for his gracious clemency. You're a lucky dog and don't deserve it."

CHAPTER XXIII.

The King's Jest.

A short time after two boats pulled away from the Britannia. In one of them sat the majesty of England. There was more ruffling of bugles, more rolling of drums, more blaring of trumpets, more thundering of guns, more hurrahing from the men, as the little king, thoroughly delighted with his royal clemency, was rowed back to the shore.

The other boat departed shortly after the king's, without exciting the slightest attention. The officer of the deck escorted Carrington over the side, shook hands with him and the boat pulled away to the Bellona, a handsome 32-gun frigate fresh from the shipyards and ready for her maiden cruise, which lay near by.

"Clasped in His Wife's Arms."

Carrington was received there with some ceremony. His arrival had been expected. Parkman, who had been transferred from the Renown, met him at the gangway and the two shook hands fervently.

"I am ordered to this ship, Jack, as first lieutenant," said Carrington, gloomily, as they turned and walked aft. "Here are my papers. As you will see, I am directed to assume charge, the captain not being aboard, and take the ship around to Weymouth, where he will join us."

"And the court-martial?" asked Parkman.

"The king hath pardoned me."

"And your wife?"

"God only knows!" said Carrington, desperately. "All I know is that she is well and under the king's especial protection. We are bound for the East Indies for three years. Three years away from her! God, what a fool I've been. Strathgate was right!" Carrington turned away, putting strong constraint upon himself in order to compose his features. "Well," he said at last, "are you all ready?"

"Ready to trip," returned Parkman.

"Call all hands. I'll read them my orders and then we'll get up anchor."

In a moment the shill piping of the boatswain and his mates along the deck was followed by the trampling of many feet. The crew, a splendid set of fellows, assembled in the gangways. Carrington read his orders to them, directed the commanding officer's pennant to be hoisted and bade Parkman, who for the present acted as first lieutenant, to get under way.

As the Bellona drew abreast the liner a burly figure suddenly appeared on the edge of the high poop of the Britannia. Recognizing the admiral, Carrington, who had stood aft on the quarterdeck of his frigate, bared his head and saluted. The admiral returned the compliment with his own chapeau, then he turned and waved it forward. Instantly the rails of the Britannia swarmed with men, and from their throats at another signal from the admiral came such a burst of cheering as warmed the very cockles of the melancholy Carrington's heart. And with this cheerful sea compliment and these words of good will the frigate shot ahead and presently clapping on more canvas bore swiftly down the river.

Carrington stared long and desperately back toward the shores, fast dropping behind him, on which somewhere his wife's foot rested. What was she doing? Where was she living? What was she thinking of him? He knew nothing save that in some manner she was under the especial protection of the king; that was assurance enough that she was well cared for, for no man questioned the honesty, sincerity or kindliness of George the Third. It would be three years before he would see her again. The thought was maddening to him. He did not even know where to write to her. He was not at all sure that the king would cause his letter to be delivered to her. He came to a desperate resolution. He would write her another letter and send it from Weymouth by special messenger to the king and beg him to see that it was delivered.

It was not until late in the afternoon, when the Bellona was fairly in the channel beating down toward her destination, that Carrington went below. As there was no captain yet on the ship the quarters of that functionary by right belonged to him. He entered them without ceremony. The cabin on the new ship looked bright and cheery. Its equipments were rude, of course, as were those of all ships in those days, but they were better than those in ordinary vessels, the Bellona being the newest and most advanced product of theshipyards.

To a sailor of that day it was both a spacious and delightful sea home. To Carrington it was only a prison. He did not attempt to enter the staterooms on either side, but sat down at the table, buried his face in his hands and groaned aloud. It was the first moment of privacy that he had enjoyed. It was the first opportunity afforded him to give way to his feelings, and he indulged himself at will. Separated from his wife, and through his own folly! The future that had opened so fairly before him utterly wrecked! Three long weary years at the least, and possibly four, to intervene before he could see her again. He almost envied Strathgate—fighting desperately for life at Blythedale Hall and likely to be an invalid for the rest of his days—because he would be in England while Carrington was far away.

He had gone through so much. He had drunk so deeply the bitter cup of repentance that he gave way completely to his emotions.

"This will never do," he said at last. "My punishment seems greater than I can bear, and yet I must bear it; I must show myself a man for her."

A little hand fell softly upon his shoulder with touch as light as that of thistledown. Where that hand touched him was the center of his being. My lord turned his head, looked at it slowly, turned his body, followed it up, saw a face he dreamed of, tears rolling from eyes that looked love at him, and in another moment he was clasped in his wife's arms.

This was the punishment meted out to him by little George. He was to go to the Indies, but not alone. When there was time for coherent speech Ellen handed her husband another paper appointing him captain of the Bellona, subject only to the orders of his wife.

"God bless him!" cries my lord, folding his wife again to his heart.

"And I say so, too," answers Ellen, "although we fought against him so long, he hath a kindly heart."

"He hath, indeed," returned Carrington, after a time. "He gave me his royal word that you should be well looked after for the next three years, and the keeping of the king's word is intrusted to me. I shall see to it."

"Nay," said Ellen, "you are under my command now. Look at your orders."

"'Tis even so, my little captain," laughed my lord, sweeping her to his heart again. "And what orders do you propose to issue to me?"

"I should like to present to you two of my friends."

"Your friends are my friends, my dear," returned Carrington, "and when occasion serves I shall be happy to greet them."

"It serves now," said Ellen, drawing herself away from him. And indeed she found it difficult, for he would by no means let her go, following her aft and still keeping his hand about her waist as she opened the door of one of the cabins.

Out thence, for all the world like a Jack-in-the-box, popped Mistress Deborah, her cheeks redder than the scarlet ribbons she affected, and stalking behind her came Sir Charles Seton in great dignity.

"I did you an injustice, Charles!" cried my Lord Carrington. "I humbly beg your pardon. I have not heard the story"—and Seton was glad my lord's remarks were so spontaneous—"but I know that you were true."

"It's granted, Bernard," said Seton heartily. "I could forgive you anything, knowing how you felt over the loss of your wife, for to-day I can put myself in your place in one particular."

"And how's that?"

"In this way," returned Seton. "Permit me"—he seized the blushing Deborah as he spoke—"Salute Lady Seton, Carrington."

"What! Is it so?"

"We were married this morning, the king himself being one of the witnesses."

"And do you go with us to India?"

"Nay," answered Seton, "only to Weymouth."

And at that Carrington was very glad, for though he loved Seton much, he loved his wife more, and he wanted her for the rest of his life all to himself.

Seton divined that, for presently he took Deborah by the hand and led her forth upon the quarterdeck, leaving Carrington and Ellen alone together each in the haven where they fain would be; husband and wife, one and inseparable now and forever, locked in each other's arms.

Another Bidder Claims to Be Hounded—Corporation Counsel Marsh Tells About Defects.

The action of the street committee at the April meeting of the Common Council, last night, in recommending the rejection of all bids submitted for furnishing crushed stone, culverts and crosswalks, resulted in a lively argument in which former Mayor N. B. Smalley, of the borough, representing Smalley Brothers; William M. Wherry, counsel for the Watchung Stone Company and Corporation Counsel Marsh took part.

The trouble began when Councilman Gloak offered a resolution to that effect. Councilman Mygatt and Councilman Hall wanted to know upon what grounds the bids were rejected, and the First ward member explained that the action was taken upon the advice of Mr. Marsh. This did not satisfy the curiosity of the two inquiring members, who stated that there must be some more tangible reason, and if so they wanted to know it. Mr. Gloak declared that the bids had been found irregular.

But Mr. Hall wanted to know in what respect they were irregular, and this brought forth a request from Mr. Gloak that Mr. Smalley, who was present, be allowed the privileges of the floor. The contractor stated that in a town the size of Plainfield three crusher plants were sure to cause friction. His firm, he said, had furnished stone to Plainfield for ten years, always getting the contract until last year without competition. Last year three bids were submitted and the street committee voted to give the contract to him. He was furnishing stone for two weeks under that contract when he was informed that there was an error, all of the members of the committee were not present when the contract was awarded. In consequence it was afterward awarded to the Watchung Stone Company after another advertisement for bids.

"I want to ask did the city get first quality stone?" continued Mr. Smalley. "I know it did not and if you are in doubt ask the street commissioner. The company has submitted a bid of 75 cents for furnishing blue trap-rock screenings and it cannot get it. On Belvidere avenue stone and dirt were delivered together. There is a 'nigger' in the fence, but I am not here to tell you where he is. I would like to have the city contract, but I am not here to ask for it. I recently delivered a load of stone to your corporation counsel. I asked him what about the city contract? and he replied, 'I cannot discuss the matter.'

"No one can show where I have acted unfairly in this matter. The Watchung Stone Company being the lowest bidder should have the contract or else be cut out from further bidding. It is a physical impossibility for the company to furnish the stone required."

When Mr. Smalley concluded the same privilege was extended to Mr. Wherry, representing the Watchung Stone Company. He said that while he felt that some misstatements had been made, he assured the members that the city had its redress if the company failed to live up to its contract, as it was heavily bonded to do so. He declared that as a result of the competition Plainfield was getting its stone twenty-five cents less a ton today than ever before and that he thought was an advantage to the taxpayer. He said he believed it to be an injustice to the taxpayer not to have the contract accepted, while it was also unjust to the quarrymen. He contended that the members of the Common Council have a right to know why the bids are rejected, and he declared that Mr. Marsh should be asked to explain.

"It is a common knowledge," said Mr. Wherry, "that there was no competition until this last year. Now efforts are being made to drive the Watchung Stone Company out of business. Pressure has been brought to bear on city officials to do this and the issue has been clouded. The important question is that the city shall get the highest quality trap-rock. You may drive the company out of business, but you will not be able to get stone cheaper afterward. As a matter of business policy a bid should be accepted.

"What is the corporation counsel's reason for rejecting the bids? He should be required to give them. Under the conditions which the company gets its stone it can afford to sell cheaper than its competitors and if the concern does not deliver the goods why there is legal redress."

In reply to Mr. Wherry, Mr. Smalley denied that any unfair advantage had been taken by him. He said that he had always insisted on the lowest possible price, consistent for a fair profit, for Plainfield and the city paid him less than stone can be bought for elsewhere. He declared the statement about pressure and unfair methods as false as the man that made them and he is not far away, added Mr. Smalley.

In the meantime, Mr. Marsh was telephoned for and he arrived soon afterward. He stated briefly that the bids did not comply with the specifications in the advertisement and for that reason chiefly he advised the committee to reject them all. He added that the Watchung Stone Company did come the nearest to complying with the wording of the advertisement, but even in its bid there was an irregularity. Besides, he added, the Common Council always reserves the right to reject any and all bids if it so wishes. It was explained by Mr. Marsh that while the specifications called for stone equal to samples in the office of Mr. Gavett, there were irregularities as to this feature of the bidding. In reply to Mr. Hall's statement that it was unfortunate that the trouble should have occurred after the bids were in, Mr. Marsh said that he alone was to blame for that, for thoughtlessly he did not instruct the committee as to the legal and proper way of asking for bids.

Both Mr. Hall and Mr. Mygatt expressed the opinion that the Watchung Stone Company was entitled to the contract. Mr. Gloak offered a resolution calling for new bids to be received Monday night, May 4, at 8 o'clock, and according to the provisions the bids must be made on blanks to be furnished by Mr. Gavett and the form printed thereon must be followed.

Softening Crowns.

Many of the newest hats are huge creations of colored or shot metal tissue. The crowns are of alarming and not very becoming size, and consequently the trimming will be well banked-up around the hat to soften the effect.

that has been accomplished and the plan of action being pursued in the national crusade against intemperance was told at the First M. E. church, last night, by Rev. P. A. Baker, D. D., superintendent of the American Anti-Saloon League, which is leading the fight against the liquor traffic. The meeting was held in connection with the Conference program and was attended by one of the largest audiences of the week. Nothing but standing room was to be had after 8 o'clock.

Rev. C. S. Woodruff, of Flemington, acted as chairman of the meeting and first introduced J. Frank Burke, superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, who is no stranger to Plainfielders. His remarks were of a very brief nature and served only to introduce Dr. Baker. The latter is a platform speaker of no mean ability and in an address punctuated with witticisms, stories of the sort that picture a point to perfection and plain statements of the dominating influence of the brewers in national and State politics he held the close attention of the gathering for nearly two hours.

Councilmanic Routine.

An old ordinance which was introduced at the request of L. E. Hart, the purpose of which was to vacate an unknown street on Elmwood place, was purposely killed on second reading at the Common Council meeting last night.

The ordinance granting the members of the fire department an increase in pay was on motion of Mr. Hibbard adopted on third and final reading. The increase will date from January 1 last.

EX-COUNCILMAN TYLER ON SCHOOL COMMITTEES

Former Councilman William S. Tyler attended his first meeting as member of the Plainfield Board of Education at the Plainfield High School, last night, and at the organization of committees for the coming year, he was made chairman of the fuel committee and a member of the committee on teachers and text books and the finance committee.

President Leander N. Lovell announced the following committees: Teachers and text books: L. N. Lovell, chairman; C. F. Abbott, W. S. Tyler. Books, stationery and supplies: F. T. Woodhull, chairman; E. M. Cave, L. N. Lovell. Buildings and repairs: C. F. Abbott, chairman; F. T. Woodhull, L. N. Lovell. Finance: E. M. Cave, chairman; C. F. Abbott, W. S. Tyler. Fuel: W. S. Tyler, chairman; F. T. Woodhull, E. M. Cave.

At the beginning of last night's meeting, the regular order of business was suspended to receive and open the bids for school supplies for the coming year. Bids were received from E. E. Babb & Co., Boston; Peckham, Little & Co., New York; The Official and School Supply Co., New York; The J. L. Hammell Co., New York, and Matthias Plum, Newark. They averaged about $1,300, and were referred to the committee on supplies, to be awarded on April 27, when a special meeting of the Board will be held.

The Board requested the Common Council to arrange for the placing of fire alarm boxes in the immediate vicinity of the schools not now adequately protected, and a communication from Mayor Fisk was read in regard to his inspection of the schools on March 13.

The report of the tax collector showed that $1,063.59 in school money had been collected during March, and the custodian of schools' report showed a balance of $41,237.34. Bills totalling $2,295.28 were ordered paid.

At the special meeting of the Board to be held April 27, bids for 750 tons of coal, for use in the local schools, will be opened and awarded. Superintendent Henry M. Maxson was authorized to secure a speaker for the High School commencement exercises in June.

A NEW BROOM ALWAYS SWEEPS CLEAN

Clothing for Father, Mother, Son and Daughter.

THE PLAINFIELD CREDIT OUTFITTING CO. 103 FRONT ST. PLAINFIELD N.J.

Open Your Easter Account Now and be Happy.

A new broom is well-known to sweep clean, so will the Plainfield Credit Outfitting Co. sweep the entire Union County with their modern Credit system.

We are only in Plainfield but one week, and from the interest shown by the shopping public in our handsomely equipped establishment at 103 East Front street (one flight up), we are confident of a sure success. What pleases us most is the number of friends recommended by those who have opened accounts since our new place opened for business, which fact in itself marks the satisfaction of our patrons.

THERE IS A REASON FOR EVERYTHING.

Among the many reasons upon which we claim your patronage are---as follows:

I. A new store naturally carries new goods (and no carried over stocks from former seasons.)
II. An account opened here does not receive the old time installment house investigations. Our new method protects you from your neighbor knowing your business.
III. Our goods are all marked in plain figures.
IV. Everything we sell is guaranteed or we make good.
V. Although newcomers in Plainfield we are an old reliable company, with many successful stores throughout the state.
VI. Above all other reasons we figure among the leading Clothing manufacturers in New York city, and are able to undersell any other Cash or Credit house in the business, and extend you terms to suit your own convenience.

Nothing like being convinced. Call and look around. No obligations to buy. See our Friday's ad.—it's very interesting.

M'CALL MISSION'S WORK

Mrs. Jessie R. Heely, the Secretary, Reads Report of the Year's Activity.

BROAD FIELD IN FRANCE.

Unsettled Religious Problems Makes Great Need for McAll Auxiliary Work at Limoges.

Following is the secretary's report on the year's work of the Plainfield McAll Auxiliary read by Mrs. Jessie R. Heely at a recent meeting of the local organization:

"The work of the Plainfield McAll Auxiliary during the past year has been of a most encouraging nature, and I think, that the members will meet, with a feeling of thankfulness, to review the result of their labors.

"Our year began amid very trying times in all financial circles and it is a cause for great encouragement that the sympathy with the McAll work is so alive as to have made very little difference in our returns over last year. By keeping up our collections we can do the work we have started out to do in Limoges, and surely there was never greater need.

"With the passage of years the distance between New York and Paris has lessened, because of the conveniences of travel, and it seems that we are literally neighbors to our French brothers and sisters, and they look to us for the help that has been so generously given in the past, and which I am glad to say we can continue to give.

"The unsettled state of religious affairs in France has been discussed at such length in this society that it is hardly necessary to touch on that, but it is just this condition that makes the need of our work almost desperate. One always wants to know that the work to which one gives one's mite is a useful and a necessary one and I am sure if all could become familiar with the needs in France of the Gospel in its simplicity, there could not be a question of the usefulness of the McAll Mission. There has probably never been a time in the history of the world, when the plain, sweet teachings of Jesus Christ as to who is our neighbor and brother have had as potent an influence for humanizing and Christianizing mankind as there exists today. So much of the narrowness of creeds and doctrines has been stripped away and has left perhaps, a more tender sympathy and a deeper love for our more unfortunate fellows, than ever before. This fact is shown on all sides by the wonderful response made, to the call for help to carry on all kinds of work where the effort is being made to elevate men, women and children to a life of decency and usefulness.

"The conditions in France are more difficult to cope with than the average mission has to confront, for the people have had what was represented to be the Gospel of Christ and have found it cold and unsatisfying as a haven of rest and peace and they are none too eager to accept anything in the place of their old beliefs, which they have cast aside. But on the other hand the workers in France have an intelligence to work with that is more akin to our own, and with the way made plain by example, personal sympathy and love the results are wonderful. This is the work that the McAll Mission aims to do and has established its self so that the yaw is open to receive the incoming tide. This seems to me to be the especial value just now of the McAll Mission; that it is already on the ground, in splendid running order, ready to do what it can, and no time will be lost in starting missions when the pendulum swings back again and the people find they must have a Saviour and a place wherein to worship Him. Meanwhile the strong, steady influence for righteousness is being spread abroad and we feel that by all means the results justify the efforts. Then too, it reaches the very poor who would not be persuaded to go into the churches in the better neighborhoods. Our halls are all situated where temptations of most distressing kinds force themselves on the poor weak outcast and it is easier to yield than resist.

"The work of our Plainfield members has been carried on along the same lines as usual and we see again what faithful work will do. Mrs. Field, our secretary of literature, has done most splendid work in getting subscribers for the Record and the collections exceed those of any year for this purpose. One of our members has kept alive her great interest even though separated from us and has done some collecting through correspondence.

"The First Presbyterian and Crescent Avenue Sunday-schools have sent contributions as usual, showing the interest of the young people in the work.

SOME SIDELIGHTS ON TWO NEW M. E. DOMINIES

The fact that there are two local changes in the appointments made by Bishop Spellmeyer, of the Newark Conference, Rev. Charles Sumner Kemble, of the Park church, Elizabeth, going to the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, and Rev. Ora J. Shoop, of St. Paul's church, Cranford, going to Grace M. E. church, North Plainfield, interest is manifested in the new appointees.

Rev. Mr. Kemble's charges in the conference have been as follows: Ferry church, East Orange, 1891-1893; Bergen Point, 1894-1898; Piermont, N. Y., 1899; Nyack, N. Y., 1900-1902; Centenary church, Jersey City, 1903; Park church, Elizabeth, 1904-1907.

Rev. Mr. Shoop has had the following charges in the conference: Pearl River, 1900-1901; Matamoras, 1902-1903; Vailsburg, 1904-1905; St. Paul's church, Cranford, 1906-1907.

Both Mr. Kemble and Mr. Shoop will occpy their newly-appointed places on Sunday. Rev. E. E. Robberson, who is succeeded by Mr. Kemble, will take up his new charge at Passaic at the same time.

VAUDEVILLE ARTISTS WILL MAKE QUICK JUMP

"How to be in two places at the same time, or vaudeville in a hurry," might be applied to a plan that Manager Counihan has devised to have Miss May Ward and her eight "Dresden dolls" appear at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night. Having arranged a variety bill for that date he was anxious to have the popular comedienne and her assisaants as a headline act but she has been appearing at The New Majestic theatre, Perth Amboy, and is booked for the rest of the week. The two cities are twelve miles apart and have no direct railroad connection, so for a time it looked like an impossibility.

But when Manager Counihan starts to figure on a proposition he generally manages to "make good" and accordingly Miss Ward and her singing and dancing "dolls" will appear Saturday in Plainfield and Perth Amboy. This is how it will be done: Miss Ward will open the bill at the New Majestic in the afternoon and as soon as the act is concluded, the star and her assistants, all in costume, and the electrician required for the set, will be bundled into a big automobile. The machine will be driven over the roads at the fastest legal clip and the company of ten will be landed at the New Plainfield in time to close the afternoon program. They will remain in this city to appear again at night at 8:30 and will then go back to Perth Amboy to finish up, making four performances for the day.

It will be a lot of trouble and expense to carry out the plan but as evry one knows who has seen Miss Ward's act, it's worth it.

Bishop Spellmeyer's Plans.

Bishop Spellmeyer, who presided over the deliberations of the Newark Conference, remained a guest of Rev. and Mrs. A. C. McCrea, last night, and this morning he left for Newark, where he will visit for a few days. He will stay in the East until the General Conference convenes in Baltimore on Wednesday, May 6. That conference will be in session for a month. Prior to that on Wednesday, April 29, the Bishop will go to Harrisburg, Pa., where there is to be a conference of all Bishops, to discuss numerous questions that will come before the General Conference. At that gathering the Bishops take turns in presiding over the session.

J. W. Reinhart's Position.

Joseph W. Reinhart has been elected assistant to the president and comptroller of the Tonopah and Goldfield Railroad, with offices at Tonopah, Nevada, and in addition to having direct control of the finances and accounts of the company will exercise executive powers over all departments, including operations and traffic, in the absence of the president.

Gold Medals Booked for Somerville.

The Gold Medal minstrels troupe, which has been appearing in the city and suburbs during the past winter, will invade Somerville on Tuesday night, April 21. The show will be given in Somerset Hall under the auspices of Golden Crown Castle, No. 52, Knights of the Golden Eagle.

DEAN RODMAN'S FUNERAL

Civic Authorities, Benevolent Fraternal and Religious Organizations Represented.

SERVICES AT HIS CHURCH.

Patrons and People Pay Last Respects to Plainfield's Much Beloved Citizen—Interment at Hillside.

In final solemn tribute to the memory of Rev. Dr. Erskine M. Rodman, dean of the Plainfield clergy and rector-emeritus of Grace church, scores of people thronged Grace church this afternoon when the impressive burial service of the Episcopal church was conducted. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, the rector, officiated, assisted by Rev. Dr. Baker, of Princeton, dean of the convocation of New Brunswick, and Rev. Milton Craft, of Trenton, formerly of this city.

The gathering included many prominent men both from this city and out of town, representing the clergy, benevolent and fraternal organizations and civil authorities. In the congregation were the wardens and vestry of Grace church, and delegations from the board of governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, of which Dr. Rodman was one of the founders and the first president, the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, of which he was also president, the Plainfield Ministers' Association, the Salvation Army, Anchor Lodge, F. and A. M., Jerusalem Chapter, R. A. M., Trinity Commandery, Knights Templars and Plainfield Lodege, Royal Arcanum. Masses of floral tributes, of remarkable splendor, were banked about the casket in final mute tribute to the departed.

Through the entire night and this morning the body of the Dean rested in state in the church. Near was the guard of honor, members of the Masonic and Arcanium orders and Grace church vestry.

Following the impressive funeral ceremony came the interment at Hillside cemetery. The honorary pallbearers were Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, Captain James Parker, of Perth Amboy; Albert R. Whitney, of Morristown; General W. H. Stirling, William Palmer Smith, DeWitt C. Ivins, S. D. Lounsbury, Henry D. Hibbard, Marion S. Ackerman, Lewis G. Timpson, Edward L. Finch, John B. Dumont, Charles P. Bull, O. T. Waring, H. O. Fleming and W. T. Gough, all of this city.

MISS MARSH'S TALK ON PHILANTHROPIC EFFORT.

An intensely interesting paper on "Philanthropic Effort" was presented by Miss Minnie Marsh at the meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room. The amelioration of the sufferings of lepers was the first philonthropic work treated of by Miss Marsh, who said that long before lepers became the care of the government, missionaries had done much to alleviate the horrors of their fate. Dr. Cary's establishment of a hospital in India in 1812; the work of the Moravians in South Africa; of Miss Reed from the Methodist church, who in 1884 returned to spend her life in a colony of lepers, and the work of the Presbyterian church in this direction were graphically told by Miss Marsh.

Accounts of institutions for the blind in China and India, the establishment of hospitals, the protection and elevation of children, the erection of orphan and foundling asylums, the abolishing of saltee, the prohibition of foot-binding, the decrease in infanticide, the bettering of the condition of India's 25,000,000 widows and the gradual breaking down of caste were among the philanthropic efforts narrated clearly and effectively by Miss Marsh.

The paper was preceded by a devotional service led by Mrs. Daniel Douglass and was followed by interesting current events by Miss Ida Yerkes.

Famous Artists Will Sing.

The second private musicale by Joseph McIntyre will be given tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. J. P. Stevens on Hillside avenue. The assisting artists will be Dr. Carl Dufft, basso, and Paul Dufault, tenor, both well-known in Metropolitan musical circles. Like the program given a week ago at the home of Mrs. George A. Beaton, the one tomorrow will be of especial interest. Mr. McIntyre will be at the piano.

Mathewson Official Umpire.

Chester Mathewson, formerly instructor in biology at the Plainfield High School, has been appointed official umpire for the Public School Athletic League, of the metropolitan school basebal teams. Mr. Mathewson is now teaching at the New York High School of Commerce.

EPIDEMIC OF MEASLES

Eighty-eight Cases in Plainfield Last Month Reported to Board of Health.

SIEGEL'S LICENSE CANCELLED.

An Amendment Proposed to Sanitary Code—Communications Received and Permits Granted.

It was admitted at the April meeting of the Board of Health yesterday that it had been impossible to stop the spread of measles in the city during the past month, when many cases were reported because of the fact that a large number of children with mild cases had been permitted to attend public schools. The report showed that during the past month there were 88 cases of measles, nine of scarlet fever, three of diptheria and five of tuberculosis and nine deaths from tuberculosis during March.

Considerable work was done on back-yard inspections, there being a total of 509 such inspections and few nuisances found. It was stated that but few privy vaults were found in the district bounded by Green Brook, Norwood avenue, Richmond street, Watchung avenue, East Ninth street and Park avenue.

By a unanimous vote an amendment to the sanitary code was passed on first and second readings. It refers to the care of garbage, offal and dead animals and tends to make the provision more strict. An analysis of forty-nine samples of milk was reported, and much improvement, both in quality and bacteria, was shown over the previous month. The average for the month follows: Fats, 4.04 per cent.; solids, 13.08; solids not fat, 9.04; lactometer, 112; bacteria per cubic centimeter, 29.947.

The board revoked the license of J. M. Siegel, of 527 West Third street. On December 3, 1907, Mr. Siegel was granted a permit to sell milk from his store, it being understood that he would buy his milk from a dealer holding a permit. Later he bought a farm and without notifying the board supplied his store with milk from this source. An inspection of the farm showed it to be a very filthy condition and in no particular did it comply with the rules and regulations in the Sanitary Code. For these reasons Mr. Siegal was denied a permit to sell milk.

These permits were granted: J. F. Burke, to carry on business of scavenger; The People's Ice Company, of Scotch Plains, to sell ice. The application of Joe Muller to sell milk was laid on the table for one month and the plumber's bonds of P. A. McVoy, Vail Brothers and P. E. Neylon were ordered filed.

A communication was received from the W. C. T. U., requesting the board to enforce its ordinance in regard to the practise of spitting on the sidewalks and in the trolley cars. The matter was referred to the health officer with power and he was instructed to take the necessary steps to enforce the ordinance.

The following returns were made to the office during March: Marriages, 14; births, 36; deaths, 33; total, 83.

P. C. C. PROFESSIONAL IN CRIPPLED CONDITION.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the popular professional at the Plainfield Country Club, returned yesterday from Southern Pines, where he has had a successful season playing golf at Piney Woods. A few days before leaving Southern Pines, "Marty" had the misfortune to suffer a severe fracture of the bone in the right forearm, together with a dislocation of the wrist. The accident was the result of a blow received from a pupil whom he was instructing in golf. The blow was with a heavy mid-iron and was a severe one.

Just at the time of the accident, "Marty" had the chance of a lifetime to win the open Nnited North and South championship at Pinehurst, which was played last week, but the accident put him completely out of the running.

To give an idea of his chances, a week ago Friday on his first round, and the second time he had ever played on the course at Pinehurst, he made a 75, the record being 67. "Marty" was popular with golfers in the south and townspeople alike and they all sympathize with him in his misfortune. While away "Marty" defeated Nicholls and he tried to get a match with Ross, but the latter would not consent to meet the young professional.

Will Hold Parish Meeting.

The annual parish meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held tonight at 8 o'clock for the purpose of electing four trustees, each for a term of two years, to succeed George E. Hall, G. W. V. Moy, F. T. Ostrom and A. D. Thompson, Jr., whose terms of office expire.

UNION SENATOR INDIGNANT

Ackerman Admits that Legislature Might as Well Quit Its Farce Job.

OVERLORDS RUN THE STATE.

This County's Representative Speaks His Mind When He Finds Out Who the "Legislature" Is.

"Why not let a commission of political bosses run the State and abolish the Legislature," said State Senator Ackerman yesterday, expressing his disgust to a reporter at the successful efforts to thwart the passage of his civil service bill.

The overloards of the Legislature have defeated the Union representative at every turn. When he has given way on one point to give his measure a better chance to pass, the clique that opposes it soon found another excuse to hold up the bill. It did not seem yesterday morning as if anyone could predict with safety that the bill would go through.

"I am very much disgusted," said Mr. Ackerman, "and somewhat discouraged with the rebuffs that I have met in the handling of this bill. I haven't given up the fight, but I cannot say that I am going to be successful. The powers against civil service are too strong to allow of prophecy. However, I have some weapons at my disposal that I intend to use as effectively as possible.

"Yes, indeed, a commission of political bosses could do the work of the State just as well as the Legislature, as things stand now. Or let the Public Service and a few other corporations take charge of New Jersey and run it to suit themselves."

"You cannot find just where the bosses stand. They'll tell you that if this provision were out they wouldn't oppose the bill. Make that concession and they have found another loophole that lets them out of their promise. Last night I sought to find out why a certain legislator opposed my bill. I was told that his political future would be at end if he voted for it.

"I never saw such squirming on any point. You could go to Democratic Boss Nugent last year and he would give you a straight yes or no. He told you outright that he was against your proposition of not, and you know where he stood, even if you did know also that what he said was law."

LIBRARY DIRECTORS DISCUSS GREATER FIRE PROTECTION.

The Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, last night, discussed the question of providing some simple form of fire protection and it was left to the library committee to devise some means for obtaining it. The action was prompted by that recently taken by the Board of Education and other city officials regarding more efficient fire protection in the public schools. No plans were presented last night, but it is thought that the directors will recommend that a private box be installed in the library building.

The directors reported that the interest in the library is increasing, as indicated by the great demand for books in the circulation department. There has been a notable increase in the attendance of people in the reading room.

King's Daughters' Sale.

The Cheerful Workers Circle of King's Daughters invite their many friends to a sale of fancy articles, cakes and candy to be held at the residence of Mrs. Howard Fleming, 1012 Park avenue, Friday afternoon, April 10, from 3 to 6 o'clock. During the afternoon musical numbers will be rendered. The members of the Circle are President Miss Eva Browne, and the Misses Euphemia Bakewell, Florence Curtis, Louise Curtis, Maysie Day, Dorothy Fleming, Elsie Goddard, Jean Griscom, Elsie Harman, Helen Harman, Virginia Hageman, Maude Hyde, Grace Kaufman, Margaret Leal, Margaret Mead, Ursula Rowland, Abi Sykes, Georgianna Smith, Frances Van Deventer, Mary Wadsworth and Mrs. Lewis Squires.

To Address Teachers and Mothers.

Miss Lillian Williams, of the Trenton Normal School, will address the teachers of the city and borough schools this afternoon in the Somerset street school. Her topic will be "Helping the Children to Remember." The lecture will be at 3:30 o'clock.

EXCISE APPLICATIONS CONSIDERED BY COURT

For the purpose of further investigation Judge Booraem in the Common Pleas Court, New Brunswick, yesterday held up a score or more of license applications. They will be taken up by the court on April 11. Among those held up was that of Smith Abrams, who has applied for a license in Piscataway. In many of these cases strong remonstrances were filed against favorable action, there being considerable criticism as to the character of the places.

The application of Smith Abrams is a new one and those who oppose it contend that there is no real necessity for granting it, inasmuch as there are two other licensed places in the township, namely Charles H. Thompson and Alexander Stillwagon, both of which were granted yesterday. Favorable action was also taken on the application of William H. Taylor at Dunellen.

The question of licensing places to sell liquor throughout the country districts of Middlesex county is becoming a serious one and in nearly every instance pressure has been brought to bear to reduce the number. The court has recognized this fact and has shown a tendency to make a full investigation before announcing its decision.

PLAINFIELDERS DRAWN ON THE PETIT JURY

A panel of sixty petit jurors to serve during the first two weeks of the May term of the Union county court, was drawn yesterday by Sheriff Lawrence, in the presence of Judge Atwater at Elizabeth. Beekman, Arthur C. Griffith. Fanwood—Burton P. Hall, Douglas L. Darby, Edwin C. Fancher.

BASEBALL SCHEDULE FOR P. H. S. INTER-CLASS GAMES.

An inter-class baseball league has been organized at the Plainfield High School, and the schedule of league games was announced today. Each of the four classes will be represented on the diamond and each class team will play two games with every other class. The season opens Wednesday afternoon, April 29, and the games will be played on Crescent Oval, mainly Monday and Thursday afternoons. Members of the regular school nine will be barred from playing on the class teams, which have been formed into a league with a view to working out school baseball material for another year. The complete schedule of games:

Wednesday, April 29, 1909-1910; Friday, May 1, 1908-1911; Tuesday, May 5, 19091-1911; Thursday, May 7, 1908-1909; Monday, May 11, 1910-1911; Thursday, May 14, 1908-1910; Tuesday, May 19, 1909-1910; Thursday, May 21, 1908-1911; Monday, May 25, 1909-1911; Thursday, May 28, 1908-1909; Monday, June 1, 1910-1911; Thursday, June 4, 1908-1910.

Patrolman Prevents a Fire.

Patrolman Messler's watchful optics caught sight of an overheated stove in the Wadley coal yard office on Madison avenue, last night, and by so doing prevented a possible fire. He notified Captain Feiring at No. 1 engine house and the latter entered the place to stop the trouble by breaking a pane of glass in one of the windows. The stove was in such a position that it would soon have ignited some wood fixtures.

Mrs. Parsons Removes to Newark.

Mrs. Charles L. Parsons, wife of the late pastor of Grace M. E. church, removed today to Newark, where she will live at the home of her married daughter. Her children, George and Miss Helen Parsons, will remain in the borough until the end of the school year.

It's All Fixed Now.

E. A. Whittier, of Newark and Lincoln, Neb., was the guest of James E. Martine, of Cedarbrook Farm and Dreamland, yesterday. They let it be known that as a result of their conference W. J. B. may be the next President.

To Dance Easter Monday Night.

"The Younger Set" will give a dance at the Casino Monday evening, April 20. The affair will be of the nature of a leap year function.

Mrs. William Murray, of Rockview avenue, is entertaining her aunt, Mrs. Holcombe, of Hartford, Conn.

ANNUAL APPOINTMENTS MADE.

C. S. Kemble, Who Comes Here, Leads the Liberals in the Closing Hours of M. E. Conference.

There was another lively discussion during the closing hours of the Newark M. E. Conference sessions yesterday afternoon, when Rev. C. S. Kemble, of Elizabeth, who has been transferred to the Monroe Avenue church by the Bishop, offered a memorial to be sent to the General Conference, requesting that the Discipline of the Church be changed so as to read that pastors be instructed to advise their people to refrain from attending the theatre, dances, playing cards and all such amusements. A similar memorial was introduced at the New York Conference and it was there recommended that the pastors use their discretion in these matters.

The argument presented by Mr. Kemble was that members of the church are quite likely to follow such amusements and if the discipline is strictly adhered to they must be read out of the church, but he for one would not want to do this and he felt sure that a majority of the pastors felt the same way about the matter.

"What do you propose to do with the members of your churches who follow these amusements?" said Mr. Kimble. "You will not read them out of the church. I am sure I will not. They are the very salt of the earth, the kind of people we bank on. The trouble is that we are afraid of what the newspapers will say about us, but I think the Methodist church is large enough not to care what anyone says about it. We know that there are members of our church that go to the theatre, dance and play cards and I cannot see how we as ministers can hope to prevent it. For that reason I would suggest that the discipline be changed so that we as pastors may be permitted to advise our people to give up these amusements, instead of continuing a mandatory rule that means little to us."

When the vote was taken it was shown that a majority held Mr. Kemble's opinion and the memorial was adopted.

The memorial offered earlier in the session of the conference by Dr. Snodgrass, which called for a change in the ratio of representation from annual conferences to the General Conference, came up for discussion, and it was the sense of the members that it would be unwise to memorialize the General Conference in the matter. It provided for a ratio of not less than one for every seventy-five members and not more than one for every ninety. On the vote the memorial was rejected.

Another important feature of the closing session of the conference yesterday afternoon, was the reading of the annual appointments and while there was some business of minor interest, everyone awaited anxiously for the announcement by Bishop Spellmeyer. As usual, it was the last thing on the program and both ministers and laymen were getting restless, when they saw the Bishop return to the chair after a long conference with the presiding elders. It was evident that the making of the appointments had been a difficult task, and before the Bishop began to read them he remarked that there was nothing he could say on the subject. He then made the announcements.

There are several changes of particular interest to Plainfielders. Rev. Daniel Halleron, who has been the presiding elder of the Elizabeth District for six years, is sent to Washington, Warren county, and is succeeded by Rev. D. B. H. Randolph, of Paterson. It was expected that Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass would get this place, but as it was hard to chose between him and Rev. Dr. Wilding, another man was picked. As stated in The Daily Press on Monday, Rev. Orra J. Shoop, of Cranford, goes to Grace M. E. church, while Rev. C. S. Kemble, of Park church, Elizabeth, will succeed Rev. E. S. Roberson at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church. Mr. Roberson goes to the church at Passaic, a $2,000 charge. This change is somewhat of a surprise, as Mr. Roberson's people had given him a call to return and he seemed desirous of doing so. As was foretold on Monday, Rev. A. C. McCrea will remain at the First M. E. church. He could have received the presiding eldership for the Elizabeth District had he so desired, but he did not want it. He preferred to remain in his present charge where he has been doing good work, and his people urged that he be re-

NEW THEORY SUCCESSFUL IN INDIANAPOLIS

L. T. Cooper Makes Many Converts During Stay in That City.

The new theory (backed up by his preparation) advanced by L. T. Cooper with regard to the cause of most ill health of the present generation is being sown broadcast by this young man.

Cooper believes that the human stomach has become degenerate in civilized races and claims that good health is impossible unless the stomach is re-vitalized. This he claims to do with his preparation.

An article from the Indianapolis Star during Cooper's stay in that city has this to say of Cooper and his preparation: "Residents of this city are being astounded by L. T. Cooper and his new preparation.

"Reports that preceded Mr. Cooper's visit here told of his success in other localities, but the immense success of his medicine and the general belief in his theory was wholly unprecedented.

"So great is the rush of the public to this young man that people stand in line waiting their turn for hours in an effort to see him. The most interesting feature of this is statements made by reliable citizens as to the actual accomplishments of Cooper's medicine. Among recent statements of this character the following is a fair example:

"Mr. B. F. Campbell, of 3224 West Washington Street, had this to say of his experience with Cooper: 'I have been a victim of stomach trouble for the past five years—sick and suffering pain all the time. Everything I ate distressed me. I have been under the treatment of many physicians, and have taken all kinds of medicine, none of which afforded me relief. I was greatly discouraged, and was about ready to give up, when Mr. Cooper came to this city to introduce his preparations.

"'I was skeptical, of course, after spending so much money and taking such a large quantity of medicine, but, like the drowning man, I was ready to grab at a straw, so I secured some of Mr. Cooper's New Discovery medicine and began taking it. It seemed to help right from the first dose. I have been taking it for several weeks, and can now eat heartily and enjoy my meals for the first time in five years—eat anything, without pain or distress of any kind. I feel like a new being—life is worth living now.'"

Let us explain Mr. Cooper's remarkable medicine to you if your general health is not all that it should be.

ARABS WILL INVADE PLAINFIELD TONIGHT

Members of the Arab Patrol of Salaam Temple, Ancient Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, of Newark, are ready to furnish Plainfield tonight with a spectacular minstrel performance, which will be given in the New Plainfield theatre. This production was given in Newark, in Krueger's Auditorium, on February 28, and was a huge success. The entertainment which was the conception of one of the members of the Patrol, being original in idea and arrangement, smacks of Arabia and the desert and is called "A Shriner's Dream." Since the original production, in Newark, the alleged author, has added to the piece, there now being three scenes instead of two, while several additional solos, choruses and specialties have been introduced. The opening scene will be used for the first time here; shows a Shriner who has just returned home late at night from a meeting of the Temple. After a humorous dialogue with his wife, who is at the top of the stairs, he gets down an ancient Egyptian incense pot which has a remarkable history and the contents of which he lights. Then follows a series of remarkable experiences—in Dreamland.

The Arab Patrol will invade this territory this afternoon with a street parade in which seventy men in oriental garb will be in line.

The performance will differ in many respects from the usual amateur efforts. Instead of being made up as darkies, the performers will array as Orientals or Arabs, while the usual rag-time melodies will be supplanted with those of the weird Egyptian chants and character songs.

The author, in working out the Egyptian idea, has evolved a light plot which calls for an elaborate stage setting and much original stage craft. In this the director and author has created a scene of much brilliancy, blending the entire performance with an atmosphere of the desert.

It is seldom that a minstrel performance has a plot to it, but it is based on the story that will hold the attention of the audience from the weird opening overture to the spectacular military finale. The author worked on the dialogue for several months. He arranged the music, wrote the words to most of the songs. The stage craft of the production is all original and in harmony with the Egyptian idea. The Patrol has spared no expense to make its performance here one to be remembered.

The production was brought to Plainfield at the instance of Harry W. Marshall, Illustrious Potentate of Salaam Temple and a wise gazabo. Mr. Marshall and many other Shriners who live in Union county and further down the State, expressed a desire after witnessing the performance in Newark to have this novel musical burlesque reproduced in Plainfield.

The plot of the performance revolves about a supposed pilgrimage of the Arab Patrol of Salaam Temple to Mecca, in Arabia, traveling across the desert. Fearing that they will be harassed by the real natives, they disguise themselves as Arabs. At the opening of the show the members of the Patrol are seen encamped in the oasis of the desert, with the Sphynix and the Pyramids in the distance as a background. The gas bags burst during an international balloon race and the contestants, who are the end men, drop into the camp. During the minstrel show, that the Patrol and their unexpected visitors give to pass away the time, a sand storms occurs and scatters the tribe. An army hastily recruited from Egyptian slaves, with a performing camel, ostriches, crocodiles and mummys is a feature of the production. The songs are catchy, the music both weird and tuneful and the jokes and situations are mirth provoking. There is just enough plot to sustain the interest of the audience to the end and the action has plenty of snap.

The committee in charge of the affair are L. B. Woolston, chairman; B. Frank Coriell, Henry Woodland, Frederick Hand, H. C. Levy, Henry Liefke and Harry W. Marshall. In addition to these there are many other Masons and prominent Shriners here about who have manifested a pronounced interest in the matter, among them Mayor C. J. Fisk. Tonight the nobles will appear in dress suit, fez and claws.

N. P.H. S. LOSES TO MONO A. C. NINE, 9-5.

The Mono A. C. nine trimmed the borough school boys by a score of 9-5 in a practise game on the Westervelt avenue grounds yesterday afternoon. It was the first time the schoolboys had played together this year, and they showed a marked lack of steadiness, as well as inability to hit the ball.

The Monos clinched the game in the second, when they hammered in six runs, in a regular festival of hits and errors. They scored a single tally in the first session, making two more in the eighth. The boroughites did not begin to score until the third, when they got their first run. They scored three more in the seventh and another in the ninth.

The Japanese census is inaccurate. They take it by simply counting the houses and allowing five persons in each house.

RICH MEN ROAD OVERSEERS.

Two Millionaires Added to Five Already in Morris Township Committee.

Morristown, April 8.—At a meeting of the Morris Township Committee Monday night two more millionaire residents, Charles Scribner, who is the head of the Scribner publishing house, and Joseph W. Ogden, a New York banker, were elected road overseers, there now being seven millionaire residents of the township who interest themselves in local affairs, and particularly in supervising the construction of good roads.

There are thirty miles of road in the township, for the care of which they elect twenty-nine overseers, and the township authorities claim it is the most valuable thirty miles of road in rural New Jersey.

The committee passed a resolution that nothing but broken trap rock shall be used in the construction of the roads, and they granted a franchise to the Normandie Heights Water Company to lay mains and provide a water supply for all residents.

The overseers elected, and actually serving, each man representing a road district, are as follows: William Nunn, David Chonchey, Samuel Butterworth, Edward Prudden, Gustave Kissel, Frank H. Gould, James Curtis, Frank Studley, E. L. Foster, Royal T. Dickerson, Edmund Prudden, Rudolph H. Kissel, William Bowen, Elias Pierson, George H. Loree, John Osborne, L. N. Smith, Willis Arnold, Zenas H. Smith, Marcus L. Force, Joseph F. Burke, James Brant, Pheonix Miller, George Mattox, Joseph Whitteman, Bexley Halcombe, and the two men chosen last night.

The committee has instructed the overseers that they must go over their districts at least once a month to decide as to repairs and other needs, and that all permanent work must be completed by October 1 next.

BRIDEGROOM-ELECT ALREADY HAS A WIFE.

Califon, April 8.—The marriage of Miss Elsie Koose, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Koose, of Spring Valley, and George Schuck, of Easton, Pa., has been indefinitely postponed. The marriage was announced to take place next Saturday. The postponement was due to the report that Schuck has a wife living at Easton, Pa., whom he deserted a few years ago. When Mrs. Schuck learned of the intended marriage she said: "Yes, I am the wife of George Schuck, and will not interfere with the wedding. I'm glad to get clear of him."

Schuck left Easton about two years ago. Recently he has been employed as a baker at Hulsizer's bakery, at High Bridge. At the latter place he wooed and won Miss Koose. To a reporter Miss Koose said: "George told me the other day that he was married, but that he would apply for a divorce and we would get married as soon as the decree was granted."

Easton, Pa., April 8—Mrs. Schuck, when seen yesterday by a reporter, said that her husband visited her last Sunday, and asked her whether she would grant him a divorce. She said she replied that she would willingly do so; that she would not oppose or interfere in any way with his intentions of getting married again, and that she was only too glad to get rid of him. Schuck, while a resident of Easton, was employed at a South Side bakery. He left here about a year ago. Schuck's wife is at present employed in a delicatessen store here.

WORK FOR STATE LIBRARIAN.

Supervision of New Jersey Reports Given to Him by Amendment to Bill Creating Bureau.

Trenton, April 8.—Senator Minch's bill, Senate 67, creating the office of commissioner of State reports at a salary of $2,500, in pursuance with the Governor's inaugural message suggestion, was amended in the House yesterday by Mr. Sullivan after a sharp struggle. The amendment, which was opposed by Mr. Martin, but was carried by a vote of 27 to 20, stipulates that the supervision of the State reports shall rest with the State librarian, who shall receive $1,000 a year extra for this work. The same amendment was offered in the Senate, but the State librarian let it be known he did not want the job. He was offered $500 a year extra then. Now it is said he is more willing.

After the amendment had been carried Mr. Martin moved the vote be reconsidered. The motion did not prevail, and the amended bill was then placed on third reading and passed.

Mr. Sullivan said he would also offer an amendment to Senate 74, by Mr. Bradley, another of Governor Fort's inaugural message recommendations. The proposed act creates a State department of public accounts, with a chief auditor at a salary of $3,000. Mr. Sullivan will try to amend it so as to place this work under the supervision of the State comptroller.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS:
Tonight and Tomorrow Morning.
Sun sets 6:28, rises 5:26; moon sets 2:03 a. m.

The New York and the Newark Conferences have practically raised the ban on dancing, theatres and card playing. As the old darky preacher said: "The Sun Do Move."

No political machine has ever had to be killed. Give 'em time and they will all commit suicide. Ignorance is the poison which is invariably administered in fatal doses.

The Good Book says that man is fearfully and wonderfully made, but it has remained for the twentieth century bachelor to opine that woman is fearfully and wonderfully made up.

The Legislature adjourns tomorrow afternoon and when Senator Ackerman and Assemblyman Pierce return can we not extend this greeting to each: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

New Jersey's "Legislature" adjourns at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. It will leave behind broken pledges on civil service reform, public utilities regulations, all of which were promised in the party platform. But, then, what is a platform among friends.

Mrs. Weiss' Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Caroline Weiss was held yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Allen, of Somerset street. It was conducted by Rev. J. A. Chambliss, assisted by Rev. George Bowers, and was attended by many relatives and friends. During the service Mr. Bowers rendered two selections. Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, six grandsons acting as pall bearers, Walter Stine, Henry Stephany, David Weiss, George Egel, Fred Nuse and Lewis Nuse, the last two of Newark.

Mathushek Sign.

A handsome cast iron and wire sign was placed in position in front of the Mathushek Piano Co.'s store, 310 West Front street, today, which, as a new departure in signs, is most artistic and serviceable. It is formed of two twelve foot signs meeting in a V shape over the sidewalk. On each face is the name of the firm, in gold-leaf letters. It was made and hung by Ambrose King, of Westfield, and will be illuminated by a cluster of electric lights to be installed within the angle. **

Pupils See Shakespeare's Play.

In connection with the study of Shakespeare by the junior class of the North Plainfield High School, fifteen members of the class went to Newark today to see Robert Mantell in Shakespeare at the Newark theatre. They saw "Macbeth" this afternoon and several will go from the borough school to be with them at the performance of "Hamlet" tonight. Miss Agnes Scudder, of the school faculty, is with the class.

"The annual Birthday Tea was held on January 16, and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent. Mrs. Mead, our president, opened her home for the occasion and despite the very stormy day there was a good attendance. Mrs. Perkins, treasurer of the American McAll Association, made an address of great interest and Mrs. Ring, one of our members, sang several selections which added much to the pleasure of the afternoon, and all came away feeling well repaid for having braved the storm. The birthday envelopes gave us $100.37. We resumed the monthly meetings instead of the plan we followed last winter as the majority of the ladies deemed it wiser to go over the work once a month.

"During the year M. and Mme. St. Vidal, who have had charge of the Limoges station, resigned and M. Canet, a native of Limoges and a man who was converted in a McAll meeting, has taken charge. M. St. Vidal was transferred to Nice, where he was in hopes that the milder climate would do much to restore his wife's health, which has been so broken for a number of years.

"With a strong faith and deeper desire to do well the work the Master has given us to do we begin our new year of labor. We thank the managers of the Library for the use of this room and the press for its many courtesies.

"Respectfully submitted,
"JESSIE R. HEELY,
"Secretary."

BANG UP MINSTREL SHOW AT THE THEATRE TONIGHT.

The Arab Patrol of Salaam temple—seventy strong—count 'em—will journey over the burning sands from Newark this afternoon, arriving here about 6 o'clock. The grand chief of the tribe, Potentate H. W. Marshall, has summoned the patrol, bidding each and every member thereof to show what he can do in the shape of stunts at a minstrel performance to be given at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. On their arrival the members of the Patrol will be met by the dapper looking potentate who will conduct them over the highways of Noble Fisk's city. Noble Lem Woolston will lead Voss' band, which will be at the head of the line.

If you don't attend the big minstrel how at the theatre tonight you will be the loser. There'll be barrels of fun on tap. Just ask the potentate about it.

Colbyites Meet Tonight.

The Central Committee of the "New Idea" forces in this city invites all Republican voters who are or have been interested or affiliated with the independent movement in party politics here to meet tonight at the office of G. W. V. Moy, at No. 125 East Front street. Matters of prime importance, it is said, will be transacted and a hearty welcome will be extended to every man who attends.

BY MR. H. B. SUYDAM.

At an adjourned meeting of this body held March 16th, 1908, I presentel a resolution calling for the enforcement of an ordinance relating to the morals, peace and good order of the City of Plainfield. That resolution not only passed this body without a dissenting vote but was approved by the Mayor.

For some unknown reason without printing the resolution, articles appeared in the daily papers, that were not only misleading but unjust to the unemployed working men and myself. There is not one word in the resolution, either expressed or implied, reflecting upon or regarding the unemployed working men, and no such reflection was intended. It simply means just what it says, that the locations named have been loitering places for more than two years by practically the same persons, long before the working men became idle through no fault of their own.

Having been closely associated with working men all my life, and knowing them to be honest, industrious and law-abiding citizens and tax-payers, I could not apply the term loiterer to them, even had I been so inclined, and, in justice to the Mayor, this Body, the unemployed working men of our City and myself, I move that this explanation be spread upon the minutes of this body, and, with a copy of the resolution attached, printed in the daily papers.

The following is a copy of the resolution:

WHEREAS, Groups of men and youth habitually congregate upon our streets and street corners, principally about the postoffice, Somerset and Front Streets, Park Avenue and Front Street, Park Avenue and Second Street and the trolley depot, in violation of an ordinance relating to the morals, peace and good order of the City of Plainfield, page 36, Section 22; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Police Committee direct the Chief of Police to enforce the above ordinance and keep our streets free and unobstructed.

Adopted by the Common Council, March 16, 1908; approved by the Mayor, March 16, 1908.

EYE-STRAIN

is directly responsible for the majority of cases of blindness today. If instead of trying to overwork the eyes, one would at once get glasses at the first warning of eye-strain there would be fewer cases of blindness at the present time.

Come to us and have your eyes examined free of charge and we will advise you what to do to save them.

Headache and neuralgia quickly relieved.

turned.

Taking everything into consideration there appears to have been a far less number of changes this year than usual. This may be due to the full knowledge that Bishop Spellmeyer has of conditions in the Newark Conference. Rev. E. C. Dutcher remains at Dunellen, as does also Rev. Perry C. Bascom at Bound Brook. Rev. A. W. Hayes was returned to Westfield.

One appointment of especial interest is that of Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, who goes to Rev. Dr. Wilding's charge at Paterson, while the latter has been sent to the charge at Perth Amboy now held by Dr. Snodgrass. There was general satisfaction over the appointments and no complaint of any significance has been heard. The changes will become effective at once.

During the afternoon, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, was introduced to the conference and he made a happy response. He said that he first started as an exhorter and local preacher in the Methodist church, and sometime later identified himself with the Presbyterian church. He gave the ministers a hearty welcome and expressed the hope that their entertainment and meetings here had been pleasant.

Before adjournment was taken, resolutions thanking those who had assisted in any way in the entertainment of the conference were adopted by a rising vote. Those included in the resolutions were the Board of Trade, the First M. E. church, Rev. A. C. McCrea, chairman of the committee, the First Baptist church, while as an act of appreciation for his services, an offering amounting to $56.69 was given to Isaac W. Kennedy, sexton of the church. Another act of the ministers was that of presenting a sum of money to Henry Johnson, steward at the Park Club, where luncheon was served every day at noon, and resolutions expressing the thanks of the body were given to the waitresses for the kind and courteous treatment.

Grateful recognition of long service performed by Rev. Dr. J. A. Gutteridge, statistical secretary, and Rev. Jacob Cole, treasurer. Both have held their respective offices about thirty years and Rev. Dr. J. F. Dodd, who has been the secretary of the conference for twenty-eight years, was also extended a vote of thanks.

Salvation Army Notes.

Adjutant Mildred Witton, a former Plainfield officer, will be the speaker at the Salvation Army Hall tonight at 8 o'clock. Tomorrow night Colonel Adam Gifford, of New York, will give his soul stirring moving picture service entitled "From Bethlehem to Calvary," illustrated by magnificent stereopticon views and motion pictures from Tissot and the world's masterpieces. Special instrumental and vocal music will be features. Doors open 7:30; commence at 8 o'clock. All are invited.

Funeral of Mrs. Benson.

The funeral of Mrs. Bridget Benson, widow of James Benson, was held this morning in St. Mary's church. The mass was said by Rev. Father Bogan and was followed by burial in St. Mary's cemetery. The pall bearers were James Muldowney, Alex McGuiggan, William Frey and John O'Brien, the last named of Jersey City.

Congregational Church Annual.

The annual meeting of the Congregational church will be held Wednesday night, April 15, and preceding it at 6 o'clock, the women of the church will serve the annual supper for which a nominal charge will be made.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Thieves yesterday carried away $25 in silverware and $2 in cash from the home of James Thomas, at 1060 South Second street, Camden.

Robert Heist, who is charged with attacking Mrs. William Baker, of Perkin's lane, has been committed to Mt. Holly jail without bail.

Accused of cruelty to a dog, August Corg, of 517 North Front street, was fined $5 and costs by Justice of the Peace Schmitz, in Camden, yesterday.

Charged with complicity in the theft of iron from the Morse estate foundry, Richard Battersly, of 305 North Broadway, Gloucester City, has been held in $300 bail for court.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark R. Dare, of Greenwich, yesterday celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage by a large gathering of friends. Among those present was Mrs. Rebecca Jones, of Greenwich, who was in attendance at their wedding.

Percy Meeks, twelve years old, of Edgewater Park, while on his way home from Beverly, caught his foot in a root of a tree yesterday and fell into a brush fire along the roadside, his hand and arm being badly burned. Dr. Tracy dressed the wounded member.

Daring bathers opened the season during the warm wave of yesterday at Atlantic City, half a dozen young men and girls taking short dips in the surf while the sun was high. More than a score of bathers appeared in regulation suits, but many failed to muster nerve to enter the water.

James Agnew completed a term of six months in the Hudson county jail yesterday, and was rearrested as he left the jail door by Joseph Mayhew, deputy United States marshal. Agnew was convicted of obtaining money on the false pretense that he was executor of the estate of Deborah Albright.

John Cheeseman and William Gilbert, Sr., of Delanco, yesterday had a narrow escape from drowning in the creek at that place. A power boat, from which they were fishing, was run into and cut in two by a power fishing skiff operated by Joseph Gilbert. Spectators on the bank went to the aid of the men in the water.

Mayor Lincoln, of Gloucester, yesterday committed Robert Battersby, of 305 North Broadway, that city, to the county jail in default of $300 bail for court on the charge of being implicated in the robbery of a wagonload of iron from the old Gloucester Iron Works a week ago. Battersby admitted being present when the iron was taken, but declared that his son told him he had bought it.

A weekly theatre party, as a reward for being good boys, is the novel scheme which City Recorder James Hayes, of Atlantic City, now intends putting into effect. Hayes has made it a practise to release bad boys brought before him on parole, with the understanding that they make weekly reports of their conduct. The scheme has worked admirably. When a score of youngsters brought their reports to court yesterday the recorder announced that hereafter he would reward the good boys with theatre parties. The boys cheered.

There was a meeting of the heads of the various city departments in Camden with members of Council last night, when the matter of issuing bonds for city improvements, that work might be given the unemployed, was discussed. It was agreed to have an ordinance introduced to Council at a special session next Thursday night providing for the issuing of bonds to the amount of $37,000. Of this bond issue, $15,000 will be applied to street improvement, $15,000 for the water department and $7,000 will be used for parks purposes.

Her husband being unable to attend court, Mrs. Henry S. Alvord, wife of a Vineland lawyer, and herself a member of the bar, appeared before Vice-Chancellor Leaming, in Camden, yesterday, to protect their joint interests in a claim against the estate of Matilda Landis. Mr. Alvord had acted as counsel for the estate for two years or so, for which he asked a counsel fee of $500. This was considered excessive, and an exception was taken by counsel for the estate. Mrs. Alvord declared that it was not excessive, and she told the court just how much work had been done by her husband. Vice-Chancellor Leaming reserved decision.

Value of Rubbish Cans.

No other movement inaugurated of late years for improvement of town or village life has met with such a universal response as the placing of cans or other receptables for rubbish along streets. But a few years ago they were not to be found in Southern California. Now they are present in every really live place, and reports from other sections of the country show conclusively that the practice has become quite universal. The individual receives in this way a suggestion to keep his premises as well as street frontage free from rubbish and litter of all sorts.

AN ORDINANCE

To Further Amend An Ordinance Entitled "An Ordinance to Establish, Regulate and Control a Fire Department in the City of Plainfield," approved May 6, 1899, as amended.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Section 8 of the ordinance to which this is an amendment, be further amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 8. The pay of the force is hereby fixed as follows, the said rates to take effect from the first day of January, 1908:

Chief Engineer	$1,100 per annum
First Assistant Engineer	$1080 per annum
Captains	$1020 per annum
Veterinary Surgeon	$ 165 per annum
Engineer of Steamer	$82.50 per annum

Drivers, Tillermen and Hosemen shall be diveded into five classes according to their respective terms of service as follows:

Class A—Fifth year of service and over.
Class B—Fourth year of service.
Class C—Third year of service.
Class D—Second year of service.
Class E—First year of service.

Provided, that the Common Council upon recommendation of the Mayor may advance any regular Firemen, Drivers, Tillermen or Hosemen from a lower to a higher class for especially good work or meritorious service, whether he shall have served his full time, specified above or not.

That from the first day of January, 1908, the salaries of the Drivers, Tillermen and Hosemen or other regularly appointed Firemen shall be as follows, according to their class:

Class A	$960 per annum
Class B	$900 per annum
Class C	$840 per annum
Class D	$780 per annum
Class E	$720 per annum

The members of the Fire Department known and designated as "Call Men" shall perform at least ninety per cent. of duty at all fires or alarms of fires in each year; and such members shall receive as compensation, the sum of Fifty-five Dollars per annum, payable in two semi-annual payments of Twenty-seven Dollars and Fifty Cents for each of the six months ending June 30th and December 31st in each year, except that when a Call Man shall act as Captain of Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, he shall receive one hundred dollars per annum, payable semi-annually, and when any Call Man shall act as Engineer of Steamer, he shall receive eighty-two dollars and fifty cents per annum, payable semi-annually, but no salary shall be paid to a Call Man until he shall have signed a stipulation that he will render service as contemplated in this section."

Sec. 2. That section 13 of said ordinance be amended by striking out the words "seventy-five per cent. of duty per annum" and substituting the words "ninety per cent of duty per annum."

Adopted by the Common Council, April 6, 1908; approved by the Mayor, April 6, 1908.

CHARLES J. FISK, Mayor.
Attest—J. T. MacMurray, City Clerk.

Corporation Notice

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

AN ORDINANCE

FOR THE ASSESSMENT OF TAXES FOR THE YEAR 1908.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That pursuant to the statutes and ordinances and resolutions in such cases made and provided and certifications thereunder there shall be assessed and raised by tax for the year nineteen hundred and eight, for the general purposes of said city, exclusive of school, library, poor, fire and State and county taxes, the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000) (this sum includes the sum of Thirty Thousand Dollars to be raised by general tax for street improvements); for the expense of said year for lighting the public streets and places in said city, as ascertained and determined by resolution of the Common Council and certified to the Assessors of said city, the sum of Fifteen Thousand Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars ($15,250); for the principal of such sewer bonds (except obligations payable out of assessments and temporary obligations) as may mature during the ensuing fiscal year, under and by virtue of the Act of the Legislature, entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7, 1890, and the several amendments thereof and supplements thereto, and proceedings had and taken thereunder in said city, the sum of Six Thousand Dollars ($6,000); for interest on the obligations of the city issued under the said last mentioned Acts, the sum of Ten Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($10,500); for the support of the city poor, the sum of Eight Thousand Dollars ($8,000), included in the last named sum is the sum of One Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($1,500) for the purpose of supporting and maintaining such indigent patients as may be sent to Muhlenberg Hospital by order of the City Physician, Overseer of the Poor, or other proper authority of the city, pursuant to Chapter LXXVI P. L. 1886, payable December 31, 1908, pursuant to contract between the Muhlenberg Hospital and the City); for the maintenance of the Public Library and Reading Room, the sum of Seven Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($7,500); for the maintenance of a Fire Department, to be under the control and government of said city, the sum of Thirty-Four Thousand Dollars ($34,000); for interest on school bonds authorized under City Ordinances to fall due during the said year, the sum of Five Thousand Four Hundrel and Forty Dollars ($5,440); and for principal of one of said bonds maturing during such year the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000); for the amount needed for the current year for the purpose specified in section 5 of the Act of the Legislature entitled "An Act to provide for the planting of shade trees on the highways of the municipalities of this State," approved April 28, 1893, and Acts amendatory thereof and supplemental therto, as certified by the Shade Tree Commissioners of the City of Plainfield to the Assessors of said city, the sum of Twenty-Two Hundred Dollars ($2,200); and in addition to the foregoing, a license fee of Two Dollars ($2) to be paid by the owner of every dog within the City of Plainfield.

There is an old axiom that we ought not to judge by appearances, so we may well ask, "What else is there left for us to judge by when taking our earliest impressions of a person's character, since the face is the first thing that, as a rule, attracts us, and we instinctively feel that it ought to be the mirror of the mind?"—Woman's Life.

SOMETHING HE NEEDN'T KNOW.

Purchase Not Likely to Have Interested Him, Anyway.

A condition when it is a temptation to patronize the exchange desk of the store is brought about by the receipt of a gift that is a duplicate of something already possessed. One girl was made miserable by receiving a most beautiful inlaid desk simply because she had two desks already. After giving the subject deliberate thought she decided to lay the matter before the young man who sent her the desk. She felt he would not be so unreasonable as to be offended.

And he wasn't. "Get it exchanged for whatever you want," he said. "Of course, I want to see you pleased."

So she sallied forth.

It was difficult to find anything that just fitted the price. The first thing selected was a dainty effect in cameo; then came a belt buckle; then a pair of gloves.

After making these purchases with the exchange check there was still a goodly sum over. The girl could not make up her mind what she wanted. Then she thought very deeply, smiled to herself once or twice and completed her shopping tour on the desk proceeds.

What she bought was filmy and lacy.

And she never includes it in the list she gives the young man of his "various" gifts to her.

CHINAMAN CAN BE SARCASTIC.

Many of Their Sayings in Common Use Have Real Wit.

Once in a while you meet a common Chinaman who has some of the wit of Mr. Wu. One such has a laundry in Lexington avenue, not far from Twenty-third street. The other day I heard him yell at a recalcitrant customer: "You no pay? Then you paper tiger!" I asked what he meant by a "paper tiger," and he replied: "Oh, in China a paper tiger is blackguard who blows much but is harmless." He added: "When a man is very proud of himself, what Americans call 'stuck up,' we compare to a rat falling into a scale and weighing itself. When a Chinaman overdoes a thing we say he is a hunchback making a bow. The rich son who quickly spends his father's money we call a rocket which goes off at once. We say of you rich Americans who send money to heathens by missionaries and neglect their family at home: 'They hang their lantern on a pole, which is seen from afar, but gives no light below.'"—New York Press.

Queer Ad.

"An Italian with a piano organ was turning the handle of his machine rapidly, but not a note was to be heard. I stopped at once. What on earth could be the matter?"

The speaker, an advertising agent, smiled.

"Finally," he said, "I went up close to the man.

"'A breakdown?' I asked.

"He pointed to a small placard on the organ's front, and I read:

"'The interior of the instrument has been removed. The relief that in consequence you experience is as nothing compared with that which immediately follows a dose of Surecure Cough Mixture.'

"It was an original ad.," the expert ended, "and I followed it up. From what the Surecure people told me, I found that the same ingenuity and money put in legitimate newspaper advertising would have brought 50 per cent. more returns."—Exchange.

Getting His Own Back.

An ironworker, having had the worst of an argument with a friend, decided to get even with him.

Waiting, therefore, until his enemy had retired to rest one night, he approached his street door, and knocked loudly in order to wake him. Opening the bedroom window, the other hurriedly inquired what the noise was all about.

"Why," replied the outside one, "one of your windows is wide open."

"Which one?"

"Why, the one you have your head through," chuckled the other, as he went away satisfied with the success of his plot.—Illustrated Bits.

Skating or Swimming.

Some one once asked "Tim" Sullivan of New York for information as to the prospects of a politician who was popularly supposed to be "on the ragged edge."

"Well," said Sullivan, "he seems to think he's getting on all right; but there are other who entertain a different opinion. The situation reminds me of the story of the old woman up in Maine. Being asked as to the whereabouts of her husband, she replied:

"'If the ice is as thick as Jim thinks it is, he is skating; if it is as thick as I think it is, he is swimming.'"—Sunday Magazine.

Simple Home Remedy.

Often it is inconvenient to get a doctor for a cut or abrasion where there might be danger of blood poisoning. In such case try this simple home remedy: After the wound is thoroughly washed with some antiseptic solution and the poison removed the cut will often heal nicely if cloths wet in sweet oil are kept on the place until the flesh has perfectly healed. One young woman, who this last summer tore her hand badly on a barbed-wire fence, used nothing else on it but these sweet-oil cloths, kept renewed whenever they grew dry, and has not even a scar to show for her injury.

A woman is never satisfied unless she has at least one article that her neighbor can borrow.

If a man shoots putty balls at an enemy he need not be surprised if they come back as cobblestones later.

The only reason you can't fool all of the people all of the time is because some of the people are not built that way.—Chicago News.

THINGS THAT TROUBLE ONE.

Where to lunch.

The price of coal.

A burst water pipe.

Her mother's visit.

A shoe that pinches.

The hole in my glove.

A sock that gets mislaid.

Where I spent last night.

A pair of boots that squeak.

A stopped-up tobacco pipe.

A spot of mud on a clean collar.

The money article in the daily paper.

An umbrella left at home when it rains.

What excuse to make for coming home late.

What your wife has commissioned you to buy for her.

A collar stud that breaks when you are dressing in a hurry.

TINY TROUBLES.

What bugbears they are!

Every day is full of them.

One feels them and is depressed by them.

Of course they chase smiles from the face.

There's just one thing that will scare them away.

And that's a great big genuine trouble—the kind of tragedy so many women's lives are full of.

There's nothing like a sorrowing family tragedy to teach a woman the right proportions of things.

For the first time she knows how trifling the other little annoyances really were.

That is why so many women who fretted over trifles brace up and stand like heroes under the force of a heavy blow.

In the face of a sorrow like that little troubles melt away like magic, and one wonders why one was ever upset by them.

BROTHER DICKEY'S SAYINGS.

De word is dat good folks is lonesome in dis worl', but dat's lots better than havin' comp'ny whar de fire burns.

Some folks is all time cryin' fer justice fer de yuther feller, but ef justice ever knocked at dey own do' de'd holler f'um half-way up de chimbley dat dey ain't at home.—Atlanta Constitution.

LITERARY PROVERBS.

Better sold late than never.

Faint plots ne'er won fair prizes.

What can't be sold must be retold.

Facts are stubborn things; try fiction.

A trite plot foretells a roving manuscript.

A WORD OR TWO.

Drink is the chief cause of suicide.

Fruit preserved without sugar keeps the best.

There are eight white men to one white woman in India.

In 2,000 years the shape of fishhooks has not changed.

Proposals for Coal.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, N. J., at a meeting held April 6, 1908, notice is hereby given that the Board of Education will meet on Monday, April 27, 1908, at 7:45 p. m., at the Board room in the High School building, corner Ninth Street and Arlington Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Board of Education will receive sealed proposals for furnishing seven hundred tons (more or less) of the best anthracite coal for steaming and hot-air purposes; in the different sizes. The quantity required of each size can be obtained at the office of the Secretary of the Board, High School building, Ninth Street and Arlington Avenue.

Parties bidding will be required to specify in their bids the name of the coal and shippers of same.

All coal to be thoroughly screened over a seive fine enough to take out all dust and small particles of coal, and to be prepared acceptable to the Committee on Fuel, or their agent or representative.

All coal to be placed in the coal bins within the public school buildings without any extra expense to the Board for handling or trimming the coal in the bins, and to be delivered at such time as the Board may direct.

Bids to specify whether long or short tons.

Payment for all coal contracted for to be made after July 1, 1908.

All proposals to be endorsed "Proposals for Coal" and addressed to the Secretary of the Board.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, the Board will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding, or their agents, provided such parties or their agents choose to be then and there present; and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Board.

No bids will be received until the day and hour above named, and none thereafter.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board.

MAN REVIVED WITHIN AN HOUR OF BURIAL

PASTOR TAKING LAST LOOK AT HIS FRIEND DETECTS A MUSCLE TWITCHING.

St. Joseph, Mo.—William Young of Savannah barely escaped being buried alive, regaining consciousness only an hour before the time set for the funeral.

Young had been ill a long time and a few days ago he apparently died. A physician was at his bedside and he said the man was dead. The body was prepared for burial by an undertaker and placed in a casket.

Friends of the dead man went to the house to express their sympathy to the family, among the visitors being Rev. J. E. McLaughlin, pastor of the church to which the Youngs belong.

The mourners had assembled for the burial and the time was only an hour distant when Rev. McLaughlin went into the room where the corpse lay to take a last look at his lifelong friend. While gazing at the face he thought he detected the twitching of a muscle. He looked again and for the second time was sure he could see a slight movement.

Young Was Sitting Up in His Coffin.

The body of Young had been lying in the casket for 24 hours and was cold. The minister feared that he had been mistaken and, not desiring to cause excitement among the people assembled for the funeral, went quietly out and summoned a physician, who soon found that Young was still alive. Then the preacher went out and announced that the funeral would be postponed. At that time Young was sitting up in his coffin and was seen by some of those in the next room. They fled from the uncanny sight.

Young was removed from the coffin and placed on a bed, and it is believed that he will fully recover.

EATEN BY ALLIGATORS.

Two Americans on Bridal Tour Meet Death in Mexico.

El Paso, Tex.—Two Americans, a young man and a young woman, on their bridal tour, were eaten alive by alligators in the Balsas river, a stream forming the boundary between the states of Michoacan and Guerrerro in Mexico. Nobody knows anything of their identity.

H. Sablarolles of Guadalajara, returning from his timber lands in Michoacan, reported the matter to Dr. Will B. Davis, American consul in that city.

The man, who was about 28 years of age, and the girl, about 19, appeared at Balsas a month ago, and, hiring a small boat, stocked it with provisions, arms and camp equipage, and, loading on a trunk filled with clothing, went down the river.

A short way down stream the trunk fell overboard, and although the couple stopped and paid the natives to dive for it, it was lost. The natives warned them not to continue the journey, as the stream is full of rapids and in the swampy places is inhabited by thousands of alligators.

The young couple continued, and nothing more was heard of them until recently, when the wrecked boat was found in one of the swampy regions, torn and chewed by alligators, and near by was the body of the young man, partially eaten by the saurians.

Kept Silence of 21 Years.

Cincinnati.—For 21 years Nicholas Walter has not spoken to his aged father, Fred Walter, although they have lived in the same house for 19 years. The father, who has not worked for 15 years and has slept in the garret, the other day moved his sleeping quarters and placed his bed on the first floor of the house. He went outside for a few minutes, he told Police Judge Lueders, and when he returned his bed was in its old place.

An argument resulted between Walter, his wife and daughter, but the son did not break his silence of 21 years and left home. Judge Lueders dismissed the elder Walter's charges against the son.

Babe Unhurt in Auto Crash.

Trenton, N. J.—Mrs. Edward Van was hurled from her carriage in Mercerville the other evening, when the vehicle was struck by a large touring car owned by John L. Brock of this city. The infant escaped without a scratch, and in ten minutes after the crash was sleeping soundly again. Mrs. Van Ness was badly shaken up. The automobile went through the carriage, struck a tree and was wrecked.

BASEBALL.

The Brookside A. C., a fast aggregation, would like to arrange games with first-class teams in and out of town, all contests to be ulayed on the grounds of the opponents. The management would like to hear from a good team for Saturday. Address R. T. Skinner, 132 East Second street.

The Dunellen F. C., has reorganized for the season under the old management and it is the intention to put a strong team in the field. Any good amateur player who desires to try for the team can do so. Address P. O. Box 87, Dunellen.

The Harrison A. C., of North Plainfield, has recognized for the season and would like to hear from uniform teams averaging 16-18 years. Address Herman Klinsman, 60 Harrison avenue.

HARD BATTING WINS FOR N. P. H. S. TEAM, 19-15.

Defeated in a practise game with the Mono A. C. Monday afternoon, when the club team won out 9-5, the North Plainfield High School boys came back hard at the same rivals on Hope Common yesterday afternoon, winning by a score of 19-15 in six innings. The game was loosely played throughout and was not decided until the last inning. With the score 15-13 against them, the borough lads came to the bat in the last inning and hammered in six runs, Byron McClintock's triple helping things materially.

The North Plainfielders were weak in the box, where they used Will Day at the start of the game. His place was taken by Byron McClintock after three innings, but the latter had poor control. The Mono nine had during the game several changes in the box.

The score:

S. S. A. L. MAY HAVE CHURCH BASEBALL LEAGUE.

An effort is being made to form a Sunday School Athletic League baseball league and it is possible that within a few weeks, teams will be organized at Hope chapel, and the Congregational and First Presbyterian churches. The First Baptists have already organized, and have some good material to draw from. Individual members of the other churches represented in the league, have expressed considerable interest in the formation of such a baseball league, and representatives are planning to get together and discuss the proposition with Physical Director George L. Listman at the Y. M. C. A.

Principal B. K. Phelps, of the North Plainfield High School, has been secured by the First Baptists to coach their nine. Paul Scarborough, who was captain of the State Normal School nine at Trenton several years ago, has been elected captain of the team, and among the candidates for the nine are Lee and Jerry Manning, G. H. Fountain, G. F. Fountain, William Flanders, Carlton Smith, W. P. Banks, Ernest Banks and Leslie Powlison.

Leal's Nine Disbanded.

The management of the Leal's School baseball team has announced that the school will not be represented on the diamond this year. Manager William V. Rafferty, of the Plainfield High School team, who had scheduled two dates with Leal's, is now negotiating with Lawrenceville and Battin High School to fill in the dates, May 6 and May 20. Both games will be played at Crescent Oval.

P. H. S. Upsala Game Off.

Wet grounds caused the cancelling of the game scheduled between the Plainfield High School and Upsala College teams on Crescent Oval this afternoon. The teams will meet at Kenilworth next Wednesday afternoon. This will be the first out of town game for the local nine.

PROSPECTS WIN TWICE IN TOURNEY GAMES.

In a series of games rolled in the journey at Johnny Campbell's alleys, last night, Captain Harry VanEmburgh's Prospects chalked up two wins, Captain Blatz's Centrals one and Chief Kiely's Belvideres met with two defeats. The scores throughout the series were nothing to brag about, the best figures in the aggregate being 820 made by the Prospects and 803 by the Centrals. Individually Captain Blatz and Frank Willett took the honors by making 216 each.

Tourney games tomorrow night will be between the Belvideres, Somersets and Madisons.

ON CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

Senate Commission's Report Advises That Juries Fix Kind of Punishment.

ACKERMAN'S FINDINGS ABROAD.

The Union County Senator Is One of the Three Filing Exhaustive and Satisfactory Report On Subject.

After a most thorough investigation of the matter to which it was entrusted, the Senate's committee to inquire into the subject of capital punishment has filed its report. This committee consisted of State Senators Ackerman, Price and Hutchinson. While Mr. Hutchinson conducted the investigation so far as this country is concerned, Mr. Ackerman, at his own expense, journeyed abroad carrying letters of credentials from the Secretary of State of the United States and the Governor of New Jersey. Last summer, the Union county man devoted his entire vacation to this work and he is largely responsible for the exhaustive and satisfactory report.

The conclusions reached by the committee are summed up in these closing paragraphs of its report:

"It appears that English public opinion does not favor the abolition of the death sentence, which condition is acknowledged by Mr. Joseph Collinson, of the Humanitarian League, who states in a letter published in the 'London Times' of September 28th, 1907, 'Recognizing, however, that in this country, at least, public opinion is not ripe for the total discontinuance of the death penalty, the Humanitarian League has long advocated the legal recognition of the varying degrees of guilt in the crimes now indiscriminately classed as murder.' Mr. Collinson's statement appeared in other important English and Scotch papers.

"The 'London Queen,' in its issue of October 5th, 1907, says, 'A large number of people think the State has no right to take human life, and still larger numbers doubt whether capital punishment is a real deterrent to the crime of murder. Though statistics do not seem able to prove much either way, many facts can be adduced to show that capital punishment has great terror for about ninety-nine people in every hundred, and that its abolition generally leads to more murders being committed than before, at least for a considerable time after the abolition. * * *'

"In referring to the situation in the United States, the same paper says, 'In the matter of murder and its punishment, the United States holds a very unenviable position. In 1889 there were 3,567 murders committed in the States, ninety-eight persons were executed, though 175 were killed by lynching. In fact, for every year from 1884 to 1889, the ynching invariably exceeded the official executions. The United States, therefore, must be taken as an example of the efficacy of capital punishment, seeing that the practical abolition of it is coincident with an enormous murder roll, the disproportion being so great that the populace themselves were forced to step in and supplement the weakness of the law with the rough and ready method of mob justice.'

"A newspaper dispatch to the London Times, from Paris, November 5th, 1907, says: 'An important indication of the state of feeling in France on the question of capital punishment which tends to confirm the continual protests made by French juries against its practical suspension by the too frequent exercise of the Presidential prerogative of pardon, is given by the result of a referendum organized by the 'Petit Parisian,' one of the most widely-circulated of the popular Republican organs. That journal asked its readers to answer by a simple 'yes' or 'no' whether they were partisans of the death penalty. It has received no fewer than 1,412,000 replies to this question. Of these 1,084,000 were in the affirmative and 328,000 in the negative. The 'Petit Parisian' says that in organizing this referendum it had no political object in view, but merely wished to submit to its readers a social problem which Parliament will soon be called upon to solve. Notwitstanding the effort made by the Minister of Justice to prevent juries from expressing their desire to see the death penalty maintained and applied, the newspapers publish almost daily fresh resolutions by juries in that sense. The latest is that by the jury of the Landes department, signed by twenty-seven out of the thirty-three jurors.'

"The existing excitement in France over the question of the death penalty appears to arise from a seeming increase of crime, which has aroused a popular demand for the restoration of the death penalty, which has been practically abolished

REPUBLICAN VOTERS FORM CLUB TONIGHT

Two thousand personal invitations have been issued by those in charge of the preliminary arrangements for the organization of the Plainfield Republican Club and a big crowd is expected at the Casino tonight when the objects will be fully explained. Naturally some Republicans have been overlooked in sending out invitations to be present but every voter in the party here is desired to be on hand at 8 o'clock sharp.

County Chairman Frank H. Smith has consented to call the meeting to order and it is expected that Mayor Charles J. Fisk will be made temporary chairman. The City Committee, it is said, heartily approves the plan to organize all the voters in this fashion and it is expected that all the members of that body will be present to operate in the work.

The local club will be but one link in the chain of clubs to be spread through Union county. Summit, Rahway and Elizabeth already have strong organizations of the kind and plans are being made to form others at Westfield, Roselle, Springfield and other parts of the county.

FIERCE FIGHT AMONG RIVAL FORIEGN LABORERS

One man was shot and several score badly bruised and battered in a pitched battle between 500 Poles and about 100 Italians near the Standard Oil refineries now in course of construction at Linden, on the outskirts of Elizabeth yesterday morning. All were seeking jobs as laborers, and each faction thought the other was trying to get ahead of it. The fight started after 7 o'clock yesterday morning.

The Italians, forming under Giuseppe Compti, who, it is said, was at one time an officer in the Italian army, made a stand behind an elevated spur of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad which runs through Linden. They flanked the Poles, but were repulsed. Bricks, stones, and all sorts of missiles were employed and scores were hurt. As they fell out they were carried off to their little shacks in the settlements nearby.

Some of the Italians finally drew guns and opened fire. One or two of the Poles had guns. Incenzo Ricotelli, as far as could be ascertained, was the only one hit by a bullet. He was shot in the thigh and badly wounded. The Poles gave up the fight when reinforcements began arriving for the Italians, and the fight was practically over when police from Elizabeth reached the scene.

The authorities in Linden will probably ask the sheriff for protection. About 2,000 men are working on the refineries now. No more laborers are needed, it was said by Supt. Black yesterday, but thousands continue to apply.

MISS SARAH MAE HOWELL TO WED HARRY L. M'GEE.

Invitations were issued yesterday, announcing the approaching marriage of Miss Sarah Mae Howell, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Josephus Halsey Howell, of Myrtle avenue, to Harry Livingston McGee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. McGee, of Orchard place. The wedding, which will be a large one, will take place at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Wednesday evening, April 29, at 7:30 o'clock, to be followed by a small reception at the home of the bride's parents.

Both Miss Howell and Mr. McGee are prominent in the younger society set and have been leaders in many social functions at the Park Club, of which they are both members. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Dr. Herbert Welch, president of Wesleyan Ohio University, Delaware, Ohio, an uncle of the groom.

In honor of the approaching event, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Abbott, of Myrtle avenue, gave Miss Howell a kitchen shower at her home last night. There were about twenty-five guests and the affair was a delightful one.

Dental Society Holds Banquet.

The monthly meeting and banquet of the Plainfield Dental Society was held at the Hotel Iroquois, last night. Dr. James G. Palmer, of New York, presented an able paper on "Oral Prophulaxis," which was followed by an interesting discussion. The dentists present were Drs. Stelle, Wells, French, Davis, Thiers, Clawson, Whitford, Hillman, Charles L. Moore, Stevens, Leonard, of this city, and Drs. Palmer and Weeks, of New York.

Big Bill Tonight.

A prize cake-walk, buck and wing dancing and moving pictures will be the big features of tonight's bill at the New Plainfield theatre. The prices remain the same as at cheapest moving picture shows.

LAW MILL CLOSING DOWN

Though Platform Pledges Remain Unfulfilled, Legislature will Quit Work.

PIERCE VOTED AGAINST IT.

Democrats Decide On Early Closing and Resolution Goes Through, Despite New Idea Republicans' Opposition.

The Legislature of 1908 will adjourn finally tomorrow, a resolution of this effect having been adopted by the House and Senate last night. The Assembly passed its resolution after a lively skirmish of an hour. The hour for sine die adjournment is fixed at 3 p. m.

After two hours of strenuous debate, yesterday in the House, during which William P. Martin, the Colbyite leader of the House majjority, took the text of Mr. Tumulty, of Hudson, Democrat, and agreed with him that the Republican party had betrayed its trust in not enacting into law the measures demanded by the people and for which they were pledged by the campaign platform of last year, the Gibbs concurrent resolution to adjourn finally April 10 was taken from the table and passed. This puts the matter of final adjournment in the hands of the Republican majority of the Senate, and that majority stands pledged to shut up shop on that date.

Mr. Tumulty said that the Democrats would stay all summer if they could induce the Republican majority in both the House and the Senate to stand by their pledges. He took issue with Mr. Martin, who criticised the Democrats for their change of front from the afternoon, when they helped the "new idea" Republicans to put this adjournment motion on the table. As then drawn, it was for April 9. Now it is one day later by amendment.

Mr. Martin told his Republican colleagues that the speech about the Republicans not keeping their pledges would be made from Sussex to Cape May next fall, "and I fear for the result on the Republican election in New Jersey, for we have not kept the pledges the people exacted from us when they elected us," he concluded.

The vote affirmatively on final adjournment was as follows: Auf der Heide, Baker, Becroft, Blohm, Burpo, Buxton, Cattell, Clark, Daab, Eppinger, Firth, Ginnelly, Hendrickson, Holzapfel, Housel, Irick, Jess, Keffer, Kenny, Kirstein, Lewis, Lyon, Miller, Moxon, Olwell, F. B. Potter, J. Potter, Prince, Radcliffe, Ramsey, Ridgway, Roberts, Smith, Stille, Sullivan, Tantum, Thompson, Tumulty, Valente, Voorhees, Young—43.

Against adjournment until every measure demanded by the reform messages of Governor Fort were enacted into law were: Braun, Colgate, Crosby, Devine, Fake, Hines, Holcombe, Lowrey, Martin, Morgan, Morris, Pierce, Van Cleef, Whitehead—14.

The Senate immediately concurred in final adjournment for April 10.

None of the reforms suggested by Governor Fort and included in the Republican platform have been enacted into law, and it now looks as if they would all fail.

The morning sessions of both Housee yesterday were short, due to an invitation of Governor Fort for the Legislature to lunch with him at the Hotel Windsor. This is the first time the Legislature has met the Governor specially this session, and the affair was very informal and jolly.

The incidental bill came in this morning, appropriating $9,745.75 for the incidentals of the session. The last year's Democratic bill carried $11,833.50. The same bill includes incidentals for the Senate to the amount of $10,953.18, against $10,847.12 last year.

Will Inspect Terrill Road.

The Union County Board of Freeholders will meet a party of local citizens at the Kensington Hotel, this afternoon, and will then proceed to Terrill road for the purpose of inspecting it. A plan is on foot to make it a county thoroughfare as it is the boundary between Plainfield and Fanwood township and the necessity of the two having to take action makes it hard to secure improvements desired. With the county taking the road over and laying macadam part of the expense will be borne by the State.

Almost An Anniversary.

Robert Morley, arrested last night for intoxication of the "down-and-out" variety, was sent to jail for thirty days by Judge Runyon this morning. He was in court on the same charge with wife beating added a year ago tomorrow and was fined $100 and committed for fifty-nine days.

DEMOCRATS VS. BRYAN

Stormy Scene When Dilts Introduces Resolution at Co. Committee Meeting.

IT'S SIMPLY SNOWED UNDER.

Member of State Committee Will Be Picked On April 24—Primaries On April 21.

The efforts of J. V. F. Dilts, of this city, to have the Union County Democratic Committee endorse the candidacy of William J. Bryan for the Presidency and favor the selection of delegates who would vote for him at the National convention, were promptly and decisively defeated at a meeting of the committee in Elizabeth last night.

The matter was brought before that body in the form of resolutions offered by Mr. Dilts, and immediately there was a storm of protests. It was the opinion of a majority of the members that it was entirely out of place to seek the committee's endorsement of Bryan or even attempt to dictate to the Democrats of the county who should be elected delegates or how they should be instructed. The proposition was resented emphatically and the resolutions were defeated by a vote of 38 to 6.

There was a rumor at the meeting that the resolutions had been prompted by James E. Martine, but no one was willing to stand sponser for the allegation. It was plainly evident that the committee is not favorable to Bryan, and even if some of the members would like to see him nominated they were opposed to an endorsement of him at this time.

It was announced that a caucus would be held on Friday, April 24, to select a successor to Peter Egenolf, who has resigned as a member of the State Committee. There are two candidates for the place, Gen. D. F. Collins, chairman of the County Committee, and J. J. Lane, chairman of the Congressional Committee. It is said that Collins is likely to be named.

The county primaries will be held on Tuesday, April 21. A report from the committee on naturalization recommending that important features of the law be printed in pamphlet form for distribution was adopted. Fred Zior was re-elected a member of the county board of elections.

A communication was received from Robert Hudspeth, State chairman, informing the committee that the State convention will be held in Trenton at 12 o'clock noon, April 28, at which time four delegates at large will be elected to attend the National convention. At 11 o'clock on the same day the Fifth Congressional convention will be held in room 16, Trenton House, to select two delegates. W. E. Tuttle, of Westfield, will probably be one of the delegates elected at the Congressional convention.

Two vacancies in the county committee at Rahway, were filled last night by the election of George B. Cladek from the Second ward and Frank V. Dobbins from the Fifth ward.

James E. Martine today repudiated any connection with the fight. He declared that in his opinion it was very unwise to press such a resolution at this time.

"UNCLE DAN" HETFIELD HANDS OUT A NATURE FAKE.

Daniel G. Hetfield, of Rahway, better known as "Uncle Dan" to Plainfielders, whose hobby the greater part of his life has been that of breeding "pit game cocks," and who would rather see them fight than eat, vouches for the truth of the following statement. He says that on Monday one of his prize birds strayed out of the yard into the street and was run over by an automobile, which flattened it out in the road. The owner of the auto, he says, realizing that he had run over something, stopped his machine and went back to where the bird lay. He stooped to pick the cock up, when to his surprise and that of several others who witnessed it, the bird quickly gathered itself together, flapped its wings, crowed as much as to say, "No, you don't," and walked away.

Hetfield says that the bird had not as much as a feather broken, and that to all appearance it was not injured in the least. He says that he feels proud of that bird and that the best one hundred dollar bill issued by Uncle Sam would not tempt him to part with it.

Juniors Present "Three Hats."

Under the auspices of Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., a farce comedy, entitled "Three Hats," was given at the Casino last night, followed by a dance. The entertainment was enjoyed by an audience of about two hundred people and even a larger number attended the dance. The committee in charge was Walter Hand, chairman; W. H. L. Cubberly and S. M. Staats.

MINSTRELS MAKE A HIT

Salaam Temple's Arabian Patrol Troupe Delights a Large Audience.

LOCAL "GAGS" WERE PLENTIFUL

Illustrious Potentate Marshal Presented With Silver Loving Cup at Close of the Performance.

Barrels of fun were on tap at the New Plainfield theatre, last night, when members of the Arab Patrol of Salaam Temple, Ancient Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, of Newark, delighted a large audience with their novel minstrel show conception, styled "A Shriner's Dream." In theme it was an entertainment of the Senegambian songster style but was in decided contrast to the conventional idea of the semi-circle. It laid claim to a plot that could be easily followed and the efforts of the troupe were aided by scenic and electrical effects that revealed the "lavish expenditure" so often boasted by professional productions.

As minstrel men without the aid of stagecraft, the Patrol certainly made good. At times the performance crept close to the professional line and there were encores that showed unlimited enthusiasm. The end men were really funny, the soloists were good singers and several specialty numbers made certain that dullness would have no place in the show. And at the close of the program, a number not down on the bills showed that the performers are rattling good fellows and that they know they have a "winner" in their illustrious potentate, Harry W. Marshall, of this city.

The minstrel entertainment is an original conception, written, arranged and staged by Noble Edwin S. Fancher, of Fanwood, a member of the patrol. It was given originally in Krueger's Auditorium, Newark, on February 28 and Illustrious Potentate Marshall was one of the spectators who was delighted with it. He made overtures to have it repeated in Plainfield and last night's invasion was the result.

The plot of the performance revolves about a supposed pilgrimage of the Arab Patrol of Salaam Temple to Mecca, in Arabia, traveling across the desert. Fearing that they will be harassed by the real natives, they disguise themselves as Arabs. At the opening of the show the members of the Patrol are seen encamped in the oasis of the desert, with the Sphynx and the Pyramids in the distance as a background. The gas bags burst during an international balloon race and the contestants, who are the end men, drop into the camp. During the minstrel show, that the Patrol and their unexpected visitors give to pass away the time, a sand storm occurs and scatters the tribe. An army hastily recruited from Egyptian slaves, with a performing camel, ostriches, crocodiles and mummies is a feature of the production.

Mr. Fancher was interlocutor and the end men were Nobles Harold E. Kellnes, Forrest A. Heath, Albert A. Schurr and Henry W. Egner, Jr., W. Harry Rees and Frederick Hamilton. The chorus and specialty artists numbered thirty while an orchestra of fifteen pieces, in charge of George W. Vandenburg furnished the accompaniment.

All of the end men made a "hit" with their songs and impersonations and the bunch of local gags they handed out kept the audience in a roar. Among those "poked" were Mayor Fisk, Former Mayor Buckle, Freeholder Wilbur, John Kenney, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Harry Marshal and Dr. Adams. Fred Hamilton, in Scotch kilts and a Harry Lauder accent, got three encores on a clever Highland fling and Albert Schurr carried off a large share of the honors by his rendition of "I'm Afraid to Come Home in the Dark." A dancing number by Cooper and Brown and baton twirling by Fred Clark were among the best numbers on the program.

After the curtain had fallen on the closing scene, Chief Jenkinson, of the patrol, called Potentate Marshall to the stage and in behalf of the troupe presented him with a handsome silver loving cup. He stated that they realized he was "a prince of good fellows" and had decided to express their appreciation of his interest in them in concrete form. Mr. Marshall responded fittingly.

The committee in charge of the local arrangements comprised L. B. Woolston, chairman; Harry W. Marshall, B. Frank Coriell, Henry Woodland, Henry Liefke, Frederick Hand and H. C. Levy. Plainfield shriners and those from other places were in the audience with dress suit, fez and claws. The Patrol came from Newark in a special train and after a short parade through the streets were entertained at supper in Masonic Hall.

NEW IDEA'S COMMITTEE DISCUSSES LOCAL CLUB

The Central Committee of the Plainfield branch of the Republican League for the Equalization of Taxes at a meeting last night discussed the plans afoot to organize a Plainfield Republican Club. Some strong suspicion was expressed informally by various members and it was finally decided that as a body the Central Committee should not co-operate in the movement. It was agreed, however, that all independent Republicans, who have been in anywise affiliated with the New Idea movement in this city, should be urged to attend the meeting tonight at the Casino.

There was an unanimous expression among the members, according to authentic report, that no independent Republican in sympathy with the New Idea work should enroll himself as a charter member of the club tonight but that all should use their efforts to have a permanent election for officers postponed until a future date. In a week or so, it is announced, the Central Committee will hold another meeting to talk over the proceedings tonight and to hit upon a line of action.

One of the New Idea Central Committee officers stated today that he wished it distinctly understood that that body was as strong and as vigilant as ever.

MAYOR TOWNSEND WORKS TO CHANGE RATE LAW

Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield, in conference with State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Somerset county, at Trenton, yesterday, urged an active endorsement of the tax rate measures for amending the law providing for the reduction of this rate to $2 in municipalities. He is supported by the majority of the mayors of boroughs and townships in his activity against the limiting tax measure, and there are several bills before the Legislature to allow the municipalities more freedom in making up their tax budgets.

Senator Frelinghuysen now has a bill before the Legislature in amendment to the act to limit the tax rate to $2. This measure provides that Section 4 shall have another limitation, viz.: That boroughs shall be permitted to build and maintain a sewer plant without figuring the cost in the borough tax rate, now limited to $2. Recently the measure providing for the repeal of the Hillery bill, which passed the Assembly, was killed in the Senate. There is now a bill before the Assembly providing for the raising of the limit ten cents on the county rate and thirty cents on the bororugh rate. This measure has already passed the Senate.

Mayor Townsend is particularly active for the defeat of the limiting tax bill, which would prevent North Plainfield from undertaking borough improvements planned by keeping the tax rate down.

Radcliffe Met "Mr. Stein."

Robert Radcliffe, who is a farmer at Warrenville, had a holiday in the borough yesterday, spending the night in a borough court cell, whither he was escorted by Marshal Lemuel Pope late in the evening. The bock beer signs had attracted the countryman, and after an evening with "Mr. Stein" he grew so noisy as to be a disturbing element to the midnight quiet. Recorder Dolliver fined him $2 at his hearing today.

Sixty Days for Jones.

Sheridan Jones, whose face is familiar in the city and borough courts, was arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning on a charge of helpless intoxication. He was sent down for sixty days. Jones was arrested by Patrolman Messler who found him helplessly drunk on West Front street last night.

People's Church Man Coming.

"Popular Cloaks" will be the topic of Rev. Dr. Madison C. Peters' address at the men's meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon. The speaker's work as preacher, author and lecturer has made him one of the conspicuous public figures in New York city. There will be special music.

Borough Street Work.

Street Commissioner J. Y. Barrett, of North Plainfield, has made great progress with the "spring cleaning" of the borough streets. The street scraper has been at work on the principal streets, and upper Duer street has been filled in and new top dressing put on.

Borough Fire Bell Taps.

An electric light wire crossed the North Plainfield fire alarm at Mercer avenue and Grove street early last evening, and produced a series of taps, which made the borough firemen restless for a few minutes. The light company located the trouble and repaired it promptly.

OLD OFFENDERS CAUGHT

"Jim" McCauley and "Larry" Wallace Landed in Jail After a Hard Fight.

HEAVY SENTENCE FOR BOTH.

One Goes to Jail for 160 Days and the Other for 100—Warned by Judge Runyon to Cease Their Wrongdoing.

Resisting arrest until they had to be beaten into submission, James McCauley, for whom the police have been looking since he appropriated Hackman John Kennedy's rig, Monday night, and "Larry" Wallace, only recently released from State prison, were landed in cells yesterday afternoon after one of the hardest battles local officers have had in a long time. Patrolman Dobson was compelled to use the blackjack on both men before he could summon the patrol wagon and after they were placed in the vehicle, Driver O'Gormon was forced to hurl Wallace to the roadway in order to keep from getting knocked off himself.

The prisoners were arraigned in the city court, this morning, and were given short shrift by Judge Runyon. McCauley, who was before the magistrate two weeks ago and was then let go on his promise to begin life anew, was fined $100 and given sixty days in jail beside. Wallace was fined $50 and an additional sentence of fifty days. They will serve a day for each dollar unpaid.

Dobson has been on the lookout for McCauley since the hack stealing escapade of Monday night and spotted him yesterday afternoon at South and Leland avenues. He was with Wallace at the time, both being badly intoxicated. The officer caught up with the pair before they realized his proximity and placed McCauley under arrest but he immediately set up a fight. Wallace jumped to his aid and between the two Dobson had a hard tussle. He fought against the odds but the only way he could bring them down was to use his blackjack and in this way he got the nippers on their hands.

When the patrol wagon arrived in response to a call, McCauley was practically subdued but Wallace was still in a fighting mood. O'Gorman was devoting his attention to the horse when they started toward headquarters and Wallace suddenly sprang upon him. The reins were jerked from his hands and he found himself undergoing an attack from the rear. He managed to bring the horse to a stop and before Dobson could get over McCauley and to his aid, O'Gorman secured a strangle hold on his assailant and hurled him to the street. The jar as he landed took all the fight out of Wallace.

Both men admitted their guilt when they faced Judge Runyon and he scored them in pronounced terms. They have been given numerous chances to conduct themselves in a straightforward way but without appreciating it and the magistrate warned them that unless they became better citizens he would take steps to have them committed for long terms in some institution.

During the session of court this morning, William Helme, proprietor of the Hotel Maples at South avenue and Terrill road, said McCauley and Wallace had been at his place yesterday afternoon and had smashed in a door when he refused to let them in. He declared he would prefer a charge against them before they are released.

McCauley will have to reckon with the North Plainfield police when he gets out, too, as Kennedy has had a warrant issued for him in the borough, and he will be brought to trial as soon as he has served the sentence imposed today.

Noted Historian to Speak.

Dr. James Harvey Robinson, professor of European history at Columbia University, will speak at the Plainfield High School tomorrow noon, when his subject will be "Books Before the Invention of Printing." Dr. Robinson ranks high among the historians of this country, and his works, the best-known of which the "The History of Western Europe," "The Development of Modern Europe," and "Readings in European History," are used in many American colleges. The lecture will be illustrated by stereopticon views.

Mrs. William Bourgeois.

Mrs. Sarah Bourgeois, wife of William Bourgeois, died at her home on Laramie road, this morning, following a long illness. She was in her fortieth year. The funeral will be held in St. Mary's church Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

Miss Jessie Reynolds Surprised.

A surprise party was tendered to Miss Jessie Reynolds, of Church street, last night, by a large company of friends. The evening was spent playing games and with music, after which refreshments were served.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

"Doubtful Dunellen" came in for a "hot one" at the minstrel show given by the Arab Patrol, Salaam Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., at the New Plainfield theatre last night. One of the end men handed out a gag about a man who got off a train at the North avenue station with a very heavy trunk. He gave directions to have it taken to Dunellen, and the expressman came up on the platform to get it. The baggage-smasher looked it over for a minute and then climbed into his wagon to drive away. The owner of the trunk called after him, asking where he was going. "It's all right, boss," called back the expressman; "that trunk is too heavy to be moved. I'm going to move Dunellen down here instead."

Blanchard Gardner was chosen trustee to succeed G. T. Sutphen at the annual meeting of the Presbyterian church held last night. M. L. Rarick was re-elected a trustees, and W. S. LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The announcement for the coming engagement of Himmelein's Imperial Stock Company at the New Plainfield theatre next week will be heralded with pleasure by the many friends here of that well known theatrical organization, and indications are that full houses will be the rule throughout the entire week. The company has the reputation of being the best that comes to our city at popular prices, and the tribute to its excellence is the fact that many theatre-goers do not permit themselves to miss a performance, and are present every night. The play to be presented for the opening night is a sterling production, and it will be followed during the engagement by "Queen of the White Slaves," "The Confessions of a Wife," "No Mother to Guide Her," "The House of Mystery," "Wormwood," "The Power of the Cross," "Her Husband's Sin," "A Daughter of the South," etc.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Weed have removed from the borough to West Front street, near Compton avenue.

—The work of macadamizing West End avenue has been completed by the contractor, C. M. Meeker. The street committee now proposes to order the laying of stonewalks in front of the vacant property.

—Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Booth, of Bergen Point, have taken possession of the home of E. H. Booth on Central avenue, and will remain there during the sojourn of the latter and his family in Europe. Alfred W. Booth is the senior member of the lumber firm of A. W. Booth & Brother, of Bergen Point, and is one of the leading citizens at that place.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will receive several applications for membership at its meeting tomorrow night.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will meet Tuesday night and discuss preliminary plans for the annual observance of Memorial Day. It is expected that the committees will be appointed at that time.

Rev. J. W. Ryder and daughter, Miss Evelyn Ryder, of Watsessing, who have been visiting relatives in town, have returned home.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue, will return this week from the South, where they have been visiting their sons. Dr. Chambliss will occupy his pulpit at the First Baptist church on Sunday as usual.

Joe Tinker's injured hand is healing nicely, and Chance expects the crack shortstop to rejoin the Cubs by Saturday or Sunday.

The second squad of the White Sox is known as the Half Hose. But this does not mean that a third squad would have to go without 'em entirely.

Charley Hickman went behind the bat for the Clevelands in New Orleans the other day. Hick has filled every position in baseball, including substitute and selling diamond paraphernalia.

Comiskey says the White Sox will spend a week or ten days of next year's training trip in Honolulu. A mere stone's throw. Griffith is thinking of putting in a few days in the Libyan Desert, Egypt, where the soil is a trifle sandy but the weather fine. McGraw has his eye on Tillitjap, Java, if he can get somebody to clear away the underbrush from the diamond. Jennings is negotiating for a plot of ground, with clubhouse and shower baths, in one of the cities of the Congo River League. Frank Chance has leased a field on the outskirts of Petropavlovsky, Sea of Okhotsk, east Siberian coast, where the playing surface is a bit icy but very level, and Charley Ebbetts' team once trained in New Jersey.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will resume his special sermons Sunday night on "The Apostles Creed."

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet in the chapel tomorrow afternoon at the usual hour.

The annual subscription for the support of the three chapels, Hope, Warren and Bethel, will be received at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Sunday morning. The amount needed is $5,000.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society, of the Park Avenue Baptist church met at the home of Mrs. George E. Hall, on Belvidere avenue, Tuesday, and considered the subject of "Philanthropic Missions."

Mrs. James Cochran, of Chicago, connected with the Presbyterian Board of Home Missions, addressed the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon.

The monthly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church, was held Tuesday night at the home of Nelson Van Winkle, of Essex street. Routine matters were considered.

"Lessons from the Life of John Gough," will be the subject of the temperance meeting to be held at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow night by the Christian Endeavor Society. Rev. E. E. Roberson, former pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, but now of Passaic, will conduct the service.

Realty Transfers and Contract.

These real estate transfers and contract have been made during the past week: Phebe A. Williams et al. to Viola Williams, southeasterly side North avenue, 100 feet northeasterly of Henry Hays, $1; Solomon Gottlieb to Hannah Keller, westerly side East Second street, 198 feet of Wiley avenue, $1; William H. Smith et ux. to Ira L. La Rue, Park lane, 147 feet easterly of Woodland avenue, $1,000; Manning F. Gano et ux. to Jennie E. Jepson, Lee place, 150 feet southeasterly of South avenue, 25 feet southwesterly of Lee place, $1; Frederick W. Snover with Spencer Conway, entire work on partly constructed new building, 543 West Fourth street, $760.

Baptist Benevolences.

The Park Avenue Baptist church has made the following contributions during the past year for the objects named: New Jersey Baptist Education Society, $29.05; State Mission Society, $82.71; Home for Aged, $67.41; Women's Home Mission Society, $139.51; home missions, $74; Women's Foreign Mission Study, $106.89; foreign missions, $85; Home for Aged Ministers, $44; Y. M. C. A., $19.17.

There will be initiation at the meeting of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., tonight.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

The annual spring open golf tournament of the Country Club of Atlantic City will be held on April 30 and May 1 and 2. As usual, the medal play qualifying round will consist of thirty-six holes and claim attention the entire first day. Contestants will qualify in four regular sixteens for the governors' cup, president's cup, Atlantic City cup and Northfield cup. There will also be special cups for fifth and sixth sixteens.

It is announced that in cases of ties in the qualifying round the committee will draw lots to decide in which sixteens the contestants will play. This is regarded as contrary to the regular custom of a play-off, but past experience has taught the country club's officials the difficulty of keeping golfers waiting round at an hour when they are tired and hungry and anxious to get back to their hotels.

All match play rounds will be at eighteen holes, and there will be a prize for the runner-up in each division. The committee consists of Walter E. Edge, J. Haines Lippincott, Frederick S. Sherman and Frederick C. Robbins.

The conditions of the Lakewood Country Club open tournament, to be held on April 23, 24 and 25, also call for a thirty-six hole qualifying round. In connection with the latter there will be a team competition, open to teams of four from duly accredited clubs. The quartet with the lowest aggregate total will receive the team prize.

At the annual meeting of the Midland Golf Club, held recently, the following officers were elected: Colonel William J. Youngs, president; August Van Cortlandt, secretary, and H. L. Nichols, treasurer. Walter J. Travis and Devereaux Emmet were elected honorary members. The club has planned for an active season.

The golf committee of the Marine and Field Club and the Dyker Heights Country Club have entered into a partial consolidation. In other words, the cottage heretofore occupied by the golfers has been given up and they are back under the piazza of the Johnson building, at Thirteenth avenue and 86th street, the home of the Dyker Heights Club.

There are something like eighty Marine and Field golfers, who gain all privileges at their new quarters except the lawn tennis courts. On the other hand, the Dyker Heights Country Club gains the freedom of the links for thirty members and their wives. It is the general opinion that the golf consolidation will prove beneficial to both clubs, as well as a guarantee of a longer life to the course, which has for some years been threatened by real estate builders.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

ACKERMAN—RIGHTEOUS WRATH

(From the Newark Evening News, Wednesday, April 8.)

Senator Ackerman, of Union, an organization Republican but a clean man, is discouraged, disgusted, indignant and full of righteous wrath, because of the audacity, the insolent assumptions and the power of the bosses in matters of legislation. He declares that as things now stand at Trenton the Legislature might as well be abolished, for a commission of the political bosses could do the work just as well as the present body of lawmakers. In point of fact the bosses are legislating and the legislators are going through the motions like puppets, as the bosses pull the strings.

Senator Ackerman's indignation has been aroused primarily because of the treatment given his civil service bill. He spent much time and care in perfecting it, calling to his aid the best and most experienced counsel that could be obtained. No man sincerely desirous of abolishing the iniquitous spoils system and establishing civil service in this State, as it has been established for many years in the United States Government, could find any fault with the Ackerman civil service bill. It was as nearly perfect as such a fulfilment of the Republican platform pledge, and the Senate passed it by an overwhelming vote.

But when it went to the House "Davy" Baird and "Dory" Strong and the other Republican bosses began their inquitous work. As Senator Ackerman says, it was impossible to find out just where they stood. They would say that if a certain provision was changed they would not oppose the bill, but when they found other grounds for opposition, kept up an endless fight against the civil service policy, and finally defeated it.

Senator Ackerman is not a "new idea" man, but he has sought earnestly to do what is right, has endeavored to promote unity in the party, and is one of those who believe that party pledges should be kept. He holds that a legislator should be a man with the courage of a man, and that he should be faithful to his constituents. But there are not many such in the Legislature among the "regulars;" not enough of them to stand by their own pledges and pass promised bills, and, therefore, Senator Ackerman says that as things stand now it would be as well to let a commission of political bosses do the work, or let the Public Service and a few other corporations take charge of New Jersey and run it to suit themselves.

It is to be hoped that Senator Ackerman's honest, righteous indignation will not abate, and that he will be permanently enrolled with those who are disgusted with bosses and bissism and who will fight against these political usurpers till they are utterly and overwhelmingly defeated. Senator Colby found them intolerable several years ago and has fought them ever since. Senator Ackerman now finds that they twist legislators around their fingers, but he refuses to be twisted. He tells the people plainly that unless conditions are changed the State might as well be turned over to a commission of bosses or to the Public Service and other corporations.

How long will the people of New Jersey stand for the disgrace which Senator Ackerman is the last thus far to point out? How long will they elect Senators and Assemblymen who cringe like curs whenever the bosses crack their whips? How long will they elect, and re-elect men who dare not keep their pledges if the bosses order them to become perfidious? Senator Ackerman has not made a sudden, impulsive, exaggerated statement; he has told a truth that has been forced in upon his honest consciousness. The bosses are more powerful than the Legislature. How much longer will the people submit to this humiliating condition of affairs?

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Houses are scarce in Westfield, which drives home-seekers to Plainfield, only to find additional and unlooked for expenses staring at them. The removal of ashes and garbage (large or small quantity) in Westfield is 50 cents monthly. Here it amounts to $1.70. There all streets are piped for gas and sewerage. Here not so. Take a concrete case, notably Prospect avenue from the brook to Hillside avenue. Sewer pipes were thrown promiscuously in the gutter early last fall, which gave property owners a guarantee that sewer connections from house to street could safely be made, to eventuate shortly on when spring appeared, so that cesspools could be filled with ashes, to avoid excessive charges of carting, especially when the larger of two cesspools on each property was filled with ashes, leaving a small one for immediate use, and as our gentle spring approaches, we see the accommodating contractor removing all of the sewer pipe to parts unknown. Is it fair to burden the entire property on this street, with the unsightly obstruction all winter, causing heavy storms of snow and rain to devastate gutters, submerging sidewalks which froze into sliding ponds, thereby subjecting owners to defend possible law suits for damage to life and limb? In this same street, not one drop of water was sprinked last summer from the brook bridge to Hillside avenue, the ever present and law breaking "auto" revelled in raising clouds of dust to settle on newly painted houses. If we are to receive benefits soon, we will be content if only in homeopathic doses so long as we finally get them. The presentation of the unsightly sewer pipe last fall encouraged us, but now that prop is taken away. We pay taxes, without discount, for sprinkling, and only nature is the donor. I would state right here, that to the $1.70 monthly expenditure, must be added the occasional cost for a "scavenger, etc.," for cleaning out cesspools, $10, say twice each year, making a total cost of over $40 annually, against the Westfield cost of $6. The owners of the new houses in Prospect avenue, arranged to cook and light up with gas, and they have just discovered no gas in the street.

Of course there are possible reasons, etc., but the improvements are lacking and is a disadvantage to residents and investors. I came to Plainfield with the intention of investing in R. E. but under present slow conditions, I will abstain from such an enterprise by cancelling all contracts not yet signed. All loans on bond and mortgage have been recalled (except the amount of some $24,000 already loaned), until guaranteed conditions will prevail, otherwise the monies will be transferred to towns that contain all improvements. I use the columns of your valuable paper, because as a new comer, I do not know where to lodge complaints, even if that were done to the proper parties, the grievances might be tabled or filed indefinitely. The City Beautiful, so-called, cannot be that, until all residential sections have like benefits, paid for, but not materialized.

Yours truly,

A SUBSCRIBER.

HIS NARROW ESCAPE.

For Once Ferguson's Brain Acted Quickly Enough.

"George Ferguson," sharply exclaimed his wife after the visitor had gone, "I wouldn't for worlds be as big a hypocrite as you are!"

"In what way," he demanded, "have I been acting the hypocrite?"

"You know well enough. When Cousin Jerry showed us the pictures of the young woman he is going to marry you said, 'She's pretty as a picture!' and you know she is homely enough to loosen the paint on a brick wall."

George scratched his chin and reflected a moment.

"Mrs. Ferguson—madam," he said, "don't accuse me of hypocrisy. She is as pretty as a picture—her own picture."

Even then it did not occur to Mrs. Ferguson to retort that this explanation didn't help him any, as the photograph surely was retouched.

by the systematic commutation of the sentences of criminal condemned to death—the present acute agitation of the subject resulting from the recent reprieve by the President of France of Soleillard, the atrocious murderer of a little French girl. The President of France, it is understood, does not believe in capital punishment.

"It seems to be a fact that the death penalty, as a punishment for the crime of murder, does not act as a complete deterrent for it is only partial in its effect.

"The death penalty, when executed, becomes unalterable to future evidence which might clear the prisoner, which may account for the hesitancy on the part of juries to convict, and it may also show the reason why, in comparison with the total number of murders, so few pay the price of death for their crime.

"This leads to the suggestion that an effective reform in the punishment for murder might lie in a cumulative life penalty, which, in practice, may prove to be a greater deterrent in some cases than the death penalty. That is to say:

"The convict under life sentence for murder shall be placed in solitary confinement for one day each month, commencing with the first month of the third year, two days each month starting with the first month of the fourth year; the period of solitary confinement to be increased one day each month for each succeeding year up to and including the tenth year. After which the period of solitary confinement shall be reduced one day each month for each succeeding year until the end of the seventeenth year. The days of solitary confinement shall not be consecutively. Would not this form of punishment be both merciful and powerful?

"As a writer in a recent issue of the 'London Daily Mirror' has accurately stated:

"'We do not regard punishment as a revenge. Under all aspects we believe revenge to be an evil passion. We hold that the law ought to keep two objects in view.

"'1. To defend society.

"'2. To reform criminals.

"'With the object of defending society, it has for many years been the practice of communities living under the protection of laws either to kill murderers, or to keep them locked up for life, so that they shall murder no more.

"'Many people think with President Fallieres that to keep them alive in prison is a better plan that executing them. They say that perpetual imprisonment is a far more appalling penalty than death, and that it must have a better deterrent effect.

"'This is only half true. It would no doubt deter you and me better because we have enough imagination to realize the horror of perpetual imprisonment. We should shrink from the awful monotony, the idleness, the dullness, the deadness of a life sentence far more than from the sharp, short anguish of execution.

"'Criminals of the Solleillard type can scarcely be said to have any imagination at all. If they had any, they could not possibly commit atrocious crimes. They would picture to themselves the pitiful, limp bodies of their victims, the hue and cry which would be raised, the horror which would afflict them all their lives. Similarly, the unimaginative would be far less influenced by the fear of perpetual imprisonment than they would be by the fear of death.'

"For particularly revolting and heinous crimes involving in their perpetration a great degree of moral wrong, it does not seem wise or sound as a matter of state policy to entirely abolish the death penalty, especially so if the guilt of the accused is supported by direct and positive evidence.

"Could not all such cases be properly provided for by some arrangement whereby the jury in bringing in a verdict for murder in the first degree could state the nature of the punishment by adding the words 'with capital punishment' or 'without capital punishment?' As the first object of legal punishment should be the defence of society it must follow that any plan to be largely deterrent should cover both the imaginative and and unimaginative mind—in the former the life sentence would be forbidding and dreadful, while in the latter case the chilling threat of the death penalty might act to check criminal intent."

His Retort.

Robert Smith, brother of Sydney Smith and an ex-advocate general, on one occasion engaged in an argument with a physician over the relative merits of their respective professions. "I don't say that all lawyers are crooks," said the doctor, "but you'll have to admit that your profession doesn't make angels of men."

"No," retorted Smith, "you doctors certainly have the best of us there."—Rochester Herald.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE.

Parish House, Grace Church,
Plainfield, New Jersey,
April 8, 1908.

At a meeting of the Ministers' Association held today it was resolved to send the following word of sympathy to the bereaved family of our beloved brother, Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, who on Sunday, April 5, passed away from his home on earth to his home in heaven. We realize with joy and sorrow mingled that we shall see no more the man beloved of all, not only by his brethren in the ministry, but by all, rich and poor alike, in the church and the city he loved so well.

Fifteen years ago at Easttertide we sent our word of tender sympathy when his beloved daughter Agnes went to be with Christ; since then our brother's thoughts have been often in that land where none are sorrowful. It was a wish expressed by our friend that he should pass to heaven upon the Sabbath day. We are glad this desire was granted as about the time his church was singing the "Nunc Dimittis," "Lord now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace," he entered into Paradise. We are grateful that with little pain he had great peace in the closing hours of his faithful life. We rejoice that with his work done, as a ripe shock of corn, he has been gathered into the garner of heaven.

We loved and trusted our brother as a good minister of Jesus Christ, devoted to the order and ritual of his own church, yet with a full and loving heart for all sincere Christians.

For many years it has been our custom at the closing hour of Good Friday to unite in a service which had its origin in the Catholic heart of our brother. This year we will miss the sight of that beloved face so marked by devotion, yet in that service his memory will be a felt presence.

May we have grace to follow his good example, and may the bereaved find all comfort in their father's God.

ASK FOR THE FISHER HOLDBACK

The old style holdback for blinds affords a roosting place for birds and causes ugly stains to disfigure the sides of the house under the blinds. Notice this carefully and then you will want to prevent it. No bird can roost on this.

The FISHER HOLDBACK

MEMORY TRAINING IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Urging public school teachers to make allowance for the mental capacity of their pupils in the class room, and suggesting that the ground outlined in the curriculum course of study could be more thoroughly and more rapidly covered by dividing the pupils of a class into sections according to their memory capacity, Miss Lillian Williams, professor of phychology at the Trenton State Normal School, gave a most practical address on memory at the Somerset street school yesterday afternoon. The lecture was attended by a representative majority of the teachers of the city and borough schools.

The speaker said that there are two kinds of memory—plastic and retentive. Some few people have both kinds of memory, and Napolean Bonaparte was cited as an example of this class. Plastic memory is the ability to gain information quickly, generally by visualization, but cannot remember readily after the lapse of a day or two. Retentive memory, on the other hand, makes facts harder to acquire, perhaps, but the knowledge is retained for all time.

The practical side of the talk dwelt upon the cultivation of a well-balanced memory by the pupil, and the problem of dealing with the four classes of pupils—those who have both qualities of memory, those who have but one, and those who have neither. This last class of pupils, the speaker said, are a perpetual drag on a class, and should not be allowed to attend a public school for this reason. Especial emphasis was laid on the fact that during the development of a child, there are periods of strong and weak memory, which must be considered in the class-room training. Miss Williams advocated the plan of dividing each class into sections, giving those who could comprehend the work readily, as rapid advance as they could grasp, while those whose memories were deficient or not yet trained, should be given more time on each lesson. To make this division of pupils, the speaker said that a careful individual study of each pupil was necessary by the teacher, and that the education of ehe memory should be a feature of the class-room work in all grades.

MARIE BURROUGHS WEDS.

The Actress Becomes Mrs. Francis M. Livingston.

Mrs. Robert Barclay Macpherson, known to the public as Marie Burroughs, the actress, was married yesterday afternoon to Francis M. Livingston. The ceremony took place at the home of Mrs. Macpherson, 261 West Ninty-third street, New York.

Mr. Livingston is connected with the Equitable Life and is the author of some short stories and plays. The bride was given away by her nephew, Herbert F. Birtue, of Boston, and Miss Florence Jack, of Montreal, was her only attendant. John Franklin Tabor, of New York, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Livingston will leave for Italy on Saturday and will spend some ten weeks abroad.

Marie Burroughs was a great favorite in the days of A. M. Palmer at the Madison Square theatre and also played subsequent starring engagements. This is her third marriage.

Thirty-three Years Pastor.

North Branch, April 9.—Rev. John Hart, pastor of the Reformed church at Neshanic, started his thirty-fourth year in charge of that congregation yesterday. Last Sunday he reviewed the thirty-three years of his pastorate and gave the statistics. He stated that 565 persons had been received in to the membership of the church, 300 on confession and 265 by certificate. He has baptized 246 infants and 121 adults have attended and officiated, wholly or in part, at 650 funerals and burials. He has married in Neshanic and vicinity 267 couples, has officiated at every communion and presided at every week of prayer. Only sixteen members remain in the church who were there when he came. R. R. Sutphen and J. V. A. Wilson are the only living members of the consistory of eight men who signed the call to the church.

Screened.

They sat in the dim parlor.

"One kiss," he pleaded.

"Nonsense!" exclaimed the pretty girl in a teasing mood. "Some one might see us."

"Who?"

"Why, the clock, for instance. That has a face."

"Yes, but that clock is as considerate as the moon that goes under a cloud. It keeps its face covered with its hands."—Minneapolis Journal.

Rahway Commissioner Gets Papers.

Elizabeth, April 9.—H. Schmidt, the newly appointed commissioner for the State Reformatory at Rahway to succeed former Alderman George A. Squire, of Elizabeth, and afterwards a resident of Morristown, received his commission yesterday. He is a Republican, but never before held any political office.

Schenck "Oracle" Manager.

Harold Schenck, 1910, was elected business manager of the Plainfield High School "Oracle" at a meeting of the school yesterday. He succeeds F. Clyde Doane, 1909, and will enter upon his new duties at once.

WHITE COLLARS MUST BE WORN IN THEATRE.

Paterson, April 9.—In line with the moral and aesthetic wave sweeping through Paterson, one of the leading theatre managers has established a rule that men who do not wear white collars will not be permitted to enter the lower part of the theatre. This order was brought to public attention yesterday by a communication from Saddle River, Bergen county, purporting to give the experience of Henry Cooper, of that place, while seeking to enter a Paterson theatre on Sunday night last.

Mr. Cooper was accompanied by Jere Walling, a neighbor, and bought two orchestra seats. He was astonished when informed by the doorkeeper that he could not enter the orchestra, but would have to go upstairs. On demanding an explanation, he was told it was a rule of the house not to admit men to the orchestra unless they wore stiff white collars.

Mr. Cooper, who is a prosperous young farmer, was neatly dressed, and the only reason for his being debarred from the orchestra was that he wore a negligee shirt with a soft turndown collar. One of Mr. Cooper's friends said:

"Mr. Cooper was formerly president of the school board, a village trustee and prominent in his church, where he has taught a Sunday-school for years."

Coughing Fit Proves Fatal.

Asbury Park, April 9.—George Newman, a wealthy farmer, of New Bedford, was taken with a coughing fit yesterday, and died in a few minutes. Newman, who was sixty years old, told his wife before the attack that he felt tired. He refused to partake of breakfast, and in a few minutes began to cough. The spasms were uninterrupted until he sank back exhausted and expired. Newman was known all along the coast, and owned a farm in the vicinity of Belmar. A physician who was called said that death was due to heart failure.

Wanted.

Brown—I made a remark to my wife last week, and she has not spoken to me since.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The engagement of Rev. George W. Tomson, pastor of Woodbury Presbyterian church, and Mrs. Fannie R. Kenworthy, also of Woodbury, is announced.

William Blackledge, manager of an Atlantic City employment bureau, was fined $50 yesterday as a result of the war started by the police on employment agencies.

Mayor Ellis, of Camden, has issued an appeal for aid for families made homeless by fire on South Fourth street, that city. Funds may be sent to the overseer of the poor.

Held up by two masked highwaymen, at revolver point last night, as he was crossing Petticoat Run, in Millville, Addison Saul, of South Millville, gave the bandit holding the revolver an uppercut that knocked him off the bridge and into the brook. The other highwayman promptly fled.

Pohatcong Tribe, No. 61, Improved Order of Red Men, held a powwow last night in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium at Tuckerton in honor of the tribe's twenty-fifth anniversary. Pohatcong Tribe has 199 members, many of whom are found among the leading business men of the town, and owns $13,885 in property, including its wigwam building, valued at $10,000.

Supreme Court Justice Swayze yesterday reappointed James F. Clark clerk of the Hudson County Grand Jury. Marcus Higginbotham, a Jersey City lawyer, who had the backing of County Clerk John Rotherham, was also a candidate, and was said to have had the favor of Governor Fort until Monday evening, when a Hudson county delegation, which included a judge, persuaded the Governor to recommend Clark to Judge Swayze.

The Camden County Grand Jury for the spring term was sworn in yesterday and is as follows: Richard D. Clement, Frank L. Dickinson, Rev Newton Nelson, B. F. Fowler, G. B. Glover, William Graeff, Jacob Lippincott, N. C. Lafferty, C. S. Magrath, Herbert Morton, James Neilson, Harry K. Oakford, F. E. Pine, Oliver Smith, E. W. Sharp, Alfred L. Sayrs, O. W. Saunders, L. T. Smith, G. L. Swyler, F. T. Steinbach, C. J. Vanmeter, J. N. West, S. W. Jessup, foreman.

Summoned by a test alarm of fire, sounded from Pacific and Virginia avenues, Atlantic City, a thickly populated section by visitors, six fire engine companies yesterday caused a sensation by suddenly appearing and taking possession of the street, roping it off, and then going through a mimic attack upon a fire in one of the hotels. The alarm was turned in at the request of the middle department of the Board of Fire Insurance Underwriters, which came here to learn of the efficiency of the local fire service.

Corporation Notice.

Proposals for Furnishing Crushed Stone and Materials for Culverts and Crosswalks.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, at the regular meeting held April 6, 1908, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, on Monday, May 4, at 8 o'clock P. M., at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for furnishing crushed stone, and for furnishing materials for culverts and crosswalks as follows:

For crushed stone for the remainder of the year 1908, the bids to state the price per ton of 2,000 pounds, for furnishing the following sizes, viz:

Fine Screenings, ½ inch stone, 1½ inch stone and 2½ inch stone, in such quantities, and delivered at such times and places in the city as the Street Commissioner may direct.

The approximate quantites of the several kinds of crushed stone as estimated by the Street Commissioner, are as follows:

Fine Screenings	100 tons
½ inch stone	500 tons
1½ inch stone	2,000 tons
2½ inch stone	200 tons

and such estimated quantities may be taken into account in awarding bids.

The above must be of the best quality trap rock, free from soft stone, dirt or other foreign matter, and each bidder shall submit with his bid or bids samples of the crushed stone to be furnished if such bids or bids is or are accepted, and guarantee that the crushed stone to be furnished shall in every instance be equal in quality to the samples submitted with the bid, the Common Council reserving the right to pass on the quality of the crushed stone as well as on the prices bid.

The stone must be weighed on such scales as the Street Commissioner may direct, and a voucher or weigh bill must be delivered with every load to the said Street Commissioner or his authorized representative. The successful bidder must furnish a Surety Company bond for $1,000, conditioned on the faithful carrying out of all the provisions of the specifications and contract.

Also for furnishing the following materials for culverts and crosswalks:

Cover stone for culverts not larger than 4 feet by 3 feet by not less than 3½ inches in thickness, per square foot.

Curbing 16 by 4 inches, 3 to 6 feet long, per lineal foot.

Curbing 20 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 feet long, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone 24 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, Belgian edge, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone 30 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, Belgian edge, per lineal foot.

All to be of the best hard blue stone equal in quality and durability to stone from the Hudson River quarries.

No bid for crushed stone will be considered which does not include prices for all four sizes of stone, and no bid will be considered which does not expressly refer to this advertisement for bids and state in substance that the bid is submitted in accordance with the terms, specifications and conditions set forth in said advertisement.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals at the time and place appointed, the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Common Council.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved. Bids to be submitted on forms which can be obtained from the Street Commissioner.

By order of the Common Council.
JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.
Dated Plainfield, N. J., April 6, 1908.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning April 12, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Temperance meeting. Lessons from the life of John B. Gough.—II Sam. xxii, 17-27.

John Bartholomew Gough, one of the world's greatest temperance orators, was born at Sandgate, Kent county, England, Aug. 22, 1817. His father was a soldier and had served in the peninsular war, for which he received a pension. His mother was a village schoolmistress. When but twelve years of age Gough came to America, where he first worked on a farm in Oneida county, N. Y. In 1831 he went to New York city and was employed in the binding department of the Methodist Book Concern. He was a member of the Methodist church. He lost this position through dissipated habits, and his means of livelihood came from singing comic songs and dancing in low grogshops. He was married in 1839, but his habits became worse. Through drink and delirium tremens he was reduced to poverty and probably through them caused the death of his wife and child. Through the influence of a Quaker he was led to attend temperance meetings and signed the pledge. He soon afterward decided to give his life to the temperance cause. He once relapsed into drink, but recovered himself, and in America and England he was a most powerful advocate of temperance. He afterward wrote books and acquired a moderate fortune through his lectures. He died at Frankford, Pa., Feb. 18, 1886, after having spent forty years in the temperance work.

1. Gough's life, first of all, stands before us as an awful warning against the drink habit. It is true that he reformed and was used mightily of God for good, but where he reformed many never do. He was a man of strong will and character, and hence could do what many others could not, and, though reformed, he paid for every drop of alcohol that he drank. He was subject to delirium tremens. He lost the wife that he loved so dearly and his only child through the drink habit and spent years of his life in debauchery and in sin that must afterward almost have crushed the great, generous nature which he possessed. He once said, "If all the money spent in the temperance cause saved but one boy it were well spent." Asked if this were not too strong, he answered, "Not if it were my boy." This was his estimate of intemperance.

2. Gough's life is an inspiration. It shows what can be done by the grace of God. It says to every drunkard, "Do not despair." It says to every worker for the intemperate, "Do not give up." But it is not an inspiration to every reformed drunkard to become a temperance orator. No one can do this without a great risk. No one can describe the scenes of his drunken life without arousing the old appetite within him. Gough was an unusually great man and could do what hundreds of others failed in attempting. If saved from drink, keep as far away from it as possible. "Avoid the very appearance of the evil."

The saloon seems doomed in our land. The people have apparently determined that it shall go. But if it does not go, young people, do not go to it. The law may permit it, but it compels no one to visit it. The best way to avoid drunkenness is to leave it alone altogether.

Having Christ In Our Endeavors.

Being active in all the outward matters of the Christian Endeavor society, keeping its pledge to the letter, serving in its offices or on its committees faultlessly, attending its meetings faithfully, is not Christian Endeavor. One may do all these things under a false motive. Christian Endeavor means having Christ in our endeavors. He must be the motive power for all our service. He must be seen and felt, not we or our works. After Da Vinci had finished his great painting, "The Last Supper," a friend came to see it and greatly admired a goblet on the painted table, saying: "How wonderful! It stands out like solid silver." Da Vinci immediately drew his brush across the goblet, exclaiming, "Nothing shall draw men's eyes from my Lord!"—Ida Q. Monlton in Record of Christian Work.

A Helpful Acrostic.

The Pasadena (Cal.) Presbyterian Endeavorers (this is the church attended by John Willis Baer) use in their topic card the following interesting and helpful acrostic interpretation of Christian Endeavor:

C ome unto Me, and I will give you rest.
H e shall give His angels charge over thee.
R est in the Lord; wait patiently for Him
I will never leave thee nor forsake thee.
S earch the Scriptures.
T he Lord is my Shepherd.
I am the Good Shepherd and know My sheep.
A sk, and it shall be given you.
N ot as I will, but as Thou wilt.
E nter ye in at the strait gate.
N o man can serve two masters.
D raw nigh to God, and He will draw nigh to you.
E very one that asketh receiveth.
A nd be ye kind one to another.
V erily there is a reward for the righteous.
O h, how great is Thy goodness!
R ejoice in the Lord, for He is good.

St. Paul In 1909.

In a three cornered fight for the 1909 international convention of Christian Endeavor St. Paul, the Minnesota city, won out and was selected by the board of trustees as the convention city for Christian Endeavor's twenty-fourth international convention. Kansas City and Atlantic City were the other competitors.

120 PAGES IN ONE NEWSPAPER.

Record Made by the New York Herald With Its Easter Number.

New York, April 9.—An interesting metropolitan newspaper feat is the production of an Easter number which will contain about 120 pages, this record being established by the New York Herald with its Sunday edition. The paper will consist of the regular magazine, art, comic and news sections, nearly all increased in size, while, in addition, it will include a special Easter art section, half of which is in colors. Notable features of this section are a drawing, representing the Easter spirit, reproduced in four colors; two full page companion pictures, printed in four colors from plates made in Paris; short stories by F. Hopkinson Smith, Paul Bourget and Max Pemberton; a bit of humorous verse by John Kendrick Bangs. The magazine section will also observe the Easter season by presenting an entertaining account of the Moravian Easter service in North Carolina and a page about the boy sopranos who sing Easter anthems in New York churches. Besides there will be other striking features, such as an illustrated history of the establishment of the Roman Catholic church in New York, the Anglo-American competition, stirring fiction and a review of the newest fashions from Paris. Altogether the Herald's Easter number, with its 120 pages of big features, demonstrates the wonders of modern journalism.

TO STOP AUTO SPEEDING.

Chatham Chief of Police Plans to Put Ban on Speeding in Main Street.

Chatham, April 9.—The monthly meeting of the Borough Council was held in the municipal building last evening, Mayor Kelley presiding. The question of automobile speeding was discussed at some length. Chatham was one of the first municipalities to cope effectively with the "scorching" nuisance by erecting "bumps" in the roadway. But for a long time little has been done, and the main street of the borough is used as a speedway by the motorists. Chief of Police Hopping announced that in the near future he would have the whole staff of marshals on duty and arrest all who exceeded the speed limit.

The chairman of the Road Committee asked what the desire of the Council was in relation to roads. He said that his committee contemplated doing considerable road work at once, but would defer all but what was absolutely necessary if it was proposed to build the sewer in the near future and tear up streets again after they had been reuaired. The Mayor informed him that the sewer project was not yet ready, and it would be proper to do whatever was necessary to put the roads in good condition.

OLD CIRCUS RIDER DEAD.

Mrs. Josephine Sawyer, of Rahway, First to Drive Chariot and Four Horses.

Rahway, April 9.—Josephine, widow of Edward Henry Sawyer, died at her home here Monday night, aged seventy-two years, leaving one son, Edwin, and a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Kelley. The funeral will be from her home tonight. Interment in Hazelwood cemetery.

The deceased was the last of the old-time circus riders of fifty years ago, coming to this country in 1853 with Frank Coney's circus, and taking part in the opening exhibition in the old hippodrome on the Fifth Avenue Hotel site, New York. The circus was sold out to P. T. Barnum, for whom Mrs. Sawyer drove the first chariot and four horses ever seen on Broadway, New York.

Her life in later years had been devoted to her horse and other favorite animals. She fell in a paralytic stroke Thursday night while feeding them in the yard. Andrew Coffey carried her into the house, her last words being a request that her dogs should not be neglected.

SUES LAWSON FOR $250,000.

J. F. Donahue, Former Confidential Man, Institutes Action Against Bostonian for Services.

Boston, April 9.—Special ssrvices of varied kinds, from dealing with financial magnates to financing stage productions, are named in the specifications filed yesterday accompanying the suit for service brought against Thomas W. Lawson by John F. Donahue. The latter demands $250,000, and recites thirty-three different instances in which he acted for the millionaire in matters of an extremely delicate and important nature. If the suit comes to trial some startling revelations are expected regarding the scope of Mr. Lawson's strenuous activities.

Mr. Donohue, who is a well-known Lynn politician and business man, had been associated with Lawson for twenty years and probably knows more about his business than any other one man.

Middlesex Bar Congratulates Justice.

New Brunswick, April 9.—At the opening of court yesterday morning for the April term former Judge C. T. Cowenhoven, representing the Bar Association of Middlesex county, presented a minute expressing the gratification of the association at the elevation of Williard P. Voorhees to the Supreme Court bench. Judge Booraem followed with a graceful tribute to Mr. Voorhees and ordered the minute entered upon the records.

HERE'S IDEAL MODEL CITIZEN.

The Coming Man as Seen by Admirers of Socialism.

To describe an ideal modern citizen now is at best to make a guess and a suggestion as to what must be built in reality by the efforts of a thousand minds. But he will be a very different creature from that indifferent, well-behaved business man who passes for a good citizen to-day. He will be neither under the slave tradition nor a rebel, nor a vehement elemental man. Essentially he will be aristocratic; aristocratic not in the sense that he has slaves or class inferiors, because probably he will have nothing of the sort, but aristocratic in the sense that he will feel that the state belongs to him and he to the state. He will probably be a public servant; at any rate he will be a man doing some work in the complicated machinery of the modern community for a salary and not for speculative gain. Typically he will be a professional man. I do not think the ideal modern citizen can be a person living chiefly by buying for as little as he can give and selling for as much as he can get; indeed, most of what we idolize as business enterprise, I think he will regard with very considerable contempt. But then I am a Socialist and look forward to the time when the economic machinery of the community will not be a field for private enrichment but for public service.—Everybody's Magazine.

CAN ALWAYS TRUST CHINAMEN.

Customs in Celestial Empire Have Made Dishonesty Scarce.

"You soon learn in China that you can trust a Chinaman to carry through anything he agrees to do for you," says Samuel Merwin in Success. "When I reached T'ai Yuan-fu I handed my interpreter a Chinese draft for $200 (Mexican), payable to bearer, and told him to go to the bank and bring back the money. I had known John a little more than a week, yet any one who knows China will understand that I was running no appreciable risk. The individual Chinaman is simply a part of a family, the family is part of a neighborhood, the neighborhood is part of a village or district, and so on. If John had disappeared with my money after cashing the draft and afterward been caught, punishment would have been swift and severe. Very likely he would have lost his head. If the authorities had been unable to find John they would have punished his family. Punishment would surely have fallen on somebody."

A Lithuanian Funeral.

On Sunday morning a strange funeral cortege passed through the Mission streets. The hearse was followed by a procession of women walking in the middle of the street. They wore dark skirts trimmed with bands of lace, embroidery, or colored strips, and all wore aprons, some of black silk or cloth, but more of sheer white embroidered corners, and fringed shawls were over their shoulders. It was not a uniform, but more in the nature of holiday attire such as one sees in Italy and France on carnival occasions or fete days. The men in the procession wore conventional dress, but their bearded faces were not American. Inquiring as to the nationality of these odd figures who made such a strange picture in San Francisco, I found they were Lithuanians, and that there is a large colony of them here, mostly employed at a laundry over toward the Potrero.—San Francisco Call.

Driving a Good Bargain.

The barber's small son was in the habit of playing around his father's shop, and he was always keenly interested in the patrons. Many a stray penny found its way into the little chubby hand, and sticks of gum were dropped in quite as though by accident. Judge Williams drifted into the shop the other afternoon for a hair cut. The lad recognized the fact that the judge was a new patron, and so was more than ordinarily interested in him. He hung at the foot of the chair and looked musingly at the judge's bald head. Then he walked slowly to the back of the chair and surveyed the scanty fringe of hair from that point of vantage. He could contain himself no longer and burst out incredulously: "Father, do—you—get a quarter for cutting that?"—Lippincott's.

Must Charge to Get Crowd.

The Ladies' guild of a certain New York church had planned an evening entertainment and reception, and asked the rector to make announcement of it on the Sunday preceding.

"This is all right," he said, "but you must charge admission."

"Why this is just a social evening," they protested. "We are inviting people."

"They won't come," said the rector, "because they will think it is not worth while. But charge a small admission and you will have a good crowd." So the women gave in, and subsequent events proved the rector was right.

Daniel Up to Date.

Jimmy, aged five, was told the story of Daniel in the lions' den, by his grandmother. When she had finished the story she asked Jimmy what he thought Daniel did the very first thing when he found he was saved from the lions?"

"Oh, I guess he telephoned home to his wife to tell her he was all right," answered Jimmy.

STORY OF A RARE COIN.

And How Many Denied Ownership, but Afterward Were Sorry.

"Mr. Peaberry," said the man with the frazzled mustache, "I bought a bottle of tomato catchup here last Wednesday afternoon, and"—

"Anything wrong with the catchup?"

"No; I'm only mentioning it to bring the matter to your recollection. I handed you a five dollar bill, and you gave me the change. Perhaps you don't remember that the charge was nearly all in silver dollars."

"I certainly don't Mr. Clayburg."

"Are you sure you didn't have this silver dollar in your money drawer?"

Here he produced the coin.

The man behind the counter took it and looked at it.

"Are you sure, Mr. Clayburg, that I gave you that dollar in change?"

"No, I'm not. But"—

"Then how do you expect me to remember?"

"I don't expect you to, but I thought it might be possible"—

"What's the matter with it? Doesn't it ring all right?"

"Yes, but you'll notice it has a peculiar"—

"It looks all right to me. You'll have no trouble in passing it."

"I don't want to pass it. If I got it here, I want you to take it back; that's all."

"If you thought there was anything wrong with it, Mr. Clayburg, you should have spoken about it at the time."

"I didn't notice it at the time."

"Then what makes you think you got it here?"

"I've inquired at every other place where I bought anything that day, and I can't get any satisfaction."

"That's no proof that I gave it to you."

"I know it. I'm the last man on earth to want to do anything unfair, Mr. Peaberry, but"—

"It seems to me you're taking altogether too much for granted. If you don't know where you got that coin, what right have you to ask me to take it off your hands and give you another one in exchange for it?"

"No right at all if you absolutely refuse to do it."

"I certainly do. To the best of my recollection I never saw that dollar before."

"Well, that lets me out. Mr. Peaberry," said the customer, putting the piece of money back in his pocket. "I found out a little while ago that it's an odd and exceedingly rare coin and worth $50 to any collector. I've tried honestly to find where I got it, and I can't. I can sell it now with a clear conscience. Good afternoon, Mr. Peaberry."—Chicago Tribune.

JERSEY BANKERS WANT NO FALSE STATEMENTS.

Bankers of New Jersey are deeply interested in a bill introduced in Congress by Representative Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, to amend the National banking laws. The bill, if it becomes a law, will impose a penalty upon any person who wilfully makes and circulates false statements relative to the solvency of National banks, of a fine of $5,000 or five years in State prison. The New Jersey Bankers' Association, of which H. G. Parker, of New Brunswick, is the president, has endorsed the bill, and requested the New Jersey Congressmen to favor its passage.

Representative Fowler has received a petition from the Typographical Union, of Plainfield, for the abolition of the duty on white paper and wood pulp; a petition from Protection Lodge, No. 2, of Phillipsburg, in favor of the La Follette and anti-injunction bill; a petition from Warren Grange, of Broadway, in favor of the National highways commission; and a petition from James T. Syers and others for the building of ships in the navy yards.

Mr. Fowler has also received petitions from the Iron Molders' Union, of Elizabeth; Brotherhood of Carpenters, of Westfield; Union County Trades Council, of Elizabeth, and the Carpenters' Union, of Morristown, opposing an amendment to the postal laws.

GOVERNOR APPOINTS MRS. E. E. WILLIAMSON.

As delegates to the thirty-fifth annual session of the National Conference of Charities and Correction, to be held in Richmond, Va., May 6 to May 13, Governor Fort named yesterday Edward M. Colie, Newark; Dr. George B. Wight, Trenton; Mrs. Charles B. Yardley, East Orange; Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, Elizabeth; Miss Ellen Mecum, Salem; Mrs. C. B. Alexander, Hoboken; Mrs. Mary A. Jacobson, Newark; Hugh E. Fox, Plainfield; Bleecker Van Wagenen, South Orange, and A. W. McDougall, Newark.

The Governor also reappointed Alfred B. Smith, of Brigantine, superintendent of the Atlantic County Oyster Commission, and Dr. R. M. Looy, of Pleasantville; Henry Postall, of Port Republic, as members of the same commission.

JUSTICE JAMES J. BERGEN WORE HIS JUDICIAL ROBES.

Justice James J. Bergen, who held court in New Brunswick Tuesday morning for the first time since being assigned to this circuit, invested the opening of the April term of court with much more of dignity and ceremonial than any of his predecessors.

He appeared in court wearing the full robes of a judge of the Supreme Court. When he retired from the bench at the close of court for the morning session, instead of turning on his heel he bowed and stepped backward through the door to the judge's chambers, keeping his face to the court room until he had reached the corridor.

No Chains on Auto Tires.

Leavitt's bill allowing motorists to use chains on tires when there is danger of slipping or skidding was lost in the Senate Tuesday. Frelinghuysen said that if it were allowed there would not be enough money in the treasury to pay for road repairs.

CHANGE THEIR PLEA.

Men Accused of Bicycle Thefts Claim To Be Not Guilty.

John Harzen and Peter Ruskovitch, of this city, who recently pleaded guilty to the larceny of a number of bicycles, were arraigned in the Union County Court yesterday for sentence. They were permitted to retract their pleas on motion of counsel, A. A. Stein. He explained that when the men pleaded guilty they misunderstood its meaning, as the interpreter was a Polander, whereas they are Slavs.

Walter Carroll, of this city, charged with the larceny of an overcoat from a pool room here, pleaded guilty, and in doing so offered as an excuse that he had been drinking and did not know what he was doing. He was sentenced to two months in the county jail.

"YALE" WINS BASKETBALL TITLE IN BOYS' LEAGUE.

The college basketball league of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. was decided yesterday at the association gymnasium when "Yale" trimmed "Harvard" by a score of 32-5. These two teams had previously been tied for first place. The league standing:

	Won.	Lost.
"Yale"	7	2
"Harvard"	6	3
"Cornell"	5	4
"Princeton"	5	4
"Columbia"	2	7

She Needn't Wear Tights.

Miss Henrietta Lee, an actress, who in private life is Mrs. Charles P. Morrison, won her fight with Hurtig & Seamon, theatrical managers of New York, on the question as to whether they could order her to wear tights in the musical comedy, "Me, Him and I," in which she was starring, after she had played the part for three months in feminine attire. A jury before Supreme Court Justice Gerard in New York awarded her $4,700, the amount of salary she would have earned under her contract had she not been discharged for refusing to appear in tights.

William Jamison Weds.

Miss Irene J. Thomas, of Oswego, N. Y., and William Jamison, the grocer at Scotch Plains, were married last night, at the home of the bride's parents. A large number of invitations were issued for the affair and it was attended by a number of guests from Oswego, New York, Brooklyn and Scotch Plains. After a honeymoon the couple will occupy the Hetfield cottage on Front street, Scotch Plains.

All Cases Were Postponed.

There were no contested cases in the district court this morning. Judge Newcorn laid the dispossess cases over until Saturday morning and all other cases until Thursday, April 16, at which time it is expected that the third trial of Joseph Kingston against the Union County Board of Freeholders will be heard.

Glee Club at Stillman School.

The Plainfield High School Glee Club, under the direction of S. B. Howe, Jr., of the school faculty, rendered several selections at the morning exercises at the Stillman School today. A feature of the program was the rendition of popular songs by a male quintette from the school.

Track Meet Next Week.

The annual gymnasium and track meet of the Y. M. C. A. will be held at the association gymnasium next Thursday night. The affair will be a handicap meet for the senior department.

SEVENTH DAY FIVE MUST PLAY FIRST PRESBYTERIANS

The basketball championship of the Sunday School Athletic League will be decided Monday night, when the Seventh-Day Baptist and First Presbyterians, tied for first place, will meet to decide the title. In the last regularly scheduled games, at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Monday night, the Seventh Days won from Hope, 31-30, and the First Presbyterians won from the First Baptists, 29-28. This finished the league with a tie, and Monday's game will decide the championship. The standing of the teams:

	Won.	Lost.
Seventh Days	3	2
First Presbyterians	3	2
First Baptists	3	3
Hope Chapel	2	4

"Life On the Congo."

"Life on the Congo" will be the subject of a lecture to be given at the First Baptist church, Sunday night, under the auspices of the Men's Club, by Rev. William A. Raff, pastor of the Baptist church at Jamesburg. The lecture consists of personal experiences and reminiscences of life in the Congo, where he spent seven years as a pioneer missionary, with plenty of opportunities for observing and studying both sides of the question. Among those who speak highly of the lecture is Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, formerly of this city, but lately of Perth Amboy, at whose church Mr. Raff spoke on the subject.

Damage Suit Postponed.

The hearing which was to have taken place yesterday before Vice-Chancellor Howell, at Newark, in the case of Joseph Becker, of New York, against Thomas Allen and Thomas A. Allen, of Metuchen, who were, by virtue of a writ issued out of the Court of Chancery, compelled to vacate and surrender to Becker the plant of the Red Mill Tobacco Company, at Rahway, was postponed for one week by request of Senator Sulzer, counsel for the Allens, who for some reason was unable to appear in person.

Elks Honor George O. Stevens.

Past Exalted Ruler George O. Stevens, whose term of office in Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., expired last month, was presented with a handsome gold watch by the members last night. The presentation speech was made by Judge William N. Runyon during the regular weekly session. The timepiece is of the finest workmanship and bears a suitable inscrtpion.

"From Bethlehem to Calvary."

Col. Adam Gifford, of New York, will give his stirring moving picture service entitled, "From Bethlehem to Calvary," at Salvation Army Hall, tonight. The lecture will be magnificently illustrated by colored stereopticon views and motion pictures from Tissot and the world's masterpieces. Special music and singing will be features.

Annual Meeting Faith Chapel.

The annual meeting of the Faith chapel was held last night, when E. L. Bonny and W. A. Conger were re-elected trustees for a term of three years. The reports from the various societies and Sunday-school showed a steady improvement, both as to increase of members and finances. The treasurer's report will be presented later.

Panhandler Let Go.

William Churchill, a colored Philadelphian with only one arm, was arraigned in the city court today on a charge of panhandling. He gave a hard luck story that induced Judge Runyon to let him go on his promise to leave town.

CRESCENT AVE. CHURCH HOLDS ANNUAL SESSION

Crescent Avenue Presbyterian.

J. F. Harmon, Leander N. Lovell and Ellis W. Hedges were re-elected deacons of the Crescent Avenue church at the annual congregational meeting held at the church last night. Dr. W. H. Murray was re-elected a deacon of the church.

Reports from the various departments of the church work, as well as from the church treasurer and from the officers of Warren chapel, Hope chapel and Bethel chapel were read, and showed in general a gratifying condition of the church and chapels. The parish has been especially active during the past twelve months, and has raised much money for church support and benevolences, so that the end of the year finds the Presbyterians to be on a firm financial basis, with an advance in spiritual growth.

The report of Joseph W. Sandford, the church treasurer, showed that there still remained a balance of $925.02 from the year's receipts of $14,029.30. The expenses for the coming year have been estimated at $13,065. A general financial report on the work done by the three chapels showed that on April 1 there was a short balance of $239.49, due to the fact that all the subscriptions have not yet been received. There is now but $326.55 to be paid on the Hope chapel organ fund, $1,560.93 having been received to date. The treasurer's statement on the Warren chapel building account showed that $22,791.92 has already been received, of the $31,491.92 which comprises the cost of the building and lot.

The deacons' report, made by S. H. Whitney, showed a balance of $215. There are now 1,772 members in the church, of whom 768 are members of the three chapels. The sum of $5,010 has been raised for foreign benevolences and $3,404 for home benevolences in the past twelve months.

Reports on the year's work at Warren chapel were made by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, the pastor, and E. E. Parvin, the Sunday-school superintendent. There are now 286 members of the chapel and 437 in the Sunday-school. The missionary and aid societies have raised $1,724 for the furnishing of the chapel and $715 has been raised during the year by the Sunday-school.

For Hope chapel, Rev. L. R. Howard reported that about $3,000 has been received and expended during the year. In his report on the Sunday-school, Ira W. Travell, the superintendent, emphasized the growth of the various chapel organizations. There are now 35 members in the men's club, 48 in the boys' club, 18 in the young men's club, and 25 in the junior club. The chapel now has 410 members, and there are 550 in the Sunday-school. The Ladies' Aid Society has raised $800 for the organ.

Bethel chapel's finances were reported to be in good condition, and there are now 300 members of the Sunday-school; there are 18 members to the boys' club. Four hundred dollars has been raised for the support of the pastor, Rev. F. D. Tildon, and money has been raised for the organ.

The other church organizations presented gratifying financial reports, among them the Foreign Missionary Society, the McAll Auxiliary, and the Boys' Mission Band. Superintendent L. R. Hopton's report showed 356 members in the Sunday-school, and a balance on hand in the school treasury.

First Presbyterian.

Encouraging reports, showing no debt, were presented at the annual meeting of the First Presbyterian church, last night. The fact that the year is closed with a clean slate, all obligations having been met, was a source of gratification to the pastor and people. Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor, was chairman, and P. M. Bettman, clerk, of the church meeting, which was held first, and treated the spiritual side of the body.

Reports were received from all of the societies, including home and foreign missions, Ladies' Aid Society, senior and junior Endeavorers, Sunday-school, etc., and every one showed marked improvement. The total amount raised from these societies for benevolent objects was about $1,900. It was also reported that the church membership at present is 387. During the year eleven new members were received on confession and thirteen by letter. There were nine deaths and eleven lost by removal.

It was decided to increase the board of elders from five to six, and J. H. Manning was elected as the sixth member. William Shotwell and Robert Radford were re-elected to the board. It was also decided to increase the board of deacons to five, and John S. Johnston was elected as the extra member. E. D. George was also re-elected a deacon.

The congregational meeting then followed. J. M. Bettman was the chairman and Fred Dickinson secretary. The resignations of Howard A. Pope and J. A. Haynes, as trustees, were received with regret. This action was taken owing to ill health. Mr. Pope was secretary for many years and resolutions were adopted expressing the appreciation of the church for the services rendered by Mr. Pope and Mr. Haynes. Fred Dickinson was elected trustee and secretary to succeed Mr. Pope and W. J. Hamilton was chosen trustee to succeed Mr. Haynes, while William H. Shotwell was re-elected as trustee.

The question of music for the coming year was left entirely to the Session, which is the music committee of the church, and the present arrangement will be continued.

The report of the church treasurer, William H. Shotwell, was one of the best in the history of the organization. The receipts for the year amounted to $5,632.82, all of which was expended for the various objects in church work. In every instance there was a balance on the right side.

In order to comply with the new State law requiring churches to appoint an auditing committee to audit the account of the treasurer, F. O. Dunning, George B. Wean and E. D. George were selected as such a committee.

PARK AVENUE BAPTISTS HOLD PARISH MEETING.

Reports and the election of trustees comprised the chief business at the annual parish meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church, last ight. Deacon Charles F. Dayton was the chairman of the meeting. The report of the treasurer, John H Doane, showed the total receipts for the year to be $4,194.78, all of which has practically been expended for various church objects.

George E. Hall, F. T. Ostrom and George W. V. Moy were re-elected trustees, while Benjamin H. Hadley was chosen a trustee to succeed Aaron D. Thompson, Jr., who declined to serve longer. The condition of the church was found to be excellent, both financially and spiritually, and the members found much encouragement in the reports.

Through the earnest endeavor of the members $1,000 was paid off on the church indebtedness last year. This fact was reported by the treasurer, John H. Doane.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Secretary Taft will deliver the Memorial Day oration at Grant's Tomb, on the Hudson river, New York. The President may attend.

A double distinction belongs to Henry Dorman, of Liberal, Mo., he being the oldest man in his State and the oldest survivor of the Civil War: He has lived in three centuries, for lately he celebrated his 109th birthday.

Denman Thompson, the veteran actor, and Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, are close friends, and when the Senator visits his home State he never fails to spend at least a brief part of the time with "Uncle Josh."

John W. Stewart, who succeeds the late Senator Proctor, of Vermont, is 83 years of age, and will be the oldest man in the Senate. He is one of the best lawyers in the State, a liberal, broad-minded man, who has made his mark in State and National affairs.

Miss Martha Finley, author of the famous "Elsie Dinsmore" stories, is still writing at her advanced age, nearly 80. She lives at Elkton, Md., and her first book of this series was printed more than forty years ago, when she was a school-teacher.

THE COOKBOOK.

Add a half cup of milk to mush and it will brown much nicer when fried.

For mixing flour and water use a fork or egg beater to make it smooth and free from lumps.

Cake icing will not crack when cut if a little thick cream is added to it. Allow one teaspoonful to each white of egg.

Any nut makes a cake more delicious. Nuts chopped and sprinkled over puddings, hot or cold, give a new flavor and greatly improve them, while mixed through custard they make a surprising change in this simple dish.

New Electric Wire.

A new wire of special advantage in electrical industries is obtained by a Parisian metallurgist through a perfected progess of welding copper to steel wire. Great conductivity is combined with tensile strength and elasticity, giving a wire stronger than copper and smaller and less exposed o wind action than iron or steel of the same capacity.

Soap Bubbles.

To make bubbles that can be blown big and will last, take a piece of pure white soap about the size of a walnut and cut it up in a cupful of warm water. Then add a teacpoonful of glycerin. STATE SHORT $687,655

Fort Takes Into Account This Year's Obligations and Anticipated Receipts.

HE SENDS SPECIAL MESSAGE.

Governor Suggests the Passage of the Avis Bill Increasing Reserve from Tax on the Railroads.

In a special message to the Legislature yesterday, Governor Fort told the members that he finds that instead of the State having $1,320,000, as was apparent last October, there was actually only $437,000 available.

If present appropriations are made, he says there will be a shortage of $687,655. The message is as follows:

"The condition of the finances of the State seem to require that some accurate statement should be made to the Legislature before the closing of the annual session. There is now pending before the Legislature the annual and supplemental appropriation bills.

"They carry appropriations amounting to $5,320,335.72. It will be necessary before making them, that the State treasury shall be in condition to meet the appropriations on or before October 31, 1909, the date of the ending of the fiscal years of 1908 and 1909.

"Upon a very careful examination of the finances of the State, with the assistance of the Comptroller and Treasurer, I find the situation to be such as to require legislation to meet the present conditions.

Contracts Must Be Paid.

"On the thirty-first of October, 1907, there was shown by the report of the Comptroller to be a cash balance in the treasury of the State of $1,320,038.44, but this was not a free cash balance as there was at that time existing and filed in the Comptroller's office of the State contracts which must be paid against this cash balance amounting to $882,228.22, so that on the first day of November, 1907, the beginning of this fiscal year, there was actually only $437,810.22 of free cash balance in the treasury of the State.

"The estimated receipts for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1908, as made by the comptroller, are $4,194,870, to which should be added the free cash balance in the treasury on October 31, 1907, $437,810, making a total of $4,632,680.

"When therefore the appropriation bills now pending before the Legislature are passed we shall have State obligations for the current fiscal year of $5,320,355.72, with only $4,632,680 available to meet them, leaving a shortage in the treasury of the State of $687,655.72.

"In figuring the esticated receipts for the State for the current fiscal year the one-half of 1 per centum of the total valuation of the railway property assessed for State purposes has been included.

Problem of Getting Revenue.

"The question now is how to get the revenue, and it is one which we must meet.

"The total amount received by the State last year from the assessment upon main stem railway property and the tangible personal property and franchises of railway companies in the gross amounted to $3,503,529.70.

"Of this there was allotted and is to be paid to the counties of the State for distribution for school purposes, under chapter 146 of the laws of 1906, $2,530,867.35.

"This money was delayed in payment owing to the litigation over the tax, but it must still be paid and is to be paid, nevertheless.

"In addition to that, there is also to be paid this current year, if chapter 146 of the laws of 1906 is to remain operative, an additional sum of $2,254,509.10.

$5,000,000 for Schools.

"There will be practically appropriated for school purposes this year about $5,000,000, and in order to do this it will be necessary, as I have shown, to deplete the treasury, so that it will be short about $700,000.

"It is a question whether the legislation in chapter 146 of the laws of 1906 was wise legislation. The State must first support itself before it undertakes to appropriate funds to localities.

"The pending appropriations bills have been followed by the executive with great care, and constant conferences have been had between the chairman of the appropriation committee and the executive. It is quite apparent that the appropriations asked in the pending bills are necessary for the support of the State government, and to do the public things which are required now to be done, including the support of the various State institutions correctly with the improvements that are required

WOMEN'S CLUBS VEXED

Angry Because House Killed Ackerman Free Employment Bureau Bill.

THEY BLAME W. C. GARRISON.

Defeat of Measure Keenly Felt By the Women—Franklin Murphy Opposed Its Passage.

The members of the State Federation of Women's Clubs and representative citizens and legislators are indignant over the quashing of the Ackerman free employment agency bill in the Lower House on Monday. Charges of political trickery are made against the opponents of the measure, and its defeat is attributed to the influence of a man high up in the Republican party councils of the State. Friends of the measure point out that it was introduced in the House just after the proceedings incident to the defeat of the Civil Service bill, when half of the Assemblymen favoring its passage were not on the floor. The bill had passed the Senate, and its favorable consideration in the House seemed certain under ordinary circumstances.

The State Federation of Women's Clubs is the chief sponsor of this bill, and had the encouragement of the Commissioners of Labor Statistics of Connecticut, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Minnesota. Secretary Oscar Strauss of the Department of Commerce and Labor also favored it, as did Mr. Gottlob, the legislative representative of the State Federation of Labor, and officials of the State Charities Association.

Mrs. Henry H. Dawson, of Newark, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, yesterday said:

"The failure to pass this measure, particularly because of the methods used, will work irreparable harm to the unemployed, whose labor could have been distributed throughout the State by a State bureau. The attitude of the Hudson county representatives, considering that Jersey City would have been the chief beneficiary by the measure, may be attributed to the fact that certain private employment agencies of that city, from which the local government derives a good revenue, were working in conjunction with the labor unions there to defeat it, and were backed by influential politicians. The State Federation of Labor did not oppose the bill, and the opposition within the organization did not have the sanction of its officers.

"The women of New Jersey feel keenly the defeat of the bill, and are disguised with the treatment it received at the hands of its opponents. Why such measures should have been resorted to to thwart its passage is a question which only the elect can answer, and it is to be hoped that the end fully justifies the means."

Winton C. Garrison, chief of the bureau of labor statistics, is known to have been actively opposed to the bill, and it is common report about the State House that former Governor Murphy was back of him.

MICHEL HINTON ISSUES WARNING TO ANNOYERS.

Jealousy, green-eyed and revengeful, is making life miserable for Michael Hinton, a dapper young colored gentleman residing on East Third street. He has found it impossible to call on his Sunday best girl without being bothered by dusky damsels whose love for him is unrequited and he is naturally very much ruffled. Some few nights ago he was subjected to more than the ordinary annoyance and in his righteous indignation has issued the following explanation and ultimatum:

"A few evenings ago as Mr. Michael Hinton was calling upon a young lady on Watchung ave, they was disturbed by some one throwing stones against the house—to such an extent that members of the family who had retired were very much annoyed. Mr. Hinton stepped to the door when he saw Miss Mattie Crown and Miss May Crown engaged in listening under the windows. Upon being discovered they ran across the street and hid behind a tree waiting for him to appear to stone him. Their actions were caused by jealousy. Should it occur again measures will be used to prevent any further annoyance."

Tenth Anniversary Surprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davis, of Duer street, were tendered a surprise party at their home, last night, in honor of the tenth anniversary of their wedding. The visit of a large company of friends was entirely unexpected, but it did not prevent everyone from having a good time. There were guests from Lebanon, Whitehouse, Pottersvile, Somerville, Raritan and this city. The evening was spent in a social manner and the celebrants received many handsome and useful gifts. At midnight a supper was served.

Dr. J. E. Chambliss Will Preach.

Rev. Dr. J. E. Chambliss, brother of Rev. J. A. Chambliss, of Kansas City, Missouri, will preach in the First Baptist church Sunday morning. Many years ago he was pastor of the North Baptist church at Camden, but it has been twenty years since he has been in New Jersey. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, who is still in the South, will preach at Chatanooga, Sunday morning. He expects to return home the latter part of next week.

Men's Club Musicale.

Under the auspices of the Men's Club of the First Baptist church a musicale will be given at the church, Monday night. The artists will be Miss Anna Lucretia Case, soprano; William Holmes, basso; George C. M. Smith, violin; George H. Smith, tenor, and Fred Van Eps, banjo. The accompanists will be Clifford A. Braider, Fred Van Eps and Miss Jessie Utter. The members of the church and congregation are invited.

ARRANGE TO PRESENT RESIGNATION TO CLASSIS

At the regular monthly meeting of the Consistory of Trinity Reformed church, last night, the resignation of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, for over twenty years pastor of the church, brought up for formal and final action. Rev. Henry Merle Mellen, pastor of Christ church, Woodside, Stated Clerk of the Newark Classis of the Reformed church, acted as Moderator and offered prayer.

Resolutions were passed petitioning the Classis to grant Dr. Schenck's request for a dissolution of his pastoral relations with the local church, on account of his continued illness. Robert Clark, Jr., and F. E. Smith were appointed a committee to draft suitable resolutions bearing on the resignation and on the appointment as pastor-emeritus, to be read before the Classis at its regular meeting in Newark next Wednesday.

Elder Clark, chairman of the finance committee, presented the annual report of the church, showing it to be in a healthy financial condition, all bills paid and a small balance in the treasury.

SECOND SONG RECITAL GIVEN BY MR. M'INTYRE

The second song recital given yesterday afternoon by Joseph McIntyre, at the home of Mrs. J. P. Stevens, of Hillside avenue, attracted a large and cultured audience thatthoroughly appreciated the choice program, and the work of the artists.

Mr. McIntyre, whose delightful work at the piano, has won for him first place in the hearts of Plainfield's music-loving people, was assisted by Dr. Carl Dufft, basso, and Paul Dufault, tenor. Dr. Dufft is no stranger here, and his appearance was marked by a hearty reception. His voice possessing those rare qualities which have for years made him famous in the world of music, was heard to the best advantage. His selections were peculiarly suited to him and he fascinated his audience with the rendition of them. He was generous with encores and with each succeeding song he seemed to strengthen the true appreciation for his work.

It was the second appearance of Mr. Dufault in this city, the first being at one of Mr. McIntyre's chamber music concerts, and in the several numbers sung by him he displayed a tenor voice possessing sweetness, strength and breadth that was a delight to all. He showed complete control in the higher range, making his renditions most effective.

Too much cannot be said in praise of Mr. McIntyre. As an accompanist not a thing is left to be desired, and it was largely due to his work that the recital was such a great success. The recital was given in the large and handsome music-room at Mrs. Stevens' home, which is particularly adapted for such affairs.

The program comprised eleven numbers by Dr. Dufft and six by Mr. Dufault. Those by Dr. Dufft were the following:

"Caro-Mio-Ben," old Italian; "Mamie," old French; "Minnlied," old German; "Come Rosalind," old English; "Mary of Argyle," old Scotch; "Skye Boat Song," old Jacobite Air; "Rantin' Rovin' Robin," old Scotch; "Warning," Mozart; "Mit Eined Primula Veris," and "Spielmanslied," Greig; "Schyagende Herzen," Strauss.

These numbers were given by Mr. Dufault:

"My Desire," Nevin; recitative and aria from "Joseph in Egypt," Mekul; aria, "Elle ne Croyent pas," from Mignon, Thomas; "At Twilight," Nevin; "An Interlude," Ronald; and "The Dawn," D'Hardelot.

MAZE GREEN ARRAIGNED; GETS FORTY DAYS IN JAIL.

Maze Green, the little man with the big appetite for drink, had his periodical souse last night and was picked up by the police for the 'steenth time. He was more accommodating than usual as he went down and out almost opposite headquarters on Sycamore street.

When arraigned in court this morning, he begged hard for another chance but Judge Runyon refused to listen to him as he has already been given so many that all account of the number has been lost. He then pleaded illness and in committing him for forty days, the magistrate stated that a physician would be called to examine him before he was taken to Elizabeth.

"It's impossible for you to stay away from drink," Judge Runyon said as Green turned toward a cell; "and the only thing we can do is to put you where you can't get it. Past experiences have shown me that if I let you off you get drunk an hour or two afterward and only come right back."

TO HOLD MEETING TOMORROW.

Ill-Advised Action In Rushing Through Resolution Causes Indignation Among Rank and File.

The action of a few members of the Somerset County Democratic Committee in shoving through a resolution endorsing the candidacy of William Jennings Bryan for the Presidential nomination has stirred up a hornet's nest in Democratic circles in that county, but if the plans of some of the leaders are carried out the resolution will be short lived. It is understood that a meeting of the committee called for tomorrow afternoon at Somerville, the resolution will be recalled and defeated by a vote.

The Somerset Democrats, which appears to be the party spokesman in that county, condemned the action of the committee in passing such a resolution in this fashion:

"The action of the Democratic County Committee, which met here last Saturday—there being only eleven present—out of a membership of twenty-nine—seems to us peculiar and not for the advantage of the party. A motion to endorse William J. Bryan for the Presidency was brought on and the very obvious objection that such an indorsement would have no good effect and was beyond the scope of the duties of the few representatives present or even of the full committee was urged but the ballot was taken and ten votes against the resolution. Of course the ten took their action seriously and thought the tail would wag the dog and the State Committee would instruct the delegates accordingly. We do not think that will be done."

Commenting on this, a prominent Somerset county Democrat leader said today: "The editor of The Democrat would not be exposing any secrets if he had added that the promoters of the Bryan resolutions not a very remote time ago indignantly refused to allow the Democratic County Committee of Somerset to organize because a quorum was not present, there being only thirteen members in attendance, besides five proxies which would have made eighteen, the proxies being held by one of the thirteen. These very same individuals who now desire to pose as the whole thing in Somerset were so indignant that they left the room where the committee were meeting, solely to prevent them from organizing. That is the sitpation truly reported in Democratic affairs in Somerset county today. Will the rank and file of the Somerset Democracy follow the leadership of these men?"

In the City Court.

In the city court this morning, sentence was suspended on Louis Herman, arrested at Spooner avenue and Fourth street late last night on a charge of vagrancy. He explained to Judge Runyon that he had gone to a slate roofer's home to see about a job and not finding him had entered a nearby barn to sleep so that he could return to the house early in the morning. His arrest was brought about by the owner of the barn who discovered him going in.

Sunday-school Teachers Elect.

The Plainfield Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Association has elected these officers for the coming year: President, Miss Nettie Beeching; first vice president, Mrs. J. A. Powlison; second vice president, Mrs. F. R. Baker; third vice president, Mrs. D. L. Darby; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. R. W. Barnes; assistant secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Elvain J. VanName; librarian, Miss White; pianist, Mrs. L. R. Schofield.

Will Sing "The Crucifixion."

The choir of Grace church, under the direction of William E. MacClymont, organist and choirmaster, will on Monday night sing Stainer's "Crucifixon," this being the first of the Holy Week services at the church. This is considered one of the most beautiful services of the kind and the choir has been rehearsing it for several weeks, insuring a perfect rendition.

Rev. S. R. Wheeler Will Speak.

Rev. S. R. Wheeler, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church at Marlboro, N. J., will preach at the Seventh-Day Baptist church tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. His theme will be "For the Son of Man is Come to Seek and to Save that which is Lost," Luke 19: 10. His subject at the prayer-meeting this evening will be "Laying Up Treasures in Heaven," Matt. 6: 19.

DERIVATION OF LETTERS

Dr. Robinson Traces History of Alphabet in Lecture at P. H. S.

SHOWED THE ANCIENT STYLES.

Prominent Historian Speaks On Book Making Before the Invention of Printing.

Explaining the derivation of letters and tracing the history of books and records from the times of the Egyptians to the invention of the printing press, Dr. James Harvey Robinson, professor of European history at Columbia University, gave a most practical lecture before the pupils of the Stillman and High School pupils at the High School auditorium this noon. Dr. Robinson, who was the guest of S. B. Howe, Jr., at the High School today, illustrated his remarks by a series of stereopticon slides, illustrating ancient lettering and the earliest manuscripts.

Printed letters developed from picture writing of the ancients, and the letters in use today may be traced in their earlier forms through Roman facade writing, Greek writing and Phoenician lettering to the inscriptions on the tombs of the ancient Egyptians. Only capital letters were used at first, and because of the fact that the Roman lettering was principally carved on stone, the letters had but few curves. Subsequently hasty writing brought about the development of the so-called "small letters," or "lower case."

Egyptian records were kept on stone or papyrus, and later wax, on which the letters were scratched. These blocks, like a slate, could be used over and over again, by softening the wax and smoothing out the scratches. In the middle ages, pigments and inks were used, and some beautiful, though painfully slow, writing was done in the European monasteries, where the monks created an alphabet of elaborate letters which they wrote on scrolls of velum, illuminating the work with gold and colored pigments. Photographic reproductions of such scrolls on the screen showed the elaborateness of the lettering.

Later on, with the introduction of wood engraving in Germany, came the lettering on wooden blocks. Soon afterwards came the introduction of printing, and moveable types were carved out of wood before metal types came into use. The final picture thrown on the screen showed one of the powerful modern presses used in the printing of the New York Herald.

At the conclusion of his lecture, Dr. Robinson showed a collection of monastery records and early books, brought from the library collection at Columbia University.

Gabriel H. Bellis.

Gabriel H. Bellis, who formerly resided on Elm place, died at the Soldiers Home, Kearny, Tuesday night. He lived here for many years and entered the home only a short time ago, his wife having died previously. He was a painter by trade. The funeral will be at 85 Irving street, Rahway, tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 and burial will be in the Plainfield avenue cemetery here. A detail from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of which he was a member, will be in attendance.

The K. R. C. Club Entertained.

The K. R. C. Social Club was entertained last night at the home of Peter Cadwallader Sweeny, of Liberty street. The evening was spent playing euchre, after which prizes were awarded the winners and refreshments were served. Those present were James Small Kenney, Robert LeRoy Cuzin, Frank M. Rimmer, Allan Sinclair Snyder, Wesley Morris, Donald Cameron Mortimer and Peter Cadwallader Sweeny.

Criminal Complaint Dismissed.

The criminal charge against Antonio Falciglio preferred by Constantino Elisco, was dismissed after a hearing in the city court today. The testimony was secured through an interpreter and occupied the greater part of the morning session. Falciglio was represented by Francis J. Blatz and the complainant's side was handled by J. Henry Crane.

May Form Westfield Castle.

For the purpose of arousing interest in the Knights of the Golden Eagle among Westfield people, a delegation from Freedom Castle will hold a public meeting at Royal Arcanum Hall, Westfield, Monday night. The opening and closing ceremonies of the lodge will be given and the grand officers will be present.

—Biggest assortment of fruits and vegetables in the city at Neuman Brothers tomorrow. Plenty of specials to select from and prices to suit. A nice line of strawberries will be a feature.

POSTPONE ORGANIZATION

Local Republicans Make Preliminary Arrangements for Formation of Club.

A COMMITTEE ON DETAILS.

Mayor Fisk Presides and Councilman Hall Acts As Secretary at Meeting at the Casion—Frank Smith Explains Objects.

Fully 100 voters attended the meeting last night called for the purpose of forming the Plainfield Republican Club and considerable headway was made although the work of organization was postponed until Saturday night, April 25. A committee on organization was elected and it will meet on Wednesday night to arrange all details.

New Idea workers and organization men alike were on hand to further the movement and by acclamation Mayor Charles J. Fisk, formerly city chairman, was chosen to preside over the deliberations. Councilman Robert E. Hall was chosen secretary. The objects of the club were fully explained by County Chairman Frank H. Smith. Mr. Smith declared that it is most important that the Republicans of Union county be prepared to do effectual work during the next campaign and that the best possible sort of work could only be obtained through organization. He wished it distinctly understood that the club should have no axes to grind for this or that candidate and he laid special emphasis on the fact that it would not be in the interest of any one man.

The Plainfield club he explained would be but one in a link through Union county. Summit, Rahway and Elizabeth, he said, already have flourishing clubs and at an early date others would be organized. When Mayor Fisk took his seat as chairman, he made a few remarks, laying special stress on the fact that the club would not be in the interests of any candidate for office but would work for the general welfare of the party.

Howard Tracy, chairman of the New Idea Central Committee, made a motion that a committee of ten be elected, not appointed, to arrange the details of organization. Twelve were nominated but former Mayor James F. Buckle declined to serve and the other eleven were elected by acclamation, the size of the committee being increased to that number. The committee consists of Frank H. Smith, R. Henry Depew, Charles Runyon, William Starr Bullock, W. S. Angleman, Frederick L. Holt, Francis J. Blatz, George J. Tobin, Howard Tracy and N. Mansfield Smith.

A motion made by F. H. Smith to appoint an enrollment committee of five in each district was amended when Mr. Tracy pointed out that it would be better not to enroll members until after the organization was effected. At his suggestion the name of the committee was changed to that of "invitation," the five in each district being instructed to get out as many votes as possible at the next meeting. Mayor Fisk will make the appointments for this committee.

Before the meeting closed, Chairman Fisk called on Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., to make a speech.

Westfielder As Collins' Successor.

According to a statement by General D. F. Collins, chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee, who is to be appoined a member of the Democratic State Committee at the State covention April 28, William E. Tuttle, of Westfield, will be his successor. The appointment of General Collins will be unanimous at the caucus to be held April 24.

Mr. and Mrs. Babcock in Japan.

Mrs. George H. Babcock, of West Eighth street, received a cablegram today informing her that Mr. and Mrs. George L. Babcock have arrived at Yokohoma, Japan. They say they had a fine voyage and did not experience any sea-sickness throughout the trip. They sailed on the steamship Manchuria from San Francisco on March 24.

Berlowitz Recovering.

Harry Berlowitz, the special policeman knocked unconscious by a stone last week, was able to leave his home yesterday for the first time since he was injured. He is still under the care of a physician but his rapid recovery is expected. Albert Jaegar, the boy accused of throwing the stone, will be given a hearing in the city court tomorrow.

—$1.50 Shirt Waists 79c. Levy's.

—In response to a request from City Engineer A. J. Gavett, Freeholder S. P. T. Wulbur today inspected two small bridges in the East End of the city. They will be attended to as directed.

Mrs. Wilbur, wife of Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, of Westervelt avenue, is detained at home, threatened with intermittent fever.

TURKISH TOWELS

Better bargains than you have purchased in a year—especially if you are a good enough judge to appreciate the real merits of good Turkish Towels,—the wearing quality. These are all made of double thread, which means practically double service; they are close and firm and fast woven edges, even to the lowest grades, thus the descriptive size alone would not give them justice.

At 10c—The bleached, are 16x35, the unbleached 18x35; a good value for 12½c.

At 12½c—The bleached are 18-36, and are hemmed, the unbleached are 18-37; value 15c.

At 15c—The bleached are 18-37, the unbleached 19-37, both hemmed, and are regularly 18c.

At 25c—Both extra heavy weight, bleached are 23-41, the unbleached 25-41; value 29c.

At 50c—Heavy bath sheets, bleached size 28-58, double thread, as the smaller sizes, but of heavier cotton yarn; value 59c.

Marshall & Ball Clothing
The Highest Type of Ready-to-Wear.

Easter Clothes

Of Character and Distinctiveness

With the Marshall & Ball provision from which to choose few men need appear on Easter without a New Spring Suit and Overcoat.

The art of the weaver and the skill of our expert craftsmen have combined in the creation of color effects and models to please the fancy of the conservative man, as well as his more radical brother.

The many exclusive patterns we're showing in Caribou Tans, Moose Brown and Mouse Grays show unusual cleverness in the treatment of shoulders, lapels, pockets and cuffs and appeal especially strong to the younger element.

Spring Suits, Overcoats and Raincoats, $12 to $35.

Boys' Easter Apparel

Self respect in your boy is best fostered by keeping him well dressed. You can provide your youngster with an Easter Outfit here that will fill his breast with pride and the cost won't cramp your purse.

FIVE MILLIONS NEEDED FOR STATE EXPENSES

Trenton, April 10.—While endeavoring to exercise the most rigid economy and consent to only such expenditures as are mendatory or absolutely necessary the joint appropriation committee found it necessary to agree upon an annual and a supplemental bill which jointly carry an appropriation of $5,320,335.22, an increase of $78,985.40 over the total appropriation made by the Legislature of 1907.

This does not include any allowance from the State fund to reduce the State school tax, for which an allowance of $800,000 was made last year in accordance with a custom established in 1902 and maintained until now.

One reason advanced for abandoning this custom is the fact that the annual school fund now receives from the State fund, or rather what is known as the "main stem" tax, an income greater than the State income ever was.

Had this allowance been made the increase in the total appropriations by the present Legislature as compared with that of last year would be $998,985.40.

With the customary allowance to reduce the tate school tax left out the annual appropriation for the fiscal year commencing November 1 next amounts to $4,528,274.90, while that for the present fiscal years is $4,618,407.17, a decrease of $90,132.27. This, however, is offset by an increase of $169,117.67 in the supplemental bill of this year, amounting to $792,060.32, as compared with $622,942.65 in 1907, making a net increase of $78,985.40 for this year, and no extraordinar allowance to reduce the State school tax of next year.

Summarized, the situation is about as follows: At the close of the last fiscal year, November 1, 1907, the estimated resources of the State from all sources, including the "paper balance" of $1,320,038.44, was $5,514,908.44.

Against this was charged the annual appropriation of $4,618,407.17 for 1908 and of $882,228.22 due on outstanding contracts, making a total of $5,500,635.39, and leaving a balance of $14,237.05 to meet the supplemental appropriation of $792,060.32, which means an actual deficit of $777,823.27 for the current year. This can be met only by using the treasury balance on uncompleted contracts, or the school fund portion of the "main stem" railroad tax.

CARPENTERS TO ADJUST DIFFERENCES IN MAY.

Summit, April 10—Aside from a demand of the local Master Carpenters' Association that the union journeymen carpenters adhere more strictly to the eight-hour workday provision of the agreement in effect between the Master Carpenters' Association and the journeymen, which the builders say has been frequently violated by the members of the union during the year, and that the journeymen shall refrain from cutting prices in estimating on building work, there appear to be no other differences to adjust in the local building trades on May 1. On that date the employers and the union mechanics perfect agreements for the ensuing year.

During the past winter, which has been the most inactive in the local building lines in a score of years, the master carpenters say, journeymen solocited carpenter work which they secured at greatly reduced prices, owing to the fact that the men worked more than eight hours a day, while the members of the Master Carpenters' Association were obliged, under their agreement, to estimate on the eight-hour workday basis.

An official of the Carpenters' Union said yesterday, in answer to the bosses' charge, that journeymen were compelled to solicit jobbing during the winter months, but declared that when they procured such work they became bosses and the union could not prevent them from working more than eight hours.

BOY DIES OF POISON THAT BAFFLES DOCTORS.

Rahway, April 10.—Henry Thomas Kelner, ten years old, died suddenly yesterday morning from some unknown violent poison, after an illness of but a few hours. Drs. Galloway and Cloden used powerful antidotes, without success.

The sufferer's throat turned black immediately after death. The boy, with a number of other small companions of his neighborhood, have been in the habit of searching out and eating decayed fruits from the dump heaps, and it is thought he must have eaten something of a deadly nature.

Amboy Bridge in Trouble Again.

Perth Amboy, April 10.—Traffic on the Raritan river has been held up by the failure of the draw of the bridge between this city and South Amboy to operate. For a time the draw would not close and railroad trains on the Long Branch and New York Railroad were held up. After the draw was closed, however, it would not open and, consequently, river traffic was halted. It was nightfall before the river traffic was resumed. The cause of the failure of the draw to work is not known.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Dates for three open tournaments have been announced by the Ekwanok Country Club, of Manchester, Vt. On July 23, 24 and 25 play for the Taconic Cup will claim attention, and on August 12, 13, 14 and 15 the first president's cup will be the chief incentive. The Equinox and Orvis cups will be played for on September 10, 11 and 12. This course, which is open from June to November, covers a playing length of 5,927 yards. The officers are as follows:

Robert T. Lincoln, president; James L. Taylor, first vice-president; C. M. Clark, secretary and treasurer. The board of governors consists of Robert T. Lincoln, James L. Taylor, George H. Thacher, Clark Burnham, H. M. Sill, George Orvis, C. M. Clark, E. S. Isham, R. F. McQueen, A. M. Reed, Paul Waterman, J. B. de Coursey, F. C. Brown, J. J. Gunther and Henry M. Brown.

In accordance with its usual custom the Dyker Meadow Golf Club has issued its spring schedule. The full list of dates will not be made out until later. A prize will be awarded to the player returning the lowest gross score for eighteen holes made in any medal play competition up to and including 4. The conditions of the club championship, which takes place in October, provide sixteen players who return the lowest sixteen gross scores in the monthly club handicap events of the year shall qualify to play at match play for the title. The championship cup must be won twice to become the property of an individual. Marshall Whitlatch is the present champion.

The Forest Hill Field Club is preparing to issue a long schedule of golf competitions. With this end in view the following new tournament committee has been appointed: Robert Kuebler, chairman; William Becker and J. H. O'Connor. At a recent meeting of the board of governors eighteen new members were elected.

Alec Campbell, the "pro" in charge of the Country Club of Brookline, is opposed to the action taken at the special meeting of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association in this city on Monday. The unanimous vote at the meeting was against competing in the open championship tournament at Myopia unless the club should give a guarantee of better treatment than was accorded in 1905. According to Campbell, Myopia is the best course in the country, and the professionals should be glad of a chance to play there. He adds that accommodations are entirely secondary.

The golf committee of the Ardsley Club has issued its season's schedule. From May 16 to November 26 there will be something going on nearly every week. According to the conditions, winners of all cups from May 16 to October 24, inclusive, will be eligible to fight it out at handicap match play for what the committee is pleased to style the "handicap championship vase." No team matches appear on the schedule.

BASEBALL.

Fred VanAuken, of this city, a cadet at the Naval Academy, pitching for his team on Wednesday, defeated St. John's College team, by a score of 7 to 5.

The Jr. O. U. A. M. team is showing up well on the diamond this season and promises to be a factor in local baseball. Tomorrow the boys will meet the Mono A. C. on Hope Common.

Progress is being made toward arranging a schedule of games among the teams representing Plainfield, Somerville, High Bridge and Flemington. It is expected that an announcement will be made within a short time.

Professional baseball has a Cad Coles, a Ty Cobb, a Dode Criss and a Hobe Ferris.

Deininger, the new outfielder of the Philadelphia Nationals, resembles Mike Donlin in his actions and position at the bat.

George Browne and Dan McGann between them made four of the nine hits made by Boston against Baltimore last Tuesday afternoon.

A freak game was played in Durham, N. C., yesterday. Trinity beat Dartmouth 10 to 0, the winners making only one hit. Dartmouth errors produced the runs.

Walter Johnson, the fine young pitcher of the Washington club, is recovering slowly from an operation for mastoiditis. He is not expected to play ball again before May 15.

The rain which broke up Wednesday's Toledo-New York game flooded the grounds during the night and made playing yesterday impossible. Bresnahan and his men pulled out yesterday afternoon.

"Eastern college ball clubs play season without determining the real champion," says a headline. Even so, and there is no pressing reason that they should do otherwise. The main idea is to keep the sport on a high plane.

The semi-professional baseball team, the Mohonks, of Brooklyn, N. Y., are desirous of filling their schedule for the coming season, and would like to hear from clubs in this city, or section, offering a fair guarantee for a first-class attraction. Have Saturday or Sunday open, in May, June and July. Address P. E. Clair, secretary, 558 52d street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

NINE BIG NUMBERS IN TOMORROW'S VAUDEVILLE.

The vaudeville bill to be presented by Manager Counihan at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night is one of the strongest yet assembled for the local playhouse. The feature number will be Miss May Ward and her eight "Dresden dolls" and there will be eight others beside, all acts of the "headline" variety. They will include Dennis Mullen and company in the screaming playlet, "The Janitor;" the famous Sulley family of six members; the Great Pool, expert magician; the Ardo-Eddy troupe of gymnasts; Doyle and English, comedians; the Great Dupree, known as the "Funny Fellow," and the Shamerois troupe, acrobats. Moving pictures will be an added number.

At tomorrow afternoon's performance, a handsomely dressed doll, three feet in height, will be awarded to some little girl in the audience by the drawing of a number. The doll was dressed by Miss Ward and is a copy of the costume worn by the stage "dolls" at their first entrance in the singing and dancing specialty. The little lady is on exhibition at a window in W. W. Warnock's store.

ARMRIGHTS VS. ELKS.

Local Bowlers Will Roll a New Brunswick Aggregation for $50 a Side.

The Armright bowling team, of this city, will rol the first half of a home and home match for $50 with the Elks' team, of New Brunswick, Monday night, at Johnny Campbell's alleys.

The conditions of the match call for three games here and three in New Brunswick, the team winning four of the six games to take the money.

In case each team wins three games, the total number of pins is to decide.

SOMERSETS WIN AGAIN.

In tourney games at Johnny Campbell's alleys, last night, the Somersets defeated the Belvideres and Madisons and the Madisons defeated the Belvideres. The scores were as follows: Somersets, 828; Belvideres, 762; Somersets, 835; Madisons, 832; Madisons, 806; Belvideres, 805.

Amateur Numbers Tonight.

Amateur numbers will hold the boards at the New Plainfield theatre tonight following Salisbury's pictures and illustrated songs. An aggregation of aspiring artists will present their acts and near-acts in an effort to win applause and gold and a good show is promised. Several of the artists to appear competed at Miner's theatre, New York, last week, and captured all the money in sight.

County Taxing Bill Lost.

Morgan, of Essex, was unable yesterday to put through his bill for taxation of county property by the taxing district where located. Martin opposed his New Idea colleague. The bill was lost by 9 to 45.

Would Increase Reserve.

"For myself I think it would be better State policy to repeal chapter 146 of the laws of 1906 absolutely and leave the amount of money to be annually appropriated from the tax from railway property at the discretion of the legislative branch of government, but that probably would not be wise policy in the last hours of the session.

"There is pending before the Legislature at this time Senate bill No. 306, which permits the State to reserve three-fourths of one per cent. instead of one-half of one per cent. under the provisions as now provided under chapter 146 of the laws of 1906.

"If this bill were passed it would increase the revenue of the State $436,331.18, and would relieve the shortage as above stated just to that extent, so that we face on the thirty-first day of October, under these conditions, a not greater deficit than about $250,000.

"The treasury of the State, therefore, with this legislation, will be in a workable condition, without embarrassment, because it is probable that some of the appropriations made in the pending bills will not be required to be fully met during the fiscal year which they cover.

"I therefore, earnestly urge upon the Legislature the enactment of Senate bill 306, or some similar legislation as this which, if enacted, will still leave it within the power of the State, under existing legislation, to send down to the local cities for school purposes for the school fiscal year from July 1, 1908, to July 1, 1909, at least 50 per cent. more than has ever previously been contributed by the State."

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The Bayonne Council passed a resolution yesterday to compel all electric light and power wires to be placed under ground.

Charles H. Pierce, engineer at the Feryacute Machine Works, Bridgeton, was badly scalded by the blowing out of a steam pipe.

Mayor Pierre Garven, of Bayonne, yesterday appointed Alfred D. Woodruff a park commissioner for five years and John Mydosh interpreter of the police court.

Major Flagler, in charge of coast surveys, has called a meeting at Atlantic City, May 6, to consider plans for jettying of the inlet to secure a deeper channel.

Admitting that he had planned to rob several gas slot machines, Nolan Clark, a boy, was held in $300 bail in the Camden police court, yesterday. Frank Dalesse, another lad, was also held on a similar charge.

Under the authority of a new law, Atlantic City is drawing plans to widen the boardwalk from Illinois avenue to Michigan avenue, from forty to sixty feet. The work will be started immediately and the greater esplanade will be finished by July. It will cost $40,000.

Cured of the effects of a drug given him in a house in Philadelphia, Clarence H. Leffers, of Baltimore, left Cooper Hospital, in Camden, yesterday. He claimed to have no knowledge of having attempted to pass a check on a hackman, and was allowed to go to Baltimore.

Dr. E. M. Packard, one of the old residents of Atlantic City, died yesterday at his home on States avenue, of pneumonia. He was a graduate of Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, and one of the doctors who was at his bedside when he expired was Dr. Hobart Hare, of Jefferson.

Friends of Levi Lippincott, a young fireman of Atlantic City, received a surprise when they gathered to assist him and his young bride in celebrating their wedding yesterday. The surprise was furnished by the supposedly newly married couple, who informed their guests that the occasion was the celebration of the end of their first year of matrimony, instead of the wedding, the two having been secretly married just a year ago.

A farmhand employed by Charles Bishop, a leading farmer near Harrisonville, drove up to the barn late yesterday afternoon with a two-horse load of hay. While unhitching the horses another hand from an adjoining farm struck a match to light his pipe and a flying spark set fire to the hay. In a twinkling the entire load was ablaze and the barn, crib house and two other small buildings, with all the contents, were destroyed. The loss is about $5,000.

Fire destroyed the diphouse of the Du Pont Powder Works yesterday, and damaged the powder warehouse, but that building was saved, or Gibbstown, which is near the works, would be in ruins today. The loss is estimated at $20,000. When the alarm was sounded by the watchman many of the employes refused to help fight the flames, expecting every moment to witness the explosion of the powder magazine, which was in danger while the diphouse was burning.

An unusual scene occurred in the court room of Justice of the Peace Cramer at Beverly last night, when the squire forcibly ejected W. Slaughter, a lawyer of Mt. Holly. The case of Remsey Waters against John J. McClosky for alleged assault and battery was being heard. Cramer ordered the charge changed to disorderly conduct. Slaughter objected too strenuously and the squire ordered him out of court. The prisoner was then fined $10.

GERMAN GLEANINGS.

In German tobacco shops each purchase entitles the patron to one telephone call.

Hamburg is the great lumber market for Germany, and practically all imported lumber passes through the hands of the big dealers at that place.

The German empire has no prison of its own. Offenses against the imperial government are enforced by the imperial attorney, who calls into service the state attorneys of the federal states.

WOMAN HER OWN HAT MAKER.

No new hat?
Old one all wrong?
Oh, well, there is yet hope,
Last summer's hat may serve.
First the brim must be ripped from the crown.
Clean and press the brim, and raise the crown an inch or more by means of a wire or buckram band.
Or, if the hat has no crown, make or buy a wire foundation. Cover it with net, then with several layers of tulle, and lastly sew flowers, or foliage, or both all over it.

A Unique Library.

There exists in France a private library of quite a unique character, being composed solely of six hundred wooden books. The collection has been made from the wood of different trees growing in the park attached to the chateau if Wilhemshoehe. At the back of each book is a tablet in red morocco indicating the name of the tree from which the volume has been made, and the two covers are lightly polished. Inside the book the complete natural history of the tree is detailed. The collection, which is at Cassel, includes 120 species and 445 varieties.

Old Constable Hook Cemetery Closed

Bayonne, April 10.—At a meeting of the Board of Health last night it was decided to close Constable Hook cemetery, which has been used for over 150 years, and to prevent the interring of any more bodies there. The cemetery is on sloping ground, and the board believes that in a short time the rains will have washed away so much earth that many of the coffins will be too near the surface and the contents may be strewn about.

Cleveland Improving.

Lakewood, April 10.—Since coming to Lakewood former President Grover Cleveland has steadily improved in health. A note from Mrs. Cleveland at the Lakewood Hotel this morning make known the fact that Mr. Cleveland was ill last week, but is much better today. Dr. Bryant, his physician, has returned to Princeton.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

One of the best vaudeville shows Manager Counihan has yet secured for the New Plainfield theatre will be presented tomorrow afternoon and night. The bill will be headed by Miss May Ward and her eight Dresden dolls, an act that has been presented in the most exclusive vaudeville houses in the country.

"Deserted at the Altar," which enjoyed an extended metropolitan engagement last season, is one of the many plays to be presented at the New Plainfield theatre by Himmelein's Imperial Stock Company next week, and being its first production here at other than high prices, it should attract a full house. It is exceedingly interesting in plot, and while it is essentially a melodrama, the first and last acts are of a pastoral nature, and perfectly true to nature. The Christmas tree scene shown in the last act is said to be especially pretty, and will make the hearts of the young rejoice, while to the old folks it will bring memories of the long ago.

A New Engineering Feat.

In bridges and other structures of iron or steel it often happens that some one of several parts in tension does not support its share of the load, and instead of the usual expensive and troublesome plan of taking down the parts and forging them in a blacksmith shop Hasenkamp, a German engineer, proposes making the adjustments in length with the structure intact. His plan is to use thermit for heating the part in place. This material, a mixture of iron oxide and aluminum, is readily ignited, and it burns with an intense heat, which may reach 5,000 degrees F. through the affinity of oxide. Clamps are fastened to the steel part on each side of the spot to be heated. These clamps are connected by bolts, and when the right temperature is reached turning the nuts shortens the steel permanently to the extent desired. The operation, requiring but a few minutes, does not interfere with traffic.

The Smallest Engine.

The smallest locomotive engine in the world weighs twelve grains, and three drops of water fill its boiler. This miniature marvel was constructed by an ingenious American. Despite the fact that it could be placed inside a thimble, it is composed of 140 distinct pieces and is held together by fifty-two screws. The stroke of the piston is one-twelfth of an inch, and its diameter is less than one-ninth of an inch. Yet when it gets in motion it works as though it were the strongest and biggest locomotive that ever ran on rails.—Philadelphia Press.

Telephones for China.

Active construction work has been begun on the telephone lines which are to link the leading towns of China together. The construction and operation is entirely under control of the Chinese government.

To ncourage Tree Planting.

Trees are so thoroughly appreciated in Denver that the city annually supplies citizens with young stock to encourage planting.

Candles in the Commons.

Previous to 1834 the house of commons was lighted by candles, which were affixed to massive chandeleirs.

THE STORY OF THE ELUSIVE MEMORY.

There was once a dear old gentleman who had no memory worth mentioning. He rarely knew what his own name was until he had consulted the corner of his pocket-handkerchief.

In the street he met a beautiful woman. She had swelled eyes and a great deal of crepe. He remembered whom she was, and that was a proud moment for him. So he saluted her. "And how is your husband?" he asked.

"He is dead," sobbed the poor woman.

"Sorry," said the old gentleman, and went his way.

A month later he met her again.

"And how is your husband?" he asked, eagerly.

"You have forgotten," she said, severely. "He is dead."

"Sorry," said the old gentleman, and went his way.

A month later he met the woman again and chatted cheerfully with her about the weather.

"By the way," he added, "and how is your husband?"

"He's still dead," she said.

This impressed him. The woman became associated in his mind with one idea. A month later he ran after her in the street to ask her anxiously how her husband was.

"Quite well, thank you," said the woman beaming. "We're just back from the honeymoon."

Moral.—Love is stronger than death. But death lasts the longest.

The Boy's Idea.

"Pop!"

"Yes, my son."

"I see by this paper that it costs over $1,000 to fire a single shot from one of the largest guns used in the French army."

"Yes, my boy."

"I suppose, pop, there would not be a fine like that if a fellow fired it on the Fourth of July!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Profit and Loss.

"Goodness, child, don't eat so many sweets!"

"But, ma, you said I could have some sweets for taking that medicine."

"Of course, but so much will make you ill again."

"Well, ma, then I can take some more medicine and have some more sweets, can't I?"—Royal Magazine.

Stepping Lively.

Church—Do the conductors on the New York cars make you step lively?

Gotham—I should say so. Why, only to-day one made me run six blocks to catch his car!—Yonkers Statesman.

TOO EXPENSIVE.

Ted—How was it you couldn't afford to stay at that hotel?

Ned—The girls there were all of different sizes and the one engagement ring wouldn't do for the whole bunch.—Philadelphia Press.

Vanished with the Frost.

"Where are the knives and forks of last summer?" grumbled the old farmer as he counted up the tableware after the last boarder had left for the city.

"And where are the 'spoons' of last summer?" laughed the farmer's daughter, as she gazed out at the empty benches and hammocks.—Chicago Daily News.

The Petrified Biscuit.

Mrs. Harker—I am surprised at you, Henry. You said you had a stomach like an ostrich, and yet you are always kicking over my biscuit.

Mr. Harker—Well, don't you know an ostrich kicks?—Chicago Daily News.

Overheard in the Lunchroom.

Gunner—Yes, Harker always makes love to the pretty waitress. He says by so doing he gets better service.

Guyer—Hm! I guess he thinks love not only makes the world go round, but it also makes the waitress go round.—Chicago Daily News.

In and Out.

Baddle—What induced you to take up literature in the first place?

A'Lignby—I was hungry.

Baddle—And now you speak of giving it up?

A'Lignby—Yes; but I'm starving now.

One Sign of It.

"My Charlie," said Miss Matilday, proudly, "is, they all tell me, a coming man."

"Perhaps he is," grumbled her long-suffering father. "I notice myself he isn't much on going."—Baltimore American.

THE SOUL OF A DOG.

The curate thinks you have no soul;
I know that he has none. But you,
Dear friend; whose solemn self-control
In our four-square, familiar pew,

Was pattern to my youth—whose bark
Called me in summer dawns to rove—
Have you gone down into the dark
Where none is welcome, none may love?

I will not think those good brown eyes
Have spent their light of truth so soon;
But in some canine paradise
Your wraith, I know, rebukes the moon.

And quarters every plain and hill,
Seeking its master . . . As for me
This prayer at least, the gods fulfill;
That when I pass the flood, and see

Old Charon by the Stygian coast
Take toll of all the shades who land,
Your little, faithful, barking ghost
May leap to lick my phantom hand.
—St. John Lucas.

Clean City Plan for Children.

The Board of Education of Chester, Pa., has extended permission to Mrs. Henry Clay Cochrane, chairman of the civic improvement committee of the New Century club, to introduce into the public schools the formation of companies among the children of from ten to fourteen years of age of a society to be called the League of Good Friendship, the object being to encourage the children in all matters relating to good citizenship, with the view of eliciting their co-operation in keeping the city clean.

One-Egg Cake.

One and a half cups granulated sugar, half-cup butter, scant, one cup sweet milk, two and a half cups sifted pastry flour, one egg, two and a half level taaspoonfuls baking powder in sifted flour. Flavoring. Beat butter and sugar thoroughly, adding a little of the milk to help make creamy. Beat egg well and add then the balance of milk. Just at this point beat the mixture with the egg beater, which makes it fine grained. Add flour last.

A Racy Joke.

Domestic Aunt—Isn't it nice to have a literary personage in the family?

Sporting Uncle—What literary personage?

Domestic Aunt—Kate's father told me she had married an author.

Sportin Uncle—She didn't. She married a book maker.

Domestic Aunt—Well, what's the difference?—Baltimore American.

Congenial Occupation.

"I wish my husband could get a situation in the weather bureau?" said the discouraged looking woman.

"Why do you select that branch of the government service?"

"Because there's nothing he really seems to enjoy doing except to sit around and speculate on whether it's going to rain tomorrow."—Washington Star.

The Stars of Love.

The long way and lonesome,
But though the way be long,
The stars of love are shining
Above the hills of song.

The long way and lonesome,
But ever as God wills;
And sweet will be the welcome
There—on the singing hills!

The Muskellunge.

So voracious is the muskellunge that it will devour any living thing that comes within its vision. Full grown bullfrogs, good sized ducklings, small aquatic birds, as well as many water mammals, become an easy prey to its yawning sepulcher of a mouth.

Too Easy for Him.

"Beverly wants to play the fool in your new drama."

"Beverly! Not much! I want him to earn his salary. He certainly can't expect me to pay him for standing around and acting natural."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Oh, es, Johnny Knew.

Teacher—Now children, what were those men in olden times called who went about in suits of mail?

Johnny (eagerly)—I know.

Teacher—Well, what were they called?

Johnny—Letter carriers, ma'am.

Lead and Tin.

Lead and tin can be obtained very pure. Good brands of commercial lead contain 99.05 per cent. lead and are often even purer. Lead is the purest metal which is made commercially. Good brands of tin are 99.08 per cent. pure.

Rough on the Old Man.

"Do you believe that old Satan is always hovering around us?"

"Not always," replied the old lady. "John goes fishin' now three times a week!"

After oiling a sewing machine it not infrequently happens that a drop of oil which has not been absorbed stains the material which is being stitched. To remove the mark a lather made with soap, cold water and a tablespoonful of ammonia will usually prove successful, but in the case of colored linens and cottons the ammonia should be employed cautiously, as it is apt to fade the

UNION MASONS STRIKE AT THE COUNTY SEAT

When striking union masons attempted to stop non-union laborers from working on several local buildings Wednesday small fights followed. Among other jobs which the boss masons have attempted to complete with the aid of non-union men is the remodelled City Hall. The union men protested to the City Council against the employment of non-union labor on the City Hall, and the non-union men have been called off.

The masons are holding out because the bosses will not enter into a year's agreement at the rate of 60 cents an hour, a cut to 50 cents being desired by the masters. The union men have refused to accept the 50-cent rate, and the bosses have consented to continue to pay the old rate of 60 cents, but not under a year's contract. Fearing a bigger cut even than that asked for by the bosses, the union men will not go to work without a written agreement.

SETTING HEN KILLS SNAKES.

Third Was Slowly Crushing Out Chicken's Life When Help Arrived.

A big Dorking hen on the farm of Job Spencer, of West Caldwell, while fighting yesterday in defence of the eggs on which she was sitting, killed two black snakes and fought a third one until help arrived. The two reptiles which the hen killed single handed measured three feet nine inches and four feet, respectively, and were as big around as a man's wrist.

Willie, the eight-year-old son of Mr. Spencer, and his three-year-old sister, Lucy, were witnesses of the old hen's fight, but not until the third one had coiled itself around the old Dorking and was fast squeezing the life out of her did they give an alarm. William Thompson, a farmhand, killed the snake. Willie says that two of the snakes were fighting the hen at the same time, and that she had just dispatched them when the third one came along. Her wing was broken, but, after it had been bandaged she went back on the nest.

ENGLISH ETCHINGS.

England has 192 prisons.

Three hundred English fishermen are drowned every year—nearly nine in 1,000 of those engaged.

The city of London possesses a rate collector named White who has held office for just seventy years and is now rapidly approaching his five-score years.

A cabinetmaker, George Murr, who has died at Grantham, England, at the age of seventy-eight, was employed by the same firm for sixty-seven years. He not only worked in the same shop, but actually at the same bench. Murr took the only holiday of his life twenty-six years ago.

TALES THEY TELL.

An old woman in Hannibal, Mo., recently used a railroad ticket bought twenty-five years ago.

A prisoner at Marshall, Mich., ate three electric light bulbs and a clay pipe in an effort to kill himself, but failed.

A hen owned by W. F. Gresham, a farmer living near Leeds, Ala., laid an egg on which were "V. B. G., '08." The hen is named Vic.

A sanitary inspector found in the foreign residential quarter in Alliance, O., a cow stabled in the cellar of a house and a six-week-old calf in the parlor upstairs.

FLIPPANT FLINGS.

Dr. G. A. Waterman, who says fatigue is not a germ, but a condition, may be right, but sometimes it is plainly a heritage.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Senator Davis says that no man on earth ever made $1,000,000 honestly. Oh, we don't know about that! Waiting for a rich relative to die is honest enough, and it's hard work besides.—Washington Post.

Drunken Firemen Merely Suspended.

Captain George Simmons and Driver John Feeley, of Hook and Ladder Company 2, of Bayonne, who were recently tried by the Council on charges of being drunk and disorderly while on duty, were declared guilty by the unanimous vote of the board yesterday. The Republican members endeavored to pass a resolution dismissing both men, but the four Democrats voted against it and defeated the resolution. The firemen are under suspension. The action of the Democrats in preventing the dismissal displeased Mayor Pierre Garven.

Fear "Effeminizing" School.

The Montclair school authorities have taken steps to decrease the danger of "effeminization" of the schools there. By order of the Board of Education Miss Wiggins, who has been in charge of the Maple avenue school for a number of years, will be removed, and her place will be taken by a man. Miss Wiggins will be assigned to another post at the same salary.

BASEBALL.

The Independent Athletic Club, recently organized, would like to schedule with teams averaging eleven years. The lineup follows: Richard Tayson, pitcher; John Cottrell, catcher; Everett Banks, first base; Peyton Schenck, second base; James McNamee, short-stop; Meade Holstein, third base; Frederick Pope, right field; David Schenck, centre field; Gerald Varley, left field. Address James McNamee, manager, 423 Central avenue.

Borough High Starts Season.

The North Plainfield High School nine is at Westfield today, playing the opening game of the season with the Westfield High School. The game is being played at Recreation Park. The local nine is weakened by the absence of Tone Overton at second base and Pitcher Smith is not in best form, because of recent sickness. He will, however, start the game in the box, but his place will probably be taken by Will Day.

P. H. S.—Morris High Tomorrow.

The Morris High School nine will be the opponents of the P. H. S. team tomorrow afternoon on Crescent Oval. The metropolitan nine is reported to be a strong one. The local nine will play Westfield High School in this city Monday afternoon.

Defi by Myrtle Avenue Bowlers.

Through Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield, the "Myrtle Avenues," a Park Club bowling team, of which he is captain, has issued a challenge to roll "teams from any two streets and Fairview avenue." This defi has been accepted, and although the date has not yet been set, it is understood that "Washington Avenue" bowlers will be among the ten men who will constitute the opposing team.

QUALITY! ECONOMY!! CREDIT!!!

These are three fundamental principles upon which our successful business is built. Every garment we make and sell is strictly high grade and dependable in every respect. Our garments are scientifically constructed and wear as well as they look. The prices are guaranteed to be cheaper than elsewhere, comparing with the same kind and style of garments offered at any other reliable store. We don't include, of course, such concerns that do not carry enough stock to clothe a Corporal's guard. Conducting so many stores under one management enables us to offer the best values, and the great advantages derived from our headquarters being located in New York City enables us to supply our stores with the very latest styles at the lowest price.

OUR GENEROUS OFFER

Select any garment in the house for either Men, Women or Children, compare it with any garment of the same kind style and quality offered at any other reliable store, and if you are not convinced to your own satisfaction that ours is the better made and costs less, you need not keep it. You should benefit by the experience of others—that it pays to trade with an old, reliable firm that has been with you for many years, and here to stay for years to come. We offer 10,000 people of Union, Middlesex and Somerset counties, who are trading with us, as reference for our Honesty, Reliability and Courtesy. A visit to our establishment will convince you of the absolute leadership in these lines—the largest credit clothing store in the State.

The Cavalry Trumpets.

The trumpets blowing to the desperate riding,
Our squadrons forming on the long hill's marge!—
Trumpets, O trumpets, with your strepitous chiding,
Blow out the signal for the furious charge!

The angry sunset flaring in our faces,
Up from the hollow south the rushing rain,
A cold wind out of devastated places
Riffling the guidon and the tossing mane.

Kin to all brave emprise and high endeavor,
Lift us, O music; let our hearts not fail!
Link us with all heroic fight forever,
Sib to the seekers of the Holy Grail!

Fly out and fling us far in dust and thunder,
Down through the rushing struggle's fierce increase—
To living victory, to death and the still wonder
Of God's great, sudden Peace.
—S. H. Kemper, in the Reader.

The Valley of White Poppies.

Between the gray pastures and the dark wood;
A valley of white poppies is lit by the low moon;
It is the grave of dreams, a holy rood.

It is quiet there; no wind doth ever fall:
Long, long ago a wind sang once a heart-sweet rune,
Now the white poppies grow, silent and tall.

A white bird floats there like a drifting leaf;
It feeds upon faint sweet hopes and perishing dreams
And the still breath of unremembering grief.

And as a silent leaf the white bird passes,
Winnowing the dusk by dim forgetful streams;
I am alone now among the silent grasses.
—Fiona Macleod.

The End of a Poet.

He had the fever right hard, he did,
He hankered to be a bard, he did,
But got decidedly jarred, he did,
In hunting a rhyme for month.

He swore he would swim or sink, he did,
So he got his paper and ink, he did,
And then he began to think, he did,
To hunt up a rhyme for month.

He balked at calling it June, he did,
Declared it was out of tune, he did,
Said nothing would fit his rune, he did,
Excepting a rhyme for month.

He knew he could make his name, he did,
He felt he was meant for fame, he did,
Declared it a beastly shame, he did,
The scarceness of rhymes for month.

He melted a heart of stone, he did,
Gave up the job with a groan, he did,
Left Shakespeare to twinkle alone, he did,
For lack of a rhyme for month.
—N. Y. Sun.

Upon the Way.

I.
Some joyous miles beyond the break of day
I find myself upon a toilsome way.

II.
And now a forest walls and roofs me in,
And seeming exits end where they begin.

III.
The falling leaves obscure the path I trod—
Each forward step I press the virgin sod.

IV.
I know not why nor whence this journeying,
Nor yet the end of this adventuring.

V.
For aught of law or logic, it were vain—
And yet I sense the Sunlight on the plain.

VI.
And stumbling on I shall emerge at last
And learn the lesson of my groping past.
—Clarence Ousley in Uncle Remus' Magazine.

Gray Eyes.

Like quiet morning waters are her eyes,
Softened by shadows to a deeper gray,
In whose untroubled depths no image lies
Of any thought less calm, less pure than they.

But for the gradual smiles that dawn as day,
Lighting the dim recesses where they rise,
Like quiet morning waters are her eyes,
Softened by shadows to a deeper gray.

Silent they are, yet eloquently wise
Of visions splendid that no words convey;
As if once having looked on Paradise
Still were they loath to turn their gaze away.
Like quiet morning waters are her eyes,
Softened by shadows to a deeper gray.
—Ethelwyn Dithridge in The Reader.

Kismet.

We rail at fate, when things go wrong,
As if we never were to blame.
We talk of Kismet, curse our luck—
And know we're guilty, just the same,
Sometimes we may be victims of
Some evil spirit's tricksy elves,
But as a rule we must admit,
We make our troubles for ourselves.

However, Kismet doesn't mind.
Fate's shoulders lightly bear the load
We heap upon them, as we go
Along life's dusty, toilsome road.
And so no doubt 'twill ever be,
For man will always be the same;
He'll get himself into a hole,
And fate will have to bear the blame.
—Somerville Journal.

Patience.

It takes a heap o' week days
To prepare for Sunday's rest;
It takes a heap o' ripenin'
Till the fruit is at its best;
It takes a heap o' practice
Till you learn to sing a song—
A lot o' patience is required
To push this world along.

It takes a heap o' weather
Goin' every kind o' way,
Before we see the splendor
Of a truly perfect day.
An' it often takes long sorrow
Ere you earn the right to smile,
But it sure is worth the waitin'
To be happy for a while.
—Washington Star.

The Faithful Toiler.

Dunno whar I'll be
At de Jedgmint Day,
But I know I hoe de cotton,
An' I bring de grass ter hay,
An' de Lawd'll sho' fergive me
Ef I only work my way!

Dunno whar I'll be
W'en de worl' is blazin' red,
But I work ter make de shelter
Dat is kiverin' my head,
An' de Lawd'll sho' fergive me
Ef I give His chillun bread!
—Atlanta Constitution.

Nice Work for Women.

A celebrated Danish actress has such a reputation as a trunk packer that it has been proposed to her that she be a member of a faculty in a school for trunk packing. Women who make a success of such work would no doubt find plenty of employment during the months of flitting by women and men travelers both. And there might be an opening for a woman who could do such work to perfection at the large hotels.

Improves on Nature.

An English publication tells a somewhat fairylike story about a new rouge that has been invented that will last for years and is so much like the bloom of youth that it turns pale when the lady is sick and when she is well again gets rosier and rosier. This would certainly be an improvement on nature, which has a way of turning blue or yellow upon inopportune occasions.

Cook's Great Record.

"Concentrate your mind on the oven," said Miss Teresa McDonald of Boston in explaining the wonders of her art in pastry cooking. She owns to the proud record of 394,000 pies baked in 40 years at one restaurant, besides scores of other dainties. If all her pies were laid out in a row they would reach 70 miles. She has made 2,000,000 doughnuts in 27 years and 788,400 puddings.

Difference in Medal's Cost.

A Frenchman, meeting an English soldier with a Waterloo medal, animadverted sneeringly on the government for bestowing such a trifle, which, he declared, did not cost three francs. "That is true, to be sure," replied the hero, "it did not cost the English government quite three francs, but it cost the French a Napoleon."—New York Press.

Scientific Phenomenon.

It has been found that if two layers of pure water, one hot and the other cold, are separated by a membrane, a process of endosmosis takes place from the cold to the hot water, exactly comparable to that between water and sugar solution. The same phenomenon is shown in a very marked way when hot and cold air are separated by a membrane.—Engineer.

Hold Confidence Sacred.

In intercourse with society it behooves us to keep in mind that a burdened spirit, in the relief afforded by communication and sympathy, is sometimes led into disclosures which may afterwards be sorely regretted. It should be felt binding, therefore, on the honor of the receiver, to hold sacred even an implied confidence.—Gilbert Ann Taylor.

Willing to Sample It.

An old Scotchwoman, who was very fond of gossip and a dram, was induced to sign the temperance pledge. Calling upon a friend one day the bottle was produced, and a glass handed to her. "Na, na, Mrs. Mitchell," said the gossip; "I have signed the pledge ne'er to touch nor handle a glass again, but if ye'll put a wee drap in a cup I'll sample it."

FACTS ABOUT NEW THEORY SECURED BY INTERVIEWS

People Tell the Reason for Their Faith in Cooper's Belief.

An article from the Nashville, Tenn., Banner, published during L. T. Cooper's visit to that city, throws some light on the remarkable success of the young man's theories and medicines in various cities visited by him during the past year. The article is as follows:

"In view of the enormous sale of Cooper's preparations now going on in this city and the intense interest which Mr. Cooper has stirred up since his arrival, a representative of the Banner spent Thursday afternoon at the young man's headquarters, watching the swarm of humanity come and go.

"During the afternoon the reporter interviewed many of the callers and obtained statements from all who cared to give them as to their experience with Cooper and his preparations.

"The following are selected from those statements as being typical of the general expression of the people seen:

"Mr. B. B. Lasater, living at 1221 North Fourth avenue, when interviewed, said: 'I have been troubled with my stomach for the past two years, and have had rheumatism for more than five years. Sometimes I could not walk, and there were times when I could not even move in bed. Hard knots would form on my muscles, which caused me intense pain. Gas formed on my stomach after eating, which gave me much pain and distress, and often I was restless and tossed all night, losing much sleep and rest.

"'Hearing of Mr. Cooper and the great work his medicine was accomplishing for others, I decided to try it. I have taken it about two weeks, and find myself in a greatly improved condition. My stomach is in good shape, and does not trouble me at all. My rheumatism has nearly disappeared, and I expect to resume work shortly, for the first time in twelve months. Mr. Cooper certainly has a wonderful medicine, and I am grateful for what it has done for me.'

"Another caller was Mrs. T. J. Smith, of 505 Hudson street. She said: 'I have been a sufferer from bladder and kidney trouble for twenty-five years. In that time I have tried many prescriptions and various kinds of medicine, but received little or no benefit from them. I seldom had a sound night's sleep, my rest being broken at intervals throughout the night. I had pains in my back and burning sensations.

"'I heard so much of Mr. Cooper that I came to the conclusion he might be able to afford me some relief. I have now been taking the medicine about a week, and feel better in every way. The pain has disappeared, and I have no distress whatever. I have come here today to express my appreciation to Mr. Cooper for his wonderful medicine and what it has done in my case. I will take pleasure in recommending it to others.'

"In spite of assertions by various physicians that Cooper is a fad who will soon die out, the young man seems to be gaining even greater headway as his visit draws to a close."

The agency for Cooper's celebrated medicines has been given to us. We are making a fine record with them.

"Think Naught a Trifle."

It is not always the marked changes in our life or circumstances that produce such corresponding change, as we might look for, in character. We have, what seems, great opportunities, and pass through them unimproved; and again, a very trifle shall turn unexpectedly, the whole course of our habits and motives, henceforth.—Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney.

Nearer the Soil.

One feature of the banquet which proved by no means the least enjoyable was the delicious punch which was served. Charles Melton, the mixologist of the Dewey bar, prepared the punch, and when it comes to preparing it right your Uncle Charles is "there" with both feet.—Nampa (Idaho) Leader-Herald.

Declares Women Lack Humor.

Lida Rose McCabe says that women are lacking in humor and that most of them either take a hyperserious view of life or look at it from an ultra-frivolous standpoint. Women are too highly conventionalized to be able to appreciate humor with the keenness of men from their broader outlook.

Inheritance and Environment.

Inheritance and environment are not only realities, but are the most important elements of the everyday life. The thought of yesterday fixes the tendency of to-day. The conditions of to-day are the background against which every life is projected.—Albion W. Tourgee.

Convenience for Telegraphing.

When a traveler in the grand duchy of Baden wants to send a telegram while he is on the train, he writes the message on a postcard with the request that it be wired, puts on a stamp and drops into the train letter box. At the next station the box is cleared and the message sent.

Wooden Warships Lasted Long.

Some of the old-time frigates lived four times as long as our modern battleships and cruisers, and they were made entirely of wood. Steel ships rust out; wooden ships wear out. At ten years our navy is obsolete or practically so.—New York Press.

High Price for Rare Stamp.

One of the rarest stamps in existence, the 20 centimes or 15 centimes of Italy, issued in April, 1865, has just been sold for £36 at a London auction. The specimen is known as the variety with dots and surcharge inverted.

A Suggestion.

A Boston gentleman has, out of sympathy, married a woman who was knocked down by his motor car, and had a leg amputated. We believe that if this kind of thing were made obligatory by law we should hear of fewer people being run over.

Sign and Guard of Sanity.

A man's life and influence is measured by the range of interests to which he can respond. A store of permanent and valued interests is both a sign and guard of sanity.—Henry Churchill King.

Boy Was an Observer.

"What is the best place in which to keep fresh milk in hot weather?" asked the teacher. "Please, teacher, in the cow," answered the small boy who had just returned from a country holiday.

Crowded Out of Own House.

The bishop of London had the experience recently of being crowded out of his own house. He had agreed to open a bazaar at Fulham palace, but when he arrived the crush was so great that he could not at first get in.

The Evils of Divorce.

Not a few of the matrimonial failures are due to the fact that a good many women get married merely to keep the public from supposing they have never been proposed to.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Cider Drinking in England.

In the English cider countries all the inns still display the old legend: "Drunk for a penny; dead drunk for twopence." Cider plays a notable part in the Christmas festivities.

Work of Watch Wheels.

The main wheel of a watch makes 460 revolutions a year, the central wheel 8,760, the third wheel 70,080, the fourth 525,600 and the escape wheel 731,860.

Causes of Neuralgic Headache.

At least 90 per cent. of all cases of neuralgic headache are attributed by Dr. Toms, an American oculist, to defects of the eyes.

LOST WILL IS FOUND IN NEST OF RODENTS

FINDER AS RESULT IS NOW RICHER BY TWO COWS, GUINEA PIGS AND HENS.

McKeever, N. Y.—Simon North is mightily glad that his grandfather Ezra was old fashioned enough to write his will on parchment, otherwise he would have failed to inherit two cows, a guinea pig, 37 hens and a silver tobacco box. Had Ezra used ordinary writing paper his will would never have been found, for the rats got it and hid it in a nest they made under the woodshed floor.

Ezra North died three months ago, and it was generally supposed that he had left Simon something, but when the relatives searched in an old box where he said they would find his will they discovered nothing but bits of chewed-up paper. The rats had got into the box and the paper scraps appeared to have once been receipted bills.

The Parchment Proved to Be the Lost Will.

As it now appeared that the old gentleman had died intestate the property was divided among the sons and daughters and Simon got nothing. One of the first acts of the heirs to the property was to improve it by tearing down the old woodshed and using it for kindling wood. When they got to the floor they found the nests of many rats. In one of the nests was a sheet of parchment. It bore the marks of teeth, as though the rats had tried to tear it, but it was still intact and the writing was legible. The parchment proved to be the lost will, and when it was read it was found that the old gentleman had given all his livestock, chickens, hens and his tobacco box to his grandson Simon. The rest of the property was willed to his sons and daughter.

The will was executed in 1881, when Simon was 14 years old. The lad was a great favorite with his grandfather and he remembers that he promised to "set him up in farming." The cows, hens, guinea pigs and tobacco box were distributed over three townships and Simon had to collect them after the will was probated.

MAN LIVES LIKE AN APE.

Only Survivor of Wrecked Ship Found in Belgian Forest.

Brussels.—Through the efforts of Baron Grynsdaal, the Norwegian philanthropist, a man who had lived like an ape for 12 years in the forests of Belgium and France has been returned to his home in Norway. He was the only survivor of the Norwegian barque Mygrean, which was wrecked in 1895. He had lost his reason from the shock.

When found the man was in the forest of Soignies, where he had lived for some time, and had inspired the population in the neighborhood with fear. Finally it was decided to form a party to capture him. He was seen to be moving along very quickly, jumping from branch to branch. The men tried to seize him, but he got away from them and successfully hid himself in the thicket.

Another attempt—this one successful—was made by a crowd of villagers who surrounded him. His body was covered with short hair. He had flowing, disordered hair and a long, matted beard, resembling an orang-outang. When seized he shrieked, but did not reply to the questions put to him. The bread offered him he ate ravenously.

The man was identified by the medal attached to a string around his neck bearing the word "Mygrean." When he boarded the vessel for Norway the captain addressed him in Norwegian. The man was seized with violent emotion and fainted. When he recovered he was able to answer the captain's questions sensibly and told dozen years.

Kills Tiger in Gas Oven.

New York.—Thomas Beet, proprietor of a private detective agency, killed a pet tiger cub after a fierce struggle following the brute's attack on Beet's six-year-old daughter, Dorothy. Mr. Beet finally killed the cub by asphyxiating it in a gas oven.

Empress played with the children like a big cat. Mr. Beet was sitting in his parlor when he heard his daughter screaming in the kitchen. He ran in and found Dorothy cowering in a corner.

Before the girl crouched Empress, her lips drawn over her fangs and her tail swishing, while she snarled menacingly.

Changed His Mind.

At a club the other day a woman told the story of her brother coming to a city alone and friendless, and how much he enjoyed looking in at the windows where happy families were gathered together. He declared that when he had a home of his own the curtains should always be raised. "And are they?" asked a lady who was interested in the conversation. "Well, you see," hesitated the sister, "his wife objected to other people looking into her house all the time."

True Friendship a Great Gift.

Most of all men need the grip of the hand of a fellow and the nearness of a life on which they can draw. To be a true friend to any man is to give him the greatest gift we have to impart. To walk in comradeship with our fellows, being true always to the best in ourselves, is to help them best to that which is great and true. To walk ourselves in friendship with things infinite and holy is to find eternal life.

Greatest Compliment.

The late Lord Shaftesbury one time related an incident regarding which he says that the little girl's trust was to him the greatest compliment he had ever received. This little girl, a mite of a lass, wished to cross the street, and was waiting for some one to help her. After looking searchingly into the faces of all those who passed, she finally decided to choose the earl, and approached him, saying: "Please, sir, will you help me over?"

What Is a Lyric?

Among the ancients lyrical poetry was a verse to be sung to the accompaniment of the lyre, or harp. In modern usage the term lyrical is confined to songs relating to feelings or emotions, as distinct from descriptive songs. For instance, the "Bay of Biscay" is a song, but not a lyric; while Burns' "Highland Mary" is an exquisite specimen of the lyric.

Reading.

History makes men wise, poetry witty, mathematics subtle, philosophy deep, morals grave, logic and rhetoric able to contend; nay, there is no impediment in the wit but may be wrought out by fit study, where every defect of the mind has its proper remedy. Those that have the excellent faculty of using all they know can never know too much.

Novels at Night Time.

A writer in Queen says that after ten o'clock at night the mind is a sieve and it does not make any difference what we read so that the type is legible, and light novels are good nightcaps. A detective story at bedtime is to many people as good as a sleeping powder, switching the mind away from the worries of the day and soothing it preparatory to sleep.

Willing.

"John is complaining," whispered young Mrs. Justhitch, to her mother, "that his eggs are too hard. He is foolish about having them soft-boiled. Well, I'll get the next batch boiled soft enough for him, if I have to cook 'em two hours!"

The Philosopher of Folly.

"Necessities may be higher than ever," says the Philosopher of Folly, "but luxuries are going down in price. Take chewing gum, for instance. I saw a sign in a confectioner's window to-day, 'Gum Drops 5 Cents.'"

Woman's Inhumanity.

"When you read about the way they are killing those beautiful birds down in Florida," said Mrs. Lapsling, "you wonder how any woman can be so heartless as to wear a vinaigrette on her hat!"

Peculiar Scientific Fact.

The curious fact is noted by Prof. Lambain of Breslau that careful measurements of the intensity of gravitation in different parts of the globe show this to be greater on islands than on continents.

Total Area of Forests.

The total area of forests now belonging to the government of the United States is about 160,000,000 acres, and it is forever exempted from sale and settlement.

THE GENTLE CYNIC.

The social whirl is apt to make a girl giddy.

An ounce of scare is often worth a pound of advice.

The man who has no music in his soul might try a shoe horn.

The fool jumps at conclusions, the wise man jumps away from them.

It is hard to preach total abstinence when lemonade costs more than beer.

The fellow who always has his hammer out is seldom the one to nail a lie.

The umbrella prefers a rainy night for a hold-up, but the footpad isn't so particular.

Strange as it may seem you can save yourself a lot of trouble by not borrowing any.

It is said that wealth doesn't bring happiness, but most of us are willing to try the experiment.

After all, there isn't a whole lot of difference between entering upon a career and getting a job.

One man in a thousand feels that he is appreciated, and that man may really be overestimated.

Adam looked out for number one, and his descendants have been doing the same thing ever since.

Many a fellow has fallen in love with a peach, only to discover that fate has handed him a lemon.

THOUGHTS ON THINGS.

Liars occasionally tell the truth; they do it to make their lies go down.

Mr. Rockefeller says the first million is the hardest to make. This teaches us that we should make our second million first.

No woman is so poor a mathematician but that she calculates every few months how much her husband would save if he cut out tobacco.

Though many piano-playing machines are on the market, young ladies find no more time than formerly to help their mothers with the housework.

One difference between a man and a woman is that the man will carry home an 18-pound turkey, while the woman will have the van deliver a packet of hairpins.

A beauty doctor says the eyes should never be placed farther apart than the width of one eye. Let us remember this, girls, when dressing for the next dance.

GENERAL CHURCH NOTES.

In Japan there is one Sunday school pupil for every 720 inhabitants, but in Korea the proportion is one to every 270.

The church missionary society's workers in Persia have in six years gained 119 converts from Mohammedanism.

Elected six weeks ago as Episcopal bishop of eastern Oregon, Rev. Robert Louis Paddock of New York has decided to accept the position.

"Moving pictures and songs, with social science class," is a part of the Sunday services of the Theodore Parker Memorial church at Boston.

The recent action of the bishop of Dorking in volunteering for work outside of England has inspired a number of men to follow his example.

The German Baptist Brethren of Iowa, or Dunkards as they are more commonly known, have opened a home for the aged near Marshalltown.

MERE OPINION.

No man ever rectified a mistake by refusing to acknowledge it.

People frequently mistake for candor what is mere garrulousness.

Too many people are like the poems in the magazines—merely used to fill in.

Most women cease to care for poetry after young men quit reading it to them.

Nearly every man has faith in himself, but comparatively few have the courage to put their faith to the test.

Along about the time that a man ceases to notice that his ears stick out he begins to worry about the size of his waist.

OVER THE CURLING TONGS.

Some time or other a woman learns this philosophy:

Not to be too unselfish, or she will only make others selfish.

Not to think of herself, if she doesn't want to be miserable.

Not to expect anything, if she doesn't want to be disappointed.

Not to waste her life fretting for congenial spirits, but to make congenial spirits of the people about her.

With all the advantages of youth, education and good looks and no vocation other than the enjoyment of wealth, the hero of our present story chose rather to sacrifice his ease and comfort on the altar of his duty as a citizen. His city called him to save her from spoliation and corruption, and he responded to the call. To lure him from the path of right came the seductions of love and the claims of a revered parent's memory, allied with the mighty forces at the command of political and financial malefactors. The firmness with which "the man of the hour," singled out for the highest post in a great municipality by those who saw in him only a weakling and a tool, resisted the very forces that had elevated him for their own purposes to official power will be an inspiration to the reader, as it has been an uplifting force in the minds of thousands who have witnessed its theatrical representation.

CHAPTER I.

THE country house of Charles Wainwright, financier, topped the ridge overlooking the water in a climax of architectural hideousness and extravagant cost. The grounds of Charles Wainwright, financier, stretched out into countless acres of landscape gardening. The whole estate of Charles Wainwright, financier, eclipsed those of his neighbors in the fashionable suburb, even as the name of Charles Wainwright, financier, eclipsed almost every other in the city world where money ruled as undisputed and absolute monarch.

Even when he turned from the bustle of city and fellow-money builders and sought for a space the simple life on his $2,500,000 country place, with its modest equipment of forty-one servants, Mr. Wainwright so far carried into the wilds the atmosphere of business and the burden of other men's wealth as to have a very complete little stockbroker room fitted up adjoining his big library and to keep a man night and day at his private wire.

Charles Wainwright, financier, was a bachelor. No obese or statuesque wife carried about with her a portable advertisement of his wealth in the shape of fabulously valuable jewels or made his name renowned in opera box, Newport casino or Lenox cottage. His only brother had died years before, leaving a mere beggarly million dollars or so and two children to divide it. These children—Dallas, a strikingly pretty and still more strikingly independent girl of twenty-four, and Perry, a delightfully lazy, lovable lad of twenty-one—lived with their uncle, who managed their affairs, let them go pretty much as they chose and—as they were more or less ornamental and entertaining and decidedly popular—was rather fond of them.

The trio had passed a pleasant, uneventful month at the big house on the hill early in the summer of 19—, when a day dawned whereon fate booked a number of decidedly interesting fateful happenings to occur.

Wainwright himself was up betimes and at work in his library, poring over market reports, cipher telegrams and a dozen other details of deals which his simple life cult did not prevent him from operating at long range. With him was his secretary, Thompson, a pallid, earnest looking young fellow, whose unobtrusive efficiency had long since won the financier's admiration.

This morning affairs in the financial world had gone more than ordinarily to Mr. Wainwright's liking. Moreover, a paragraph in one of the city papers that had caught his eyes had set his lean gray face to twitching with as near an approach to a smile as the great man ever permitted. Altogether he was in an unwontedly genial mood, and some of his good nature so far expanded as to include his busy secretary.

"Thompson," he remarked as the last batch of correspondence was cleared away, "you're looking pale. Do I work you too hard?"

"No, indeed, sir," replied the secretary, with a promptitude that had something almost slavish in it.

"Feeling all right?" went on Wainwright. "You need more exercise. Why don't you get out of doors oftener?"

"The work, sir"—

"Get another man to help you do the telegraph part of it, then. I"—

"Thank you, sir. You are very kind indeed; but, if it's just the same to you, I'd rather handle it all myself. I hope the work's perfectly satisfactory, sir?"

"Perfectly, Thompson. You're the only employee I have who seems to love work for work's sake. Seen anything of Mr. Gibbs this morning?"

"No, sir. I don't believe he's up yet. Coming by such a late train last night, you know, sir, and"—

"I was up as late as he was, and I was at work by 8. But when a man takes his first holiday in six years, as he is doing, I suppose oversleeping is part of the fun. There's a man to pattern yourself after, Thompson! I remember when he started out he hadn't a penny—nothing but the resolve to get money and then to get more of it. And now look at him! At thirty-five he's the head of one of the busiest brokerage houses in"—

"Good morning!" broke in a voice from the foot of the broad stairway across the hall. "Sorry to be so late. Do you know how the market is?"

"It's opened even stronger than I hoped," said Wainwright. "Take a look at these dispatches and see for yourself. Had your breakfast?"

"Yes, thanks," answered the newcomer, a well groomed, stockily built man, lounging into the rooms, with a nod at Thompson, who discreetly withdrew into the adjoining office. "Seems queer to have a whole day away from the office. I hardly know what to do with so much spare time."

"It's the everyday hard work that's put you where you are today, Gibbs, and that's interested me in you. For instance, that deal of yours in South Sea copper"—

Scott Gibbs.

"Yet that was the deal the papers all"—

"All denounced you for? What do you care? You were within the law. They've been hammering me for years and attributing all sorts of low motives to me. As long as the law doesn't interfere I'm going to get all I can. So are you. So is every sane man. As long as it can be done without any fuss or shouting. A mosquito could bite twice as often if only he didn't sing a song about it. By the way, have you seen the papers?"

"No. Anything new?"

"One thing at least that ought to interest you. Listen to this: 'The engagement of the niece of a world celebrated financier to a prominent young broker is about to be announced. The young lady and her brother are orphans and are not only their famous uncle's wards, but also the sole heirs to his vast wealth. They are summering at his magnificent country place, where the fortunate broker is said to spend every one of the very few moments left vacant by his daring stock manipulations.' No mistaking that, eh, Gibbs?"

"It—it ought to bring matters to a head, I should think."

"It certainly should," assented Wainwright. "In fact, it's such an audacious master stroke that I've a notion you may possibly have been at the bottom of it. Now, confess. Weren't you?"

"Well, of course I didn't exactly write it. But"—

"Clever boy! Dallas will have to show her hand now or never. She's kept you on the anxious seat too long as it is. That's the reason I asked you up here for the day. She must settle it today if I can manage it. She knows how anxious I am for her to accept you."

"But I'm sometimes afraid she does not care for me."

"Then make her care. As long as she cares for no one else you can persuade her to believe she adores you."

"How do you know? You're a bachelor."

"Perhaps that's how I know. And she doesn't care for any one else."

"You're sure? There's Bennett, for instance."

"Alwyn Bennett? Why, absurd! She's known him all her life. They're just good friends; nothing more. He's our nearest neighbor here, and it's only natural. Besides, he isn't the sort of man she wants. He's an idler. She likes men who have made something of themselves—like yourself, for instance. So make yourself easy on that score. If Bennett loved her, he'd have proposed long ago."

"Not necessarily. He's not a man to get started easily, but once start him and"—

"Then don't start him. Go in and win. What is it, Thompson?"

The secretary entered from the office with a dispatch.

"There's an answer, sir," said he. "Here's a blank."

Wainwright read the message, scribbled a few lines and handed the reply to the secretary, who hurried out with it.

"So Thompson is not only a secretary, but a telegraph operator as well," remarked Gibbs as the clicking of a Morse instrument sounded from the office.

"He's everything," replied Wainwright. "He's a wonder. He heard me say I wished I had a good operator up here whom I could trust, so without a word to me he goes and learns telegraphy. I've had him nine years now and tested and tempted him fifty ways, but he's as true as steel, the one employee I ever had that I could trust. By the way, the message he just brought me ought to interest you. It tells me Borough Street railway stock is offered now at 63. I've given orders for your office to take all they can get hold of at that price quietly and without making any bids or attracting attention. That'll be the biggest deal of my career if I can carry it through. You understand your part perfectly—to take for yourself 20 per cent of the deal, handle the whole affair on the floor and not buy any of the stock for your own private account? Stick to that and there's just one thing that can possibly block us."

"You mean the defeat of the present city administration this fall?"

"Just that, and I don't believe it will be beaten. The organization's solid as a rock. They have the police, the officeholders and"—

"But the people at large?"

"The people at large are sheep that like to be driven by the strongest shepherd. If they weren't, they'd have broken loose a century ago and run the city and the country to suit themselves. Just now Dick Horrigan happens to be the 'shepherd' who can make them go wherever he says."

"Shepherd and 'crook' combined, I should say," commented Gibbs, chuckling at his own feeble joke.

"I wouldn't let a speech like that get back to Horrigan if I were you," returned Wainwright dryly. "Your career might suffer. Nothing (except, maybe, gratitude) is so bad as humor for spoiling a man's chances in business or politics. A laugh costs more than people think. But, speaking of the election this fall, a reform wave or any change of city administration would smash our Borough Street railway deal. To offset that, I've joined hands with Horrigan. If I can bring him to see things my way, he shall have cash enough to buy all the honest voters he needs. He's coming here this noon to talk things over with me. Phelan's coming too."

"Phelan? You mean the alderman of the Eighth? You'll have a pleasant little gathering. Perhaps you didn't know that Phelan and Horrigan have had a row and"—

"And that's why I'm bringing them together here today. I want to patch up their quarrel if I can. I need them both. Phelan's a useful man."

"But Horrigan is boss of the organization. If you have him on your side, why do you bother about getting Phelan too?"

"Yes, Horrigan is boss. He's fought his way up by bulldog tactics. He has no diplomacy—nothing but brute force. Now, Phelan has just as much force in his way, but he's as tricky as a fox too. I've known him ever since he was chief of police. He's a dangerous man. If he's against us, he can make trouble. I want him. He's"—

"Judge Newman!" announced the butler.

A whimsical frown crossed Wainwright's face, but cleared into a passably hospitable expression as a little gray haired man, with a solemn, weak face, trotted pompously in on the heels of the butler's announcement.

"Good morning, judge," said the host pleasantly. "You don't know Mr. Gibbs, I think, of Gibbs, Norton & Co.? Judge Newman is my next door neighbor on the left as you come from the station, Gibbs. You must have noticed the place—Queen Anne house, with"—

"Oh, he probably never gave it a glance," put in the judge. "A mere cottage, that's all. When a man with my meager judicial salary has a social position to keep up and four daughters that aren't married and—Charles, you can't realize what it means to have four unmarried"—

"No, I cannot," assented Wainwright quickly, "and from present signs I'm not likely to. I hope Mrs. Newman is well?"

The little judge's face grew doubly important.

"Extremely well, thank you," said he. "A wonderful woman! You've met her, Mr. Gibbs? No! But of course you have often heard—By the way, Charles, it was she who told me to drop in on you this morning. You see—I—she—Mrs. Newman is most anxious for me to come up for re-election this fall. Mr. Horrigan, to whom I broached the subject, doesn't quite seem to see it that way. He doesn't want to have me renominated. I thought perhaps, as a personal favor to so old a friend, you might say a word to Mr. Horrigan in my behalf."

"I thought you might say a word to Mr. Horrigan in my behalf."

"Of course I'll do what little I can. Horrigan will be here today. Drop in a little after noon and I'll tell you how my intervention turns out."

"Oh, thank you so much!" cried the judge, positively wriggling in his delight. "Mrs. Newman will be so pleased. And, by the way, won't you ask Perry why he never comes over to see my daughters? Please ask him if he won't. I'm sure Mrs. Newman would be glad if he did. Well, till afternoon, then. Good morning."

"Queer little rat!" observed Gibbs as the judge bowed himself out. "Mrs. Newman must be a marvel if all he says is"—

"She is a wonder as a husband trainer. She's tamed him so he doesn't know his soul's his own. A good little man because he's never had a chance to be otherwise. I'll speak to Horrigan about him, though. It's always well to have a friend on the bench. One never can tell when"—

But Gibbs was not listening. His heavy face had lighted with a sudden glow of eagerness. Turning to note the cause, Wainwright saw his niece Dallas descending the stairs. Involuntarily she halted as she reached the threshold and saw Gibbs. Then, her sense of hospitality triumphing over impulse, she came in and greeted her uncle's guest with some show of cordiality.

"Remember, Dallas," said Wainwright as he prepared to go into his office, "Gibbs is here only for the day. I count on you to make his holiday as pleasant as you can." He glanced covertly at Gibbs, who had strolled to the window. Then the financier lowered his voice and said rapidly:

"Please be nice to Gibbs for my sake, Dallas. I do a great deal for you, and I don't often ask anything in return."

He patted her on the shoulder with a gesture meant to be affectionate and hurried into the adjoining office. Scarcely had the door closed when Gibbs turned from the window, crossed the room to where Dallas stood and in his usual direct fashion said:

"You saw that"—

"The article in this morning's paper? Yes."

There was no confusion, no embarrassment, neither in the clear, girlish voice nor in the honest dark eyes that met Gibbs' so calmly. He went on with a shade less confidence.

"It annoys you?"

"Very much indeed."

"You can't feel worse about it than I do, Miss Wainwright. I"—

"You didn't write it yourself, then?"

"I? Of course not! How could you think"—

"I didn't; I just wondered. Please see that the rumor is denied."

"Why should I? You are going to marry me some day, aren't you, Dallas?"

"Have I ever given you reason to think I would?"

"You have let me keep on coming to see you. You have"—

"I have told you that I don't care for you the way you want me to. I have great admiration and respect for you, but that is all. And it is not enough to marry on."

"It is enough for me. If I have your admiration and respect to start on I'll soon make you love me."

"You would be satisfied with so little?"

"Yes. Knowing I could in time win more. You aren't the sort of girl who could marry a man if she didn't respect him—didn't admire him. You"—

"Perhaps I couldn't marry such a man. But perhaps I couldn't help loving him."

"Your chances for happiness would be better with me. Oh, Dallas, you know I love you! You've kept me waiting so long! Is it fair to either of us?"

"I hesitate because I want to be fair to us both. For that reason I must still ask you to wait."

"But I've waited so long! Tell me one thing: Is there any one else that"—

Steps, none too light, clattered down the stairs, and into the library bounced a lad in tennis flannels. He was tall, well set up and good to look at and seemed always to have stepped directly from a bandbox and to have had extremely recent acquaintance with much soap and water.

"Hello, Dallas!" he shouted, encompassing his sister in a bear hug. "How soon are"—

"Here's Mr. Gibbs, Perry," Dallas reminded him as she emerged, somewhat crumpled, from the embrace. "Have you"—

The lad's manner underwent a lightning and frigid change.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

PAJAMAS ARE WORN AT A SOCIETY EVENT

"CHINESE PARTY" IN SAN FRANCISCO IS SCENE OF STARTLING INNOVATION.

San Francisco.—The pajama has made its public debut. Once a mere thing of utility dangling in a closet corner, it has attained social recognition.

It happened on Dr. Albert C. Kellogg's forty-second birthday. His wife evolved a novel plan for celebrating the event—a Chinese party in the evening at their home, an Oriental entertainment in which nothing Chinese should be omitted in costume, color or music. The guests were asked to come suitably garbed. There would be no costume exclusion laws restricting their immigration over the Kellogg domestic borders.

Appearing in Pajamas.

This explains why there are four pairs of gorgeous heliotrope-hued pajamas flapping on society's clothes line.

Four of the guests, after dining at the Cosmos club, donned silken pajamas, encased the same in overcoats and appeared before the startled eyes of the guests already assembled.

From the burning of punk in the clever simulated opium joint on the upper floor to the gay decorations in the supper room where nearly everything Chinese, excepting bird's nest pudding and humming bird's livers, was served, not to mention the screamingly funny Chinese impersonations and mimicry of Millionaire George Steiger, everybody had a jolly time.

The women who didn't wear Chinese costumes wore Jap kimonos. J. J. Sullivan was a life-size Highbinder. As for the four pajama-clad clubmen, nobody will deny that they were spellbinders.

GIRLS WHIP A LOGGER.

Resent Insults with Fists and Drive Rowdy from Field.

Tacoma, Wash.—A big, husky logger working in the woods southeast of here has learned to have a wholesome respect for young women. The man was employed at Mullman's camp. One day he made an insulting remark to Dora Michaelson, the 17-year-old bookkeeper of the logging camp. She promptly called him down for it, and both probably forgot the incident until Dora received a visit from Grace Darling, another 17-year-old girl, daughter of a real estate man in Tacoma.

The girls donned boys' clothes and went for a row on the lake. While passing near the shore Miss Michaelson saw the logger who had insulted her, and she told Miss Darling of it. They decided that a little harsh treatment was due Mr. Logger. Running the boat to the shore, they disembarked and stole upon the man unawares.

The lithesome young women were like two bluejays attacking a hawk, and when one was not scratching the mans' face the other was kicking him from the rear. The contest lasted ten minutes, and although both girls had their clothing torn and one had been thrown into the water they forced the man to flee.

That night one of the girls told the foreman, and when the logger appeared in camp with clothes torn, a pair of black eyes, and his face scratched and swollen the men got next and the offender was driven from camp, while the men gave three cheers for the plucky little women.

Afloat on a Big Cake of Ice.

Morristown, N. J.—Harold Pruden, 14 years old, son of Oscar C. Pruden, narrowly escaped drowning. With other boys he was playing on the ice which had formed about the edge of Pocahontas pond, when a piece on which he was standing broke off and floated toward the dam. The boy cried for help, and his companions ran for aid.

Patrolmen Callahan and Van Arsdale went to the lake, and after chopping a boat out of the ice, rowed out to the lad and rescued him just as the cake of ice was about to carry him over the dam. He was afloat more than an hour. A thousand persons watched the rescue.

This Hen Likes Tobacco.

Youngstown, O.—Bert Miller, an attorney, possesses a hen which shocks the anti-tobacco women. She won't lay eggs unless she is given a pill of fine-cut chewing tobacco.

A CLOSE CALL.

"How many buckets of water in the sea?" thundered the king for the final question.

"Two, my lord," answered the trembling peasant, "if the buckets be big enough."

"By the pawn-check on my crown, thou hast saved thy miserable life with thy ready answers!" mused the king. "But now I wish I had asked thee why the huge vases of red-and-blue liquors in the drug-store windows."

Realizing how close he had been to death, the peasant stammered his thanks and fled from the castle.—Judge.

The Slipper Shopper.

Mrs. Bacon—I saw Mrs. Hamm shopping for slippers for her husband, and I heard her ask for a pair made out of banana skins.

Mrs. Egbert—Never heard of such a thing?

"No, nor I; but she said her husband wanted something he could slip on easy."—Yonkers Statesman.

SO LONG AGO.

Auntie—There you see the church I was married in.

Niece—Ah! I suppose it is a ruin, now, auntie.

A Fine Business.

Mr. Gotham—And so, my son, you have been very successful in the west?

Enterprising Son—Yes, indeed, father. I've become a city founder.

"A what?"

"I found cities, you know. Fine paying business, I can tell you. Look at this map of Golden Rod City. Look at the parks and boulevards and corners for public buildings and the big spaces for factories. I sold 1,600 lots in Golden Rod City last month—just think of it!"

"My! my! Where is it located?"

"Well, the fact is, it ain't located anywhere yet; but that'll be all fixed after we sell a few hundred lots more. You see, there isn't any use looking for a location until we have money enough to pay for the land, you know."—New York Weekly.

Chapter I.

"Break it gently," he implored.

The burglar's assistant had reached the window, but could not open it. "I'll hafter knock a pane out," he whispered, hoarsely.

Hence the exclamation with which our narrative opens. — Cleveland Leader.

The Play.

Manager—Now, as to the moral quality of the piece, we wish that to be very conspicuous.

Playwright—By its absence?

Manager—Oh, when it comes to mere details of method, we leave everything to you, of course. We don't care how you manage it.—Puck.

The Important Facts of Life.

"Look at Jigsby, how solemn and important he appears. Has he got the nomination to congress or the presidency of a trust company that he is so visibly exuding pride from every pore?"

"No, but his first baby's just cut a tooth."—Baltimore American.

Allaying Her Fears.

Miss Sereleaf (in street car)—Conductor, I noticed three men smoking on the rear platform.

Conductor—Don't worry, lady;—the lace curtains are bein' laundried today, so there'll be no harm done.—Puck.

Not Entirely.

"I am surprised that wealthy fish dealer gave so much money in charity."

"Why so?"

"Because his whole business is admittedly conducted from a sell fish standpoint."—Baltimore American.

Poor Shot.

Bacon—Sorry to see that fellow so wasteful of the eggs at the theater, last night.

Egbert—Wasteful?

"Why yes; he only hit the scenery!"—Yonkers Statesman.

How.

Parker—I know a girl who married a Chinaman.

Mrs. Parker—Mercy! How could she?

Parker—She was Chinese herself.

Stock Exchange Animals.

"Were you a bull or a bear?" asked an acquaintance of a speculator.

"Neither," he replied, "I was an ass."

THE THIEF.

A wicked sort of thieving lass
Is pert and pretty Nancy,
When first we met—'twas in the spring—
At once she took my fancy.

I thought of her, I dreamed of her;
Her image in my breast
Kept me awake—I could not sleep;
She robbed me of my rest.

I grew unhappy if for long
Fate kept us far apart;
The truth I did discover soon,
She robbed me of my heart.

But when I'd press her with my love,
And ask to name the day,
She'd blush and laugh and just evade,
And then she'd steal away.

When her own way she wanted sore,
She'd piquant be, and arch,
But soon as I was off my guard,
Then she would steal a march.

Her father said, "Will you, then, rob
Me of my daughter, pray?"
"Oh, no," said I, "you promised me You'd give her, sir, away."

The Poor Poet.

The poet has no easy task
When laurels he would win;
He has to turn his poem out
Before he turns it in.
And when he has his verses penned,
There seems to be no doubt,
As soon as he has turned 'em in
Some one will turn him out.

From the Alimonial Point of View.

He—So your marriage was a failure?

She—Oh, I don't know.

He—Why, I thought you had secured a divorce?

She—I did.

He—Well, don't you call that a complete failure?

She—Hardly. You see, my partner made an assignment and I received a very neat sum as a preferred creditor.

He—Oh—um—er—I beg your pardon!—Judge.

Too Much Rubbering.

"So yeou were up in town a week?" said the old postmaster in the country village.

"Yeas," drawled Farmer Hardapple, "and I rubbered every day and every night."

"Gosh! How did yeou feel when yeou came home?"

"Just like an automobile."

"Like an automobile?"

"Yeas, 'rubber-tired.'" — Chicago Daily News.

Wished to Be Truthful.

"There are several seats up forward in the car, sir," said the conductor to the man who was hanging to a strap.

"No, thank you," replied the strap-hanger; "I'm about to write an article for the newspapers on the street car indignities and I want to say honestly that I've ridden down town six successive days hanging on to a strap!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Not Yet.

Myles—This matter of divorce is getting alarming. I hope your daughter has not contemplated getting a divorce yet?

Styles—Oh, no, not yet. You see, she doesn't expect to be married for three months yet!—Yonkers Statesman.

KEELY CASE DISMISSED

Contractor Fails to Appear Against Henry Bundy who Blacked His Eye.

A SUNDAY MORNING FRACAS.

After He Got the Worst of Encounter Keely Had Bundy Arrested For Assault.

Much to the disappointment of a large number of spectators, John E. Keely failed to appear when Judge Runyon called for a hearing of his charge of assault and battery against Henry Bundy in the city court this morning. The defendant stepped forward and announced that he was ready to proceed and had witnesses to prove that he was not to blame for the altercation that led to Keely getting beautifully "trimmed."

"Complaint dismissed" was all the magistrate said.

When the case was first brought up last Monday, Keely claimed that no one witnessed the fracas but Bundy declared several people had seen it and the matter was adjourned in order that he might produce them. Since then two have been found who came forward voluntarily and asserted that Bundy had simply acted in self-defense, adding that they would attend court in order to see that he received fair treatment.

"And furthermore," said one of the witnesses, "Keely got just what he deserved."

It was rumored in court, this morning, that an inkling of this information had been carried back to the complainant and it may have been a big factor in his determination to make the best of a bad bargain by remaining away. At all odds, Bundy left court with a satisfied smile although several friends wanted him to remain and prefer a counter-charge.

After the trouble occurred in the yard of Keely's home on South avenue, last Sunday morning, he jumped in a rig and drove post-haste to police headquarters to make the complaint. After this was done he offered to take Detective-Sergeant Flynn to where Bundy might be found in his anxiety to have him arrested and locked up. The officer went with him and Bundy was soon located but he protested at the time that he had only struck Keely to save himself from being injured.

SOMERSET MEDICAL MEN HOLD ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Somerset County Medical Society was held at the Ten Eyck House in Somerville, Thursday afternoon, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Dr. Henry V. Davis, of North Branch; vice president, Dr. P. J. Zeglio, of North Plainfield; secretary, Dr. C. R. P. Fisher, of Bound Brook; treasurer, Dr. Thomas H. Flynn, of Somerville; reporter, Dr. A. L. Stillwell, of Somerville; censor, Dr. J. H. Buchanan, of North Plainfield; delegates to the State Society, Drs. J. H. Buchanan and P. J. Zeglio, of North Plainfield.

A banquet was served by Landlord Lake. Covers were laid for twenty-four guests.

An interesting lecture, with lantern slides, was given by Dr. Howard Fox, of New York city.

Will Exemplify Lodge Work.

The officers and members of Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will work the opening and closing ceremonies of the order before a class of prospective candidates, Monday night, in Royal Arcanum Hall, Westfield. There are about fifteen signatures on the list. After the ceremonies, there will be addresses by Grand Lodge officers and others. It is expected that a sufficient number will be obtained to get a charter for a Westfield castle. All members or prospective members of Freedom Castle are earnestly requested to meet at the Watchung avenue trolley stand at 7:45 o'clock, Monday night, prepared to go to Westfield.

Shower for Mrs. Baglin.

Mrs. Sarah Baglin, who is to become the wife of Frederick Wagner next week, was tendered a linen towel shower by her friends at the home of her father, Captain W. C. Smith, of Grandview avenue, last night. The affair, which was arranged by Miss May E. Howlett, Mrs. Andrew Cox and Mrs. Steven Struthers, was a complete surprise and the bride-to-be received an abundance of linen. The evening was passed with music and games and refreshments were served before the affair broke up.

JUDGE SCHENCK SITS AT SOMERSET COURT

In the Somerset county courts at Somerville yesterday, Judge Schenck finally disposed of the two wholesale license matters from Raritan. The application made by M. Ruggieri for a license on the Curcio place was withdrawn and a new application made for another location. This was granted. The court would not grant a license on the old place, because of violations of the law there on former occasions. The Troisi application, made by Antone Baroni, was withdrawn.

William Bird, of North Plainfield, charged with stealing a coat from the automobile of Judge W. A. Coddington, was arraigned on allegation and pleaded guilty. He was placed in charge of the probation officer for two years.

William Duval, charged with stealing $90 from his brother at Bernardsville, was also arraigned on allegation and pleaded guilty. He was turned over to the probation officer for two years.

Several boys implicated in the theft of some articles from the Somerville Woolen Mills store houses, were arraigned on allegation and pleaded guilty. They will report to Probation Officer Osbourn for a year.

TRAVELING MEN PLAN PROSPERITY CONGRESS

Frank W. Weed, of this city, a prominent member of the Plainfield Council, United Commercial Travelers' Association, has been appointed a member of the publicity committee for the Commercial Travelers' Inter-State Prosperity Congress to be held in New York on August 14 and 15. Comptroller Herman A. Metz, of New York, has been made president of the Congress which has been inspired by a desire on teh part of the members of the two organizations to restore confidence and trade. The idea is to make the commercial travelers the real advance agents of prosperity.

The large number of members, as well as those of the New York Merchants' Association, who will join in the Congress, will be entertained by speakers, including the most influential business men. The Congress will meet in the rooms of the Merchants' Association of New York, and the New York Boarl of Trade and Transportation, whl unite in making the affair a success. Among those who will take a prominent part is Hon. John S. Whalen, of Albany, who is vice-president of the Congress association. On August 15, the members and their wives and friends will take possession of Manhattan eBach, where there will be athletic gemes, to be followed in the evening by a banquet and ball. A number of Plainfielders are expected to attend.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY OF MR. AND MRS. A. B. DAVIS.

In honor of their tenth wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Davis were tendered a surprise party at their home on Duer street last night, when about fifty of their relatives and friends called at the invitation of Mrs. Davis to surprise her husband. It being the crystal wedding anniversary, the couple received many gifts of Bohemian and cut glass, as well as other presents.

The house was handsomely decorated with potted plants and roses, the color scheme being pink and white. The evening was spent with games, music and recitations and a collation was served at midnight. Mrs. Williard Suydam rendered several piano selections, Mrs. Elijah Dufford sang and Miss Edna Dilts recited. The guests included friends and relatives from Morristown, Lebanon, Pottersville and Somerville.

First Sale of Personal Property.

The first tax sale of personal property, under the direction of Deputy Tax Collector John H. Cose, took place yesterday afternoon, when the machinery and other personal property in the Valentine Gas Engine Company's plant on Sycamore street, were sold for unpaid taxes. The property was bought in by City Treasurer W. F. Arnold to protect the interests of the city. The same action will be taken in all similar cases, where taxes are delinquent and remain unpaid.

Will Entertain Brooklyn Castle.

Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will entertain Bushwick Castle, of Brooklyn, on Tuesday night. Several Grand Lodge officers of the State; also of Connecticut and Pennsylvania are expected to attend. An interesting session with the working of the second degree on a class of six candidates will be followed by a supper.

STEEPLECHASE IS PLANNED

Arrangements Made by Watchung Hunt Club for Its Annual Event.

NOW NUMBERS 130 MEMBERS.

Dinner for Farmers to Follow Big Card On Decoration Day—Chase This Afternoon.

The Watchung Hunt Club is making excellent progress in preparation for the opening of the season on May 1. Thursday night at a regular meeting of the organization seventy new members were elected, making the total at present 130. Of this number about twenty-five are prominent New York horsemen. The limit of membership has been fixed at 200 and up to the number of 150 no initiation fee will be charged. After that it will be $25 in addition to the regular dues.

The work of putting the club's new grounds and home in first-class condition is now in full swing. Yesterday the hounds and kennels were removed from Mayor Fisk's farm on Park avenue to the new home. A large force of carpenters are busy making the necessary alterations and changes at the clubhouse, while other men are busy on the grounds.

Owing to the fact that Decoration Day falls on Saturday, this year, the club has decided to hold a one-day race meet, which will take place on that day. An exceptionally strong program comprising four steeplechases, two flat races and the celebrated farmer's race, to be followed by the big dinner to the farmers. The racing committee comprises Harry A. Bourne, C. E. S. Bellows, Peter Hauck, Jr., Harvey Fisk, C. F. Wildey, Jr., and Lewis E. Waring, master of the hounds. Because Mr. Waring has been selected as one of the judges in the saddle class at the Philadelphia Horse Show to be held in the Quaker City, commencing May 25, it is likely that Mr. Bourne will be made chairman of the committee. W. S. Blitz will be secretary and clerk of the course at the steeplechase meet. Of the two flat races, one will be for ponies and the other for hacks.

Applications for membership in the club are held a stated time before action is taken, and at present there are ten such applications to be acted upon. It is predicted that the full list of 200 will be received by June 1. In the meantime the club has started its regular hunts, during the week and on Saturdays. This afternoon the riders met at Mt. Pleasant school-house and hunted throughout Middlesex county.

READ THE RIOT ACT; DEPUTIES DRAW GUNS

Six Italians were arrested yesterday because of the resumption of hostilities at the Standard Oil Company's plant, in progress of construction at Linden, where several hundred of unemployed Italians and Poles have been threatening the workmen for several days. Councilman E. L. Mack, Benjamin A. King, director of the Board of Freeholders, and Freeholder E. K. Adams, of Cranford, led a party of deputies to the scene when a call for help was sent in, after several volleys from pistols and guns had been fired. No one was shot, but several Italians were cut by stones hurled by both sides.

Councilman Mack and his constables rushed the Italians shortly after the firing began and at the muzzles of their weapons forced them to surrender. They are now in the county jail as disorderly persons.

Women helped the fighting Italians, running along with them as they strove to drive the workmen from ditches and away from the foundations of the plant. The women carried pieces of timber and picked up stones along the road, to hand as ammunition to the men.

James Crane, a special officer of the sheriff's office, read the riot act, and with instructions from Sheriff Lawrence not to fire unless necessary, the mob was dispersed. Further trouble is expected, and a guard will be kept at the works all night to prevent any attempt at dynamiting, as threatened.

"The Teacher's Influence."

F. E. Smith will speak on the topic "The Teacher's Influence" at the meeting of the Plainfield Sunday-school Teachers' Union to be held at the Y. M. C. A. Monday night. George E. Hall will teach the lesson, and the devotional exercises will be led by John Powlison.

Vote Machine Referendum.

Governor Fort last night signed the bill permitting voters of any district to vote to abolish voting machines.

WOULDN'T APOLOGIZE TO JOHN R. MOXON

A sensation was created in the House at Trenton last night, when Edward Kenny, of Hudson, accused Mr. Moxon, of Union, of holding up his bill to repeal the Martin act to sell properties for unpaid taxes. He said Moxon was holding up the bill "through improper motives."

Moxon demanded an adology and Kenny asked for the bill. Moxon then reported it, but Kenny did not apologize. The bill was rushed through the House.

HAVEN FOR THE POOR NEAR TO BOUND BROOK

Through the kindness of George La Monte, of New York, the Christodora Settlement, also of New York, wil have seventy-two acres of fine open country among the hills near Bound Brook, N. J., for a vacation centre this year. The place, which is known as Northover Camp, is an ideal spot where the tired mothers and children of the city will be able to enjoy the fresh country air and come back to the city refreshed.

The sum of $3,500 will be required to equip the site, and fuly $2,500 of that amount will be spent in permanent equipment. Mr. La Monte has given $500 toward the fund, besides the land, and William L. Sexton, the treasurer of the settlement, will be pleased to receive any contributions toward the cause at 147 Avenue B, New York.

UNION'S SENATOR LAUDS UNION'S CO. CHAIRMAN

Nothing in recent years has stirred State politics like the Senator Ackerman interview printed a few days ago, in which he denounced the political bosses right and left.

"It has had a splendid effect," said Senator Ackerman yesterday, "and I am glad such has been the case. There was no word of exaggeration in what I said or in what was printed. It was certainly time that a warning was sounded if we wished to save the Republican party in New Jersey from ruin.

Distinguishing between a man who leads and the one who bosses, Mr. Ackerman held up County Chairman Frank H. Smith, of Union, as one of the leading class. He said that if heads of county organizations in other parts of the State took the same reasonable view of things as Mr. Smith did the party would be in no danger and there would be no scandals in legislative halls.

"And whatever may be the fate of the civil service bill," said the Senator, "I cannot say too much for the work of the Union county Assemblymen in its behalf. They earnestly did their utmost to put the measure through."

Several councils of war have been held at the State House on the interview with Senator Ackerman and newspapers from Sussex to Cape May have made it a subject for discussion.

BOROUGH'S STREET ROLLER WILL ARRIVE NEXT WEEK.

A reversable steel horse roller, weighing 3½ tons, has been purchased by the borough, and will be delivered in North Plainfield ext week. Appreciating the saving over the present system, which involves the hiring of a roller whenever there is any street work to be done, Mayor Townsend has been instrumental in the purchase of the new roller.

A feature of its construction is that it is so built that the horses can be hitched to either end, thus avoiding tearing up the roadway by turning the roller. The roller was purchased from the Good Roads Manufacturing Co., of Kennett Square, Pa., and was shipped to the borough today. Upon its arrival, the latter part of next week, it will be immediately put in commission by Street Commissioner Barrett on the repair work now under way in the borough. It is to be housed in the sheds at fire headquarters.

Co. K Goes to Trenton.

The members of Co. K went to Trenton, last night, and took part in the first drill of the Second Regiment held this year. The full membership of the twelve companies of the regiment was present and the drill was considered one of the best ever held. This is preparatory to making arrangements for the various companies into State camp at Sea Girt. While the date has not been definitely decided, Co. K expects to spend a week in camp as usual.

WOULD LYNCH FIREBUG

Detected in the Act, German Youth Barely Escapes Being Strung Up.

THE PRISONER HAS CONFESSED.

He Gives Assistant Prosecutor No Reason For His Setting Fire to Valuable Barns.

Eugene Pfester, a German, aged 18 years, was arrested last night at Berkeley Heights, while in the act of setting fire to the barn and haystack of George Wahl at that place. The prisoner confessed that he set fire to Peter Zimmerman's large barn on the night of March 21, at which time the entire building, together with many cows, calves, horses, wagons and a large quantity of hay and straw were consumed.

When the fact became known that the fire-bug had been captured, Constable Dandelion, who made the arrest, had great difficulty in preventing a lynching from taking place. The citizens turned out in large numbers and threatened to do bodily harm to Pfester, and only for the prompt action of the constable, it is said, he would have been strung up to the nearest tree in short order.

When he was detected setting fire to Mr. Wahl's property last night, the blaze had a good start in the haystack and the barn and it was only after the hardest kind of a fight that the fire was extinguished.

The barn owned by Mr. Zimmerman was one of the largest in Northern New Jersey and its destruction entailed a loss of thousands of dollars. At the time the citizens were greatly incensed, believing the fire to be of incendiary origin. Soon afterward Pfester, who was living in the neighborhood, acted in a suspicious manner and there were many who believed him guilty of arson. The suspicion was well founded and substantiated last night.

This morning Pfester made a full confession of his acts before Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield, Jr. When questioned as to why he had set fire to the buildings, he could give no reason. It is the opinion of the county authorities that he simply had a mania for committing such deeds. Pfester has been in this country about eighteen months, having come here from Germany. Soon after landing, he settled at Berkeley Heights, where he found employment on various farms. As far as can be learned he was always treated well and had no grudge against any one in the vicinity.

MR. MARTINE STILL CHASING "RAINBOWS"

James E. Martine, Democratic choice last year for United States Senator, today gave out the following adress, declaring himself a candidate for delegate-at-large to the Denver convention in the interest of William Jennings Bryan:

"To the Democratic voters of the State of New Jersey:

"We are within a few weeks of the convening of the State Democratic convention, which will elect delegates to the Denven convention, to be held in July. The momentous consequences of the election near at hand cannot be overestimated. Under the Republican party, controlled by the special interests, our country's finances and industries are in chaos. Toilers and bread-winners walk our streets pleading for work that their families may have bread. Relief can only come through a change of the political conditions in our land. I sincerely believe that the nomination of William J. Bryan, as Presidential candidate, is the toilers' and bread-winners' hope and our country's salvation. To the end that I may, in my hunmble way aid in his nomination, I announce myself to the Democrats of the State of New Jersey as a candidate-at-large to the national Democratic convention, to be held at Denver in July. I thoroughly appreciate the honor conferred on me in the past, and now only present my name as delegate because I feel a crisis is at hand in our land. All names presented as Presidential candidates other than that of William J. Bryan would fall flat and cold on the mass of Democratic voters.

"Democrats of New Jersey, I ask your aid, that I may be delegate to Denver and assist in the nomination of William J. Bryan for President of the United States. Respectfully,

"JAMES E. MARTINE.

"Plainfield, Cedar Brook Farm."

Elected New Secretary.

At a special meeting of the Central Building and Loan Association, Thursday night, Alfred Seidel, of Jackson avenue, was elected secretary to succeed J. Fred MacDonald.

PROPERTY OWNERS WANT FREEHOLDERS TO ACT

Petitions are being circulated among property owners on Green brook road and upper Watchung avenue, North Plainfield, urging the Somerset County Board of Freeholders to assume charge of the opening up of these roads and their maintainance. The Freeholders will hold their next meeting Tuesday, and at this time, it is expected that the owners of at least two-thirds of the property abutting on the roads will have signed the petitions.

An effort was made at the last Freeholders' meeting to have the county construct a macadam roadway on Greenbrook road from Somerset street to the borough limits on Rock avenue, and to extend Watchung avenue to Somerset street. The petition of the Borough Council was at that time rejected, because it was not properly framed. Former State Senator Charles A. Reed, the borough counsel, has drawn up the formal request to the Freeholders and George Bird is circulating the ptition for the Watchung avenue extension, while W. L. Smalley has charge of the Greenbrook road petition. Many of the largest property owners abutting each street have signed the petition endorsing the county maintainance of the roads.

MISS SAUNDERS' PLAY GIVEN A NEW NAME

It having come to the knowledge of Miss Louise Saunders, who has written a play to be presented by the Cup Bearers' Circle of the King's Daughters, at the Casino, Wednesday afternoon and evening, that the name chosen for it, "Too Many Cooks," is protected by copyright, and in consequence she has changed it to "Another Day in Paris," and Miss Saunders is contemplating having her play copyrighted. A successful rehearsal of the play was held last night under the direction of Miss Saunders and Mrs. L. W. Serrell.

Those in the cast follow:

Joan Jasper, Miss Eleanor Waring; Sue Alden, Miss Marion Hall; Miss Esterhazie, Miss Marion Brown; Miss Love, Miss Gabriel McQuaid, Miss Denton, Miss Lucie Budling; Mrs. Broxbury, Miss Frances Hyde; Mrs. Maloney, Miss Helen Stevens; Evangeline Maloney, Miss Stella Butler; Mr. Terwilliger, Walter McGee; Mrs. Bellehaven, Miss Anna Garrigues; French errand maid, Miss Anna Fisk; other tourists, Miss May Faber, Miss Susan Wharton, Miss Kathryn Titus and Miss Helen Timpson.

In addition to the play there will be a sale, a Punch and Judy show and an exhibition of dolls, some of which are over 100 years old. CIVIL SERVICE TRIUMPHS

Governor Quickly Signs Bill Rushed Through as Legislature Adjourns.

MR. PIERCE'S GOOD WORK.

Union County Assemblyman Gets Ackerman Measure Through the House During Final Hours.

On the eve of final adjournment, just before the legislators went out for supper at 7 o'clock last night, Governor Fort turned the tables on the machine leaders by mustering enough votes to revise and pass the

Carlton B. Pierce,
Union's Model Assemblyman Who Got Bill Through the House.

much patched-up civil service commission bill. The act carries $10,000 appropriation, mandatory on the State, and municipalities can vote to accept its provisions. The State leaders are much disgusted at the action of the Governor, who got thirty-two votes for the bill. One reason for their disgust is that under its provisions to solicit a political subscription from an employe of the State is a misdemeanor.

Governor Fort clinched his victory over the leaders by demanding the passed civil service bill, and immediately made it a law by his signature. It is a clearcut Fort victory.

On getting the bill before the House again Assemblyman Pierce had it passed by a vote of 32 to 28. The rollcall was as follows:

Yeas—Braun, Burpo, Buxton,

Ernest R. Ackerman,
Father of the Civil Service Bill and Union's Energetic Senator.

Clark Colgate, Crosby, Daab, Devine, Jr., Fake, Hendrickson, Jr., Hines, Holcombe, Irick, Jess, Kirstein, Lowrey, Martin, McCold, Miller, Morgan, Morris, Moxon, Pierce, Prince, Radcliffe, Roberts, Smalley, Smith, Thompson, Tumulty, Whitehead and Young.

Nays—Auf Der Heide, Baker, Beecroft, Biohm, Buck, Cattell, Eppinger, Firth, Gibbs, Ginnelly, Holzapfel, Housel, Keffer, Kenney, Keough, Lewis, Lyon, Olwell, F. B. Potter, J. Potter, Ramsey, Rirdgway, Stille, Sullivan, Tantum, Valentine, Van Cleef and Voorhees.

These Democrats voted with the Republicans for the bill: Daab, Hendrickson, Jr., Holcombe, Morris and Tumulty.

Miss Woodring Surprised.

Miss Etta Woodring, of Westfield, was tendered a surprise party by fifty of her friends from this city and Westfield at the home of Isaac Houston on West Front street, last night. Music, games and dancing were the principal diversions of the evening and refreshments were served at midnight. The affair was arranged by Miss Edna Marsh, formerly of the borough, but now of Westfield.

What Stove for Summer?

Nothing adds to kitchen convenience in summer weather like a New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove. Anything that any stove can do the "New Perfection" will do, and do it better. Bakes, roasts, boils, toasts; heats the wash water and the sad irons, and does it without dissipating its heat through the room to your discomfort. The

NEW PERFECTION

Many a Plainfield Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Plainfield. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement:

Albert Naylor, music teacher, of 436 East Fifth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several years ago I was afflicted with a dull, aching in the small of my back and sharp pains when stooping or lifhting. I resorted to the use of Doan's Kidney Pills for same, as I had been told that they were a cure for such pain as I had been having. I took one ly two boxes before the pains left me, and was soon feeling first-class in every respect. I have often endorsed and recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to those suffering from backache as I was."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Millburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

URGES ASSEMBLYMEN'S ELECTION BY DISTRICTS.

By unanimous consent, Assemblyman Thompson introduced a concurrent resolution in the House Wednesday night which was at once advanced to second reading, unamended. It was in the nature of a constitutional amendment, providing for the election of Assemblymen by districts. The same resolution passed last year, and if it goes through this time needs only the referendum approval of the people of the State to become a law.

Majority Leader Martin opposed the advancement of the measure to second reading on the ground that he scented a plot to preven the passage of any of the numerous other constitutional amendments before the Legislature this session, particularly the judiciary amendments. He declared that only one constitutional amendment can be passed and made into law every five years, and asserted that the provisions of Mr. Thompson's resolution were embodied in one of the judiciary amendment measures. For that reason, he said, he considered the new measure should be withdrawn. This was not done, however.

STEVENSON RENAMED AS A VICE-CHANCELLOR.

Chancellor Pitney notified the Governor yesterday he had reappointed Vice-Chancellor Eugene Stevenson for a full term of seven years.

Vice-Chancellor Stevenson, whose home is in Paterson, was graduated from the New York University as a Bachelor of Arts in the class of 1870, and was also graduated from the law department of the same institution. Subsequently he entered the law office of Socrates Tuttle, father-in-law of the late Vice-Chancellor Hobart, where he continued his studies. In June, 1874, Mr. Stevenson was admitted to the bar as an attorney-at-law, and three years later was made a counselor. In 1881 he was appointed a prosecutor of the plans for Passaic county by Governor Ludlow. He served a full term of five years in that office. He was appointed vice-chancellor on April 16, 1901, for a full term of seven years. In politics he is a Democrat.

FORT GETS ODD LETTER.

Texas Namesake Wants Copy of Speech for Oratorical Contest.

The following letter, received by Governor Fort yesterday from a young man in German, Tex., proved highly amusing to the State Executive:

"Having noticed your name in the papers, and seeing you spelled it like I do mine, and being in great need of some one to help me prepare an oration, thought I would write you a few lines. I will be in an oratorical contest the fifteenth of May. The school is going to give a gold medal for the best original oration. I want you to write me a thirty-minute speech, and I will reward you with a reasonable sum of money. Thanking you in advance for the favor, I am, etc."

The Governor will reply by sending copies of his special messages and inaugural address. Incidentally he will say there will be no charge.

SAGE GIFT FOR PRINCETON.

Widow of the Financier Gives $250,000 for Dormitory.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of Princeton University yesterday a gift of $250,400 from Mrs. Russell Sage for a dormitory building to be used by members of the freshmen class was announced. The board adopted a resolution thanking Mrs. Sage.

Other gifts to the amount of $130,133 were announmed. They came from these persons: The Princeton Committee of Fifty, $31,978; Class of 1877, $10,000; Class of 1881, $12,000; General Education Board, $64,666.

The establishment of a sophomore commons was also announced.

For Belleville Annexation.

The House at Trenton passed Clerk's Belleville annexation bill late last night. On Wednesday Clark's Irvington annexation bill went through. Both are likely to go through the Senate, so Newark will probably vote on adding two more municipalities to its territory this fall. Buck, of Cumberland, and Joseph Potter, of Camden, with eleven Democrats, voted against the Belleville bill, as a result of weeks of lobbying by Frank Hendricks, of that town. Hendricks complains that this Legislature isn't like the old days, or he would have beaten the bill, as he has for the past thirty years.

The choir of Grace church will sing Stainer's "Crucifixion" Monday night, it being the first of the Holy Week services.

Rev. Dr. J. E. Chambliss, of Kansas City, Missouri, will preach at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning. In the evening Rev. William A. Raff, pastor of the Baptist church, Jamesburg, will talk about "Life on the Congo," under the auspices of the Men's Club of the church.

—Daily Press want ads. pay.

—Mr. and Mrs. John King, of Jackson avenue, will remove soon to the house occupied by Isaac Smalley on Jackson avenue.

—The physicians report a large number of cases of mumps throughout the city and borough, in some instances persons of advanced age being affected.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

Manager Stallings yesterday received a letter from President Chas. Comiskey, of the Chicago White Sox, informing him that he has decided to keep John Anderson, the former Washington outfielder. Stallings had made Comiskey a fat offer for the player, but as Anderson has been putting up such a fast game in the preliminary contests Fielder Jones advised his chief not to part with the hard-hitting outfielder. Stallings is naturally disappointed over the news, but there are other managers in the same boat. It leaked out yesterday that Ned Hanlon was also after Anderson for Baltimore. Several major league clubs would have also jumped at a chance to secure Anderson

The good showing of Joseph Lennon, the Orange Valley infielder, in practise with the Indians, has made a favorable impression on Manager Stallings. The "Big Chief" stated yesterday that Lennon has an excellent chance to "make the team," and if he succeeds Lennon will be the utility infielder of the local tribe.

Thursday was known as the "Chris von der Ahe benefit day" in St. Louis. The former manager and owner of the St. Louis Browns was tendered a benefit, and the proceeds of an exhibition played between the St. Louis Nationals and Americans. The one-time famous manager and character in baseball is "down and out," as the old saying goes, owing to illness and financial reverses. The testimonial planned for today is expected to net a tidy sum for Von der Ahe, as almost every baseball manager of note in the country has contributed to the fund.

It took the magnates of the New York State League all night to decide on a schedule at a meeting of the league in Wilkes-Barre. The season will open on May 7 and close on May 20. President Farrell's staff of umpires consists of Cusick, formerly of the Eastern League; Brady, formerly of the Cotton States League; Hoffer, the former Baltimore pitcher, and Pepper, formerly with the Central League.

Joe Lake and Rube Zellers, of the New York Americans, are victims of malaria, and Hal Chase is out of the game on account of an injured knee.

Mike Lynch, the former Baltimore shortstop, has reported to Wilmington. Lynch has been holding out for a monthly salary of $275.

A dispatch from Pottsville states that T. B. Golden, manager of the Atlantic League team of that place, has received assurance from the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs that the Atlantic League will be given protection. The delay is due to the application being held up because of the legal entanglement at Allentown, as the result of the league turning down Hugh MacKinnon, of the latter city, who fought against protection at the recent meetings of the Atlantic League.

GOLF.

Several one-day open tournaments have been arranged by the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association. The first opportunity for the women to meet in a competitive way will be presented on May 5, when they will gather at the Baltusrol Golf Club. One week later, May 12, will find the players at the Englewood Golf Club, while on June 18 they will tee up at the Richmond County Country Club.

These one-day affairs, in addition to the association's annual championship tournament at the Essex County Country Club on May 26-29, and the Women's Eastern Golf Association's championship and tri-city matches at the Oakley Country Club, June 9, 10, 11 and 12, insures the busiest kind of a spring season.

Quite a few members of the old Highland Golf Club will make use of the Sailsbury links at Garden City during the season. According to a Brooklyn golfer, who visited the Sailsbury course the other day, a round of the links has its drawbacks. He says it's a race from the station to the first tee, and for those who are not good sprinters the prospect is far from attractive. As a parting shot he remarked: "Between waiting at the tee and being held up at various points on the course for golfers who have cut in, you are lucky if you get home the same day."

Atlantic City came into line with its open tournament dates yesterday, making complete the early spring schedule. The fixtures are Lakewood, April 23, 24 and 25, Atlantic City April 30, May 1 and 2, and Garden City May 7, 8 and 9. The trio of tournaments will afford a variety of courses that would make enjoyable a swing 'round the circle. To go from the seaside to the pine woods, then to wind up over the Long Island links that will be the scene of the amateur championship in the fall is a golfing excursion that will appeal to many.

At the Lakewood Country Club the qualifying round will be at thirty-six holes and will include a team match, won last year by the Princeton boys. Four sixteens will qualify respectively for the Country Club of Lakewood, Metedeconk, Carasaljo and Manetta cups. Besides the low score prize in the qualifying round there will be a medal play handicap on the last day for a gross score medal and net score cup. The entries close on April 22 with S. K. de Forest, honorary secretary at the club. On May 2 there will be a day of gymkhana at the Country Club of Lakewood for which an elaborate program is under preparation.

The secretary of the Richmond Country Club reports an increase of about forty resident members during the last year. Additions to the clubhouse made last season have provided for new and spacious locker rooms, billiard room and extra sleeping rooms.

Corporation Notice.

Proposals for Furnishing Crushed Stone and Materials for Culverts and Crosswalks.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, at the regular meeting held April 6, 1908, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, on Monday, May 4, 1908, at 8 o'clock P. M., at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for furnishing crushed stone, and for furnishing materials for culverts and crosswalks as follows:

For crushed stone for the remainder of the year 1908, the bids to state the price per ton of 2,000 pounds, for furnishing the following sizes, viz.:

Fine Screenings, ½ inch stone, 1½ inch stone and 2½ inch stone, in such quantities, and delivered at such times and places in the city as the Street Commissioner may direct.

The approximate quantites of the several kinds of crushed stone as estimated by the Street Commissioner, are as follows:

Fine Screenings	100 tons
½ inch stone	500 tons
1½ inch stone	2,000 tons
2½ inch stone	200 tons

and such estimated quantities may be taken into account in awarding bids.

The above must be of the best quality trap rock, free from soft stone, dirt or other foreign matter, and each bidder shall submit with his bid or bids samples of the crushed stone to be furnished if such bids or bids is or are accepted, and guarantee that the crushed stone to be furnished shall in every instance be equal in quality to the samples submitted with the bid, the Common Council reserving the right to pass on the quality of the crushed stone as well as on the prices bid.

The stone must be weighed on such scales as the Street Commissioner may direct, and a voucher or weigh bill must be delivered with every load to the said Street Commissioner or his authorized representative.

Also for furnishing the following materials for culverts and crosswalks:

Cover stone for culverts not larger than 4 feet by 3 feet by not less than 3½ inches in thickness, per square foot.

Curbing 16 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 feet long, per lineal foot.

Curbing 20 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 feet long, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone 24 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, Belgian edge, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone 30 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, Belgian edge, per lineal foot.

All to be of the best hard blue stone equal in quality and durability to stone from the Hudson River quarries.

No bid for crushed stone will be considered which does not include prices for all four sizes of stone, and no bid will be considered which does not expressly refer to this advertisement for bids and state in substance that the bid is submitted in accordance with the terms, specifications and conditions set forth in said advertisement.

The successful bidder must furnish a Surety Company bond for $1,000, conditioned on the faithful carrying out of all the provisions of the specifications and contract.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals at the time and place appointed, the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or their agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Common Council.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved. Bids to be submitted on forms which can be obtained from the Street Commissioner.

By order of the Common Council.

JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

Dated Plainfield, N. J., April 11, 1908.

AMUSEMENTS.

Barnum & Bailey's Greatest Show on Earth, the coming of which is always a matter of great interest to young and old alike, recently began a short season at the Madison Square Garden, New York. There are circuses and circuses, but to the New Yorker Barnum & Bailey's circus is the only one, as well as the greatest one, in all of the world. New York loves huge things and so it loves its circus, which, by the way, is the only one that is annually seen in the Empire City. Big as has been the circus during previous years this season it is bigger than ever. As exhibited at the Madison Square Garden it will be the biggest thing of its kind the world has known. The huge entertainment will mark an epoch in the development of the circus. A city in itself is the circus this season. It contains fifteen hundred people. The menagerie is larger than that possessed by any of the local zoological societies around the country. There are seven hundred horses. The big spectacle, "Cleopatra," with which the circus entertainment opens, calls for a thousand men and women. On the program there are one hundred and ten acts. There are three hundred and fifty performers and they come from all corners of the earth. Twenty-seven different languages are spoken by the people on the roster.

Unquestionably the greatest of all Lew Fields' successes is the one in which he is now breaking the records of amusement attendance at the Herald Square theatre in New York. For so many years that they cannot be counted, Lew Fields has stood alone in his peculiar style of comedy work. He has had so many successes, but in the adaptation of the greatest of musical comedies by Edgar Smith, he has a production that eclipses even the most successful of previous years. Supporting him there is a company headed by Connie Ediss, who was brought over from England for the part, and including such widely known specialists as Louise Dresser, Lotta Faust, May Maudain and Topsy Siegrist; George Bohan, Dorman Maloy, and Vernon Castle. Among the specialties a conspicuous feature is the number by the English Pony Ballet, the members which were brought over by Mr. Fields and the Shuberts with their original conception in a whirling, giddy, dizzy Xylophone Dance, introducing the song which has now become internationally famous, "School Days." All the principals have special songs and scenes fitted to their peculiar abilities, but the greatest laugh in the show—in fact the greatest laugh on Broadway—is the scene in which Mr. Fields gives instructions to a motley assortment of volunteer waiters.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Harry Johnson, the Pennsylvania Railroad telegraph lineman, who was injured while riding on a freight train, died yesterday afternoon in Cooper Hospital, Camden.

Because of a falling off in business due to the fact of many men being out of work, the two Bayonne theatres will close for the season tonight, a month earlier than had been planned.

Former Sheriff William H. Bright, of Holly Beach, who was the first person not a native of Cape May county to be elected to a county office, will be tendered a banquet by friends at the Hotel Seacrest this evening.

Accused by their former landlady, Mrs. Annie Freeman, of 727 Sycamore street, Camden, of stealing trading stamps, tea checks and a bed sheet, Edward and Jeanette Settle, colored, were held in $200 bail yesterday.

On a charge of passing a worthless check for $6.35 on Saloon-keeper William K. Moffert, of Locust street and Kaighn avenue, Camden, Dialogue Pettit, aged sixty, a salesman, was held in $500 bail in Camden police court yesterday

In attempting to prevent a collision between a train and a team at Fourth and Main streets, Camden, yesterday, James McHugh, of 701 Federal street, a Pennsylvania Railroad brakeman, fell between the wagon and a car and fractured his left hip.

Ernest W. Lloyd, of Cape May City, was sworn in as prosecutor of Cape May county yesterday. His commission was dated March 30, while Harry S. Douglass' term expired March 25, leaving the county five days without a prosecuting attorney. Prosecutor Lloyd will try his first case at the April term of court, which will open Tuesday.

The Bayonne Health Board yesterday voted $500 for the extermination of mosquitoes. The appropriation will be used to drain the New York Bay meadows. State Entomologist Smith, who has been looking over the ground, recommended the draining of the meadows and the filling in of stagnant pools. The work will be started next week.

Mrs. Howard Ivins died last night at the residence of her husband's parents, near Deerfield, Cumberland county. Last week her home at Husted's Station caught fire and was burned to the ground. Mrs. Ivins, who was ill, was carried from the burning building to the railroad station, and from there to the place where she died. The shock is believed to have hastened her death.

At a meeting of the Camden Board of Trade last night William L. Hurley, the president, called attention to the condition of the city's streets. He said that they needed repairing. A committee was named to confer with the street committee of City Council and urge them to see that the contractor repaired the streets paved with asphalt before the terms of the bonds expired.

Camden City Council, in special session last night, adopted an ordinance providing for an emergency appropriation of $37,000 to be used in civic improvements. The primary object is to give work to many unemployed men who recently petitioned Council for some relief during the present financial depression. Of this sum $15,000 will be used in improving the streets; a similar sum for the relaying of water mains, and $7,000 for improving the public parks.

A romance begun in Vineland has ended in the marriage of Miss Margaret Cheesman, one of Vineland's telephone operators, and Walter H. Roe, of New York. While Roe was manager of a hosiery mill here, last summer, he had occasion to use the 'phone, and, falling in love with a voice, sought the owner and found Miss Cheesman. A courtship followed, and last night the wedding took place in New York city, where the couple will reside.

Hackensack is to have a public park, with a frontage on the Hackensack river. The improvement commission recommends the issuing of $15,000 bonds, with which the meadow land can be purchased. About sixty acres of land are to be included in the purchase. Commissioner M. R. Brinkman is enthusiastic over the project. He is chairman of the committee in charge. The park will run from Bridge street to the Oritani Field Club grounds.

Republican slate makers of Atlantic City, in both the machine and reform factions, received a jolt yesterday when Mayor Stoy announced that James W. Lane, paving contractor and prominent citizen of the Fourth Ward, had been appointed to the place in City Council made vacant by the death of Thomas Roberts. The appointment was purely a personal choice with the Mayor, according to a statement made with the announcement, and it brought disappointment to a number of aspirants who had marshaled friends to their support.

Nominations by Governor.

The following nominations were sent to the Senate by the Governor yesterday. Members State Board of Education—Fourth district, William M. Hawke, Hunterdon county, ta succeed Percival Christie, resigned; sixth district, John W. Thompson, Bergen county, to succeed Sweeting Miles. Harbor Master for the Harbor of Elizabeth and Elizabeth Creek—Rufus Savage, of Union county.

IN MEMORIAM.

Erskine Mason Rodman, April 5, 1908.

They say that he is dead . . .
And silently the people throng
To look once more upon the face
Of him, of whom it has been said,
All people loved, it mattered not what creed was theirs,
What language or what clime.
He spoke the common speech of all,
But, like a low sweet chime,
A note of love ran through it
That made it near divine.
And all men understood,
And knew that he had lived
So close to him, his Master and his God,
His face had caught the radiance
While yet this earth he trod.
The friend of all, to him
The rich and poor, the high and low,
The young and old, they came
Bringing their joys and sorrows,
Their burdens of sin and shame.
He was the Master's servant
And blessed them in His name. . . .
He is not dead.
Such men can never die.
Weary he was,
And so God gently touched him,
And he slept.

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE.

At a meeting of the vestry of Grace church, held last evening, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, Our beloved and venerable friend, the Rev. Erskine Mason Rodman, for over thirty-two years the rector and for the past five years rector- emeritus of Grace church, Plainfield, was on Sunday, April the fifth, 1908, called to the rest that remaineth for the people of God;

We, the rector, wardens and vestrymen of Grace church at a meeting held April 10th, 1908, at the parish house for the purpose of giving expression to our appreciation of the work done by Mr. Rodman and also recognizing the many good and noble qualities by which he earned the esteem and love, not only of the members of the parish, but of all those who knew him during his long residence in Plainfield;

Resolved, That we take this opportunity of officially placing on record our continued esteem for our former rector as a man and as a priest of the Church, and further of our gratitude that Almighty God has permitted his long ministry to be fraught with such rich rewards to the lasting advantage of the parish and the spiritual life of his parishioners, and the community at large and with the deepest sympathy for the bereaved relatives; be it further

Resolved, That a copy of the preamble and resolutions be spread upon the minute book of the vestry, and that an engrossed set of the same be sent to the members of Mr. Rodman's family.

(Signed) E. VICARS STEVENSON, Rector.
WILLIAM J. PELLETIER, Secretary to the Vestry.

MT. ZION A. M. E. CHURCH ASK FOR PASTOR'S RETURN.

Rev. J. T. Diggs, pastor of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, conducted the last business meeting of the church for the conference year, Wednesday night, and will preach his last sermon here tomorrow night before going to conference which meets at Cape May on Tuesday. He will be accompanied by Rev. E. B. Maynard and Spencer P. Kelley.

Rev. Mr. Diggs says that his success as a pastor here is due to the fact that the members of his church have been united and worked together. He desires to thank all benevolent friends for their contributions and a vote of thanks has been extended to The Daily Press. The reports for the year show that over $2,000 has been collected which has enabled the church to pay off nearly all of its indebtedness, keep up expenses and meet the payments on the parsonage property. As the members esteem their pastor it is expected that he will be returned for another year.

Rev. J. Thomas Diggs.

Election Amendments Pass.

The Senate yesterday passed the Avis amendments to the Constitution to separate State and local elections and fixing the terms of Governor, Senators, sheriffs and coroners at four years, Assemblymen at two years and county clerks, registers and surrogates at six years. The Legislature is to meet annually, as at present, and statutory officers' terms are to be changed to meet the new conditions.

Dr. Lowery Wins First Fight.

Dr. James H. Lowery, Assemblyman from Essex, succeeded in killing Senate 82 in the House yesterday afternoon, thus preventing the State Board of Health from getting the authority to say where slaughterhouses should be located. It was his maiden fight.

Parker Relief Bill Passed.

Under the bill of Assemblyman Hines which passed the Senate yesterday afternoon the inheritance tax on property left to the heirs of Fanton Stone by the late Cortlandt Parker will be surrendered by the State.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The choir of the First Baptist church will render the oratorio, "The Palms," in connection with the morning service tomorrow, which will be Palm Sunday. The choir will be assisted by D. W. Lapham and Fred A. Dayton, of Plainfield. The final rehearsal for the oratorio was held at the church last night, in charge of Mrs. Charles S. Day.

About fifty couples were present at the dance given under the auspices of the Dunellen A. C. at Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall, last night, and the affair proved a great success. The affair broke up at a late hour. The committee in charge included Percy R. Abbott, John Dineen, William Giles, Robert Maltbie and Abner S. Coriell.

Rev. E. C. Dutcher formally begins his new pastorate at the Methodist church tomorrow. In the morning, he will take for his theme "Palm Sunday." The speaker at the evening service will be William W. Giddes, who will speak on "Sympathy of Jesus."

William H. Thornton, of New York, who is temporarily employed at Garwood, is staying at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Thornton, of New Market.

Joseph Winkler, who has been visiting relatives at New Market this week, has gone to Flemington, where he has secured a position for the summer.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

William Jamison, of this place, was united in marriage to Miss Alberta Spear, Wednesday, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Clifford Kennedy, Coxsaxie, N. Y. Rev. S. F. Clifton, of that place, was the officiating clergyman. The bride and groom have started housekeeping in the Hetfield cottage on Front street.

Rev. W. W. Deitrich has been reappointed pastor of the local Methodist church by the presiding elder. This meets with the approval of the members of the church and congregation, who had petitioned that he be reappointed.

The Rev. S. H. Atkinson, the well-known evangelist of New York city, will speak in the Baptist church tomorrow. The services: Morning, 10:45, "The Christian's Walk;" evening, 8 o'clock, "Re-Creation."

Manager Alberts is trying to arrange a practice game for Saturday afternoon of next week. The regular season will open the following Saturday with a game with the Raritans, of Perth Amboy.

Arthur Gere and family, who have been occupying one of the H. C. Meyer cottages on Westfield avenue, have removed to Greenville.

Miss Helen Cottrell, of Bayonne, has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. Chas. N. Flanders, of Front street.

The weekly prayer and praise service will be held at the Methodist church tonight.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Services will be held in the Baptist church tomorrow as usual. Rev. C. W. F. Attlee will preach in the morning on "The People Gathered Themselves Together as One Man." In the evening on "Two Cures for Despondency."

A Christian Endeavor Society meeting will be held in the Baptist church tomorrow evening. The topic will be "Lessons from the Life of John B. Gough."

Mrs. William Norman returns tomorrow from her sister at South Amboy.

(Additional suburban news on page 2.)

DAYTON, O., TO LOSE PLANT.

Cash Register Firm's Clash with City Is Expected to End in Removal to the East.

New York, April 11.—Although no decision has been announced it is probable that the moving of the general officers of the National Cash Register Company from Dayton, O., to this city will be followed by bringing the plant of the company to the vicinity of New York. The number of men employed is 2,700 and the weekly payroll is $72,000.

John H. Patterson, head of the company, now at the St. Regis Hotel, will live here.

"It is not true," said Mr. Palmer, his private secretary, yesterday, "that Mr. Patterson was forced to leave Dayton because of threats against his life, but it is true that he has left the town and brought the general offices here for the reason that he could no longer stand the annoyances and meannesses of Dayton people. While there most of his time was spent in appearing in court to defend himself against some petty trumped-up charge. In New York he will not be bothered by small village affairs, and that is the reason he has come here."

TO RESTORE WORDS.

Monument in Memphis to Bear "The Union Must Be Preserved."

After an absence of forty-three years, Andrew Jackson's historic words, "The Union must be preserved," will be restored to his monument in Court Square by the Park Commission at Memphis, Tenn.

"During the civil war a local Confederate patriot took a chisel and removed 'The Union must be preserved,'" said Col. Galloway, a member of the Park Commission. "Now that the civil war is long past, and we are all so proud of the Union, it seems to me that it would be only proper to put this language back."

Jersey Auto License Bill Passed.

The House yesterday passed Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen's new automobile law. It requires ample lights by night and large numbers on all cars, increases the number of paid inspector to ten, creates a department of unpaid inspectors, provides for tourists' registration, raises registration fees to range from $3 to $100, according to the power of the machine; motor cycles to be registered for $2 per year, denies licenses to drivers under 16 years, and raises license fees to range from $1 to $25.

Theatre Bill Passed.

Except for the objection of Senator Wilson that it would hurt trade at the seaside resorts, Assemblyman Morgan's bill prohibiting children from attending theatres or dance halls unless accompanied by parent or guardian, passed the Senate yesterday with little opposition. Senator Robbins thought that the clause regulating the age at which a boy might be sold intoxicating liquors might conflict with that already on the statute books, but that defect was eliminated.

Seton Hall Official Transferred.

Bishop O'Connor of the Catholic diocese of Newark announced yesterday that the Rev. John A. Dillon, vice-president of Seton Hall College, had been transferred to be assistant at St. Mary's church, Elizabeth. The Rev. John H. Hagen, has been transferred from that church to St. Augustine's, Union Hill. The Rev. Charles Marshall goes from Union Hill to St. Mary's, Dover, as assistant pastor to the Rev. Paul Carew.

Shifts Pastor to End Friction.

The trouble that had arisen in the First Methodist church at Montclair over the retention of the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lucas has been quietly adjusted by Bishop Spellmeyer. Dr. Lucas, who was opposed by a certain clique in the church, has been transferred to Hoboken, where he will assume the pastorate of the First Methodist church. The pastor of the Hoboken church, the Rev. Herbert Fitz Randolph, has been transferred to the Methodist charge in Montclair.

New Democracy Born in Newark.

About 100 men Wednesday night attended the second meeting in Newark to launch a movement in the Democratic party along the lines of the Colby, or New Idea, wing of the Republican party, and eventually to stamp out bossism in the Democracy of Newark and Essex county. It was decided to call the organization "The Real Democracy." The election of officers and adoption of a constitution were deferred until April 23.

Wanted to Disarm Firth.

Assemblyman Gibbs, of Camden, offered a resolution in the House yesterday afternoon to require Firth, of Warren, to turn over his .44-calibre revolver to Speaker Jess until after adjournment. Firth, as Mayor of Phillipsburg, is head of its police department. He declined to give up, saying that, to his mind, there are so many criminals in the House he had better keep it. He has a number of bills on the calendar, and contemplates strenuous times.

Bryan's New York Plans.

Lincoln, Neb., April 10.—William J. Bryan will be in New York State from April 17 to 22. While in New York city he will meet Mrs. Bryan, who is exepected to return then from a European trip. On Monday Mr. Bryan will leave for Peoria, Ill., where he will speak April 14. He will be in Michigan April 15 and 16.

Princeton Commencement Orators.

Princeton, April 10.—At a meeting of the Princeton University faculty the following seniors were elected commencement day orators: Walter W. Westervelt, of Beemerville, Latin salutatory; J. F. Dulles, Auburn, N. Y., valedictorian; John Havron, Jr., Passaic, honorary orator.

Hahn Bills Pass House.

Without opposition the five bills recommended by the Hahn investigating committee of last year were passed by the House last night as introduced by Majority Leader Martin. They are House 438 to 442, inclusive.

Anti-Water Snake Bills Pass.

Sullivan's two bills to prevent the East Jersey Water Company from laying mains in Jersey City to sell water to that municipality's customers in competition with the municipal plant were passed by the House yesterday.

The English city of Hanley, with a population of 70,000, believes it has solved the sewerage problem. Its new plant, which cost $350,000, will dispose of 9,000,000 gallons of sewerage a day, and the effluent from the beds is so clear that fish will live in it for an indefinite period.

WHERE MR. SPOONER LOST OUT.

Next Time, Maybe, He Will Be More Chary of Compliments.

"Do you really mean it, Mr. Spooner, when you say I am the best girl in the world?" asked Miss Flypp, after the young man had suggested that she should become Mrs. Spooner.

"Indeed, I do, Miss Flypp," asseverated the young man. "I say it again—you are the best girl in the world."

"And the loveliest, I think you said?"

"The loveliest, without doubt."

"I think you said something about my accomplishments, too?"

"I did. I said they excelled those of any other girl."

"I believe you called me sweet?"

"'A sweeter woman ne'er drew breath,'" quoted the ardent lover.

"You used the word 'perfect,' too, did you not?"

"I did. I also pronounce you the pink of perfection, propriety and modesty, the empress of my heart, the peerless one among the beauteous creatures of your sex, a maiden adorable, enchanting and worthy of the hand of the best man on earth. Say the word that will make me the happiest man, my own Dora!"

"Before I give you an answer, Mr. Spooner, I should like to ask you one question."

"A dozen if you like."

"One will be enough. Don't you think you have a good deal of assurance to expect a woman with all those excellent qualities to marry you?"

Then Mr. Spooner went home.

FORGOT AN IMPORTANT POINT.

Boston Carpenter Overlooked Davy Crockett's Immortal Advice.

Apropos of the fat man who built his wife a table in the cellar too big to go through the door, a reader declares that he knows of a man who did very much the same trick. The man in question, a Boston carpenter, was having a dull season, and as spring was coming on he decided to build himself a boat for use in historic Boston bay. After due consideration the carpenter decided to use his own cellar as a workshop, as he had plenty of room and all materials were handy. He did not once think of getting the boat out until after weeks of hard work he had finished a fine 18-foot vessel. Of course it would not go through a mere door, and as there was no double door entrance the carpenter was up against it. He was determined to have his boat, though, and he tore out the entire end of his house to get it out of his cellar. He got his boat, and also had more hard work to do in his dull season, for it was several weeks before he finished repairing the house.

Deadly Insult.

A New York youngster was caught literally wiping up the street with another boy with whom he was supposed to be on especially friendly terms. The detector of his pugilistic encounter was his mother, who, after she had yanked him into the house, proceeded to deliver a lecture on the sin of fighting. The boy listened for a while in silence.

"That's all right," he broke out at last in uncontrollable indignation. "It's all right for you to talk, but if you just knew what he said about you—"

The pause was significant. The mother took alarm.

"About me?" she said. "Why, what on earth did he say about me?"

"He said," blubbered the small boy in impotent wrath, "that you—wear—petticoats."

When Learning Is Jocular.

The Yale students' attitude toward the faculty, though jocular, is not antagonistic, and as a rule the Record laughs with the professor at his unfortunate pupil, as instance:

Dycut Funker—But I do not think I deserve an absolute zero.

Professor—Neither do I, but that is the lowest mark I am allowed to give.

Among the stage settings of the campus the lunch-rooms, called "dog wagons," because of their remarkable output of bologna sandwiches, or "hot dogs," are well patronized, and contribute their share of fun.

"Shay, Jack, come on over and have a dog."

"Nop, I just had a rabbit."

"Well, shen, come on over and have a dog for a chaser."—The Bohemian.

Too Much Idealized.

"He was at one time the leading photographer, wasn't he?"

"Yes. But after Bella's experience his business dropped off."

"Tell me about it."

"Bella had some pictures taken there and they certainly were swell. A multimillionaire from Pittsburg saw one in the showcase and fell in love at first sight."

"With Bella?"

"With Bella's picture. Of course, he was wild to be introduced. Then he saw the actual Bella."

"And then?"

"And then he took the first train back to Pittsburg."

A Poor Scholar.

The other day a professor leaving the university was approached by a seedy individual, who pathetically asked:

"Won't you help a poor scholar with a dime?"

The coin bestowed, the learned man said:

"You tell me you are a poor scholar?"

"Sure," answered the other. "I never went to school in me life. So long."—Philadelphia Ledger.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

Sanity is a good sign of a saint.

Real heroes never need to hire heralds.

The closer you get to men the nearer you come to God.

One secret of sin's hold on us is our hold on secret sins.

Love is the first word and the last in the lexicon of religion.

The man who preaches for a salary never gets anything else.

Lightheartedness never comes from feeding on the froth of life.

It takes more than smooth words to smooth out life's rough places.

When you brand a vice as harmless you have augmented its power to hurt.

You hold a boy from power when you protect him from pain and hardship.

The places where we have helped others are our milestones on the way to heaven.

Whenever you find a minister who can be hired you never are getting much of a man.

In the final appraisal our increment from life depends on our investment of ourselves in it.

You cannot advertise your own straightness by uncovering another man's crookedness.

His heart is dead who feels no drawing on things within when a child takes his hand.

There's a lot of difference between sending a petition to heaven and dispatching a prescription here.

TALES TOLD BY THUMBS.

Such a person has great power to accumulate by plodding.

He is the possessor of a strong will and is stubbornly determined.

He is cautious, reserved and seldom impressionable or cares to invite confidence.

The thumb which bends back easily personifies great adaptability, extravagance, brilliancy and versatility.

The owner of a stiff thumb is practical, matter of fact, economical, exacting and weighs everything carefully.

He is no extremist and enjoys a quiet life, seldom cares to flaunt, is not erratic, and prefers to stick to one thing.

They are easily reached through their hearts, and it is difficult for them to pass a beggar on the street without contributing a mite.

The owner of such a thumb is at home in changing circumstances—in fact, is home anywhere—is generous, sympathetic, sentimental and, as a rule, improvident.

The owner of a stiff thumb cannot make his money as easily, nor has the the power of making as much, as the more limber thumbed individual, but what he makes he is generally able to hold.

BITS OF WEATHER WISDOM.

A bright yellow sky at sunset means wind

If the full moon rises red, expect wind.

When the sky is particularly full of stars, expect rain.

Three foggy mornings are usually followed by a heavy rain storm.

A rainbow in the morning is a sign of rain, but one in the evening indicates fine weather.

A morning fog usually clears away before noon; an afternoon fog has set in for the day.

A red sunrise indicates rain, and so does a gray, lowering sunset, or one where the sky is green or yellowish green.

The 12 days immediately following Christmas are said to denote the weather for the coming year, one day for each month.

BY THE WAY.

No man is safe until after he is dead and his obituary published.

The world has yet to learn that it does not increase the size of a thing to look at it with magnifying glasses.

If there is anything that diminishes upon acquaintance faster than a great man it must be something that either heat or cold will evaporate.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

DYSPEPTIC PHILOSOPHY.

A lullaby is something that may keep a whole neighborhood awake while it puts one kid to sleep.

Many a man doesn't know which side his bread is buttered on unless it is buttered on both sides.

BY ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

COPYRIGHT, 1907 BY GEORGE H. BROADHURST

"Oh, good morning!" he grunted, with a curt nod to the visitor, and, picking up a paper, turned to the sporting sheet and became immersed in its contents, oblivious of all else.

"Mr. Gibbs is only spending one day with us," admonished Dallas, trying to soften her young brother's rudeness.

"Hope he'll enjoy it," came in absent tones from the depths of the paper.

Gibbs rose.

"I'm going out for a cigar on the terrace," said he. "I'll join you a little later."

"Perry," scolded Dallas as soon as the broker disappeared through the long windows, "how could you treat a guest of uncle's so rudely?"

"I don't like the fellow. And I don't like what I read in the paper today about him and you. Gee, what a measly paragraph! It's enough to make a white man want to dash out his brains with a cigarette. You're going to deny it in time for the retraction to get into tomorrow's papers, aren't you?"

"I—I'm not quite sure."

"Good L[illegible]!" gasped Perry, slumping down in the nearest chair. "Are you crazy? Say, if you are looking for a real good, exciting match why don't you marry a Wall street stock report? It'd be better 'n Gibbs. If you marry him you'll only be an 'also ran' with the ticker tape and the market news. Oh, keep out of it, old girl! You owe something to your intelligent and distinguished little brother. If you've got to commit matrimony, marry some one I like, can't you?"

"I haven't given him a definite answer yet," admitted the girl, a little touched by the real feeling that underlay her brother's flippant words.

"That's good medicine. Confidence restored and the run on Brother's Emotions is checked. Next time you get the marry bee I have a dandy candidate to suggest for the job."

"Who?" laughed Dallas, amused in spite of herself.

"Alwyn Bennett!"

"How silly!"

"Not on your life! Words of wisdom from the young—that's what it is. Go ahead and marry Bennett. Be a sport and say 'Yes.' Why don't you want to marry him?"

"For any one of a million reasons. First of all, he never asked me to."

"Maybe he's scared to. But if he wasn't stuck on you he wouldn't be hanging around here every day and going everywhere with you the way he does. I'll bet $9 he's"—

"Mr. Bennett!" the butler announced. Brother and sister stared guiltily at each other.

"Speaking of angels"— muttered Perry. But Dallas had already turned to welcome the visitor.

Alwyn Bennett at first glance had little to distinguish him from the average good looking young man about town. But a closer observer would have noticed a firmness about the shapely mouth, an honesty and strength of purpose about the eyes, a general air of latent power that lay unawakened beneath the jolly, purposeless exterior. No crisis had yet called forth any special manifestation of this power, and meanwhile Bennett was content to loaf through an existence that thus far had been decidedly pleasant. The only son of a widowed mother who advised and spoiled him, more than comfortably well off from the great fortune amassed by his dead father, possessed of a social position unassailable and equally fortunate in that mysterious quality that spells popularity—all these gifts had saved Alwyn Bennett the trouble of fighting life's battle or showing who might be within his reach.

"Good old Bennett!" hailed Perry. "We were just talking about you."

"Good!" answered Alwyn. "Anything is better than indifference. What were you saying about me?"

"You tell him, Dallas!" grinned the boy.

"Be quiet!" whispered his sister, flushing with vexation.

"Then I'll tell for myself," went on Perry gleefully. "I was just asking her"—

Seeing the girl's confusion, Bennett quickly changed the subject by interrupting:

"My mother will be over here in a few minutes, Dallas. She is bringing along a guest of ours, who says you and she were chums at school—Miss Garrison."

"Cynthia Garrison! Oh, I'll be ever so glad to see her again! I"—

"I know who she is!" cried Perry,

Dallas Wainwright.

refusing to be snubbed. "They say she's a gorgeous looker. When her kennel was under the hammer I bought in her two pet Boston terriers, Betty and Prince. Maybe that won't make me solid with her, eh? Well, I guess. All I ask is a start, and you'll find a whole lot of cripples slower than I'll be. If they're walking over I might wander out, sort of aimless-like and happen to meet 'em. Maybe that's a bum idea? Good old me!"

Full of his Machiavellian scheme, the lad bolted through the long window and was gone.

"Dallas," began Bennett, without preamble, "you must surely know why I'm here today. You've seen that paragraph in the"—

"I have seen it," she answered quietly.

Taken aback by her manner, Bennett hesitated an instant; then asked nervously:

"The—the rumor isn't true, Dallas? Tell me it isn't."

"Why shouldn't it be true?" she countered perversely, as though not wholly sorry to witness the new look her words called to his face. The look deepened as Bennett continued:

"You don't love Gibbs? Surely you don't love him?"

"I"—

The French windows swung wide, breaking off her reply.

CHAPTER II.

ALWYN BENNETT turned sharply toward the window, angry at the interruption, but Perry Wainwright, ushering two ladies in from the veranda, met his scowl with a wink of triumph.

"Not so bad, eh?" called the boy. "Met them as they were turning into the drive. You see"—

"Oh," observed the younger of the two women—a pretty, flower faced girl who since her entrance into the room had been engaged in exchanging delighted greetings with Dallas. "So you came to meet us? You said you just happened"—

"Did I?" asked Perry in deep amazement. "Well, well! The fact is, I wanted to do something startling in honor of meeting you, so I told my first lie. I"—

"Don't mind him, Cynthia!" laughed Dallas. "He's taken that way quite often."

"Oh, it's his usual pace, then?" queried Miss Garrison innocently. "I thought perhaps he was just warming up."

"And now," pursued Dallas, taking possession of Cynthia, much to Perry's disgust, "tell me all about yourself. Have"—

"There isn't much to tell. But there's going to be. I'm going to work."

"Work? What for?"

"For a living, of course."

"Not really."

"Yes, isn't it ridiculous?" broke in Mrs. Bennett, a sweet little old lady who now found her first chance to edge in a word amid the general volley of talk. "But Cynthia is set on doing it."

"Why shouldn't I? I haven't a dollar, and there's a theory that one must live."

"But what are you going to do?" asked Dallas.

"I don't know. I have a pretty good education. I shall find something. I—Dallas, I think your brother is giving us a high sign of some sort."

"I am!" declared Perry. "I just wanted to tell you there's a surprise waiting for you. Two surprises in one kennel. Want to see 'em?"

"What is he talking about?" queried Cynthia, appealing to Dallas for light on the mystery.

"About Betty and Prince Charlie," retorted Perry. "Your two Boston terriers that I bought. Want to see 'em?"

"Oh, the darlings! Of course I do. Where are they?"

"Come along and I'll show you. 'The darlings,' eh? Talk like that makes Perry followed Miss Garrison from the room.

me wish I was a dog."

"Don't despair," suggested Cynthia. "Maybe you'll grow."

Still puzzling vaguely as to the meaning of this cryptic utterance, Perry followed Miss Garrison from the room, a grin of satisfied ambition wreathing his tanned face.

"To think of poor little Cynthia having to go to work!" sighed Dallas, looking after them. "One would as soon think of putting a butterfly into harness. Is it true she has no money left?"

"I'm afraid it's only too true," answered Mrs. Bennett. "Her father lost everything in speculating. He was cashier of the Israel Putnam Trust company and afterward president. He"—

She paused as the office door opened and Thompson, the secretary, came into the room. At sight of Mrs. Bennett he seemed about to turn back; but, changing his purpose, crossed to the table and began to look for some documents he had failed to gather up.

"What was the rest of the story about Mr. Garrison?" asked Dallas, really interested in the older woman's recital.

Thompson's papers slipped through his fingers and went skidding across the polished floor. The others looked around in surprise.

"Excuse me!" muttered the secretary as he stooped to gather up the documents. "Very awkward! I'm sorry."

He went on arranging the scattered papers in his usual unobtrusive silence, effacing himself from the general talk.

"You were telling me about Cynthia's father," said Dallas.

"Oh, yes," said Mrs. Bennett, taking up the thread of her tale. "He was looked on as one of the most honorable bankers in the city. And so he was until his misfortune."

"Misfortune?"

"More misfortune than crime. His wife was a girlhood friend of mine, so perhaps I am prejudiced in his favor. A famous financier—a dear friend of his—induced him to make a very large loan that proved to be a mistake. He went to the financier for advice as to how to recoup the loss. The financier told him of an investment by which he could get all the money back without any risk and could make good the loan. Mr. Garrison took his advice, used the bank's funds for the purpose and—the investment proved worthless. The bank was insolvent. Mr. Garrison shot himself."

"Horrible! Horrible!" murmured Dallas.

"The 'horrible' part of the whole story came out later," said Alwyn Bennett. "It seems the financier had deliberately ruined Mr. Garrison and was on the other side of the deal by which the bank's funds were lost. In other words, he persuaded his friend to put money in what he knew was a losing venture, then took that money himself."

"He did it willfully," chimed in Mrs. Bennett, "knowing his friend would be ruined and that the bank's money which he lured Mr. Garrison into investing was going to swell his own ill gotten fortune."

"I did not think any one lived who could do such things," shuddered Dallas. "Poor Cynthia!"

"Cynthia suffered least of all," said Mrs. Bennett. "She was little more than a child at the time. Her mother died of grief, and her brother—a promising, clever young fellow just entering college—disappeared."

"Deserted Cynthia?"

"Not so bad as that. He probably went away sooner than face his father's disgrace and began life somewhere far from home. That was nine years ago, yet ever since then he sends Cynthia a little money every month—not much, but no doubt all he can scrape together above his bare living expenses. She has tried in every way to get in touch with him, but she can't locate him anywhere. There is no clew except that monthly money order. I never knew him very well—in fact, I only saw him once or twice—but I've heard he was a fine, manly boy. The shock must have been worst of all on him."

"So a man lost his good name and his life, his wife died, his son's life was wrecked and his daughter impoverished," mused Dallas, "and all that a financier might grow a little richer. I can't believe it!"

A little ashamed of displaying such vehemence in the presence of one of her uncle's dependents, the girl glanced toward the table. But the secretary had gone.

"My husband," prattled Mrs. Bennett complacently, "always said that the men who rose highest in the money world reached their lofty places over the despoiled bodies of hundreds of victims. Thank God, my boy has no such parental record to look back on. My husband was one man in a million—the soul of honor both in business and in private life. You've read of his splendid civil war record. Then he went into business as a contractor and engineer and earned a fortune, every dollar of which was honest. That's something to be proud of in these money loving times."

"What was the name of the financier who ruined Mr. Garrison?" asked Dallas, still haunted by the narrative she had just heard.

"No one knows. It was suppressed at the time. The facts in the written confession left by Mr. Garrison became public property; but, through political influence, the name of the man responsible for the tragedy was suppressed. Here I sit chatting on doleful topics; while those two young people are running all over the place unchaperoned. Excuse me, won't you, and I'll look them up?"

She smiled at Alwyn as she left the room, and his answering smile showed how fully he understood and appreciated her motive in leaving him alone with Dallas Wainwright. Perhaps Dallas, too, understood, for she made as though to follow Mrs. Bennett out into the lawn. But Alwyn stepped between her and the window.

"Don't go just yet," he begged. "I've so much to talk over with you. When they came in we were speaking of that paragraph about Gibbs and yourself. You don't love him, do you, Dallas? Tell me you don't!"

"What right have you to ask me such a question?"

"Only the right that my love for you gives me, dear heart. You must have known I loved you even though I've never said it before. I love you, Dallas, though till today, I think, I never realized how much. Tell me it isn't true that you're going to marry Gibbs."

"Even if it weren't true I should not marry you, Alwyn."

"Ah!"

The exclamation was wrung unconsciously from his whitening lips. It was as though a pang of physical pain had pierced him.

"I wouldn't marry you," went on Dallas, though more gently, "because you don't really love me."

"I do! I do! With my whole heart, I"—

"Oh, Alwyn!" she exclaimed with almost mother-like tolerance, "what a child you are! What a mere child! Some one tries to take away from you a plaything you've grown used to having. You never cared especially about the plaything before; but, now that you're in danger of losing it, you cry out: 'Oh, I love it! I love it!' You'll soon find another toy that'll make you forget"—

"Dallas, you are unfair! You have no right to treat my love for you as if"—

"As if it were a mere whim? Isn't it? Now, don't say 'No,' but look me in the eyes and answer one question. If Scott Gibbs hadn't proposed to me—if that paragraph had not appeared in the paper—would you have come here today and told me you loved me? No, you know you wouldn't!"

"Don't talk like that, dear!" implored Bennett. "I tell you I love you! More than I ever dreamed a woman could be loved. I love you! I"—

"There's an easy way to prove it, then."

"What way? Anything"—

"By doing something to make me feel proud of you. I don't feel so now. I could not marry a man who loiters his life away—a man who sits idle while others are thronging past him in the upward climb. You are rich, thanks to your father's efforts. What have you done with that wealth? If you've done no harm with it you've at least put it to no good use. You are young, talented, highly educated. What have you done with your youth, your talents, your education? How have you used them for your own betterment or for your fellow men's? What have you to offer me? Money? Social position? I have plenty of both. What else can you offer me? Nothing—absolutely nothing."

"My love, for one thing. I can offer you that."

"In what is your love better than any other man's? Behind it is not a record of hard work, of self sacrifice, of achievement—of any of the things that go toward making love strong and enduring and beautiful—to make it a support that a woman can lean on for life? What have you to offer me or any other woman?"

There was a silence. Yet when Bennett spoke there was a new note in his voice—a ring of awakening strength that impressed Dallas in spite of herself—that sent a wholly strange thrill through her and set her heart to beating with unwonted quickness.

"You are right," said he. "I have done nothing. I've been content to be a rich man's son, and I've nothing to offer that is worthy your acceptance, but that does not mean I never shall have. And by the grace of God I shall! You've put things in a new light. I see them as I never did. It isn't a wholly pleasant experience, but it's good for me. There's nothing yet that I'm fitted to do, but I'll find something, never fear. And when I do"—

"Don't say there's nothing you're fit for," protested Dallas. "There's nothing you couldn't accomplish if once you set yourself to it. Why, just think of those speeches you made for Mr. Lorimer last campaign. They were fine. I was so"—

"Oh, those amounted to nothing. I just did it to oblige him. And, besides, it was fun to sway the crowds."

BOROUGH NINE WINS SEASON'S FIRST GAME

The North Plainfield High School team won the first game of the season yesterday afternoon at Westfield, when the Westfield High School nine was defeated by a score of 5-2. The game was played at Recreation Park, and although the home team had a lead of 2-1 up to the fifth, good stick work by the visitors, together with several misplays by Westfield, gave the boroughites runs in the fifth, sixth and seventh, while efficient work in the box and clean fielding prevented the home nine from scoring again.

Smith, who was on the slab for the boroughites, was in good form, fanning ten men and giving but three passes. Carlson, for the Westfielders, struck out six and gave two bases on balls. The score and lineups:

N. P. H. S..0 1 0 0 2 1 1 0 0—5
W. H. S....0 1 1 0 0 0 0 0 0—2

N. P. H. S.: Smith, p; F. McClintock, c; B. McClintock, 1b; A. Bailey, 2b; Conroy, ss; Powlison, 3b; P. Bailey, lf; Lee, cf; Day, rf.

W. H. S.: Carlson, p; Brown, c; Smith, 1b; Winkler, 2b; Marenghi, ss; Otto, 3b; Breese, lf; Green, cf; Maxwell, rf.

Umpire: B. K. Phelps, N. P. H. S. Scorer: George M. Parsons.

Chathams, 6; Jacksons, 1.

The Chatham A. C. easily defeated the Jackson A. C. on an East End diamond this morning, winning out by a score of 6-1. With but seven men on a side, the boys' teams played like leaguers, and the absence of outfielders made the heavy hitting of the Chathams the victors. The lineups and score:

Chathams .....2 2 0 0 0 0 0 1 1—6

Chathams: Sutton, p; W. Day, c; R. Moore, 1b; Trotter, 2b; C. Day, 3b; Snell, ss; W. Moore, fielder. Jacksons: E. LaPorte, p; J. Hiebert, c; Ammerman, 1b; Peacock, 2b; V. LaPorte, 3b; B. Hiebert, ss; Siedel, fielder.

Game With Upsala Here.

Manager William V. Rafferty, of the Plainfield High School baseball team, has arranged a game with Upsala College, to be played on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, April 30. This is in place of the game which was postponed on account of rain Wednesday. The P. H. S. nine will play Upsala at Kenilworth Wednesday afternoon.

Class Baseball Captains.

Class baseball teams are now thoroughly organized for the interclass league to be begun at the school within two weeks. Candidates for the various positions are holding regular practises and the following class captains have been chosen: Rubenstein, 1908; Bingamin, 1909; Van Zandt, 1910; Clark, 1911.

New Suits for P. H. S.

New baseball suits for the Plainfield High School nine will arrive in time for the Westfield game Monday afternoon. The suits are practically the same as last year's, but the hats are brimmed outing hats, embroidered with the school insignia.

Three-Man Match.

With the idea of getting some practice for their match game, on Monday night, with the team from the New Brunswick Lodge of Elks, the Armrights propose to roll a three-man match game on Campbell's alleys tonight. Nash, Reville and Radin will compose one team while Skelly, Britton and Campbell will oppose them and they will roll best out of five games.

Mrs. Chamberlain Seeks Divorce.

Mrs. Emma E. Chamberlain, of Dover, Sussex county, has instituted a suit for divorce from her husband, Joseph Chamberlain, of this city, on the grounds of desertion. According to the bill, Mr. Chamberlain left his wife several years ago, and has not contributed toward her support. Mrs. Chamberlain is represented by F. D. Smith, attorney, of Dover, and papers were served on Mr. Chamberlain last night. By the marriage there were four children, two being dead. There are two daughters living with the mother, one aged sixteen years and the other aged nine years. Mr. Chamberlain is now employed at the Quincy-Manchester-Sergeant Company's plant, as a laborer, and he resides on Lee place.

Mr. Holland's New Auto.

C. W. Holland, of West Seventh street, has added a handsome Thomas Landaulet town car to his automobile equipment, the others being a Thomas touring car and a Thomas Limosine winter car. The new vehicle is one of the handsomest in the city and has electric equipment that provides every comfort for the occupants, even to a cigar lighter. The exterior finish is in dark blue.

Bohl Held in $200 Bail.

William H. Bohl, charged by James Calloway with committing an unprovoked assault upon him last Saturday afternoon, waived examination when the case was called in the city court today and was held in $200 bail for the grand jury. He furnished the amount himself. Francis J. Blatz is looking after Bohl's interests while Calloway is represented by S. S. Swackhamer.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Stephen Haff has been engaged as organist of the Swedish Lutheran church. His playing last Sunday delighted the congregation.

Rev. Phil. A. Parsons, of the Christian church, arrived in Plainfield from the West this morning, and will fill his regular appointments tomorrow.

The annual offering for the support of Hope, Warren and Bethel chapels will be received at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, tomorrow morning, and as this is the largest collection of the year, the pastor hopes that all those who are interested will be present.

AMATEUR ACROBAT MEETS WITH A MISHAP.

In giving a horizontal bar act in the amateur numbers at the New Plainfield theatre, last night, David Keller, of Raritan, narrowly escaped serious injury. He attempted to make a leap from one bar to another when his feet caught and he was thrown on his face. The fall was a severe one but he recovered quickly and pluckily resumed. The sympathies of the audience were with him and when the prizes were awarded the applause resulting in his getting the first.

Second prize went to Tom Lannon, of Somerville, who gave a first rate clog dance and Joe Mott, of Elizabeth, got third. He deserved it for being very bad and for being in the way. He was so anxious to get the money that he grabbed it out of Manager Counihan's hand before anyone else had a chance to claim it.

The show was one of the best of the kind yet put on and made a big hit with the crowded house. There were eighteen numbers in all and several of them good enough to go into the regular bills at any time.

Vaudevillians Coming by Auto.

Three large automobiles will be pressed into service this afternoon to bring Miss May Ward and her "Dresden dolls" and the members of the Mullen company from Perth Amboy to appear in the vaudeville bill at the New Plainfield theatre. They will remain until after the show is opened tonight and after giving their acts will return to Perth Amboy to complete the program at the Majestic theatre. The other acts on the bill here are from the Keith and Proctor circuit and are listed as "topnotchers."

Bottlers' License Bill a Law.

Governor Fort yesterday morning signed House bill No. 298, the Morris liquor bottlers' license bill. The Hudson delegation in the Assembly Thursday got through a motion to recall the bill, but it did not reach the Governor. The real object was to try and kill it. The measure as amended by the Senate provides for a license fee of $100 on all peddlers of bottled liquor. It passed both houses, but in some unexplained way it reached the Governor's office minus the Senate amendment.

Defi by Myrtle Avenue Bowlers.

Through Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield, the "Myrtle Avenues," a Park Club bowling team, of which he is captain, has issued a challenge to roll "teams from any two streets and Fairview avenue." This defi has been accepted, and although the date has not yet been set, it is understood that "Washington Avenue" bowlers will be among the ten men who will constitute the opposing team.

CHEERFUL WORKERS' SALE AND MUSICALE

Under the auspices of the Cheerful Workers Circle of The King's Daughters a sale of fancy articles, cakes and candy, and a musicale were held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Howard Fleming on Park avenue. The affair was largely attended by members of the circle and their friends and about $95 was realized as profit. This will go toward meeting the pledge for the support of the city nurse.

During the afternoon the musical program comprised vocal, violin, piano, duet and quartet selections, all given by members of the Circle. Everything offered for sale was disposed of at good prices. The members of the Circle are President Miss Eva Browne, and the Misses Euphemia Bakewell, Florence Curtis, Louise Curtis, Maysie Day, Dorothy Fleming, Elsie Goddard, Jean Griscom, Elsie Harman, Helen Harman, Virginia Hegeman, Maida Hyde, Grace Kaufman, Margaret Leal, Margaret Mead, Ursula Rowland, Abi Sykes, Georgianna Smith, Frances Van Deventer, Mary Wadsworth and Mrs. Lewis Squires.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS ARE PASSED BY SENATE.

In the early part of the afternoon session yesterday at Trenton the Senate passed the Avis constitutional amendments, making the Governor's term four instead of three years, Senators four years and Assemblymen two years. The Assembly amendments, requiring a constitutional amendment to allow Assemblymen to be elected by Assembly districts instead of by the county system, passed the Senate.

The latter amendment provides that in 1910, if the people so vote on the proposition at the general election previous, each county shall be divided into Assembly districts, with as near an equal number of voters in each district as possible.

As the constitutional amendment reforming the judiciary have also passed both Houses, and will doubtless also pass next year, the constitution of the State now is a fair way of amendment.

Miss Nancy M. Wade a Bride.

Miss Nancy M. Wade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Wade, of Stanbury avenue, Scotch Plains, and Rev. C. B. Livingston, of Wampum, Pa., were married Thursday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents at 3 o'clock. Rev. James Hoffman, a former pastor of the Methodist church, of which the bride is a member, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. W. W. Dietrick, the present pastor. After a honeymoon the couple will reside at Wampum, where the groom is pastor of the Methodist church.

Funeral of Mrs. Bourgeois.

The funeral of Mrs. Wiliam Bourgeois was held this morning in St. Mary's church. Father Bogan conducted the mass in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, the following acting as pall bearers: Frank and John McIntyre, James Conway, John Scott, Joseph Galbraith and John Caulfield.

Good Friday Holiday Vetoed.

New Jersey has enough legal holidays, according to Goveror Fort's idea. In a message vetoing the bill by Van Cleef, of Middlesex, to make Good Friday a holiday, the Governor says that the act of 1892, under which he issued a proclamation making Good Friday a holiday is sufficient. He also says that Good Friday is not a fixed day in any year.

Glee Club Concert Planned.

Plans are being made for a concert by the Y. W. C. A. glee club to be given in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium Tuesday night, May 5. The concert will include vocal and instrumental selections by out-of-town talent; William H. Holmes, who has been training the club, and Mrs. H. L. DeForest will also take part in the program.

Dinner Party at St. Regis.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Reed gave a dinner party last night at the St. Regis, having as their guests Mr. and Mrs. L. Y. Spear. Later the party occupied a box at the Empire, where W. H. Crane is playing "Father and the Boys."

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Mrs. John R. Bryan, of 15 Albert street, celebrated the seventy-fifth anniversary of her birthday, yesterday, where she was remembered with many gifts from relatives and friends.

—Edmund Rushmore, real estate agent, 209 North avenue, has sold William H. Abbott's new house, at Hillside and Putnam avenues, to Ralph G. Morse, of Brooklyn, and he will move to Plainfield about May 1.

—In honor of the seventy-third anniversary of her birthday, Mrs. John W. Murray, of Central avenue, is today the recipient of many kind remembrances from her children and friends, including numerous floral gifts.

PERSONAL.

Miss Mary E. Robinson, of West Second street, is at Atlantic City for her Easter holiday.

Mrs. George Whitley, of Essex street, has returned from a visit of two months with relatives at Auburndale, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Peterson and son Willie Marshall, of this city, are registered at the Ingram House, Glen Cove, L. I.

J. W. Van Sickle, of East Third street, who has been critically ill for several months, continues to show improvement and his ultimate recovery is expected.

AVIS TAX BILL KILLED FINALLY IN THE ASSEMBLY.

The House at Trenton last night, under leadership of Mr. Sullivan and spurred on by 500 telegrams from the powerful Junior Order United Mechanics, killed the Avis bill raising the amount of money from the main stem railroad tax from one-half of 1 per cent. to three-quarter of 1 per cent.

It was shown that the appropriation cut of $1,000,000 from the State school support was because of many commissions created this session, and that the Avil bill was an attempt to get back $500,000, thus giving the State schools but one-half of what they should get.

This means that the costly commissions and the $100,000 for the inland waterway from Bay Head to Cape May will wipe out the "mythical" supply in the treasury always reported at the end of the fiscal year, which surplus has only been a working balance over night.

AMERICAN LIFE STRENUOUS.

Only a Short Time in This Country Girl Wants to Return to Europe.

Weehawken, April 11.—Miss Bridget Denny, who has been in this country but a short time, and was forcibly interrupted in her trip to Denver last evening, says she is a victim of the American strenuous life and wants to go back to Europe as soon as she is permitted to leave the North Hudson Hospital. Miss Denny was standing on the platform of the Ontario and Western depot, waiting to take a train for the West, when the steam pipe beneath one of the coaches burst and threw her up in the air. She turned an airspring, and though she landed on her feet she struck the edge of the platform and broke one arm and was otherwise injured severely. She was attended by a doctor and then removed to the hospital. Her injuries are painful, but it is not believed they will prove serious

Mr. Runkle a Director.

Harry G. Runkle, of West Eighth street, was elected a member of the board of directors of the Connecticut Railway and Lighting Co., at a meeting of the stockholders at New Haven yesterday. This company, through a lease, is now subsidiary property of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad.

Fined for Keeping Bottles.

Because she did not return empty beer bottles to the bottling firm, Mrs. Dora Sterer, of Scotch Plains, was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace Clark last night. A search warrant by Gross Bros. and Greenspan Bros., of Woodbridge, revealed the missing bottles yesterday afternoon.

Two Causes for Merrymaking.

About fifteen friends of Miss Margaret Darby, of Watchung avenue, surprised her at her home last night, when the young people spent an enjoyable evening. Yesterday was also the birthday of Miss Darby's father, Joseph F. Darby, and the anniversary was appropriately celebrated.

CHANGES IN AUTO LAWS

Frelinghuysen Acts Will now Bring Into State Treasury $100,000 Annually

SOME STRINGENT REGULATIONS.

Registration Fees Increased—Identification Marks Required—Fees for Road Work.

The State officials are preparing to enforce to the letter the new automobile amendment, and New Yorkers who cross the river for runs will find quite a change from the rules heretofore enforced here. The changes made provide for an increase from seven to ten inspectors, and twenty unpaid. Inspectors have been added, and, according to State Commissioner Smith, this will provide a sufficient number of inspectors to efficiently instruct the local authorities and to investigate complaints of violations. He said yesterday:

"The fees for registration have been increased from $3 for vehicles of less than 30 horse-power, and $5 for vehicles of 30 horse-power and above, to $3 for vehicles of less than 10 horse-power, $5 for vehicles of from 10 to 20 horse-power, inclusive, and $10 for vehicles of 30 horse-power and above. The drivers' license fees have been increased from $1 and $2 to $2 and $4, and dividing line being at vehicles of 30 horse-power. This will make a net increase of nearly $100,000 to the revenues of the State.

"Manufacturers must obtain annual registration certificates at the price of $25 for five certificates. Not more than five certificates will be issued for $25, but if the manufacturer desires to regulate less than five cars he may do so at $5 for each car.

"Blanket licenses at $100 will be issued to cab companies. This will entitle these companies to drive their vehicles fifteen miles within the borders of the State.

"Identification marks will be furnished by the State, and all registration certificates will expire on Dec. 31. Each identification mark will also have stamped upon it the manufacturer's car number. The effect of this will be both to prevent the running of cars without renewals and the counterfeiting of numbers.

"Motor cycles will be required to carry identification marks."

The auto fees are to be used for road improvements. In addition to the other provisions of the law it is made a misdemeanor to throw glass or other sharpened substances on roads.

ATTENDANTS CHOSEN FOR SHEPARD-REES WEDDING.

Augustus Dennis Shepard, Jr., of "The Gables," Fanwood, and Miss Elizabeth Baxter Rees, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Rees, who are to be married at All Souls' church, Biltmore, N. C., on April 23, have chosen their attendants. The bride will have Mrs. Rita Rees as her maid of honor and her other attendants will be Mrs. Osborn W. Bright of New York, and Miss Edith H. Smalley, of this city.

The bridegroom's best man will be his brother, Burritt H. Shepard, and the ushers will be Rutherford M. Shepard, Osborn W. Bright, David H. Morris, Col. Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Raritan; Col. John N. Stearns, Jr., Major Alfred R. Whitney, Jr., Henry S. Thompson, of New York, and Harald B. Rees, of Biltimore, N. C.

A special train will take the bridal party and guests from New York to Biltmore on April 17. Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt will give a ball for the bridal party soon after their arrival.

Mr. Shepard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Shepard.

Miss von Ohl with Buffalo Bill.

Miss Adele von Ohl left this morning on her handsome bay cob for Bridgeport, Conn., where she will join Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show. She will return with the show to Madison Square Garden, where it will open on Tuesday, April 21, and continue with it throughout its entire trip on the road. On Saturday, Miss Ohl received as a gift a coyote from the famous "101 Ranch," and it is her purpose to use him as a mascot while on her trip. During her absence her riding class will be taught by her mother.

Home From the Bahama Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Halstead C. Compton and daughter, Miss Mary Compton, of West Front street, who have been spending the winter at Nassau, Bahama Islands, arrived home last night, greatly benefitted in health for the change. On the trip home rough weather was encountered and on Saturday all passengers on the steamer were obliged to remain inside.

—Dr. C. A. Gesswein, of Central avenue, has purchased a Maxwell runabout.

LIFE ON THE CONGO THEME OF A MINISTER

An interesting and instructive lecture was given by Rev. William A. Raff, of Jamesburg, at the First Baptist church, last night, on "Life on the Congo." Mr. Raff, who is now pastor of the Baptist church at Jamesburg, lived on the Congo for seven years and had an exceptional opportunity to study conditions as they exist there. He was a pioneer missionary and had a wonderful experience.

Mr. Raff spoke at some length on the severe penalties inflicted on the natives for failure to bring in the required quantity of rubber. Some of these penalties included the cotting off an arm, a foot, an ear, and other cruelties. He gave some interesting experiences which he had in endeavoring to combat the witch doctor and his works, and how he had been able to so influence the old head chief that on his death he left orders that nobody should be compelled to drink poison on account of his death.

The speaker's remarks impressed all with the urgent necessity of sending the Gospel to the natives of the Congo for in that way only could they be saved and led to live the right kind of lives. At the close of his talk Mr. Raff exhibited a number of curios which he brought home with him, illustrating better than words the life and habits of the people in their peculiar form of worship. The talk was given under the auspices of the Men's Club of the church.

LENTEN ORATORIO DRAWS MANY MUSIC LOVERS

The Lenten musical service at the First Presbyterian church, last night, attracted an unusually large congregation, many being obliged to stand throughout the entire service. The service was a beautiful and impressive one, the rendition including "The Crucifixion," by Stainer, and ain addition a soprano solo, "Come Unto Me," by Miss Anna L. Case, and a contralto solo, "There is a Green Hill," by Miss Jessamine Burd, together with "Cast Thy Burden on the Lord," from "Elijah," by the unaccompanied quartet. The rendition was perfect throughout and was greatly enjoyed.

The soloists were the members of the regular quartet, Miss Anna Lucretia Case, soprano; Miss Jessamine Burd, contralto; Elmer D. Cuttin, tenor, and Herbert R. Byard, baritone, and the chorus included Mrs. Thomas MacDonald and Miss Helen Farland, sopranos; Miss Jessie Haynes and Miss Irene Dunham, contraltos; Fred S. Cutter and Henry Baldwin Drake, bassos; Bradley S. Hall and William J. Tallamy, tenors.

Clifford S. Braider, organist and choirmaster, was in charge of the service, and was at the organ. Miss Alice C. Miller assisted at the piano. During the service the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, gave a short talk, appropriate to the occasion.

Foreign Mission Meeting at Cranford.

The thirty-seventh annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Misisonary Society of the Presbytery of Elizabeth, will be held tomorrow morning and afternoon at the Presbyterian church, Cranford. The service will begin at 9:30 o'clock with a devotional meeting led by Mrs. W. I. Steans. At 10 o'clock there will be annual reports and addresses by Rev. Dr. Stanley White and Carter Milliken. Luncheon will be served at noon and at 1:30 the afternoon session will begin. The speakers will be Mrs. Thorpe, president of the Philadelphia Board, and Dr. Briggs, of Siam. At 3:30 o'clock there will be a young people's conference. Delegations are requested from Auxiliaries, Band, Young People's Christian Endeavor Societies and Junior Endeavor Societies.

Preached on "The New Birth."

Rev. Joseph E. Chambliss, brother of Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, occupied the pulpit at the First Baptist church, yesterday morning, delivering a strong practical sermon on "The New Birth" and the many evidences of the presence of the new nature after accepting Christ as a personal Saviour. Mr. Chambliss interspersed his talk with several appropriate illustrations.

FORT MAY HELP BOROUGH

North Plainfield Can Have Sewers if Governor Signs Frelinghuysen Bill.

ENLARGES TAXING POWERS.

Amendments Passed By Both Houses Benefit All Boroughs—Awaits Fort's Signature.

In the last few hours of the Legislature's session Friday night, two amendments to the miximum tax rate law were passed by both the Senate and the Assembly and are now before Governor Fort for his signature. The passage of these measures, for which Mayor Samuel Townsend has been especially anxious, means that North Plainfield can now go ahead and arrange for the installation of a sewer system without exceeding the legal tax rate to raise money for this purpose. The first bill was a compromise measure, introduced to remedy the law providing for the limiting of the tax rate in all taxing districts to $1.75. Mayor Townsend went to Trenton Wednesday, and had a consultation with Attorney General McCarter and Senator Joseph S Frelinghuysen, over the Senator's bill (Senate Bill No. 334), which gove ns the ate Bill No. 334), which governs the special case. Mr. Townsend was acting with the endorsement of a majority of mayors of the townships and of the mayors of the townships and boroughs, and the bill, as introduced by Senator Frelinghuysen, was passed by both houses Telephone conversations by Mayor Townsend with Senator Frelinghuysen and Governor Fort yesterday gave him much encouragement in the belief that the Governor is in favor of the measure as passed by the Legislature.

Speaking of the bills this morning to a Daily Press reporter, Mayor Townsend said:

"The first bill provides for an increase in the tax rate limit of ten cents in the county rate and thirty cents in the borough rate on the $100 of ratables. Under this law, as it stood, the borough rate must have been reduced each year until it eventually would reach $1.75 on $100 of assessed valuations. In order to reach this figure a reavy raise in assessed valuations would have been necessary, which, while not increasing the amount raised for borough purposes, would have compelled us to pay a still larger proportion of county taxes working a consequent great hardship to our taxpayers. With the change in the law we should be able to take care of all ordinary expenditures, but as this change did not go far enough to permit of our raising what might be necessary to establish a sewerage system, a second measure was introduced and passed and awaits only the signature of the Governor to become law. This is in the form of an amendment to chapter 116, section 4 of the laws of 1906 which law was as follows:

"'The limitations imposed by Sections 1 and 2 of this act upon the tax rate in any taxing district, shall not apply to the tax rate required to raise the State tax, the State school tax, or to pay judgment against the taxing district, which may be imposed in addition to the limited rate herein fixed.' This is amended by adding in its proper place the words 'or for the purpose of constructing and maintaining a sewerage system.'

"If it were not for this amendment we would, with a sewerage system in operation, have been compelled to pay to the county in taxes a much larger amount than we now pay because of the increase that we would have been obliged to make in assessed valuations. Too much cannot be said for our representatives in the Legislature, Senator Frelinghuysen and Assemblyman Smalley, who, after our position had been made clear to them, worked earnestly to have these laws passed and give us the relief we so much needed."

BENCH AND BAR HONOR CHANCELLOR MAHLON PITNEY

State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen and Former State Senator Charles A. Reed were among the guests at a dinner given in honor of Chancellor Mahlon Pitney, at the Morris County Golf Club, Saturday night. The bench of New Jersey was largely represented at the affair, covers being laid for 100 in the big banquet hall of the clubhouse, which was decorated with flowers and palms.

There were no set speeches, but the host called upon Governor Fort, Chancellor Pitney, Attorney-General McCarter, Chief Justice Gummere, former Chancellor Magie, former Judge Gilbert Collins and Judge Adams, who spoke. A special car on the Lackawanna Railroad carried the guests from Newark.

Mrs. C. W. Foster, of East Seventh street, has returned from a visit with friends at Orange.

3 DEAD AT CHELSEA; FIRE LOSS $10,000,000

Boston, April 13.—Chelsea is under the control of the militia today, following the conflagration of yesterday, which swept a section in the northwestern district about two miles long and one mile wide.

The police said this morning that three persons were known to have lost their lives in the blaze, although they thought that there might be additions to this list. At least fifty were seriously injured and the property loss has been variously estimated, the prevailing figure being $10,000,000.

There is grave fear of disease. The water supply is entirely cut off and thousands went without washing today.

For hours this morning women and children stood in the bread line, their faces blackened and eyes swollen, and cried for water to relieve their sufferings. Hundreds of persons were treated at the temporary relief station. A score of physicians and surgeons treated sore eyes, cuts and burns.

SOMERSET DEMOCRATS ENDORSE MR. MARTINE

James E. Martine, the ambassador of Bryanism in New Jersey, was unanimously endorsed as delegate-at-large to the Democratic National Convention at a meeting of the Somerset County Committee held at Somerville on Saturday. There were thirteen of the twenty-seven members present—thirteen, count 'em—and the resolution of endorsement was prefaced by laudatory remarks about "that sterling Democrat." The resolution follows:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this Committee that the delegates of Somerset County to the ensuing State convention should lend their support to that sterling Democrat, James E. Martine, as one of the four delegates-at-large to the national convention to be held at Denver, July 7, 1908."

April 25 was set for primary day in the county, except in North Plainfield borough and township and in Bernards township, where it will come April 23. At a meeting a week ago, the committee endorsed the nomination of William J. Bryan for President.

ANOTHER STRUGGLE FOR TOM LAWSON CUP

The officers and directors of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club at a meeting in New York took up the plans preliminary to the holding of the annual horse show in this city, on June 4, 5 and 6. Reports were received showing that practically all of last year's exhibitors will be here again, and in addition many new ones. The exhibition will follow the one to be held in Philadelphia the week beginning May 25, and, as usual, a majority of the exhibitors there will come directly to Plainfield.

The prize list will be an especially attractive one and unusual interest will be shown in the competition for the Thomas W. Lawson Cup, and the "Official Blue Book" prize offered by the club. Last year one of these was won by Reginald Vanderbilt and the other by J. W. Harriman, and according to the rules, they must return this year; otherwise the prizes will be defaulted and contested for as though they had never been won.

Among the exhibitors who will be seen here are Tonzo Sauvage, E. C. Rich, C. W. Watson, Miss Molly Maxwell, Otto Kahn, Edward Kneriem, while there will be the usual entries by W. J. Buttfield, C. W. McCutchen, Mrs. E. S. Hooley, Miss Mabel Hooley and a host of others including Reginald Vanderbilt and J. W. Harriman.

"The Quiet Hour" Awarded.

George Saunders, of Orchard place, has been awarded the handsome painting, entitled "The Quiet Hour," the work of George Wharton Edwards, the artist, which was exhibited at the affair given at the Casino for Muhlenberg Hospital, last October. The painting, which is considered a masterpiece, is valued at $350.

Lecture on "Jerusalem."

Rev. Wal-el-Ward, a native of Jerusalem, will give a lecture on "Jerusalem" at the First Presbyterian church, Thursday night, under the auspices of the Men's Club. It will be illustrated by stereopticon views and moving pictures. A silver offering will be taken.

CHURCHES UNITE FRIDAY

Program Announced for Customary Good Friday Services to Be Held by Protestants.

FOUR SPEAKERS ARE CHOSEN.

Meeting at Crescent Avenue Church At Night—Theme, "The Sins That Crucified Jesus."

The union Good Friday service ununder the auspices of the local Protestant churches will be held, as usual at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Friday night, at 7:45 o'clock. Revs. C. L. Goodrich, J. W. Musson and L. R. Howard comprise the committee on program.

Instead of having several speakers on "The Last Seven Words," as has been the custom ever since the service was inaugurated, the theme will be "The Sins That Crucified Jesus," and while it is expected that all of the pastors will have some part in the service, it has been arranged to have but four addresses. They will be given by Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church; Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, and Rev. J. C. McKelvey, of Warren chapel.

The sub-topics will be "The Sin of the Politician," Rev. Mr. Herring; "The Sin of the Society Man," Rev. Mr. Zelie; "The Sin of the Populace," Rev. Mr. Goodrich; "The Sin of the Church," Rev. Mr. McKelvey. The hymns will be "Beneath the Cross of Jesus," "Alas and Did My Saviour Bleed" and "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." Before the offertory there will be silent prayer. "The Gloria" will be rendered at the opening of the service and after the reading of the lesson, Matthew 27:15-37, an anthem will be rendered.

It will be the first Good Friday service of this character without the late Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman's presence. The two new pastors, Rev. C. S. Kemble, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, and Rev. O. J. Shoop, of Grace M. E. church, will be invited to have a part in the service. The offering, as usual, will be for the Children's Home.

PALM SUNDAY OBSERVED BY IMPRESSIVE SERVICES

Impressive services in observation of Palm Sunday were held yesterday in the Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches, and mention of the day was made at practically all the local churches. At the Catholic and Protestant churches, the edifices were handsomely decorated with masses of palms and flowers, and the palms were blessed and distributed at the Catholic churches after solemn high mass.

Music was a feature of the services at the Episcopal churches and in each church a soloist rendered "The Palms" in connection with the principal service of the day. At Holy Cross church, North Plainfield, the morning service was particularly impressive. The full vested choir of thirty-four men and boys was in attendance, and at the morning service carried palms as they marched around the church singing the processional, "All Glory, Land and Honor." H. Raymond Loder, of New York, sang "The Palms'" as a barytone solo for the offertory. At Grace church, too, the full choir was in attendance and Mrs. Theodore Mantz, the church soprano, sang "The Palms." E. A. Sprowl, bass soloist at St. Stephen's church, also rendered the solo at the morning service there. The sermons were commemorative of the significance of the day in the church calendar, and there were celebrations of the Holy Communion.

Father Sciola officiated at St. Mary's church in the ceremony of blessing the palms, which were distributed to the congregation after the celebration of high mass at the morning service. Father Bogan preached the sermon, and at the evening service, Father Delehanty preached. At St. Joseph's, Father Miller preached both morning and evening, and there was also the blessing and distribution of the palms.

Will Repeat Enetertainment.

In response to numerous requests, the quartet choir of Trinity Reformed church, assisted by Miss Justine Roberts, elocutionist, of Brooklyn, will give another musical and literary entertainment in the Sunday-school room of the church on Tuesday night, April 28. When the last entertainment was given it was a very stormy night and many people were prevented from attending

EDISON MEN TO ASSIST IN ELKS BIG MINSTRELS

As an added attraction for the local Elks' big minstrel show, booked for Thursday night, April 30, at the New Plainfield theatre, Manager John H. Cose has secured the well known singers and comedians, Arthur Collins and Byron G. Harlan, of Orange. Their voices, if not their faces, are familiar in every part of the country as they comprise the team that sing most of the songs for the Edison company in making phonograph records. They have a repertoire that would take a week to reel off and from it they will pick some of their best numbers for the Plainfield show.

The members of the troupe are now hard at work preparing for the big event and rehearsals take place at the theatre three times a week. Harry Wetton, of Elizabeth, who is known as the "Wizard of the piano," is musical instructor and the end men are being taught fancy ensembles and soft shoe stepping by Dr. Rivers, of New York, who drills chorus people for the big theatrical managers. George O. Stevens is to sit in the center and "play the goat" for the end men's gags. The latter will be as follows: Bones, W. J. Counihan, John H. Cose and Tom Muir; tambos, Harry Blimm, Harry Messersmith and William Doud. . . .

An experienced stage manager will devise the electrical effects and something new and novel is promised. In the olio a big feature will be a burlesque of the famous "Floradora Sextette" by twelve members of the troupe. It has been arranged by Joseph C. Martin and will be elaborated by Dr. Rivers.

SOON TO BEGIN WORK ON HEGEMAN MEMORIAL

W. J. R. Hegeman and B. A. Hegeman, who have given the necessary sum to Muhlenberg Hospital for the building of a laundry in connection with that institution, have, after a conference with the architest, A. L. C. Marsh, and the building committee of the Board of Governors, decided on the location of the structure. It will be directly back of the main part of the hospital and will be equipped with all modern conveniences.

The gift to the hospital is a memorial to Mrs. Catherine E. Hegeman, who during her life time was greatly interested in local charities, but owing to the way in which her will was left a bequest to the hospital could not be followed out as directed. When the independent electric plant is installed at the hospital, the laundry will be included in the equipment and that power will be used for work there.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will meet in regular session tonight and formally receive the gift from W. J. R. Hegeman and B. A. Hegeman. It is expected that work on the new structure will begin at once.

Wagon Alleys to Be Joined.

Through the efforts of J. Fred MacDonald, the alley just to the west of Roth's market on East Front street is soon to be connected with the alley adjourning Marchant's creamery on Watchung avenue, which will be widened to eighteen feet and extended to meet the Front street alley. This new roadway, for which the consent of most of the property owners has already been secured by Mr. MacDonald, will give a rear entrance to the East Front street and East Second street properties and will deviate much delivery wagon traffic.

Birthday of Everett Case.

In honor of the seventh birthday of Everett Case, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Case, a dozen of his friends were invited to a birthday party at his home on Duer street Saturday afternoon. The time was passed with games and later refreshments were served. The lad received lots of presents, among which were three baseballs and a mitt. He says he will organize a baseball nine.

Another Landmark Removed.

The last of the old wooden buildings on East Front street, opposite the Woodhull & Martin block, which have been considered among the landmarks of the city, is being torn down and removed today, and in its place will be built a more modern structure by Marcus Silbert, the new owner. It is expected that the work of improvement will begin as soon as the old dwelling is removed.

To Decide Basketball Tie.

The Seventh-Day Baptist five and the First Presbyterian team in the Sunday School Athletic League will play off the tie in the league tonight at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The winning team will receive a handsome silver chammpionship cup and individual medals as champions

NEW FACES IN PULPITS

Revs. C. S. Kemble and Ora J. Schoop Take Charge of Methodist Congregations.

REV. McCREA WELCOMED BACK.

Receptions Being Arranged for the Two New Pastors—Their Services Yesterday.

In two of the local Methodist churches, yesterday, the congregations were addressed by new pastors appointed by Bishop Spellmeyer at the recent Conference. At the Monroe Avenue church, Rev. Charles Sumner Kemble, of Elizabeth, succeeded Rev. E. E. Roberson, and at Grace church, the borough, Rev. Orra J. Shoop, formerly of St. Paul's church, Cranford, began a pastorate in the pulpit made vacant by the death of Dr. Charles W. Parsons. Both ministers were greeted by large congregations at morning and evening services and made very favorable impressions.

Dr. Kemble's Welcome.

Rev. Mr. Kemble, who assumed charge at the Monroe Avenue church, was formerly pastor of the Park church at Elizabeth, where he labored successfully for four years. He is a comparatively young man and has a commanding presence in the pulpit. His sermons yesterday were appropriate to Palm Sunday and the entrance to Jerusalem, continuing in the evening a series of thoughts on the subject began in the morning. His discourses were marked by forceful suggestions as to spiritual uplift and were presented in a most convincing way.

Mr. Kemble and his family, comprised of his wife and one child, will take possession of the parsonage this week. On Thursday night, he will be tendered the customary reception as arranged by the Ladies' Aid Society. Rev. Mr. Roberson, the preceding pastor, preached yesterday in his new church at Passaic.

Mr. Kemble's charges in the Conference heretofore have been as follows: Ferry church, East Orange, 1891-93; Bergen Point, 1894-98; Piermont, N. Y., 1899; Nyack, N. Y., 1900-02; Centenary church, Jersey City, 1903; Park church, Elizabeth, 1904-08.

ford, assumed his duties as pastor of Grace M. E. church, North Plainfield, yesterday, preaching there both morning and evening. He was appointed by Bishop Spellmeyer at the recent Newark Conference as the successor to the late Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Parsons. Large congregations attended both services, and the parishioners tendered Mr. Shoop a hearty welcome to his new duties. The new pastor removed from his home in Cranford today, taking possession of the Grace church parsonage on Park place.

GRANTS TELEPHONE FRANCHISE

Wrangling of Several Months' Duration Is Ended by the Westfield Council.

Westfield, April 13.—After several months' wrangling the ordinance granting a franchise to the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company was passed on its final reading by the local council Friday night, Councilmen Schmidt, Hohenstein and Malsbury, who have all along contended for a more liberal extension of the service, voting against it.

A communication from the Westfield Trust Company, in which the trust company said that in the future interest on sums borrowed by the town would be five per cent. instead of six, as formerly, was presented. Mayor Alpers and Mr. Hohenstein had a tilt over the operation of the sprinkling cart, in which Hohenstein told the Mayor that he would not order the town sprinkling cart out on Sunday, and if the Mayor wanted the sprinkling cart run on Sunday some one else would have to be put in charge of the work.

Councilman Fink presented a resolution to pave Broad street with brick, between Elm street and Westfield avenue. In introducing the resolution he said that he had a conference with the engineer of the street railway company in reference to having the company bear a part of the expense of the work, and that while the company had not flatly refused to do so, it had made no promises.

CHILD'S SLIDE ON ROOF TERRIFIES SPECTATORS.

Summit, April 13.—Making her way almost to the top round of a thirty-foot ladder in a building in Park avenue, East Summit, Saturday, little three-year-old Rosie Palermo held passerbys in speechless amazement as she pulled her diminutive form through a window and slid gleefully down the steep shingled roof to a gutter, twenty-five feet above the sidewalk.

As the child crept from the gutter up the pitched shingled roof to the window for a second slide, the onlookers, fearing to move lest the child's attention should be suddenly attracted, which might cause her to fall from her dangerous position, a pedestrian, seeing the child, informed her father, D. Palermo, who was at work in the lower part of the building. Rushing to the street the father shouted a command in his native tongue to the little one, who looked down calmly at her parent from her dangerous position and then pulled herself through the window into the building.

—Mrs. C. W. Parsons, of Park place, has moved to Newark, where she will live with relatives for the present. Her son and daughter will remain here until school closes.

BRYAN SETS NEW DAY FOR VISITING TRENTON.

Trenton, April 13.—William Jennings Bryan, who was expected at Trenton today, in a letter written to Governor Fort and received by the latter Saturday morning, stated that he would not visit Trenton while the Legislature was in session, but will be in that city April 21, at which time he expects to address the Trenton Chamber of Commerce.

The Governor turned the letter over to the president of the commerce board.

Mr. Bryan will meet the Governor at the State house at noon and will call at once upon Mr. Fort, who will entertain Mr. Bryan and a number of State officials at luncheon at 1 o'clock, in the Capitol building.

It was at first intended to have Mr. Bryan visit Trenton and address the Legislature last month, but Edmond A. Whittier, his campaign manager in this State, was unable to arrange it satisfactorily for that time.

"A. NO. 1" GIVES UP TRAMPING.

He Has Traveled More Than 300,000 Miles at a Cost of $7.56.

"A No. 1," the most famous tramp in the world, has cleared up the mystery of his identity and is going to write a book of his adventures. Since 1888, when he started tramping, this curious fellow has been known everywhere as "A No. 1," and this title is seen on fences, freight cars and railroad stations in every town from New York to San Francisco.

He has traveled more than 300,000 miles at a cost of $7.56, riding on top and underneath freight and passenger cars. He does not beg, but gets a living by carving artistic images from Irish potatoes He speaks English, German, French and Spanish. He does not drink, smoke, gamble or steal. He wears a badge presented by Richard K. Fox a number of years ago for completing a trip from New York to San Francisco in eleven days and six hours without paying railroad fare. For this he received $1,000.

"A No. 1" announces that his name is Ray Livingston and his home at Cambridge Springs, Pa., and that he has given up tramping to take up literary pursuits.

Denied Fellow-Lawyer's Assertion.

New Brunswick, April 13.—In the Court of Quarter Sessions Friday Lawyer C. T. Cowenhoven asked for a new trial for Louis Rampone, on the ground that when Rampone, at his trial, entered a plea of guilty, after the State had presented its case on the indictment charging Rampone with breaking and entering with intent to rob John Daly's saloon, he didn't understand. Judge Mooraem asked Mr. Cowenhaven if he was willing to assume responsibility for the statement that a fellow member of the bar had permitted his client to so forego his rights as to plead guilty to a charge he did not understand. Harry B. Cook, who had represented Rampone, was in court and declared his client had understood perfectly what he was doing in pleading guilty. Judge Booraem granted the new trial, which will be held tomorrow.

Plainfield Council, No. 295, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tonight.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will hold a regular meeting tomorrow night.

YOUR EASTER HAT

With Easter just a week away it isn't wise to longer defer the selection of Springtime millinery, especially when we are prepared to satisfy every desire, having in stock, perhaps, a larger and more varied collection of hats than ever in the history of the store a week before Easter.

Our trimmers have simply outdone themselves this season and as a result people are liberally showering us with compliments on the beauty, originality and diversity of the hats we show, not only for women but for misses and children.

If you want hats of character, if you like something a little different, if you wish to pay only medorate prices, come here for your Easter bonnet.

Those wishing hats made to order should not wait another day.

We have facilities for taking care of all special orders for Easter hats and will not receive an order for Easter delivery unless we are absolutely certain that you will get your hat at the time expected. There will be no disappointment.

Pay what you please—$4.75, $6.95, $7.75, $9.75, $12.50, $15, $20, $25 or higher—you may expect to get a hat worth a great deal from this splendid collection.

EASTER TOGGERY

For Young Men. For Boys. For Grown Ups.

No clothing store that you can name shows more likable styles than are presented by this house this season. The collection of models in every line is as great and diversified as it is extensive.

For Little Fellows—Say from 2½ to 7—we show nobby suits in royal blue, navy, red, brown and mixtures; strictly wool goods; cannot be duplicated anywhere near our price; some of the suits with two pairs of knickerbockers. Prices beginning at $1.98

Then they go to $2.98, $3.98 and on up to $14.

For Big Boys—7 to 17 year chaps—we offer New Norfolk Suits; Double-Breasted Suits; Russian Blouse Suits; Sailor and New Reefers, natty little suits, with knickerbocker trousers or straight ones if you like, in the new browns, grays, tans and plain blue; the very best suits in town at their price $5

Other Boys' Suits for less; some for more.

For Young Men—the High School Academy or College Boys, or budding professional and business men—"Exactly Right" suits in swell styles, made of dependable cloth in the most fashionable shades—distinctive models, $12 and $15

Cheaper suits if you wish them and some higher than $15.

For Men—The most satisfying stock in the State—not filled with freaky models, but just such clothes as modern men will take pleasure in wearing—fashionably cut, embracing all the nice points evolved by the best designers in the world, yet pleasing alike to the conservative and ultra-fashionable gentleman. Many models to choose from in all the fashionable cloths—excellent cheviots, cassimeres and worsteds in the new browns, elephant grays, tans, blue serge and black thibets—striking values at $12.50 and $18

Other good values in Men's Suits at from $5.95 to $35.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

BASEBALL.

The high school nines of the city and borough are playing very fast ball this season and both are sure to make records of which they will be proud.

The local baseball season will open when the Y. M. C. A. plays its first contest in the State Y. M. C. A. League the latter part of the month.

The National and American League season will open tomorrow and from that time until snow flies the fans will have plenty of sport to keep them busy.

"Lou" Wiltse, who travels back and forth to Jersey City every day for practise, preparatory to the opening of the Eastern League season, this month, is showing up in fine form. He promises to be the strongest twirler in the league this year.

When the time arrives the Clinton Avenues will be ready to open the season in old-time form. Every member of the team is in good condition.

"Ding" Longstreet, of Manasquan, has signed to pitch for the Washington Union League Club.

Leslie Grant, the former Jersey City third baseman, is hiting the ball hard for the Philadelphia Nationals in the exhibition games, and the collegian gives evidence of being up with the lead stick wielders of the league again this season. Billy Murray has placed Grant at the top of the batting list.

The Philadelphia Nationals have five outfielders on their roster. The list includes Roy Thomas, Sherwood, Magee, Titus, Deininger and Osborne. Billy Murray will probably start off the season with Magee, Titus and Deininger in the outfield territory.

Pitcher Coombs will cover right field for the Philadelphia Athletics until Socks Seybold recovers from the injury to his leg sustained in New Orleans on the spring training trip.

Manager Stallings is planning to put tickets on sale for ball games in the downtown district and also in the subarban towns. Saturday the club placed on sale at its offices in the Union building books containing twenty-five coupons which will be marketed at $10 each. These books are transferable and the owner is privileged to take in as many as he likes to the game, up to the number of tickets in the book.

A report from Des Moines, Ia., states that Jimmy Morgan has given up professional baseball and will not play with Jersey City. Morgan recently accepted a position in a bank in an Iowa town.

GOLF.

Six team matches have been arranged for the Yale golfers between April 25 and June 3. On the first mentioned date the students will visit the Hartford Golf Club, while the following Saturday, May 2, will find the wearers of the blue at the Wee Burn Golf Club. A match with the New Haven Country Club over the latter's course is on for May 9 and on May 16 the collegians will try their luck at the Nassau Country Club. Their only New Jersey scheduled appearance is at the Morris County Golf Club May 23. The last match listed is with the Meriden Golf Club on June 3. It will be seen by this that all the matches are away from home.

As all but two members of last year's championship team are available at present, the university golfers are able to enter upon their spring season with bright prospects. The two men who are unable to play because of baseball and track work are C. E. Van Vleck, Jr., '09, and Robert Abbott, '08. The latter, who won the intercollegiate championship in 1905, is also prominent as a weight thrower, while Van Vleck is rated as one of the best on the ball team.

Among the most promising candidates for the golf team are A. D. Swords, '10; D. Green, '08; O. Pickhardt, '08; R. Y. Hayne, '10; S. K. Clow, '10; K. Mosser, '11, and N. C. Taintor, '09. Since the insignia committee has placed the university "Y" within reach of the members of the golf team it is expected that this further incentive to practice will have a beneficial effect.

The class captains are as follows: '08, W. H. Lyon; '09, B. B. Sanderson; '10, B. P. Merriman; '11 K. Mosser; '08 S., W. I. Howland; '10 S., H. G. Legg.

At a special meeting held in New York a few days ago the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association placed itself on record as being opposed to the Myopia links as the scene of the next national open championship. A communication on this question was sent Saturday night to the Western Professional Golfers' Association. It stated that it was the unanimous opinion of those present that a letter be sent to the Myopia Hunt Club requesting the latter to give the professionals better treatment than they received when the open championship was held there in 1905.

The Eastern Professional Golfers' Association has decided to hold its next championship tournament in the spring instead of the fall and over a course in the metropolitan district. If present plans go through the professionals may get together some time in May. Alec Campbell, of the Country Club of Brookline, won the Eastern title last fall over his home course, while in 1906 Alec Smith, of the Nassau Country Club, led the field on the links of the Forest Hill Field Club.

TO MARTIN LYNCH—

You are hereby notified that at a public sale made by the City Collector of Plainfield, on the Thirtieth day of March, 1900, one Thomas Crocker purchased for the sum of ten dollars and sixty-one cents ($10 61) all the land and real estate situate in the City of Plainfield, County of Union, State of New Jersey, fronting on North Avenue and Johnston Avenue which is laid down and designated as Lot No. 901 North Avenue, in Block No. 135 in the First Ward of said City as shown on the Maps annexed to the report of the Commissioners of Adjustment in and for said City of Plainfield, under and by virtue of the provisions of the act entitled, "An Act concerning the settlement and collection of arrearages of unpaid taxes, assessments and water rates or water rents in Cities of this State, and imposing and levying a tax, assessment and lien in lieu and instead of such arrearages, and to enforce the payment thereof, and to provide for the sale of lands subjected to future taxation and assessment," passed March 30th, 1886, and the various amendments thereof and supplements thereto, as said liens appear by the report of the said Commissioners made to the Circuit Court of the County of Union, and filed therein.

The said City Collector did issue to the said Thomas Crocker Certificate of Sale No. 7 for the premises in question, the said Thomas Crocker having duly assigned the said Certificate of Sale and all his rights thereunder to me, the undersigned, Robert Irvine, on the Twenty-fourth day of November, 1902.

And you are further notified that you appear or claim to have an estate or interest in said land and real estate, and unless the said lands and real estate shall be redeemed as provided in said Act before the expiration of six months from and after the service hereof, a deed for the same will be given conveying to the purchaser the fee simple of said lands and real estate according to the provisions of said Act.

SOME BIG BEQUESTS FOR RUTGERS COLLEGE

Bequests amounting to $34,000 were announced at the meeting of the board of trustees of Rutgers College Friday afternoon, as follows: Twenty-five thousand dollars from the late John Arent Vander Pool, class of '89, the income to be used for the support of the school of science; $2,000 for beneficiary purposes, donor not named; $1,000 from the late George Van Nest Baldwin, class of '56, for general purposes; $5,000 from Luther Laflin Kelloff, '70, trustee of the college, for the establishment of a lectureship; $1,000 for the college endowment fund from the Rev. Dr. Joachim Elmendorf, class of '50.

Announcement was also made that Ralph O. Smith had been selected assistant professor of chemistry. He is a graduate of the college, class of '02, and is now an assistant professor in the University of Pennsylvania. The acceptances were received from Professor C. H. Heck, to be professor of mechanical engineering, and from Professor Myron T. Scudder, to be headmaster of the Rutgers Preparatory School.

MAYOR'S HOSTILE STAND.

Jersey City's Executive Refuses to Approve Payments, Indicating Breach With Davis.

Jersey City, April 13.—There have been rumors for some time that disagreements existed between Mayor H. Otto Wittpen and Robert Davis, the Democratic leader, but Democrats here were shocked Saturday when the first evidence of an open break between Wittpenn and Davis was received in the Mayor's notice that he had failed to approve the payment of $81.65 to Detective-Sergeant Frank Bennett for part of last month's salary, and that he also had failed to approve a claim of $148.50 for stationery, printing, etc., sent in by Owen Nolan, a brother of James Nolan, formerly Street and Water Commissioner, who is being boomed for the Shrievalty nomination.

Mayor Wittpenn says that when Bennett resigned he quit the department, and that he could not, therefore, be reappointed unless he came in as a new applicant. He did not have to undergo an examination as required by the civil service law, and, moreover, had passed the age limit of thirty-five years.

Vetoing of Owen Nolan's claim for stationery supplies is looked upon as a direct slap at Mr. Davis, for only Friday invitations were sent out for the wedding on April 22, of Mr. Nolan's daughter Lillian to George Edgar Davis, son of the Democratic leader.

DEBT LIMIT FOR CITIES.

Commission On Municipal Government Makes Report.

The Commission on Municipal Government has submitted an additional report with two proposed bills, one covering the whole subject of municipal indebtedness and the other looking toward a system of municipal accounting.

The net debt limit is fixed at 2 per cent. for counties, 7 per cent. for cities and 10 per cent. for smaller municipalities. The commissioners are Howard K. Stokes, Joseph L. Munn and Frederick W. Grichtel.

Firemen to Have Right of Way.

Assemblyman Hines' bill giving fire apparatus the right of way when going to fires passed the Senate Friday morning. The measure was drawn for the benefit of Newark, which, under its charter, cannot give this right by ordinance.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS:

Here's hoping that the brick pave work be finished before the winter sets in again.

That man who succumbed to the "sleeping sickness" strangely enough was no relation to District Attorney Jerome.

The boom for Hughes now appears to be confined to a few New York papers, which the one for Knox is controlled exclusively by a hard-working press agent.

The posters of a Plainfield minstrel show, announcing a performance at Somerville, advises the people to "save up your pennies, save up your rocks." If the Somerset villagers take the latter part of that advice literally the minstrels will be certain of a strenuous welcome.

Chinese Rice Crackers.

The rice flour cracker of China is by far the whitest biscuit product in the world. In comparison with it the whitest American biscuit looks dingy. The cracker, however, is altogether too sweet for most occidental palates, and the Chinese much prefer their black cracker, which differs but little in taste from the American sweet biscuits.

The Stone of the Tortoise.

The brain of the tortoise was supposed at one time to contain a wonderful stone, which was efficacious in extinguishing fire and when placed under the tongue would produce prophetic inspiration.

DR. PETERS URGES MEN TO JOIN THE CHURCHES

Summarizing the reasons people give for not joining churches, Rev. Madison C. Peters made a characteristic address at the men's meeting held at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium yesterday afternoon. His topic was "Popular Cloaks." There were 250 men in his audience. During the service, E. C. Martin lead in the singing of hymns, and he and Miss Leila Druse sang a duet. Phillip Van Arsdale also sang. Dr. Peters said in part:

"Many people do not enter the church as members because they say that by so doing they will be obliged to give up pleasures and enjoyments. This idea arises out of a false conception of religion, and is based on the idea that religion is looked upon by such people as a nauseous drug to be taken by a man sometime before he dies. Religion to such a man is a hearse for the dead, rather than a chariot for the living. There is not a single pleasure of the world which a manly nature can relish that is not permitted in the churches.

"Again, people say that there are many hypocrites in the churches today. It is unfair to judge the worth of Christianity by its scrub exponents. Such men also say that there is too much mystery about Christianity. How about the mystery there is in nature, in everything we see in the world? It is not by speculation and discussion that we come to know the truths of religion, but by practising these truths. Quit debating, and get down to the level of conduct.

"Some people say, 'I am not good enough to join the church.' This excuse is also based on a false conception of religion, which is a germinal principal. All the religion a man needs to join the church is enough to start as a Christian. People in some instances believe that there is no need to join a church because God is a loving Father and will permit no harm to come to his children. Christ's grace is sufficient for all, but it is efficient only to those who take it. Christianity is an open door, but a man must come in. God connot save a man against his will."

THE FORUM.

Mr. Bryan's Endorsement.

Editor, The Daily Press:

In last Friday evening's edition of your paper appears a statement that a resolution endorsing the Presidential candidacy of Hon. William J. Bryan, introduced by me at a meeting of the Somerset County Democratic Executive Committee held at Somerville March 28, and adopted by practically a unanimous vote, "would be rescinded at the next meeting of the committee to be held Saturday, April 11."

I cannot understand why you should anticipate the action of the committee and make an erroneous prediction, as the action of the committee which met last Saturday shows you have made.

I desire to say that at the meeting Saturday afternoon the above mentioned resolution was not rescinded, not even a suggestion was made that it be recalled.

I also wish to state that the committee is not in the habit of acting hastily upon business brought before it, but having after reasonable deliberation passed upon resolutions accept its actions as final.

Yours truly,
WALTER C. LINBARGER.
Member of the Committee

HIS CALL TO HOME.

Oh, breath of June from the woodland,
Oh, scent of the stream and fields,
Oh, droning winds that are whisp'rin.
Of peace that the country yields—
I'm coming home!

Oh, lilies floating in bayous,
Oh, islands of rustling reed,
Oh, willows bending above them,
Oh, daisies of fragrant mead—
I'm coming home!

Oh, fields that wave like the ocean,
O, billows that ebb and flow,
Oh, groves that shelter the birdlings,
Oh, banks where the sunsets glow—
I'm coming home!

Oh, maiden, fair as the flowers,
With eyes that are soft and blue,
Await tonight by the arbor,
A-tryst for your lover true—
I'm coming home!
—Byron Williams.

Cheap Feasting.

Hanging on the top of one of the stalls at a church bazaar recently was a sign which ran, "Luncheons, 1 to 3 p. m. 1s. 6d."

A country farmer and his wife were passing along admiring the various stalls and their contents when he espied the above sign and was heard to remark to his wife:

"We'll jiss hev our denners here, Jeannie. Two oors' stead eatin's no' bad fur wann an' six!"—London Telegraph.

with holes in them—darned up or otherwise—is bound to have unhappy feet and the man with unhappy feet is bound to be uncomfortable and unhappy himself. The man who wears socks that wear through is bound to have an unhappy wife—at least she's unhappy at times—darning times.

The man wears out his toes, his temper and his pocketbook through wearing through his socks—his wife wears out her fingers, her patience and her time through darning those socks.

There's a way to forget all this unhappiness—a way to make holes and darning a memory.

NEW FACES IN PULPITS

The topic of the morning's sermon was "The Supremacy of God," the pastor taking his text from Revelations, 1: 8, "I am the Alpha and Omega." The sermon was framed appropriately to Palm Sunday, emphasis being laid upon the triumph of Our Saviour at His entry into Jerusalem and his supremacy as an earthly King, later superceeded by Hic asknowledged heavenly ower.

In the evening Mr. Shoop spoke on "Daniel, the Man." His text, "And Daniel continued even unto the first year of King Cyrus," was taken from Daniel 1: 21. Introductory to the main discourse, Mr. Shoop gave a character sketch of the prophet, emphasizing his ambition for power although he was but a captive and a slave. "Daniel was a man bigger than his position," said the speaker, "and although he was but a slave, he grew to be seemingly the master of the kingdom of Darius. Daniel fought against his environment and won success because God was on his side."

"Be first a man," said the speaker, "the twentieth century has no use for the automation or the machine. The greatest need today is for men of the character of Daniel—strong, God-fearing men, with a keen sense of conscience. The church, too, needs men of virility, integrity and manly courage to work for God. The trend of present day life is toward the following after the glittering and the physical, so that we have come to minimize the essentially great and most desirable qualities."

Rev. Mr. McCrea's Return.

Rev. Abel C. McCrea, the beloved pastor of the First M. E. church, who was returned to this church by Bishop Spellmeyer for another year, was given a hearty welcome at both services yesterday, his people taking that opportunity to express their great satisfaction over the action of the Bishop. Large congregations were out both morning and evening and Mr. McCrea delivered two practical sermons, in which he evidenced the strong appreciation and regard between pastor and people and the hope that the coming year will be the best in the history of the church.

According to the usual custom, the members of the church will soon arrange a reception for the pastor and his wife, when they will be welcomed in a more informal manner. In connection with the reception there will be a program of music and other features combining to make it an enjoyable event.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

A spark from the chimney set fire to the roof of the home of Miss Susie L. Parse Saturday night about 10 o'clock. The fire department responded to an alarm and a stream of water was on the roof in a few minutes and the flames quenched. The loss by fire and water will amount to over $100, covered by insurance.

Yesterday being Palm Sunday special services were held at All Saint's Episcopal church in the morning. Special music was rendered by the choir. Rev. William Mulford, the rector, preached a sermon appropriate to the day.

The entire electric light circuit was out of commission again last night. The way the lights have been burning of late looks as though the town was paying for a service which it was not getting.

There will be service every night this week at the Methodist church. Tonight's meeting will be led by Rev. Raymond M. Shipman. Subject, "The First Word."

Mrs. John Z. Hatfield led the B. Y. P. U. meeting last night at the Baptist church. Subject of the evening was lessons from the life of John Gough.

The members of the Father Light Society held their monthly meeting yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott T. Collins, of Brooklyn, spent the week's end with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Buckley, of Front street.

The high wind of Saturday did no more damage than the breaking of some of the old limbs on the shade trees in town.

Rev. T. S. Atkinson, of New York, preached at the Baptist church yesterday at both morning and evening services.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Palm Sunday was observed in the local churches yesterday by appropriate sermons and music, and at St. John's church, the palms were distributed to the members of the congregation at the conclusion of the services. Rev. F. C. Dutcher began the third year of his pastorate at the Methodist church by officiating at the morning service, when he preached a sermon appropriate to the day. The oratorio, "The Palms," was rendered by the full choir at the First Baptist church at the morning service, when Fred A. Dayton, of Plainfield, and D. W. Lapham, Jr., assisted in the singing. At the morning service in the Presbyterian church, Rev. W. W. Casselberry preached on "The Triumphal Entry" and there was special music.

Executive Committeeman John H. L. Peters has issued a call for an old-fashioned Democratic caucus to be held in the borough hall tomorrow night. At this time a delegate to the Democratic State convention will be named and the outlook for the presidential campaign will be discussed. Borough Democrats will be out in force, and it is probable that there will be out-of-town speakers.

Strong amateur baseball teams have been organized by the Dunellen A. C. and the New Market Field Club and a series of games between the two teams has been arranged. There are to be five games, three of which are to be played on the local diamond and the other two at New Market.

RIFLE PRACTICE ORDERS ISSUED BY THE ADJUTANT.

Adjutant Breintnall, by order of the Governor, has issued the following general orders:

No. 6—During the period from May 1 to September 30, 1908, a camp of instruction in rifle practice is hereby established on the rifle range at the State camp, Sea Girt, New Jersey.

The range and camp of instruction in rifle practice will be under the command of teh inspector general of rifle practise, an assistant inspector general of rifle practice, or an officer detailed to the department; but in case no such officer is present, the senior inspector of rifle practice of the detachments on the range will have full charge.

Colonel Charles A. Reid, Lieutenant Colonels Richard B. Reading, Alfred T. Holley and William Libbey, assistant inspectors general of rifle practice, will report to the inspector general of rifle practice for assignment to duty at Sea Girt during the season of rifle practice, from May 1 to September 30, 1908.

No. 7—Permission is hereby granted to all military organizations of other States to enter and pass through this State, armed and equipped, en route to and returning from participation in rifle practice at the State range, Sea Girt, New Jersey, from May 1 to September 30, 1908.

EPIDEMIC AT HARVARD.

Scarlet Fever Prevalent—Dormitories to Be Cleansed.

Many students at Harvard University have been routed from their living quarters by an epidemic of scarlet fever, which has sent a score of them to the college infirmary and caused vigorous fumigation of the dormitories. Fashionable Weld Hall has suffered with the rest. None of the cases are serious.

The students will scatter for the spring recess today, and once they are out of the way every suite will be submitted to a thorough cleansing to eradicate the disease. The cause of the epidemic has not been explained.

HAVE MANY NARROW ESCAPES.

Yet Cowboys Are Rarely Killed or Injured in Accidents.

Now, after the day's work was practically over, we had our first accident, says a writer in Outing Magazine. The horse ridden by a young fellow from Dos Cabesas slipped, fell and rolled quite over his rider. At once the animal lunged to his feet, only to be immediately seized by the nearest rider. But the Dos Cabesas man lay still, his arms and legs spread abroad, his head doubled sideways in a horribly suggestive manner. We hopped off. Two men straightened him out, while two more looked carefully over the indications on the ground.

"All right," sang out one of these, "the horn didn't catch him."

He pointed to the indentation left by the pommel. Indeed, five minutes brought the man to his senses. He complained of a very twisted back. Homer sent one of the men in after the bed-wagon, by means of which the sufferer was shortly transported to camp. By the end of the week he was again in the saddle. How men escape from this common accident with injuries so slight has always puzzled me. The horse rolls completely over his rider, and yet it seems to be the rarest thing in the world for the latter to be either killed or permanently injured.

WHEN SMALLPOX WAS COMMON.

A Century or So Ago Every One Expected to Have Disease.

"All our ancestors," said a physician, "were pock-marked, and smallpox was a recommendation if you were looking for work.

"What I mean is that you couldn't get a job if you had not had smallpox. No one wanted a servant who was liable at any moment to be stricken down with the loathsome disease. Hence—"

He opened a newspaper volume of 1774.

"Hence 'help wanted' ads read like this:

"'Wanted, a man between 20 and 30 years of age, to be footman and under-butler in a great family. He must have had smallpox in the natural way. Also a woman, middle-aged, to wait upon a young lady of great fortune and fashion. The woman must have had the smallpox in the natural way.'"

Birds Shot with Water.

Shooting a hummingbird with the smallest birdshot made is out of the question, for the tiniest seeds of lead would destroy his coat. The only way in which the bird can be captured for commercial purposes is to shoot him with a drop of water from a blowgun, or a fine jet from a small syringe. Skillfully directed, the water stuns him. He falls into a silken net and before he recovers consciousness is suspended over a cyanide jar. This must be done quickly, for if he comes to his senses before the cyanide whiff snuffs out his life he is sure to ruin his plumage in his struggles to escape. Hummingbirds vary in size from specimens perhaps half as large as a sparrow to those scarcely bigger than a bee. The quickest eye cannot follow them in full flight. It is only when, though still flying furiously, they are practically motionless over flowers that the best marksmen can bring them to earth.

Japanese Hotels.

Barring the bath, and perhaps the beds, Japanese hotels are delightful. All during your stay in their spotless precincts you are made to feel that you are an honored guest, Japanese etiquette is lavished upon you, and when you depart you are always given a token to remember your visit, usually a white, coarse cotton towel with blue pictures printed on it.

You must thank the little maid for this with an elaborate bow when you go, and the chorus of "Sayo Nara" from all the hotel force gathered in the doorway will seem to have in it, not only the regret of good-by, as we interpret the words, but the deeper feeling which they really mean: "If it must be that we must part."—Travel Magazine.

A Servants' Paradise.

"Every kitchen has a window with one pane out in the Brazilian town of Rio Grande do Sul," said a cook. "That town is a servants' paradise.

"Servants live in their own homes there, as they should everywhere. They come to work at seven in the morning and they quit at seven at night. A 12-hour day. Quite long enough.

"The paneless window is for the milkman, the baker, the butcher, so that these traders can leave their supplies—they usually come early—in a safe place. The Rio Grande servant is, of course, not there to receive them. She is in bed at her own home."

To Match His Coat.

Robert Walton Goelet, at a meeting of the Astor Trust company's directors, in New York, said of a certain broker:

"The man's nerve is amazing. It shocks me. It reminds me of a money lender to whom a friend of mine, a great rider to hounds, once resorted.

"'Yes,' said the money lender to my embarrassed friend, 'I will renew your note, but only on one condition, sir—namely, that during the next paper chase at Lenox you scatter from your bag these 5,000 pink slips bearing my name and the words, "Money advanced on easy terms." Is it a go, sir?'"

Special Master's Sale

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

Between MARTHA E. FORCE, Complainant, and JOHN T. DOLBIER, et als., Defendants.

By virtue of and in pursuance of a decree of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, dated the twenty-sixth day of February, nineteen hundred and seven, made in a certain cause pending in said court, on bill for partition, wherein Martha E. Force is complainant, and John T. Dolbier, et als., are defendants, I, Nelson Runyon, the Special Master of said Court of Chancery, in said decree mentioned, will expose to sale, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, on TUESDAY, THE TWENTY-FIRST DAY OF APRIL, A. D., 1908, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, on the premises hereinafter described, namely, all those certain tracts or parcels of land and premises, situate, lying and being in the Township of Fanwood, in the County of Union, and State of New Jersey, mentioned in the bill of complaint in this cause, and therein described as follows:

The First Tract—Beginning at a stake on the northeast side of the road leading from Scotch Plains to the Two Bridges, and in the line or land late of John Rogers, deceased, which stake is also the north corner of lot number two, hereinafter assigned and set off to Jonathan Dolbier; from said beginning running south, forty-three degrees and forty minutes west, and binding on lot number two, six chains and thirty-two links to a stake; thence binding on said lot north, forty-nine degrees and thirty-five minutes west, one chain and fifty links to a stake; thence still binding on said lot south forty-three degrees and forty minutes west, ten chains and eighty links to a stake; thence binding partly on said lot and partly on lot number six, south forty-three degrees and twenty minutes west, ten chains and twenty-five links to a stone in a corner of William Hand's land; thence binding on his land north, forty-six degrees and forty-five minutes west, seven chains and twenty-two links to a stone in another corner of said Hand's land; thence binding partly on land in the possession of Silas Faitout north, forty-five degrees and five minutes east, sixteen chains and thirty-two links to a stone in a corner of the last mentioned land, and in the line of heirs of John Rogers, deceased; thence binding on the said heirs south forty-seven degrees east, five chains and sixty-two links to the south corner of the said heir's land; thence still binding on the land of said heirs, north, forty-three degrees east, eleven chains to a stake on the northeast side of said road, in the line of the said land late of John Rogers, deceased; thence along the side of said road, and binding on the said land south, fifty degrees and fifty-five minutes east; two chains and sixty-six links to the beginning, containing thirteen acres and forty-eight hundredths of an acre of land.

The Second Tract—[viz Number Six] Begins at a stake in William Hand's line, and in the north corner of lot number seven, hereinafter assigned to Jesse Dolbier; thence binding on said Hand's land, north, forty-three degrees and thirty minutes east twenty-five links to the first mentioned stone in the corner of said Hand's land, which stone is also the south corner of lot number one; thence binding on said lot north, forty-three degrees and twenty minutes east, four chains and seventy-five links to a stake in the line of lot number one, it being the west corner of lot number two; thence binding on the last named lot, south, forty-nine degrees and thirty-five minutes east, five chains and seventy-five links to a stake in the line of lot number five, it being also the south corner of lot number two; thence binding on lot number five, south, forty-three degrees and forty-five minutes west, one chain and forty-six links to a stone in the west corner of said lot which stone is the north corner of Matthew Connet's woodland; thence binding on said Connet's land, south, forty-three degrees west, three chains and fifty-four links to a stake in said Connet's line, it being the east corner of lot number seven; thence binding on said lot north, forty-nine degrees and thirty-five minutes west, five chains and seventy-five links to the place of beginning, containing two acres and eighty-four hundredths of an acre of land.

The tracts above described, being the same premises set off to Cutter Dolbier, by the Commissioners appointed by the Essex County Orphan's Court, to partition certain lands devised by Jesse Dolbier, deceased, designated by said Commissioners, as lots numbers one and six of said decedent's lands, as appears by the records of said Court, in book H, pages 242, etc., January, 1834.
